However, where any figures that may have been sourced from third-party industry sources are rounded off to other than two decimal points in their respective sources, such figures appear in this Prospectus as rounded-off to such number of decimal points as provided in such respective sources.

Non-Generally Accepted Accounting Principles Financial Measures

Certain non-generally accepted accounting principle ("Non-GAAP") measures, such as Net Asset Value Per Equity Share, EBITDA, Adjusted EBITDA, Total Cash and cash equivalents and Bank Balance (including fixed deposits and current investments), Capital Employed, Adjusted Capital Employed, Return on Adjusted Capital Employed, Net Debt, Net Worth and Total Revenue ("Non-GAAP Measures") presented in this Prospectus are a supplemental measure of our performance and liquidity that are not required by, or presented in accordance with Ind AS or any other generally accepted accounting. For details in relation to reconciliation of non-GAAP financial measures, see "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations-Non-GAAP Financial Measures - Reconciliation of Non-GAAP Measures" on page 453. Further, these Non-GAAP Measures are not a measurement of our financial performance or liquidity under Ind AS or any other accepted accounting principles and should not be considered in isolation or construed as an alternative to cash flows, profit/(loss) for the year/period or any other measure of financial performance or as an indicator of our operating performance, liquidity, profitability or cash flows generated by operating, investing or financing activities derived in accordance with Ind AS. In addition, the Non-GAAP Measures, as used by our Company and their definition as set out herein, are not a standardised term, hence a direct comparison of similarly titled Non-GAAP Measures between companies may not be possible. Other companies may calculate the Non-GAAP Measures differently from us, limiting their usefulness as a comparative measure. Although the Non-GAAP Measures are not a measure of performance calculated in accordance with applicable accounting standards, our Company's management believes that they are useful to an investor in evaluating us because they are widely used measures by securities analysts, investors and others to evaluate a company's operating performance. For further details, see "Risk Factors - Certain non-GAAP financial measures and certain other statistical information relating to our operations and financial performance like Gross Profit, Gross Margin, EBITDA, EBITDA Margin, PAT Margin, Return on Net Worth, Return on Capital Employed, Net Debt to Equity Ratio and Fixed Asset Turnover Ratio have been included in this Prospectus. These non-GAAP financial measures are not measures of operating performance or liquidity defined by Ind AS and may not be comparable." on page 68.

SECTION II - RISK FACTORS

An investment in equity shares involves a high degree of risk. Investors should carefully consider all the information in this Prospectus, including the risks and uncertainties described below, before making an investment in our Equity Shares.

The risks described below are not the only ones relevant to us or our Equity Shares, the industry in which we operate or to India and other jurisdictions we operate in. Additional risks and uncertainties, not currently known to us or that we currently do not deem material may also adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. If any or a combination of the following risks, or other risks that are not currently known or are not currently deemed material, actually occur, our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows could be adversely affected, the price of our Equity Shares could decline, and investors may lose all or part of their investment. In order to obtain a more detailed understanding of our Company and our business, investors should read this section in conjunction with "Our Business", "Industry Overview", "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations" and "Restated Financial Information" on pages 238, 142, 407 and 311, respectively, as well as the other financial information contained in this Prospectus. In making an investment decision, investors must rely on their own examination of us and our business and the terms of the Issue including the merits and risks involved.

In making an investment decision, investors should consult their tax, financial and legal advisors about the particular consequences of investing in the Issue and rely on their own examinations of us and the terms of the Issue, including the merits and the risks involved. Unless specified or quantified in the relevant risk factors below, we are unable to quantify the financial or other impact of any of the risks described in this section. Investors in our Equity Shares should pay particular attention to the fact that our Company is incorporated under the laws of India and is subject to a legal and regulatory environment in India, which may differ in certain respects from that of other countries.

This Prospectus also contains certain forward-looking statements that involve risks, assumptions, estimates and uncertainties. Our actual results could differ from those anticipated in these forward-looking statements as a result of certain factors, including the considerations described below and elsewhere in this Prospectus. For further information, see "Forward-Looking Statements" on page 28.

Unless the context otherwise requires, in this section, references to "we", "us" and "our" refer to our Company and its Associates on a consolidated basis while "our Company" or "the Company", refers to our Company on a standalone basis. For further information, see "Summary of Financial Information" on page 82.

We have also included various operational and financial performance indicators in this Prospectus, some of which have not been derived from our Restated Financial Information. For further details, see, "Certain Conventions, Presentation of Financial, Industry and Market Data and Currency of Presentation – Industry and Market Data" on page 25.*

INTERNAL RISKS

1. We are substantially dependent on a single supplier, JSW Steel Coated Products Limited and/or its holding Company ("JSWSCPL"), for the supply of steel coils, which constitute a key raw material for our operations. For the three months period ended June 30, 2026, and for the Fiscal 2026, Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, we sourced approximately 85.13%, 86.65%, 90.61% and 84.58%, respectively, of our total steel coil requirements from JSWSCPL. This high level of supplier concentration exposes us to significant risks, and any disruption in the supply of steel coils from JSWSCPL could materially and adversely affect our business, results of operations and financial condition.

We have been an authorised service partner of JSW Steel Coated Products Limited and/or its holding Company ("JSWSCPL") since 2021. For further details of our service partner arrangement, see "History and Certain Corporate Matters – Other Material Agreements" on page 283. Under this arrangement, we procure steel coils from JSWSCPL and undertake further value-added processing using high-precision engineering and machinery to manufacture processed steel products, which are supplied to OEMs and ODMs in the home and commercial appliances and general engineering sectors. These customers require processed steel products that meet specific technical and quality specifications, and our ability to meet such requirements in a timely and cost-effective manner is closely linked to the continuity of supplies from JSWSCPL.

Any adverse change in our relationship with JSWSCPL, including reduction in supply volumes, changes in commercial terms, modification, non-renewal or termination of our authorised service partner status, or operational disruptions at JSWSCPL, could adversely affect our production schedules, increase our raw material costs, delay customer deliveries and negatively impact our revenue and profitability.

Further, as an authorised service partner of JSWSCPL, we are subject to restrictions relating to the procurement of galvanized plain coils/sheets and corrugated/profiled sheets, colour-coated coils/sheets and corrugated/profiled sheets, and galvalume plain coils/sheets and corrugated/profiled sheets from suppliers other than JSWSCPL. These restrictions limit our ability to diversify our supplier base for such steel products. If we were to source such products from alternative suppliers, we may risk losing our authorised service partner status with JSWSCPL, which could significantly impair our sourcing arrangements, customer relationships and business model. Although we have not experienced any disruption in our relationship with JSWSCPL in the past, we cannot assure you that this relationship will continue on existing terms or at all.

Our service partner arrangement with JSWSCPL does not grant us any exclusive territorial rights or sole service partner status. JSWSCPL is entitled to appoint additional authorised service partners, including within our operating regions of western, northern and southern India. The appointment of competing authorised service partners in our operating regions could dilute our market position, reduce our bargaining power, intensify competition for customers and exert downward pressure on pricing. In addition, JSWSCPL may expand its authorised service partner network or establish or expand its own steel processing facilities, which could result in a reduction in volumes supplied to us and adversely affect our revenue and profitability.

Set out below is the bifurcation of the total Steel Coils sourced from JSWSCPL and other suppliers for the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and for the Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024:

(in ₹ million except for percentages)

	June 30, 2026		March 31, 2026		March 31, 2025		March 31, 2024
	Total Steel Coils	% of total purchases (%)	Total Steel Coils	% of total purchases (%)	Total Steel Coils	% of total purchases (%)	Total Steel Coils	% of total purchases (%)
JSWSCPL	2,397.74	85.13	10,342.07	86.65	8,691.82	90.61	5,579.44	84.58
Other suppliers	418.90	14.87	1,593.63	13.35	900.94	9.39	1,017.34	15.42
Total Purchases	2,816.64	100.00	11,935.70	100.00	9,592.76	100.00	6,596.78	100.00

As on June 30, 2026, 85.13% of our steel coil procurement was linked to supplies from JSWSCPL. This concentration exposes us to risks arising from changes in JSWSCPL's business strategy, operational disruptions, regulatory developments, force majeure events or deterioration in our commercial relationship with JSWSCPL. Any such events could materially and adversely affect our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Further, the service partner agreement dated April 1, 2025, entered into with JSW Steel Coated Products Limited and/or its holding Company ("JSWSCPL") contains certain obligations and restrictions that may impact our business operations and financial performance. These include, inter alia, (i) minimum purchase quantity commitments on a quarterly and/or monthly basis, which may increase our working capital requirements and expose us to inventory-related risks; (ii) termination provisions pursuant to which JSWSCPL may terminate the agreement if our Company commits any act deemed, at JSWSCPL's discretion, to be prejudicial to its interests, brand name or products; and (iii) requirements to maintain prescribed inventory levels. Additionally, JSWSCPL is entitled to terminate the agreement without assigning any reason by providing three months' prior notice. Further, our Company has entered into an Adoptive Statement dated May 23, 2025

("Adoptive Statement") with the holding Company of JSW Steel Coated Products Limited. As per the Adoptive Statement, all the provisions of the Service Provider Agreement shall apply mutatis mutandis to the Adoptive Statement in relation to the services availed/ to be availed by the Company from JSW Steel Coated Products Limited and the holding Company of JSW Steel Coated Products Limited. The exercise of any such rights could materially and adversely affect our business, results of operations and financial condition.

2. We have experienced certain discrepancies in our statutory filings with the Registrar of Companies ("RoC") and other non-compliances under the Companies Act, 2013 in the past. We cannot assure that regulatory authorities will not initiate inquiries, proceedings or other actions against us in the future. Any such proceedings or actions, if initiated, may result in the imposition of penalties, fines or other regulatory measures, which could adversely affect our business, financial condition, results of operations and reputation.

Pursuant to a Business Transfer Agreement dated January 29, 2021 ("BTA"), our Company acquired the business of M/s. Bombay Steels from Mr. Vijaykumar Himatrai Gupta, the proprietor of M/s. Bombay Steels and one of the Promoters of our Company. In accordance with the terms of the BTA, the Company issued and allotted 24,50,000 equity shares to Mr. Vijaykumar Himatrai Gupta in lieu of the balance consideration of ₹87.61 million, on a private placement basis. The shareholders of the Company approved the said issue and allotment at their meeting held on February 24, 2021, and the Board of Directors approved the allotment at its meeting held on March 9, 2021.

However, we inadvertently failed to file Form MGT-14 with the RoC in respect of the said private placement, as required under the Companies Act, 2013. Further, while filing Form PAS-3 in respect of the said allotment, we erroneously selected the mode of allotment as "Rights Issue" instead of "Issue of Shares for Consideration Other Than Cash."

In order to rectify the aforesaid errors, we have filed a revised Form PAS-3 with the necessary corrections and have also filed Form MGT-14 along with an adjudication application before the Registrar of Companies ("RoC"). In connection with the adjudication proceedings, we received observations from the RoC dated November 12, 2025, to which we submitted our response on December 5, 2025. Further, we filed a separate adjudication application on January 6, 2026 in respect of the delay in filing Form MGT-14. The said adjudication application is currently pending before the RoC. In the event the Company is aggrieved by the order passed by the Registrar of Companies ("RoC"), it shall file an appeal before the Regional Director ("RD") under Section 454 of the Companies Act, 2013, and, if necessary, pursue the matter further before the appropriate appellate forums up to the court of last appeal. For further information, see "History and Certain Corporate Matters – Details regarding material acquisitions or divestments of business/ undertakings, mergers, amalgamation, any revaluation of assets, etc. in the last ten years" on page 282.

Further, pursuant to a communication dated March 11, 2026 received from the RoC, our Company filed an application with the RoC on May 13, 2026 seeking the marking as defective/cancellation of the original Form PAS-3 bearing SRN T08474322 dated March 12, 2021, while retaining the revised and corrected Form PAS-3 bearing SRN AB6835518 dated September 15, 2025 on record. The said application is currently pending before the RoC.

Additionally, there were instances of delays in filing certain statutory forms with the Registrar of Companies ("RoC") up to June 30, 2026. We have undertaken corrective measures, including filing the requisite forms and paying the applicable additional fees. As a result, the frequency and extent of such delays have reduced significantly. Details of the statutory forms filed with delays during the preceding five years are set out below.

The disclosures relating to the aforesaid matters have been included in this Prospectus based on the secretarial due diligence report issued by the Practicing Company Secretary, pursuant to their inspection and independent verification of records maintained by the Company and information available on the Ministry of Corporate Affairs ("MCA") portal and with the RoC. Accordingly, we have relied on the secretarial due diligence report dated October 21, 2026, issued by M/s. Ronak Jhuthawat & Co., Practicing Company Secretaries (Firm Registration No.: P2025RJ104300), certified pursuant to their peer review certificate bearing certificate number 6592/2025. Any such actions may adversely affect our business, financial condition, results of operations and reputation.

Further, our Company has, in the past, made certain inadvertent errors in its statutory and secretarial filings, primarily of a technical or clerical nature. There are also certain non-compliances or violations, including clerical errors, which may not be capable of rectification under applicable law. We cannot predict the actions that may be taken by the RoC or other regulatory authorities in respect of such matters, or the penalties or other regulatory measures that may be imposed, if any.

We cannot assure you that there will not be any future discrepancies, errors or non-compliances in our statutory filings. Any past or future non-compliances, or any additional discrepancies identified upon further regulatory review, may subject us to regulatory scrutiny, directions, penalties or other actions, which could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition, results of operations and reputation.

3. We have experienced negative cash flows from investing and financing activities in the past and may continue to experience negative cash flows in the future, which could adversely affect our liquidity, financial condition and ability to operate our business and implement our growth plans.

We have incurred negative net cash flows from investing and financing activities in the past and may continue to do so in the future, primarily due to our capital expenditure requirements and financing obligations in connection with the expansion of our business. Negative cash flows may adversely affect our cash flow requirements, liquidity position and financial flexibility, and may impact our ability to operate our business efficiently and execute our growth strategies.

The following table sets forth certain information relating to our cash flows on a restated basis for the periods indicated:

	June 30, 2026	March 31, 2026	March 31, 2025	March 31, 2024
Net cash from/ (used in) operating activities	723.05	102.17	320.90	114.87
Net cash from/ (used in) investing activities	(6.80)	(350.27)	(417.62)	(528.50)
Net cash from/ (used in) financing activities	(733.88)	337.06	115.66	395.63

Net cash generated from operating activities was ₹723.05 million for the three-month period ended June 30, 2026, ₹102.17 million in Fiscal 2026, ₹320.90 million in Fiscal 2025 and ₹114.87 million in Fiscal 2024. The cash generated from operating activities was primarily attributable to profit before tax, adjusted for non-cash expenses including depreciation and amortisation, expected credit losses and other adjustments, as applicable, and was further impacted by changes in working capital, including movements in inventories, trade receivables, other financial and other assets, trade payables and other liabilities and provisions, as well as income taxes paid.

Our net cash used in investing activities were ₹6.80 million for the three-month period ended June 30, 2026, ₹350.27 million in Fiscal 2026, ₹417.62 million in Fiscal 2025 and ₹528.50 million in Fiscal 2024. These cash outflows were primarily attributable to the purchase of capital assets and increases in other non-current financial assets and other non-current assets, partially offset by changes in fixed/restricted deposits with banks, proceeds from sale of capital assets and interest income, as applicable.

Our net cash used in financing activities was ₹733.88 million for the three-month period ended June 30, 2026, while net cash generated from financing activities was ₹337.06 million in Fiscal 2026, ₹115.66 million in Fiscal 2025 and ₹395.63 million in Fiscal 2024. The financing cash flows were primarily attributable to proceeds from long-term and short-term borrowings and, in Fiscal 2026, proceeds from issue of equity shares, partially offset by repayments of borrowings and interest paid.

Negative cash flows over extended periods, or significant negative cash flows in the short term, could materially affect our ability to meet our working capital requirements, service or repay our indebtedness and fund our capital expenditure and expansion plans without raising additional funds from external sources. There can be no assurance that our cash flows will be positive in the future. Any inability to generate sufficient cash flows from operations may have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

4. We derived 73.54% and 71.33%, 67.44% and 67.43% of our revenue from our top ten customers for three months period ended June 30, 2026, and for the Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024, respectively. The loss of any of these customers or reduction in business from such will have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows.

We are dependent on limited number of customers for majority of our revenue from operations, which expose us to a high risk of customer concentration. In the three months period ended June 30, 2026, we have served total of 178 customers and in the Fiscal 2026, Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, we have served 261, 252 and 225 customers, respectively. The table below sets forth our revenue from our largest customer, top five (5) customers and top ten (10) customers and their contribution to our revenue from operations for the periods indicated.

We depend significantly on a limited number of key customers for a substantial portion of our revenue, and we expect this dependence to continue for the foreseeable future. As of June 30, 2026, we had long-standing relationships of over three years with several of our top ten customers. The loss of any of our key customers, or a significant reduction in business from them, for reasons including termination or non-renewal of orders, inability to negotiate acceptable commercial terms, regulatory changes, customer disputes, adverse changes in their financial condition (including bankruptcy or liquidation), decline in their market position, or reduced demand for our products, could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition, and cash flows. Further, operational disruptions affecting our key customers, such as plant shutdowns, labor strikes, or other work stoppages, may adversely impact their production and, in turn, our sales. However, we have not experienced any such instances in three months period ended June 30, 2026 and in Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024.We cannot assure that we will be able to maintain historical levels of business with our key customers or reduce customer concentration in the future, which may adversely affect our business prospects and financial performance.

5. The cost of raw materials and components consumed accounted for 87.60%, 90.51%, 92.97% and 89.14% of our total expenses for the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and for Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024, respectively. Any volatility in prices, unavailability, or disruption in the timely and adequate supply of steel coils may materially and adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Steel coils constitute our principal raw material, and the cost of our Processed Steel Products depends on our ability to procure such raw materials at commercially acceptable prices and in sufficient quantities. The price and availability of steel coils are subject to volatility and supply constraints arising from various external factors beyond our control, including global and domestic demand-supply dynamics, logistics and processing costs, inflation, governmental regulations and policies, overall economic conditions, production levels, market competition, duties and taxes, trade restrictions, transportation costs and currency exchange rate fluctuations. The table below sets out the cost of raw materials and components consumed as a percentage of our total expenses, revenue from operations and total income for the periods indicated.

Cost of Raw materials and components consumed (₹ in million)	3,301.74	11,123.75	9,497.07	6,571.11
Cost of Raw materials and components consumed as a % of total expenses	87.60%	90.51%	92.97%	89.14%
Cost of Raw materials and components consumed as a % of revenue from operations	83.15%	87.81%	89.96%	87.00%
Cost of Raw materials and components consumed as a % of total income	83.05%	87.60%	89.71%	85.85%

Note: Cost of raw materials and components consumed includes the cost of steel coils and packing materials consumed and excludes the impact of changes in inventories of work-in-progress and finished goods.

Steel coils are traded commodities, and their prices are subject to significant fluctuations driven by macroeconomic conditions and market dynamics. Any substantial increase in the prices of steel coils or disruption in their timely availability could adversely impact our production schedules, operating margins and overall financial performance. While we seek to mitigate these risks through multiple approved suppliers and industry practices such as price adjustment mechanisms with OEM and ODM, we cannot assure that such measures will fully offset the impact of commodity price volatility or supply constraints. Steel grade-wise price differentials are typically passed on by steel mills to OEMs through retrospective price adjustments, which may not always align with our pricing cycles.

We generally maintain raw material inventory for approximately one to one and a half months during periods of seasonality and for approximately two months under normal operating conditions. We procure steel coils based on tentative projections provided by our customers. Steel coils are ordered from steel mills in alignment with such projections and within optimum procurement timelines, subject to customer approvals and suppliers meeting our quality and volume requirements. As we do not control our suppliers' production schedules, we are exposed to risks of delay, shortfall or discontinuation in the supply of raw materials. Any such disruption may result in delays in production, underutilisation of capacity or inability to meet customer demand, and could also lead to unexpected increases in raw material costs. While we have not experienced material disruptions in the supply of steel coils during the three months period ended June 30, 2026, and the last three Fiscals that adversely impacted our business, we cannot assure you that such disruptions will not occur in the future. Any prolonged or significant disruption could increase the cost of our raw materials and, consequently, the prices of our processed steel products.

We have historically experienced fluctuations in steel coil procurement costs due to volatility in the steel market. We generally follow a quarterly pricing model for both the procurement of steel coils and the sale of processed steel products, which provides price stability for a fixed period and assists in cost control and margin management. However, increasing global demand for steel, supply constraints or disruptions at suppliers' facilities could impair their ability to supply steel coils in a timely manner and at competitive prices. Further, while we may benefit from government safeguard duties or regulatory measures that partially offset adverse pricing impacts arising from policy changes or trade-related developments, such measures may not be sufficient to protect us from significant or sustained increases in steel prices. If we increase the prices of our processed steel products to offset higher raw material costs, our customers may reduce their purchases, delay orders or cancel contracts, which could materially and adversely affect demand for our products. If we are unable to pass on cost increases to our customers or effectively manage fluctuations in steel prices, our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows could be materially and adversely affected.

6. Our business is significantly dependent on the performance of certain end-use sectors, particularly the Home & Commercial Appliances sector, which contributed 89.93%, 86.54%, 81.80% and 77.41% of our revenue from sale of products for the three months period ended June 30, 2026, and for Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024, respectively. Any adverse developments, slowdown, reduced demand, or cyclicality affecting this sector could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

We primarily cater to customer base comprising Original Equipment Manufacturers ("OEMs") and Original Design Manufacturers ("ODMs") operating across various end-use sectors, including consumer durables and home appliances, electrical equipment and components, automotive and auto components, HVAC and refrigeration, electronics and electrical manufacturing services and other industries. As a result, our performance is closely linked to the operating conditions and demand trends prevailing in these sectors. Demand for our processed steel products is dependent on the demand for end products manufactured by our OEM and ODM customers and is subject to seasonality and cyclicality, particularly in the Home & Commercial Appliances sector, which generally witnesses higher demand during the Indian summer and festive seasons. Such seasonality may result in fluctuations in sales volumes, uneven revenue recognition and variations in capacity utilization across fiscal quarters. The quarter-wise revenue break-up for sales in the Home & Commercial Appliances sector for the three-month period ended June 30, 2026 and Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024 is set out below.

Note: The percentage (%) of revenue represents revenue from operations only.

Further, the performance of these end-use sectors in India may be impacted by factors distinct from those affecting similar sectors in other geographies. Our revenues are directly dependent on production levels, capacity utilization and inventory management practices of manufacturers operating in these sectors, both domestically and globally. The tables below set out the revenue contribution from various end-use sectors, expressed as a percentage of revenue from sale of products.

Other end-users in the Home and Commercial Appliances sector include electrical equipment, FMCG, packaging services, steel scrap, and allied sectors.*

Other end-users in the General Engineering sector include pharmaceuticals, infrastructure, industrial engineering and capital goods, power equipment, steel scrap, and allied sectors.*

Additionally, the production and sales of the end products for which we supply processed steel products are influenced by several factors beyond our control, including changes in government policies and regulations, consumer demand and preferences, demographic trends, employment and income levels, interest rates, disruptions in supply chains, labour-related issues, availability and cost of credit, and general economic and industry conditions.

While some of our end-use sectors, including the Home & Commercial Appliances sector, are subject to seasonality, fluctuations in the performance of such sectors and/or any decline in demand did not have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations or financial condition during the three months period ended June 30, 2026, and the last three Fiscals. However, there can be no assurance that such fluctuations or adverse developments will not materially and adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows in the future. Any decline in demand from the industries we currently serve, or any uncertainty or adverse changes arising from regulatory actions, customs duties, taxation, trade restrictions or other market-related factors particularly impacting sectors such as agricultural equipment and construction equipment could materially and adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

7. We derive our revenue from operations from customers located across fourteen (14) states and two (2) union territories in India, on average more than 50% of our revenue from operations for the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and last three Fiscals was derived from Maharashtra, Gujarat and Haryana. Any disruption in our operations in these states, whether due to internal or external factors, could restrict our operations and have an adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Although we derive our revenue from operations from customers located across fourteen (14) states and two (2) union territories in India, a significant portion of our revenue from operations is derived from a limited number of states. On average, more than 50% of our revenue from operations for the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and for each of the preceding three financial years was derived from the states of Maharashtra, Gujarat and Haryana. Consequently, our business is geographically concentrated in these states. Any adverse developments affecting these regions, including increased competition, changes in economic conditions, demographic trends, political developments or regulatory changes, could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

The geographical break-up of our revenue from operations for the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and for the financial years ended March 31, 2026, March 31, 2025 and March 31, 2024 is set forth below.

While we have not experienced any material adverse impact arising from such geographical concentration during the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and last three financial years, there can be no assurance that similar conditions will continue in the future. Our inability to diversify our revenue base by expanding into other regions, or any adverse developments in the states in which we currently operate, could adversely affect our earnings, financial condition and results of operations.

8. Our high debt-to-equity ratio could adversely affect our financial condition, results of operations, and business prospects.

As on June 30, 2026, our debt-to-equity ratio was 2 times. Our debt-to-equity ratio is relatively high, reflecting our significant dependence on borrowings to fund our operations and growth initiatives. A high level of leverage exposes us to several risks, including higher interest payment obligations, increased sensitivity to changes in interest rates, reduced financial flexibility, and restrictions arising from covenants under our financing arrangements. Any inability to comply with such covenants or to service our debt obligations in a timely manner could adversely affect our liquidity and financial condition. Further, during periods of adverse economic conditions, industry downturns, or volatility in interest rates, our cash flows may be insufficient to meet our debt servicing requirements. This may require us to refinance our borrowings on unfavourable terms or limit our ability to raise additional debt or equity financing. Any deterioration in our credit profile could result in higher borrowing costs, more restrictive terms, or limited access to capital markets.

Accordingly, our high debt-to-equity ratio may materially and adversely affect our financial condition, results of operations, cash flows, and ability to pursue our growth strategy. The following table sets forth details of our debt-to-equity ratio for the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and for the financial years ended March 31, 2026, March 31, 2025, and March 31, 2024.

Debt service coverage ratio	1.44	1.75	1.77	1.98
ROCE	7.01%	16.40%	18.78%	18.60%

Debt to Equity Ratio is defined as total debt divided by total equity. Total debt is the sum of total non-current & current borrowings; total equity means sum of equity share capital and other equity;*

Debt Service Coverage Ratio is calculated as earning before interest and tax expenses as divided by finance cost and principal repayments.*

Return on Capital Employed (ROCE) is calculated as EBIT divided by capital employed where (i) EBIT means Earnings before interest and taxes expense, arrived at by obtaining the profit before tax for the year and adding back finance costs and (ii) Capital employed means Net worth + Total debt + Deferred tax liability;

9. Under-utilisation of our manufacturing capacities over extended periods, or significant under-utilisation in the short term, could increase our cost of production and operating costs, which could adversely affect our operating leverage, margins and financial performance.

Our capacity utilisation levels are influenced by several factors, including the level and timing of customer orders, demand for our processed steel products, availability of raw materials, continuity of operations at our manufacturing facilities, and prevailing industry and market conditions. In the event of a decline in demand for our processed steel products, prolonged disruptions at our manufacturing facilities, delays in customer offtake, or our inability to procure adequate quantities of raw materials, our capacity utilisation may decline and we may not be able to achieve optimal utilisation of our existing or future manufacturing facilities.

We operate slitting, cut-to-length, shearing and embossing lines across our manufacturing facilities. These steel processing lines are capital-intensive and are designed to operate efficiently at higher throughput levels. Under-utilisation of our processing capacities limits our ability to absorb fixed costs over larger production volumes, which could adversely affect our operating leverage and margins. Factors such as fluctuations in customer demand for our processed steel products, seasonality, uneven order inflows across facilities, or delays in execution or cancellation of customer orders may result in sub-optimal utilisation of our processing infrastructure.

Sustained under-utilisation of capacity may also lead to lower asset turnover, delayed returns on capital investments and inefficiencies in working capital management. In addition, prolonged or significant short-term under-utilisation may limit our ability to benefit from economies of scale, increase per-unit production costs and reduce the efficiency of our operations. Any such developments could materially and adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition, cash flows and growth prospects. The table below sets out our overall capacity utilisation for the periods indicated.

10. Our Company, Promoters, Directors and certain members of our Promoter Group are involved in legal and regulatory proceedings, and any adverse outcome in such proceedings could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

As of the date of this Prospectus, there are certain outstanding legal and regulatory proceedings involving our Company, Promoters, Directors and members of our Promoter Group. Further, one of our Promoter Group members, Sunita Gupta, was disqualified from holding the office of director during the period from January 2016 to October 2021 under the provisions of the Companies Act, 2013 during which she did not sign or approve any audited financial statements or act in the capacity of a director for any company. She is presently not disqualified from holding the office of director. Any future legal or regulatory proceedings against our Company, Promoters, Directors or members of our Promoter Group at various stages of adjudication before courts, regulatory authorities or appellate forums may require significant management time and financial resources for their defence. Any adverse judgment or order in such proceedings could have an adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. For further details, see "Outstanding Litigation and Material Developments" beginning on page 466.

11. Our manufacturing facilities are geographically dispersed across specific regions in India, and any disruption to the operations of these facilities or adverse developments affecting such regions could materially and adversely affect our business, financial condition and results of operations.

We operate manufacturing facilities across four (4) locations in India. Our facilities are located in the western region at Wada (Palghar district) and Bhiwandi (Thane district), in the northern region at Ghiloth, Rajasthan, and in the southern region at Sri City Facility, Andhra Pradesh. These manufacturing facilities are critical to our operations and are engaged in processing steel coils into value-added Processed Steel Products in accordance with customer-specific technical requirements. For further details, see "Our Business — Manufacturing Infrastructure" on page 260.

Our business and financial performance are dependent on the uninterrupted and efficient functioning of these manufacturing facilities. Any unscheduled or prolonged disruption at one or more of our facilities could adversely affect our ability to manufacture products, meet customer demand in a timely manner and maintain operational efficiency. Such disruptions could also have a disproportionate impact on our revenue, as reflected in the regional contribution of our manufacturing facilities for the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and for the Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024.

#This is a warehouse facility which caters to customers in Punjab region. Materials stored are processed at our Ghiloth facility and transferred to the Said facility for the purpose mentioned above.

Our manufacturing operations are exposed to various operational and location-specific risks, including fire, unexpected mechanical failure of equipment, industrial accidents, disruptions in electrical power, earthquakes and other natural disasters, adverse weather conditions, pandemics, labour availability and industrial relations issues, and significant social, political or economic disturbances in the regions where our facilities are located. The occurrence of any such events could result in loss of production, delays in customer deliveries, increased repair and maintenance costs, higher operating expenses and potential loss of customers. In addition, our manufacturing facilities are subject to region-specific regulatory frameworks and require various approvals, licenses, permits and consents from central, state and local authorities. If we are found to be in contravention of any conditions attached to such regulatory approvals, or if such approvals are suspended, cancelled or not renewed in a timely manner, we may be required to suspend or restrict operations at the affected facilities until such matters are resolved.

While we have not experienced any material disruption at our manufacturing facilities during the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and for the last three Fiscals, there can be no assurance that such disruptions will not occur in the future or that their impact, if any, will not be material. Any disruption to the operations of our manufacturing facilities, whether due to operational failures, regulatory actions or regional factors, could materially and adversely affect our business, financial condition and results of operations.

12. We do not have long-term purchase commitments from our customers, and any reduction or cancellation of orders could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

We do not have agreements with our customers that obligate them to purchase or place orders with us on a long-term basis. If our customers choose not to source their requirements from us, or reduce or discontinue their purchases, it could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Our sales are primarily based on customer purchase orders and forecasts, which is common in the steel processing industry. These purchase orders generally set out the commercial terms of sale but do not bind customers to purchase any specific steel processing products, specifications, volumes, or for any defined duration. Such purchase orders may be terminated by customers, with or without cause, and without compensation. These arrangements do not always provide for minimum purchase commitments. Consequently, customers may reduce, delay, or cancel their orders at any time, which could adversely affect our business and results of operations.

If we fail to fulfil purchase orders or contractual obligations in a timely manner, particularly in relation to OEM and ODM customers, or fail to fulfil them at all, some of our customers may be entitled to terminate the relevant order or contract without any further liability or obligation towards us. While we have not experienced any product recalls due to manufacturing quality issues, component defects, rejection of product batches, product discontinuations or termination of customer relationships during the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and the last three Fiscals, there can be no assurance that such events will not occur in the future. The following table indicates total number of customers for the reporting period:

Particulars	For the three months period ended June 30, 2026	March 31, 2026	March 31, 2025	March 31, 2024
Number of customers served	178	261	252	225
Of which:
Existing Customers	164	186	165	139
New Customers	14	75	87	86

We have long-standing relationships with many of our customers, with several having been associated with us since the commencement of our operations. For the three-month period ended June 30, 2026, and for Fiscal 2026, Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, approximately 98.05%, 96.08%, 93.76% and 87.88%, respectively, of our restated revenue from operations was derived from existing customers. As of June 30, 2026, our relationships with several of our top 10 customers ranged from one and a half years to over three years. However, there can be no assurance that such customers will continue to place orders with us at similar levels in the future. While there have been no such material instances of loss of long-standing customers as at and for the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and during the Fiscals 2026, 2025 or 2024, we cannot assure you that such incidents will not occur in future.

Additionally, although our contracts generally do not provide for exclusivity, we have not experienced any instances during the three months period ended June 30, 2026, and the last three Fiscals of losing business to competitors due to such non-exclusivity. However, we cannot assure you that increased competition or customers sourcing similar products from competitors will not adversely affect our business, results of operations and financial condition in the future.

13. Our success depends upon knowledge and experience of our Directors, Key Managerial Personnel, Senior Management and other key employees as well as our ability to attract and retain personnel with technical expertise. In the three months period ended June 30, 2026, Fiscal 2026, Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, our Company's attrition rate for permanent employees was 4.30%, 26.10%, 32.13% and 44.21%, respectively. The loss of or our inability to attract or retain such persons could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Our operations and future growth are dependent on our ability to attract, retain and motivate qualified and skilled personnel, including our Directors, Key Managerial Personnel, Senior Management and other key employees. We currently have adequate qualified personnel, given the demand for skilled professionals in our industry, we may not be able to continuously attract or retain such personnel, including due to attrition, or retain them on acceptable terms. The loss of the services of such personnel, or an increase in attrition levels, may adversely affect our operations, execution capabilities and business continuity. Competition for skilled and experienced personnel in our industry is intense, and our competitors may offer compensation and benefit structures that are more attractive than ours. As a result, we may be required to increase employee compensation and other incentives at a faster rate than in the past to remain competitive. There can be no assurance that we will be successful in attracting and retaining a sufficient number of qualified personnel to support our existing operations and expansion plans. Any failure to do so could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

As of June 30, 2026, we had 160 full-time employees and 4 retainership employees. The following table sets forth the attrition rate for our permanent employees and Key Managerial Personnel and members of Senior Management of our Company for the years indicated:

Attrition rate is calculated as the percentage of the number of permanent employee departures in a particular Financial Year/period to the average number of permanent employees in a particular Financial Year/period. The average number of permanent employees in a particular Financial Year/period is calculated by the sum of the number of permanent employees at the beginning of a particular Financial Year/period and at the end of a particular Financial Year/period and then divided by two.*

Further, if we cannot hire additional qualified personnel or retain them, our ability to expand our business may be impacted. As we intend to continue to expand our operations, we will be required to continue to attract and retain experienced personnel. We may also be required to increase our levels of employee compensation more rapidly than in the past to remain competitive in attracting suitable employees.

We may require a significant amount of time to hire and train replacement personnel when qualified personnel terminate their employment with our Company. We may also be required to increase our levels of employee compensation to remain competitive in attracting the qualified employees that our business requires.

The following table below sets forth details of our employee benefits expense for the period/ years indicated:

(₹ in million, except for percentages)

	June 30, 2026	March 31, 2026	March 31, 2025	March 31, 2024

Any loss of our Directors, Key Managerial Personnel, Senior Management or key employees or our inability to recruit further senior management or key managerial personnel could impede our growth by impairing our day-to-day operations. For information regarding changes in Directors, Key Managerial Personnel and Senior Management, see, "Our Management - Changes to our Board in the last three years" and "Our Management - Changes in the Key Managerial Personnel or the Senior Management in last three years" on pages 292 and 303, respectively. We cannot assure you that attrition rate of employees, KMPs and Senior Management will not increase in future, or there will not be any changes in KMPs and Senior Management in the future. Additionally, any leadership transition that results from the departure of any members of our senior management team and the integration of new personnel may be difficult to manage and may cause operational and administrative inefficiencies, decreased productivity amongst our employees and loss of personnel with deep institutional knowledge, which could result in significant disruptions to our operations. We will be required to successfully integrate new personnel with our existing teams in order to achieve our operating objectives and changes in our senior management team may affect our results of operations as new personnel become familiar with our business.

14. Our funding requirements and proposed deployment of the Net Proceeds of the Issue have not been appraised by any bank or financial institution, and any delays, cost overruns or changes in the proposed utilisation may adversely affect our business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows.

We intend to utilise the Net Proceeds of the Issue for a) repayment and/or pre-payment, in full or in part, of certain borrowings availed by our Company; b) financing the cost towards acquisition of capital equipment under existing lease arrangements with Siemens Financial Services Private Limited; and c) general corporate purposes, as described in the section titled "Objects of the Issue" on page 115. The proposed utilisation of the Net Proceeds has not been appraised by any bank, financial institution or any other independent external agency. The proposed deployment of the Net Proceeds is based on our current business plans, management estimates, prevailing market conditions and commercial considerations and, in relation to the acquisition of capital equipment under existing lease arrangements with Siemens Financial Services Private Limited, the foreclosure letter received from Siemens Financial Services Private Limited and the fair market value report for plant and machinery issued by an IBBI-registered valuer. However, these estimates and assumptions are subject to change due to factors beyond our control, including variations in actual costs incurred, vendor quotations, price fluctuations, demand conditions and other unforeseen circumstances, and there can be no assurance that the actual expenditure will not differ from our estimates. Any increase in costs or deviation from assumptions may require us to fund such excess expenditure through internal accruals or additional borrowings, which may not be available on commercially acceptable terms or at all, and could adversely affect our revenues, earnings, implementation timelines, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Further, the deployment of the Net Proceeds towards the Objects of the Issue is at the discretion of our management and subject to approval by our Board or the IPO Committee. The exact amount to be utilised for each object will depend on our business requirements, economic conditions, competitive landscape, regulatory environment and other factors affecting our operations, financial condition and access to capital. Any delay in implementation, cost overruns or failure to achieve the intended objectives may adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. Pending utilisation of the Net Proceeds, we intend to temporarily deposit the Net Proceeds in deposits with one or more scheduled commercial banks included in the Second Schedule to the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934, as approved by our Board or IPO Committee. Although we have appointed a monitoring agency to monitor utilisation of the Gross Proceeds, investors will be required to rely on the judgment of our management regarding the deployment of the Net Proceeds.

Various risks and uncertainties, including those described in this "Risk Factors" section, may limit or delay our ability to utilise the Net Proceeds to achieve our growth objectives. Accordingly, the use of the Net Proceeds may not result in actual growth, increased profitability or enhancement in shareholder value, and investors may lose part or all of their investment.

15. Our business requires significant working capital, and any inability to arrange or maintain adequate working capital may adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Our business requires significant amounts of working capital, including for the procurement of raw materials and components and for the processing and manufacture of our processed steel products, prior to receiving payments from our customers. Our working capital requirements may increase if our contractual or sales arrangements do not provide for advance payments or where payments are required to be made only upon delivery of the final products. Further, our working capital requirements may also increase if we undertake a higher volume of orders as a result of the growth of our business.

The following table sets forth details of our working capital requirements for the periods indicated:

	June 30, 2026	March 31, 2026	March 31, 2025	March 31, 2024
Working capital loan utilization (₹ million)	1,937.16	2,732.79	2,274.43	1,841.37
Inventory days [(1)]	41	50	39	47
Trade receivables days [(2)]	34	38	42	45
Trade payable days [(3)]	28	24	25	34

Notes:

(1) For Fiscal 2026, 2025, 2024: Inventory days are calculated as average inventory divided by cost of goods sold ("COGS") multiplied by 365 days. For three months period ended June 30, 2026: Inventory days are calculated as average inventory divided by cost of goods sold ("COGS") multiplied by 91 days.

(2) For Fiscal 2026, 2025, 2024: Trade receivables days are calculated as average trade receivables divided by revenue from operations multiplied by 365 days. For three months period ended June 30, 2026: Trade receivables days are calculated as average trade receivables divided by revenue from operations multiplied by 91 days.

(3) For Fiscal 2026, 2025, 2024: Trade payable days are calculated as trade payable divided by COGS multiplied by 365 days. For three months period ended June 30, 2026: Trade payable days are calculated as trade payable divided by COGS multiplied by 91 days.

The actual amount and timing of our future working capital requirements may differ from our estimates due to several factors, including events beyond our control, delays or cost overruns, unanticipated expenses, regulatory or policy changes, adverse economic conditions, technological changes and other market developments. In addition, changes in governmental policies and compliance with such changes may require significant investments in technology and infrastructure, which could further increase our working capital requirements. Our future success depends, in part, on our ability to continue to secure and efficiently manage sufficient working capital. Any inability to obtain adequate working capital in a timely manner and on commercially acceptable terms may adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

We have ongoing working capital requirements and, in the ordinary course of business, fund such requirements through a combination of internal accruals, bill discounting and financing from various banks in the form of working capital facilities, including working capital loans. There can be no assurance that we will be able to secure adequate financing in the future on commercially acceptable terms, or at all, including in the event that our lenders demand repayment of loans that are repayable on demand or if there are changes in applicable regulations. Any inability to obtain or maintain sufficient cash flows, credit facilities or other sources of funding to meet our working capital requirements or service our indebtedness could adversely affect our financial condition and results of operations. For further information, see "Financial Indebtedness" on page 462.

16. Our business is capital intensive, and our significant capital expenditure requirements may constrain our ability to expand into new product lines or business segments and adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Our business is capital intensive and requires substantial capital expenditure for the establishment, expansion and maintenance of our steel processing facilities, including investments in plant and machinery, processing lines and related infrastructure. Any failure to adequately fund our capital expenditure requirements may adversely affect our operations and growth prospects. We have incurred significant capital expenditure during the last three Fiscals, and the three month period ended June 30, 2026, details of which are set out in the table below.

Capital expenditure (₹ million)	46.49	547.89	88.84	486.62
Total of capital expenditure as a % of revenue from operations (%)	1.17%	4.32%	0.84%	6.44%

Expanding our customer base within the same industry segment is subject to several structural and operational constraints. Many prospective customers maintain long-standing supply arrangements and technical alignments with their existing steel processors and alternate vendors, which makes it difficult for new suppliers to displace incumbent vendors. In addition, certain customers require specific steel grades or product types that may not be available with us or that we may not be able to procure from our suppliers on commercially acceptable terms. Further, our existing processing capabilities may not always meet the specialized technical requirements of such customers. These factors create high entry barriers in the steel processing ecosystem and may limit our ability to successfully onboard new customers.

Similarly, our ability to diversify into new product lines, business segments, or markets is subject to significant risks arising from the low-margin and highly competitive nature of the steel processing sector, which may limit our ability to achieve and sustain profitability in such segments. Our expansion efforts may require us to secure reliable supply arrangements for specialized steel grades, obtain customer acceptance, and adapt our operational capabilities to meet stringent quality, pricing, and delivery requirements, any of which may be time-consuming, uncertain, or unsuccessful. Further, such initiatives may necessitate additional working capital to support inventory, manpower, and operational enhancements, which may not be available on commercially acceptable terms or at all. Any inability to successfully diversify or to generate expected returns from such initiatives could adversely affect our business, financial condition, results of operations, and cash flows.

To fund our capital expenditure requirements, we may rely on a combination of internal accruals, debt financing and the issuance of equity shares. Our internally generated funds may not be sufficient to meet our future capital expenditure requirements, which could necessitate raising additional capital. If we incur additional indebtedness, our interest costs and debt servicing obligations will increase, which could adversely affect our profitability, cash flows and financial condition. Further, there can be no assurance that additional financing will be available to us in a timely manner or on commercially acceptable terms, or at all. If we are unable to obtain adequate financing when required, we may be required to defer, scale down or modify our capital expenditure and growth plans, which could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. In addition, any equity financing may result in dilution of the shareholding of our existing shareholders.

17. As of August 31, 2026, our Company has significant outstanding borrowings of ₹3,024.28 million and is subject to restrictive covenants under our financing arrangements, which may limit our operational and financial flexibility and adversely affect our business and liquidity.

As of August 31, 2026, we had total outstanding borrowings of ₹ 3,024.28 million. Certain of our financing arrangements contain restrictive covenants that require us to obtain prior consent or provide intimation to the respective lenders before undertaking specified actions and transactions. These covenants vary depending on the lender and the terms negotiated under each financing agreement. Such actions include, among others, changes to our capital structure or shareholding, amendments to our memorandum or articles of association, changes in the composition of our Board, undertaking mergers, de-mergers, consolidations, reorganisations, schemes of arrangement or compromise with creditors or shareholders, changes in the general nature of our business, or undertaking expansion or investments in other entities. While we have obtained all necessary consents required for the purposes of this Issue, any failure to comply with such covenants or to obtain requisite approvals in the future could restrict or delay corporate actions or business initiatives and may have an adverse effect on our operations. In addition, certain of our secured borrowing facilities permit lenders to recall the outstanding amounts on demand, including upon the occurrence of events that may be beyond our control. There can be no assurance that we will be able to obtain waivers or extensions from our lenders or prevent such recalls, which could adversely affect our operations, liquidity and cash flows.

Non-compliance with the covenants under our financing arrangements or failure to obtain required consents or waivers may result in acceleration of repayment obligations or trigger cross-default provisions. In such an event, we may be required to utilise a significant portion of our cash flows to service such obligations, thereby reducing funds available for working capital and other general corporate purposes. Although there have been no instances of loan recall, invocation of promoter guarantees, material covenant breaches, events of default, repayment defaults, rescheduling of loans, acceleration of borrowings or triggering of cross-default provisions during the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and last three Fiscals, there can be no assurance that such events will not occur in the future.

The table below sets forth details of our finances costs, borrowings and total debt as of and for the years indicated:

(₹ in million)

Total Debt *	2,867.17	3,523.17	2,946.17	2,350.37

Total debt is calculated as non-current borrowings plus current borrowings plus non-current lease liabilities and current lease liabilities.*

Further, pursuant to our service partnership agreement with JSWSCPL, we are restricted from mortgaging, selling or otherwise disposing of our manufacturing premises without obtaining their prior consent. This restriction may limit our ability to use such assets as collateral for raising funds or securing financing for our business operations and expansion plans. For further details, see "Financial Indebtedness" beginning on page 462.

18. Any delay by our customers in taking delivery of our Processed Steel Products, due to internal or external factors, may result in an increase in our inventory levels and a corresponding delay in receipt of payments. Such delays may also constrain our ability to process further orders, which could adversely affect our business, results of operations and financial performance.

Effective inventory management is critical to meeting customer demand and maintaining cost-efficient operations. As part of our steel processing activities, we also perform logistics- and inventory-related functions for certain customers by holding inventory and offering just-in-time delivery to ensure timely and efficient supply of Processed Steel Products. However, our inventory management processes may be disrupted due to factors such as logistical challenges or natural disasters, which could lead to delays in delivery schedules, inaccuracies in inventory levels and increased operational costs. Any inability to effectively manage our inventory could materially impair our growth and profitability.

We generally plan our production and supply schedules based on demand guidance received from a majority of our customers. However, not all customers provide regular or detailed forecasts, and the frequency and quality of such guidance may vary depending on the customer relationship. In cases where forecasts are not provided, we rely on historical demand patterns to plan procurement and production schedules, which may result in inventory-related challenges. Any delay by customers in accepting delivery of Processed Steel Products may further exacerbate inventory accumulation, delay cash inflows and adversely impact our ability to process additional orders, which could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

The table below sets forth details of our inventory, average inventory, inventory turnover ratio and inventory holding days as at, or for the periods, indicated.

For three months period ended June 30, 2026: Inventory days are calculated as average inventory divided by cost of goods sold ("COGS") multiplied by 91days.*

Further, we have paid delayed fees while filing the abovementioned returns under the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017.

The reasons for delay in payment were on account of either technical issues, change-over in accounting software or due to the official site not working. We have strengthened our compliance framework to avoid recurrence of delays. For Provident Fund (PF), returns and payment of dues are now initiated well in advance of the due date to mitigate risks arising from portal-related technical glitches or other external factors. For Goods and Services Tax (GST), responsibility has been assigned to our finance team to conduct internal reviews and ensure timely filing.

20. Our insurance coverage may not be adequate to protect us against all potential losses, which could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Our operations are subject to various risks, including work-related accidents, fire, theft, earthquakes, floods, acts of terrorism and other force majeure events. Accordingly, we maintain insurance policies covering our manufacturing facilities, offices, buildings, plant and machinery, furniture, fixtures and fittings, and inventories against fire and other perils, as well as public liability insurance. We also maintain marine cargo insurance to cover consignments shipped by sea and the inland movement of cargo by road or rail. In addition, we have obtained group Mediclaim insurance for our employees and insurance coverage for our vehicles.

The following table sets forth details of our insurance coverage as on June 30, 2026:

We cannot assure you that any claim under the insurance policies maintained by us will be honoured fully, in part, or on time, or that we have taken out sufficient insurance to cover all our losses. The table below sets forth details of the insurance amount claimed and insurance amount received for the periods/years indicated:

However, there may be losses, risks or liabilities that we have not insured against or for which our insurance coverage may be inadequate. There can be no assurance that the insurance premiums payable by us will continue to be commercially viable or justifiable. Our insurance policies are subject to standard exclusions, deductibles, limitations on the duration of coverage and caps on the amounts that may be claimed. Accordingly, insurance may not cover all losses incurred by us, including losses arising from third-party claims not covered by insurance, claims exceeding policy limits, economic or consequential losses, or claims expressly excluded under the relevant policies.

If we incur a significant uninsured loss or a loss that exceeds the limits of our insurance coverage, we may be required to make substantial payments, which could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. There can be no assurance that any claims made by us will be honoured fully or settled in a timely manner. In addition, we may not be able to renew our insurance policies upon their expiration on commercially acceptable terms or at all.

While we have not experienced any instance for the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and during the last three Fiscal years where losses exceeded our insurance coverage, there can be no assurance that such events will not occur in the future. Any failure to obtain or maintain adequate insurance coverage, or losses arising from events not covered or insufficiently covered under our insurance policies, could materially and adversely affect our business, financial condition, cash flows and results of operations. For details, see "Our Business – Insurance" on page 269.

While our Company has undertaken corrective actions to avoid any such delays in payments in the future, we cannot assure you that no such delays will occur in the future, and it may have a material impact on our financials or results of operations.

21. Some of our manufacturing facilities and offices are located on leasehold land or premises taken on a leave and licence basis from third parties including our Promoters and Promoter Group members. Any failure to comply with the terms of such arrangements, or our inability to renew or extend these arrangements on acceptable terms, could adversely affect our business and operations.

Certain of the premises where our manufacturing facilities and other offices are located are held on leasehold land or are taken on a leave and licence basis. Our continued occupancy of these premises is subject to compliance with the terms and conditions of the respective lease or leave and licence agreements. Any non-compliance with such terms could result in termination of these arrangements, which may disrupt our operations and adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

@This property is not operational as a manufacturing facility.

We may not be able to renew or extend these lease or leave and licence agreements upon expiry of their respective terms on commercially reasonable terms, or at all. In such an event, we may be required to relocate the affected operations, which could lead to operational disruptions, relocation costs and delays, and may adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. Further, we may not be able to identify or secure suitable alternative premises on acceptable terms, particularly as our business grows or where such agreements approach their expiry. Even where renewals or extensions are available, rental payments may increase due to market demand for leased properties. In certain cases, lock-in provisions under such agreements may limit our ability to exit the premises. In addition, any disputes relating to such properties or unanticipated increases in regulatory costs, including stamp duty, municipal taxes or other local levies and charges, could adversely affect our ability to sustain or expand our operations.

While there have been no instances of material breach of lease or leave and licence agreements or related disputes during the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and for the Fiscal 2026, Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024 that adversely affected our financial results, there can be no assurance that such issues will not arise in the future.

22. Our Company's logo is not registered as on date of this Prospectus. However, application for registration of our trademark has been filed. We may be unable to adequately protect our intellectual property and/ or be subject to claims alleging breach of third-party intellectual property rights

We believe that our trademark plays a significant role in the success of our business and sustaining customer loyalty. As on the date of this Prospectus, the details of the registered trademarks by our Company and application for registration of trademark filed by our Company are as follows:

For details, see "Our Business – Intellectual Property" and "Government and other Approvals" on pages 238 and 470, respectively.

The legal framework governing intellectual property rights in India is evolving and subject to interpretation, which may create uncertainty and expose us to risks. Any failure to obtain, maintain, renew or enforce registration of our intellectual property, including trademarks, may adversely affect our ability to use and protect such intellectual property in the future. Further, if we are unable to successfully register any intellectual property, including due to our inability to overcome objections raised in connection with trademark applications, or if any of our unregistered trademarks are registered in favour of, or used by, third parties in India or abroad, we may not be able to establish or enforce ownership rights or seek remedies for infringement. Any unauthorised use or infringement of our intellectual property by third parties could adversely affect our business prospects, reputation, goodwill, current and future revenues.

Although we endeavour to comply with the intellectual property rights of third parties, we may be exposed to claims or proceedings alleging infringement or related violations in India or abroad. If such claims are made or adjudicated against us, we may be required to cease the use of the relevant intellectual property, adopt alternative non-infringing trademarks or settle such claims, which could be costly, time-consuming and disruptive to our operations. While we have not been subject to any intellectual property claims during the three months period ended June 30, 2026, and the last three Fiscals, there can be no assurance that such claims will not arise in the future. Any such event could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

23. Obsolescence, breakdown, or failure to maintain our equipment could adversely affect our business, financial condition, cash flows, and results of operations.

Our manufacturing operations are dependent on the seamless and continuous functioning of our machinery and equipment. Over time, such equipment may become obsolete due to technological advancements, changes in industry standards, or normal wear and tear. Any failure to timely upgrade, replace, or modernize our equipment, or to adopt advanced technologies, may result in reduced operational efficiency, increased operating costs, and deterioration in product quality.

In order to ensure that our processed steel products comply with applicable industry standards and customer specifications, we have installed various testing machines and equipment at our facilities, including the following:

Type of testing equipment/machine	Method and purpose
Vickers hardness tester	Measures the hardness of steel by pressing a diamond-shaped indenter into the surface and assessing the size of the resulting impression, indicating the material's strength and suitability for intended use.
Rockwell hardness tester	Determines steel hardness by measuring the depth of penetration of a small indenter under load, indicating the strength and hardness of the material.
Cross hatch tester	Evaluates the adhesion of coatings or paint on steel by cutting a grid pattern and assessing whether the coating adheres or peels off.
Pencil hardness tester	Measures the surface hardness and scratch resistance of coatings applied on steel using pencils of varying hardness.
Cupping test machine	Assesses the formability and ductility of metal sheets by pressing a ball-shaped tool into the sheet until cracking occurs.
Impact test machine	Tests the toughness of steel by measuring the amount of energy absorbed when the material is struck by a pendulum, indicating resistance to sudden impact.
T-bend tester	Evaluates the flexibility and crack resistance of coatings when steel sheets are bent around a specified radius.
Methyl Ethyl Ketone (MEK) testing machine	Tests the chemical resistance and durability of coatings by repeatedly rubbing a cloth soaked in MEK until signs of coating degradation appear.

Despite the installation of such machinery and testing equipment, inadequate maintenance, delayed repairs, obsolescence, or unforeseen breakdowns may result in unplanned production stoppages, increased repair or replacement costs, and delays in fulfilling customer orders. Such disruptions could adversely affect our production schedules, customer relationships, and overall operational efficiency. While we have not experienced any such event during the three-months period ended June 30, 2026 and in the last three Fiscals March 31, 2026, March 31, 2025 and March 31, 2024.

Further, prolonged downtime or recurring equipment failures may divert management attention, strain operational resources, and adversely impact our reputation. Individually or collectively, any of the foregoing risks could have a material adverse effect on our business, cash flows, financial condition, and results of operations.

24. Information relating to the installed capacity, utilised capacity and capacity utilisation of our manufacturing facilities included in this Prospectus is based on assumptions and estimates, and actual production and capacity utilisation may vary.

The information relating to the installed capacity, utilised capacity, and percentage of capacity utilisation of our steel processing products disclosed in this Prospectus is based on certain assumptions and estimates made by our management, which have been considered by the independent chartered engineer, M/s. S. Ganesan (Registration No. M100949/9), while determining such capacity. These assumptions include standard industry practices for capacity determination and the capacity of ancillary equipment installed at our manufacturing facilities. The determination of installed capacity and the corresponding computation of capacity utilisation are, inter alia, based on the assumptions of 365 working days in a year and operations being carried out in two shifts per day of 12 hours each. However, out of our four manufacturing facilities, one facility, namely the Sri City facility in Andhra Pradesh, currently operates in a single shift of approximately 8 to 12 hours per day. Consequently, the actual utilised capacity and the percentage of capacity utilisation at such facility may differ from the capacity levels computed based on the aforesaid assumptions.

Accordingly, actual production levels, utilised capacity and capacity utilisation across our manufacturing facilities may vary materially from the installed capacity, utilised capacity and capacity utilisation figures disclosed in this Prospectus. Investors should not place undue reliance on such capacity information or historical capacity utilisation data. For further details, see "Our Business – Installed Capacity and Capacity Utilization" on page 260.

25. We rely on third-party transport service providers for the transportation of our products to customers. Our freight and handling expenses were ₹64.86 million for the three months period ended June 30, 2026, and ₹170.83 million, ₹156.24 million and ₹118.84 million for Fiscal 2026, Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, respectively, representing between 1.72%, 1.39%, 1.53% and 1.61% of our total expenses during such periods respectively. Any failure by, disruption in operations of, or loss of our third-party transport service providers could result in delays in delivery and increased transportation costs, which may adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

We rely on third parties for the transportation services for the timely delivery of our products to our customers. Any disruption in the services of such third-party transport providers, including due to transportation strikes, vehicle breakdowns or logistical failures, could adversely affect the timely movement of raw materials and delivery of finished products. Such disruptions may impair our ability to meet customer delivery schedules and could result in increased costs and operational inefficiencies, which may materially and adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. Although we did not experience any significant disruptions arising from third-party transportation or logistics services during the three months period ended June 30, 2026, and the last three Fiscals, there can be no assurance that similar disruptions will not occur in the future.

The following table sets forth the freight and handling expense incurred, as a percentage of our total expenses and revenue from operations in the periods/years indicated:

(₹ in million, except for percentages)

	June 30, 2026	March 31, 2026	March 31, 2025	March 31, 2024
Freight and handling expense	64.86	170.83	156.24	118.84
Freight and handling expense as a percentage of total expenses	1.72%	1.39%	1.53%	1.61%

We are also exposed to the risk of increases in freight costs. If we are unable to offset such increases through higher product prices, to our customers, our operating margins may be adversely affected. In addition, we face risks relating to theft, accidents and loss of processed steel products during transit. While we maintain insurance coverage for such risks, there can be no assurance that such coverage will be adequate to cover all potential losses. Although there were no material instances of theft, accidents or uninsured losses, or transportation strikes during the three month period ended June 30, 2026 and in the Fiscal 2026, Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, we cannot assure you that such incidents will not occur in the future. Any such events could result in liability claims or financial losses, which may adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

26. We are subject to counterparty credit risk and any delay in receiving payments, or non-receipt of payments, from our customers could have an adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Our operations involve extending credit to our customers in respect of sale of our process steel products and consequently, we face the risk of uncertainty regarding the receipt of such outstanding amounts. Any delay or default in customers' payment obligations towards us could lead to an increase in our receivables.

The table below sets forth details of our trade receivable days, our trade receivables and trade receivable turnover ratio as of and for the periods/years indicated:

	June 30, 2026	March 31, 2026	March 31, 2025	March 31, 2024
Trade receivable days*	34	38	42	45
Trade receivables (₹ in million)	1,654.10	1,289.22	1,367.29	1,061.51
Trade receivables turnover ratio^	2.70	9.54	8.69	8.10

For Fiscal 2026, 2025, 2024, Trade receivables days are calculated as average trade receivables divided by revenue from operations multiplied by 365 days and for the period ended June 30, 2026, Trade receivables days are calculated as average trade receivables divided by revenue from operations multiplied by 91 days.*

^ Trade receivable turnover ratio is calculated as revenue from operations divided by average trade receivables.

	June 30, 2026	March 31, 2026	March 31, 2025	March 31, 2024
Impairment Allowances (₹ in million)	--	--	--	--
Impairment Allowances as a percentage of revenue from operations (in %)	--	--	--	--

Bad debt written off (₹ in million)	--	--	--	--

Any increase in our receivable turnover days in the future will negatively affect our business, results of operations and financial condition. If we are unable to collect customer receivables or if the provisions for doubtful receivables are inadequate, it could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition. As we are subject to the credit risks of our customers and our liquidity and cash position are dependent on the timely settlement of payments by our customers, we cannot assure you that our customers will pay us on time and that they will be able to fulfil their payment obligations.

Further, macroeconomic conditions could also result in financial difficulties, including insolvency or bankruptcy, for our major customers, and as a result could cause customers to delay payments to us, request modifications to their payment terms or arrangements, that could increase our receivables or affect our working capital requirements, or default on their payment obligations to us. However, we have not faced any such material instances during the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and for the Fiscals 2026, 2025 or 2024. Any prolonged receivables settlement or increase in bad debts or in defaults by our customers may compel us to utilize greater amounts of our operating working capital and result in increased interest costs, thereby adversely affecting our liquidity position, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

27. We have power and fuel requirements, and our power and fuel charges amounted to ₹3.98 million for the three months period ended June 30, 2026, and ₹29.05, ₹28.64 million and ₹24.89 million for Fiscal 2026, Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, respectively; any disruption to power or fuel sources could increase our production costs and adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

We require power and fuel for our operations. The following table sets forth below our power and fuel expenses in the periods/years indicated.

	June 30, 2026	March 31, 2026	March 31, 2025	March 31, 2024
Power and fuel charges	3.98	29.05	28.64	24.89
Power and fuel charges as a percentage of total expenses	0.11%	0.24%	0.28%	0.34%

We procure electricity for our operations from state electricity boards. Any significant increase in the cost of electricity, if we are unable to pass on such increase to our customers, could adversely affect our cost of production and profitability. Interruptions or disruptions in the supply of electricity may result in production shutdowns, increased costs associated with restarting operations and loss of production in progress. Further, any sustained increase in power tariffs or frequent supply interruptions may require us to install captive power generation capacity, resulting in incremental capital expenditure, which could adversely impact our results of operations. If energy costs were to rise, or if electricity supplies or supply arrangements were disrupted, our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows may be adversely affected. While there has been no instance of interruption in electricity supply or any operational shutdown during the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and in the last three Fiscals, there can be no assurance that such instances will not arise in the future.

28. We are required to comply with precise technical specifications, quality standards and performance requirements prescribed by our customers. Any failure to meet such specifications or standards could result in cancellation of orders, rejection or return of our Processed Steel Products, loss of customers and damage to our reputation, which could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

We operate as a multi-location steel processing centre catering to customised steel requirements of customers in the Home & Commercial Appliances sector and the General Engineering sector. Our customers, including leading OEMs and ODMs such as Haier Appliances India Private Limited, IFB Refrigeration Limited, Dixon Electro Manufacturing Private Limited, Amber Enterprises India Limited, Western Refrigeration Private Limited, PG Technoplast Private Limited, EPack Durable Limited, Kruger Ventilation Industries (India) Private Limited, Elegant Coatings Private Limited, Magnum MI Steel Private Limited, typically prescribe specific requirements relating to the source of Steel Coils as well as technical, dimensional and aesthetic specifications of the Processed Steel Products. Adherence to these parameters is critical to our operations. Any defects in the Steel Coils processed by us, failure to meet customer specifications or deviations from prescribed quality standards may result in order cancellations, product rejections or returns. Such events could require us to replace rejected products at our own cost, which may not be recoverable from customers, and may adversely impact our goodwill, customer relationships and financial performance. Repeated quality lapses may further result in loss of customers and negatively affect our business prospects.

Certain customers conduct vendor qualification reviews, technical audits and quality inspections, either directly or through appointed consultants, prior to and during the course of business. We are required to consistently meet customer-specific validation standards for our Processed Steel Products. While we have not experienced any order cancellations, product recalls or material quality-related issues during the three months period ended June 30, 2026, the three months period ended June 30, 2026, or in the last three Fiscals, there can be no assurance that such instances will not arise in the future. Any failure to comply with evolving customer specifications, regulatory requirements or quality standards may disrupt our ability to supply products, lead to cancellation of existing or future orders, require us to incur costs for repair or replacement of defective products, expose us to liquidated damages, invocation of performance bank guarantees, security deposits, indemnity or liability claims, or result in product recalls. Such events could have a material adverse effect on our business, reputation, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Further, supply of products contrary to specifications may expose us to litigation initiated by customers. In addition, we may be subject to warranty or product liability claims by customers or third parties in the event that the use of our products results in personal injury or property damage. Although we maintain quality control processes and have not faced any such claims or recalls during the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and the last three Fiscals, we cannot assure you that we will continue to meet all specifications or that such claims will not arise in the future. Any occurrence of the foregoing risks could adversely affect our sales, brand, business prospects, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

29. As on June 30, 2026, our Company had outstanding dues aggregating to ₹859.66 million. We have outstanding dues payable to our creditors, and any failure or delay in payment of such dues may adversely affect our reputation, business and financial condition.

As of June 30, 2026, our Company had outstanding dues aggregating to ₹859.66 million payable to 237 creditors, as set out below.

Type of creditor	Number of creditors	Amount involved *(₹ in million)
Micro, small and medium enterprises	76	79.50
Material Creditors	3	701.40
Other Creditors	158	78.76
Total	237	859.66

We are required to make payments to our creditors in accordance with the terms and conditions stipulated under the relevant agreements or purchase orders. Any failure or delay in making such payments may result in our creditors discontinuing the supply of materials or disassociating their business relationship with us. Further, delays or defaults in payment may also lead to creditors initiating legal proceedings against us. While no legal proceedings have been initiated against us in the past on account of delay or failure in payment of dues, we cannot assure you that such instances will not occur in the future. Any such failure or delay may have a material adverse effect on our reputation, business and financial condition.

30. We require various statutory and regulatory permits and approvals in the ordinary course of our business, and our failure to obtain, renew or maintain them in a timely manner may adversely affect our operations.

We are required to obtain certain approvals, registrations, permissions and licenses under various regulations, guidelines, circulars and statutes regulated by authorities such as the Government of India, state governments and certain other regulatory and government authorities, for operating our business such as consent to operate, registration and license to work a factory, amongst others, all of which are required to undertake our operations. For further information on the nature of approvals and licenses required for our business and for information on the material approvals applied for, see "Government and Other Approvals" on page 470. A majority of these approvals, including the consent to operate under environmental laws, are granted for a limited duration and require renewal from time to time. These approvals, licenses, registrations and permissions may be subject to numerous conditions. In addition, we have and may need to in the future apply for certain additional approvals as required for our business. We cannot assure you that such approvals and licenses will be granted or renewed in a timely manner or at all by the relevant governmental or regulatory authorities. If we fail to obtain some or all of these approvals or licenses, or renewals thereof, in a timely manner or at all, or if we fail to comply with applicable conditions or it is claimed that we have breached any such conditions, our license or permission for carrying on a particular activity may be suspended or cancelled and we may not be able to carry on such activity, which could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. While there has been no instance where we failed to obtain regulatory approvals, or where our license was suspended or cancelled by any regulatory authority, during the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and in the last three Fiscals which had an adverse impact on our operations, we cannot assure you that such instances will not arise in the future.

31. We have not obtained any credit ratings for our borrowing facilities, and any adverse credit rating or inability to obtain a credit rating in the future may adversely affect our access to financing and the terms on which such financing is available.

We have not obtained any credit rating from any credit rating agency in respect of our borrowing facilities during the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and for Fiscal 2026, Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024. Accordingly, our existing borrowing facilities are currently unrated. Credit ratings, where obtained, reflect the rating agency's assessment of various factors, including management quality, track record, customer diversification, scale of operations, profitability, medium-term revenue visibility and operating cycle. If we obtain credit ratings in the future, any adverse rating, downgrade, delay in obtaining a rating, non-availability of a rating or receipt of a low credit rating could increase our borrowing costs and may entitle lenders to review or modify the terms of the facilities availed by us under our financing arrangements. Such developments could adversely affect our ability to access the capital and debt markets and, in turn, have an adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

32. We face competition from domestic steel processing companies as well as steel producers that operate steel processing units, and any inability on our part to compete effectively may have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

We operate in a highly competitive environment in India and overseas. Competition in our industry is based on several factors, including product quality and reliability, breadth of processed steel product offerings, innovation and technology, manufacturing capabilities, scope and quality of service, pricing and brand recognition. We face competition from both domestic and global players for retaining existing customers as well as for acquiring new business. Some of our competitors may have certain advantages over us, including greater financial, technical and/or marketing resources, which may enable them to finance acquisitions, fund international expansion, respond more quickly to technological changes, or operate across more diversified geographies and product portfolios. Our peers include BMW Industries Limited, Manaksia Coated Metals & Industries Limited and Shiv Aum Steels Limited (Source: CareEdge Report). For further information on financial benchmarking, see "Industry Overview – Peer Comparison" on page 142.

Increased competition may result in pricing pressure, reduced margins and a loss of market share, any of which could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. Certain competitors may also be able to manufacture similar or substitute products at lower costs than us, which may require us to reduce prices in order to remain competitive. Such pricing pressures could adversely impact our profitability and operating margins. Further, manufacturers that do not currently compete with us may expand their product offerings to include products that directly compete with ours. In addition, changes in the product focus of larger manufacturers, particularly those that have existing relationships with our customers, could result in a reduction or complete loss of business from such customers. Any inability to effectively compete in our industry could materially adversely affect our business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows.

33. Peer companies presented for comparison may not be fully comparable with our Company due to differences in scale, business model, geographical presence, and other factors. Accordingly, investors should not base their investment decisions solely on peer comparison.

The peer companies presented in this Prospectus are included solely for the purpose of broad industry comparison. However, such peer companies may not be fully comparable with our Company due to significant differences in various aspects such as scale of operations, business model, geographical presence, customer base, financial performance, product/service offerings, and other business dynamics. Accordingly, any comparison with such peers may not provide an accurate or complete basis for evaluating our Company or its performance. Investors are advised not to rely solely on peer comparison when making investment decisions and should independently evaluate our Company's financial condition, business model, and prospects before making any investment in the Equity Shares issued through this Issue.

34. We are in the process of expanding our existing Ghiloth Facility and may also seek to expand our operations into new geographic regions. Any delays in obtaining approvals, inability to arrange financing, or challenges associated with such expansions could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

We currently operate a manufacturing facility at Ghiloth, Rajasthan, and have observed higher utilisation of our overall installed capacity during the second half of the financial year (i.e., from December to June) as compared to the full-year average. To address this trend and support incremental demand during peak operating periods, we propose to expand our existing Ghiloth Facility by installing one additional cut-to-length line. In connection with this proposed expansion, our Company has acquired an additional parcel of land admeasuring 11,250 square metres at Plot No. SP7-355, RIICO Industrial Area, Ghiloth, District Alwar, Rajasthan, India, adjoining our existing facility, pursuant to a sale deed dated September 29, 2025, for an aggregate consideration of ₹116.87 million, which has been funded through internal accruals and/or borrowings.

The construction of a new building and installation of additional processing lines at the expanded Ghiloth Facility are subject to multiple governmental approvals and compliance requirements, including project approvals and filings, civil construction and project planning approvals, environmental approvals, factory and labour licences, workplace safety approvals, fire safety approvals, and inspections and acceptance by relevant authorities. While we intend to apply for all requisite licences and approvals following the execution of the sale agreement and the lease agreement to be entered into with RIICO, there can be no assurance that such approvals will be obtained in a timely manner, or at all. Any delays in obtaining approvals, changes in applicable regulations, cost overruns or execution delays could adversely affect the implementation of our expansion plans and our results of operations. For further details, see "Our Business – Our Strategies" beginning on page 238.

In addition to expanding our existing Ghiloth Facility, we may seek to expand our operations into new cities or geographic regions. Such expansion may expose us to challenges including unfamiliarity with local laws, regulations, governmental authorities, economic conditions, customer preferences and labour markets, difficulties in staffing and managing operations, supply chain constraints, limited brand recognition, increased competition from established players, delays in obtaining regulatory approvals and licences, and lower-than-expected demand for our products in such markets. Expansion into new geographic regions, particularly outside India, may also subject us to additional risks, including compliance with diverse legal and regulatory frameworks, uncertainties in interpretation and enforcement of laws, foreign ownership restrictions, fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates, differing accounting standards, labour and tax regulations, customs and tariffs, and political, economic or social instability. We may also face difficulties in enforcing contractual or legal rights in such jurisdictions.

If we are unable to effectively manage the risks associated with the expansion of our existing facilities or entry into new geographic markets, our business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows could be materially adversely affected.

35. Our operations are labour intensive and depend significantly on the availability of skilled and contract labour. Any shortage of labour, increase in labour costs, labour unrest or adverse regulatory action could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Our business operates in a labour-intensive industry, and the efficient functioning of our steel processing operations depends on the continued availability of skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled labour, including contract labour. As of June 30, 2026, we had 160 full-time employees and 4 retainership employees and 310 contract labourers. We are significantly dependent on technically skilled personnel for timely and quality-oriented processing of steel products. Any disruption in the availability of such workforce, including during peak operating periods, particularly considering the seasonality of our business, could adversely affect our operations. The table below sets forth details of our expenses towards contract labourers for the periods/years indicated:

	June 30, 2026	March 31, 2026	March 31, 2025	March 31, 2024
Expenses towards contract labourer	23.35	87.03	78.96	48.11
Expenses towards contract labourer as a percentage of total expenses (%)	0.62%	0.71%	0.77%	0.65%

We engage contract labour and also appoint independent contractors who, in turn, engage on-site contract labourers for certain operational and ancillary activities. Our dependence on contract labour exposes us to risks relating to availability, technical capability, retention and cost of such labour. There can be no assurance that we will be able to continue to access adequate skilled and unskilled labour at commercially reasonable costs. Any increase in labour or contractual labour costs, non-availability of labour, or inability to manage workforce composition effectively could adversely affect our business and profitability. Although we do not directly employ labourers engaged by independent contractors, under applicable Indian labour laws, including the Contract Labour (Regulation and Abolition) Act, 1970, we may be held responsible for payment of wages in the event of default by such contractors.

We are subject to extensive labour and employment laws and regulations relating to minimum wages, working hours, overtime, working conditions, safety, hiring and termination practices and contract labour. Compliance with these regulations involves significant costs and administrative efforts, and such laws may become more stringent in the future.

Any non-compliance, whether due to inadvertent lapses or factors beyond our control, may result in penalties, operational disruptions or adverse regulatory actions.

Any disruption to our workforce due to strikes, work stoppages, labour unrest, increased wage demands or disputes with employees or contract labourers could result in slowdowns or temporary suspension of operations and could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. While we have not experienced any labour-related disruptions that adversely affected our operations during the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and the last three Fiscals, there can be no assurance that such events will not occur in the future. For further details, see "Key Regulations and Policies in India" on page 273.

36. We are subject to environmental, health and safety laws and regulations, and any failure to comply with such laws or to obtain, renew or maintain the required statutory permits and approvals could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Our Manufacturing Facilities are subject to various environmental, health and safety laws and regulations, including those relating to pollution control, workplace safety, handling, storage and disposal of materials, and maintenance of statutory approvals. These laws and regulations are subject to change and may be enforced with increasing stringency by the relevant authorities. Our steel processing operations involve inherent environmental, health and safety risks. Any non-compliance with applicable laws or failure to obtain, renew or maintain the requisite consents, licenses, permits or approvals may result in regulatory actions, including the imposition of fines and penalties, suspension or revocation of approvals, restrictions on operations or closure of one or more of our Manufacturing Facilities. In certain circumstances, regulatory authorities may also require us to undertake remedial measures or capital expenditure to ensure compliance, which could increase our operating costs.

Further, changes in environmental, health and safety regulations, or in their interpretation or enforcement, may require us to modify our operations or incur additional costs to remain compliant. Although we did not experience any such event during the three months period ended June 30, 2026, or in the last three Fiscals, there can be no assurance that we will be able to obtain or renew all necessary statutory approvals in a timely manner or at all, or that compliance costs will not increase in the future. Any failure to comply with applicable environmental, health and safety laws or to maintain the required statutory approvals could materially and adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. For further details, see "Key Regulations and Policies" on page 273.

37. Our Company has in the past entered into related party transactions with our Promoters, Directors and Promoter Group members/ entities and may continue to do so in the future. There can be no assurance that such transactions, individually or in the aggregate, will not have an adverse effect on our financial condition and results of operations.

We have entered into transactions with related parties in the past and from, time to time, we may enter into related party transactions in the future. All such transactions have been conducted on an arm's length basis, in accordance with the Companies Act and other applicable regulations pertaining to the evaluation and approval of such transactions and all related party transactions that we may enter into post-listing, will be subject to Board or Shareholder approval, as necessary under the Companies Act, the SEBI Listing Regulations and other application laws. Any future related party transactions may potentially involve conflicts of interest, which may be detrimental to us and against the interest of investors. In addition, we cannot assure you that relevant shareholders' approval will be received for all material related party transactions and, accordingly, certain transactions which may be favourable to us may not be executed.

The percentage of the related party transactions to our revenue from operations for the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and for the financial years ended March 31, 2026, March 31, 2025 and March 31, 2024 as follows:

	June 30, 2026	March 31, 2026	March 31, 2025	March 31, 2024
Revenue from Operations	3,970.80	12,668.18	10,557.07	7,552.59
Related Party Transactions	37.28	329.37	331.40	132.66
Percentage (%)	0.94%	2.60%	3.14%	1.76%

For further information, see "Restated Financial Information – Note 40 – Related Party Disclosures" on page 311.

38. We have certain capital commitments, and any failure to meet such commitments or the occurrence of future contingent liabilities could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

As on June 30, 2026, our Company did not have any contingent liabilities required to be disclosed under Ind AS 37 – Provisions, Contingent Liabilities and Contingent Assets. However, we had commitments in respect of estimated amounts of contracts remaining to be executed on capital account and not provided for, aggregating to ₹98.31 million as on June 30, 2026. For further details, see "Restated Financial Information – Note 35 – Commitments and Contingent Liabilities" on page 311.

These commitments entail future cash outflows and are subject to risks such as delays in execution, cost escalations, changes in scope, liquidity constraints or adverse economic and business conditions. Any inability to meet such commitments in a timely manner, or any increase in the cost of fulfilling such commitments, could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. Further, although we do not have any contingent liabilities as of June 30, 2026, we may be exposed to contingent liabilities in the future arising from legal proceedings, tax matters, regulatory actions, contractual disputes or other unforeseen events. There can be no assurance that such contingent liabilities will not arise or that they will not result in material cash outflows or provisions. Any such occurrence could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

39. As on August 31, 2026, our Company has availed unsecured loans amounting to ₹ 204.07 million that are repayable on demand and may be recalled by the lenders including our Promoters and members of our Promoter Group at any time, which could adversely affect our liquidity, business and financial condition.

As of August 31, 2026, our Company had availed unsecured loans aggregating to ₹ 204.07 million, which are repayable on demand and may be recalled by the lenders at any time. Such unsecured loans constituted approximately 6.75% of the total indebtedness of our Company. Out of the total unsecured loans, ₹ 195.07 million has been availed from our Promoters and members of the Promoter Group and is also repayable on demand. For further details, see "Financial Indebtedness" beginning on page 462. As of the date of this Prospectus, none of the aforesaid loan arrangements has been terminated, nor has repayment been demanded by the lenders. However, there can be no assurance that such unsecured loans will not be recalled, in whole or in part, at any time.

The number of unsecured borrowings for August 31, 2026 and for the three months period ended June 30, 2026, for the last three Fiscal Years, i.e., Fiscal 2026, Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, along with the percentage of unsecured borrowings to total indebtedness, is set forth below:

(₹ in million except for percentages)

	August 31, 2026	June 30, 2026	March 31, 2026	March 31, 2025	March 31, 2024

One of the objects of the Issue is repayment/pre-payment, in full or in part, of certain borrowings availed by our Company. However, the Net Proceeds will not be used to repay/ pre-pay, in full or in part, the unsecured loans availed by our Company from any of our Promoters or Promoter Group members. For further information on the proposed objects of the Issue, see "Objects of the Issue" beginning on page 115.

If any of these unsecured loans are recalled, we may be required to arrange alternative sources of financing at short notice, which may not be available on commercially reasonable terms or at all. In such circumstances, we may be compelled to utilize internal accruals, curtail our working capital requirements or incur additional indebtedness, which may carry higher interest rates or more restrictive covenants. Any recall of such loans or refinancing on adverse terms could materially and adversely affect our cash flows, results of operations and financial condition. Further, any failure to service such indebtedness or comply with obligations under such financing arrangements could result in acceleration of payments under such credit facilities, which may further adversely affect our business and financial condition. For further details please see, "Restated Financial Information – Note – 17.1 & 20.1 - Borrowings" on page 311.

40. Our Promoters, Nitin Vijaykumar Gupta, Vijaykumar Himatrai Gupta and Bhawna Nitin Gupta, have provided personal guarantees for loan facilities obtained by us, and any failure or default by us to repay such loans could trigger repayment obligations on our Promoters, which may impact our Promoters' ability to effectively service his obligations as our Promoter and thereby, adversely impact our business, results of operations, financial conditions and cash flows.

Our Promoters, Nitin Vijaykumar Gupta, Vijaykumar Himatrai Gupta and Bhawna Nitin Gupta, have provided personal guarantees to secure a portion of our existing borrowings, and may be required to continue to provide such guarantees and other security after the listing of our Equity Shares. As on August 31, 2026, ₹ 3,024.28 million of our borrowings are backed by personal guarantees provided by our Promoters. For further details, please see "Financial Indebtedness" on page 462. Any default or failure by us to repay our loans in a timely manner, or at all, could trigger repayment obligations on the part of our Promoters in respect of such loans. This, in turn, could have an impact on their ability to effectively perform their responsibilities and obligations as the Promoters of our Company, thereby having an adverse effect on our business, results of operation and financial condition. Further, in the event that our Promoter withdraws or terminates the guarantees, our lenders for such facilities may ask for alternate guarantees, repayment of amounts outstanding under such facilities, or even terminate such facilities. We may not be successful in procuring guarantees satisfactory to the lenders, and as a result may need to repay outstanding amounts under such facilities or seek additional sources of capital, which could affect our business, results of operations, financial conditions and cash flows.

41. Our Promoters may have interests other than reimbursement of expenses incurred and remuneration or benefits, which may result in a conflict of interest.

Our Promoters, who are also part of our Board of Directors, have interests in our Company beyond regular remuneration, benefits and reimbursement of expenses. Such interests include their respective shareholding in our Company and entitlement to dividends or other distributions thereon. For details of payments made by our Company to related parties, including remuneration paid to our Directors and Key Managerial Personnel, see "Summary of Related Party Transactions" on page 88 and "Our Promoter and Promoter Group – Interests of our Promoters" on page 306. Further, by virtue of their shareholding and board representation, our Promoters are in a position to exercise significant influence over matters requiring shareholder approval. We cannot assure you that our Promoters will exercise their rights in a manner that is aligned with the interests of our Company or the interests of minority shareholders. Accordingly, our Promoters may take or block certain actions relating to our business, operations or corporate matters that may conflict with the interests of minority shareholders. Any such conflict of interest could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and the market price of our Equity Shares.

42. Our Promoters and member of Promoter Group will continue to retain significant control in our Company after the Issue which will allow them to influence the outcome of matters submitted to shareholders for approval. Such a concentration of ownership may also have the effect of delaying, preventing or deterring a change in control.

As on the date of this Prospectus, our Promoters and members of the Promoter Group collectively hold 97.78% of the paid-up equity share capital of our Company on a fully diluted basis. For further information on their shareholding pre and post-Issue, see "Capital Structure" on page 98. After the completion of the Issue, our Promoters along with the members of Promoter Group will continue to collectively hold significant shareholding in our Company and will continue to exercise significant influence over our business policies and affairs and all matters requiring Shareholders' approval. This concentration of ownership may also delay, defer or even prevent a change in control of our Company and may make some transactions more difficult or impossible without the support of these stockholders. The interests of the Promoters as our controlling shareholders could conflict with our interests or the interests of our other shareholders. We cannot assure you that the Promoters will act to resolve any conflicts of interest in our favour and any such conflict may adversely affect our ability to execute our business strategy or to operate our business. For further information in relation to the interests of our Promoters in the Company, see "Our Promoters and Promoter Group" and "Our Management" on pages 305 and 285 respectively.

43. Certain educational qualification documents of our Independent Directors and our Chief Executive Officer are not traceable, and disclosures in this Prospectus are based on confirmations provided by them.

The degree certificates relating to the educational qualifications of our Independent Director, Mihen Halani, and our Chief Executive Officer, Shashi Mohan Singh Rawat, are not currently traceable. Mihen Halani holds a bachelor's degree in commerce from Mumbai University, and Shashi Mohan Singh Rawat holds a bachelor's degree in science from Kanahiya Lal, D.A.U. College, Roorkee and a master's degree in marketing from Jiwaji University, Gwalior. They have been unable to locate copies of the relevant degree certificates. Requests have been made by them to the respective universities and colleges for issuance of duplicate copies, however, responses from the concerned institutions are awaited. There can be no assurance that such institutions will issue duplicate certificates or respond to such requests within a reasonable time or at all. Accordingly, disclosures relating to the educational qualifications of the aforesaid Independent Director and Chief Executive Officer in this Prospectus have been made based on marksheets and certificates provided by the concerned college provided by them to us and the Book Running Lead Manager. There can be no assurance that the relevant documents will be traced or obtained in the future, and any discrepancy, if identified subsequently, may require appropriate corrective disclosures. For details of the profiles of our Independent Director and our Chief Executive Officer, see "Our Management" on page 285.

44. Most of our Directors do not have prior experience of serving as directors of listed companies, which may affect our ability to comply with the regulatory, governance and disclosure requirements applicable to listed companies and could adversely affect our business and operations.

Except for our Independent Directors, Neelam Tater and Mihen Halani, most of our Directors do not have prior experience of serving as directors of listed companies. For further details, see "Our Management – Board of Directors" on page 285. Consequently, our Directors may have limited experience in dealing with the regulatory, compliance and disclosure requirements applicable to listed entities, including heightened scrutiny by shareholders, regulators and the public. Upon listing, our Company will be subject to increased regulatory oversight and will be required to comply with the SEBI Listing Regulations and other applicable laws, including requirements relating to corporate governance, financial reporting, periodic disclosures and internal controls. Compliance with these requirements will require significant management time and resources and may necessitate changes to our existing systems, processes and controls.

Any failure or delay in complying with applicable listing, disclosure or reporting requirements could result in regulatory actions, penalties, reputational harm and loss of investor confidence. Further, the need for our Board of Directors to devote increased attention to compliance and governance matters may divert their focus from our business operations, which could adversely affect our business, results of operations and financial condition.

45. If we are unable to continue investing in new technologies and upgrading our equipment, our existing technologies and machinery may become obsolete, which could increase our processing costs, reduce operational efficiency and adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Our business is subject to continuous technological advancements affecting steel processing methods, manufacturing processes and product specifications. We strive to enhance our technological capabilities and operational efficiency through modernization and replacement of steel processing lines, improvements in manufacturing methods, material handling, inventory control, quality assurance systems and software integration. Our future profitability and competitive position depend, in part, on our ability to maintain cost-efficient operations and meet customer requirements in terms of quality, volume and specifications. However, if we are unable to keep pace with evolving technologies or fail to upgrade our equipment and processes in line with industry standards and customer expectations, our technologies and machinery may become obsolete, resulting in higher production costs, operational inefficiencies or an inability to meet customer demands.

Further, the adoption of new technologies and upgrading of manufacturing facilities may require significant capital investment and involve risks associated with integrating new processes and developing products tailored to specific customer requirements. Rapid changes in customer expectations or the introduction of alternative technologies or products could reduce demand for our existing offerings. Any failure to effectively adapt to technological changes or to make timely and adequate investments could adversely affect our competitive position and have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

46. Our growth strategy may place significant demands on our management and operational resources, and our inability to effectively execute such strategy could adversely affect our business, results of operations, cash flows and financial condition.

We are pursuing a growth strategy focused on expanding our customer base and increasing our market share in the industries we serve, augmenting our existing steel processing capacity, acquiring capital equipment under our existing lease arrangement with Siemens Financial Services Private Limited ("Siemens"), and improving cost management and operational efficiencies. As part of this strategy, we also propose to expand our Ghiloth Facility to strengthen our operating capabilities and explore growth opportunities within the steel processing industry. For further details, see "Our Business – Our Strategies" and "Objects of the Issue" on pages 248 and 115, respectively.

The implementation of our growth strategy will place significant demands on our management team and our financial, accounting and operational systems. Our ability to successfully expand our business is subject to various risks and uncertainties, including delays and cost overruns arising from factors beyond our control, such as the timely availability of Steel Coils, equipment and technology; challenges in hiring, training and retaining skilled sales, marketing and technical personnel; difficulties in developing and maintaining customer relationships; delays or denial of approvals from government authorities; diversion of management attention and resources; competitive pressures from other steel processing centres; changes in government policies, initiatives, subsidies or schemes; failure by customers or suppliers to meet specifications or timelines; inability to maintain quality standards; shortages of Steel Coils or challenges in sourcing adequate inventory; and failure to effectively execute our expansion plans.

We cannot assure you that our expansion initiatives will result in the planned increase in output capacity or operational efficiencies. If the expenditure incurred in connection with these initiatives does not yield the anticipated benefits, our profitability, cash flows and financial condition may be adversely affected. Further, our ability to sustain growth may be impacted by external factors beyond our control, including reduced demand from customers, increased price competition, limited availability of Steel Coils or a general economic slowdown. The steel processing industry may also be affected by changes in government policies and initiatives, economic conditions, income levels and interest rates, which could adversely affect demand for orders and pricing. Any inability to sustain our growth could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, cash flows and financial condition.

47. The industry related disclosure in this Prospectus has been derived from the CareEdge Report which we have commissioned and purchased and any reliance on such information for making an investment decision in the Issue is subject to inherent risks.

We have availed the services of an independent third-party research agency, CARE Analytics and Advisory Private Ltd, appointed by our Company pursuant to an engagement letter dated January 31, 2025 to prepare an industry report titled "Indian Steel Service Industry" dated September 25, 2026 (the *"CareEdge Report") for purposes of inclusion of such information in this Prospectus to understand the industry in which we operate. For further details, see "Industry Overview" on page 142. The CareEdge Report has been commissioned and paid for by us for the purposes of confirming our understanding of the industry exclusively in connection with the Issue. The report uses certain methodologies for market sizing and forecasting and may include numbers relating to our Company that differ from those we record internally. Given the scope and extent of the CareEdge Report, disclosures herein are limited to certain excerpts, and the CareEdge Report has not been reproduced in its entirety in this Prospectus. CARE Analytics and Advisory Private Ltd is an independent third-party research agency and has no relationship with our Company, Promoters, Directors, Promoter Group, Key Managerial Personnel, Senior Management Personnel or the BRLM as on the date of this Prospectus.

Accordingly, investors should read the industry related disclosure in this Prospectus in this context. Industry sources and publications are also prepared based on information as of specific dates. Industry sources and publications may also base their information on estimates, projections, forecasts, other third-party sources and assumptions that may prove to be incorrect. Due to possibly flawed or ineffective collection methods or discrepancies between published information and market practice and other problems, the statistics herein may be inaccurate or may not be comparable to statistics produced for other economies and should not be unduly relied upon. Furthermore, we cannot assure you that they are stated or compiled on the same basis or with the same degree of accuracy as may be the case elsewhere. Statements from third parties that involve estimates are subject to change, and actual amounts may differ materially from those included in this Prospectus.

The data used in these sources may have been rearranged by us for the purposes of presentation and may also not be comparable. Industry sources and publications may also base their information on estimates, projections, forecasts and assumptions that may prove to be incorrect. Accordingly, investors must rely on their independent examination of, and should not place undue reliance on, or base their investment decision solely on this information. For further details, see "Certain Conventions, Presentation of Financial, Industry and Market Data – Industry and Market Data" on page 25. The recipient should not construe any of the contents in this report as advice relating to business, financial, legal, taxation or investment matters and are advised to consult their own business, financial, legal, taxation, and other advisors concerning the transaction.

48. Any variation in the utilization of the Net Proceeds as disclosed in this Prospectus shall be subject to certain compliance requirements, including prior approval of the shareholders of our Company.

We propose to utilize the Net Proceeds towards a) Repayment/pre-payment, in full or in part, of certain borrowings availed by our Company, b) Financing the cost towards acquisition of capital equipment under existing lease arrangements with Siemens Financial Services Private Limited and c) towards general corporate purposes. For further information on the proposed objects of the Issue, see "Objects of the Issue" beginning on page 115. Further, we cannot determine with any certainty if we would require the Net Proceeds to meet any other expenditure or fund any exigencies arising out of the competitive environment, business conditions, economic conditions or other factors beyond our control. In accordance with the Companies Act, 2013 and the SEBI ICDR Regulations, we cannot undertake variation in the utilization of the Net Proceeds as disclosed in this Prospectus without obtaining the approval of the Shareholders through a special resolution. In the event of any such circumstances that require us to vary the disclosed utilization of the Net Proceeds, we may not be able to obtain the approval of the Shareholders in a timely manner, or at all. Any delay or inability in obtaining such approval of the Shareholders may adversely affect our business or operations.

Further, our Promoters would be required to provide an exit opportunity to the shareholders of our Company who do not agree with our proposal to modify the objects of the Issue, at a price and manner as prescribed by SEBI. Our funding requirements may be subject to change based on various factors such as the timing of completion of the Issue, market conditions outside the control of our Company, and any other business and commercial considerations. This may entail rescheduling and revising the planned expenditure and funding requirement and increasing or decreasing the expenditure for a particular purpose from the planned expenditure as may be determined by our Company and by the Shareholders by way of a special resolution, subject to compliance with applicable law. Our funding requirements are based on current management estimates, current circumstances of our business plan and the prevailing market conditions, which may be subject to change, and the Project Report. The deployment of the Net Proceeds will be at the discretion of our Board. We may have to reconsider our estimates or business plans due to changes in underlying factors, some of which are beyond our control, such as interest rate fluctuations, changes in input cost, and other financial and operational factors. We cannot assure you that we will be able to undertake such capital expenditure within the cost indicated by such quotations or that there will not be cost escalations. Accordingly, investors in the Issue will need to rely upon our management's judgment with respect to the use of the Net Proceeds. If we are unable to deploy the Net Proceeds in a timely or an efficient manner, it may affect our business and results of operations.

Additionally, the requirement on Promoters to provide an exit opportunity to such dissenting shareholders of our Company may deter our Promoters or controlling shareholders from agreeing to the variation of the proposed utilization of the Net Proceeds, even if such variation is in the interest of our Company. Further, we cannot assure you that our Promoters will have adequate resources at their disposal at all times to enable them to provide an exit opportunity. In light of these factors, we may not be able to vary the objects of the Issue to use any unutilized proceeds of the Fresh Issue, if any, even if such variation is in the interest of our Company. This may restrict our ability to respond to any change in our business or financial condition by re-deploying the unutilized portion of Net Proceeds, if any, which may adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

49. Certain non-GAAP financial measures and certain other statistical information relating to our operations and financial performance like Gross Profit, Gross Margin, EBITDA, EBITDA Margin, PAT Margin, Return on Net Worth, Return on Capital Employed, Net Debt to Equity Ratio and Fixed Asset Turnover Ratio have been included in this Prospectus. These non-GAAP financial measures are not measures of operating performance or liquidity defined by Ind AS and may not be comparable.

Certain non-GAAP financial measures, such as EBITDA, EBITDA margin and certain other industry measures relating to our operations and financial performance, such as, net worth, net profit margin, and return on net worth ("Non-GAAP Measures") have been included in this Prospectus. Such Non-GAAP Measures are supplemental measures of our performance and liquidity is not required by, or presented in accordance with, Ind AS, Indian GAAP, IFRS or US GAAP. We compute and disclose such Non-GAAP Measures and such other industry related statistical and operational information relating to our operations and financial performance as we consider such information to be useful measures of our business and financial performance, and because such measures are frequently used by securities analysts, investors and others to evaluate the operational performance of similar businesses, many of which provide such Non-GAAP Measures and other industry related statistical and operational information. Further, these Non-GAAP Measures are not a measurement of our financial performance or liquidity under Ind AS, Indian GAAP, IFRS or US GAAP and should not be considered in isolation or construed as an alternative to cash flows, profit/(loss) for the years/period or any other measure of financial performance or as an indicator of our operating performance, liquidity, profitability or cash flows generated by operating, investing or financing activities derived in accordance with Ind AS, Indian GAAP, IFRS or US GAAP. These Non-GAAP Measures and such other industry related statistical and operational information relating to our operations and financial performance may not be computed on the basis of any standard methodology that is applicable across the industry and therefore may not be comparable to financial and operational measures, and industry related statistical information of similar nomenclature that may be computed and presented by other similar companies. In addition, these Non-GAAP Measures are not standardized terms, hence a direct comparison of these Non-GAAP Measures between companies may not be possible. Other companies may calculate these Non-GAAP Measures differently from us, limiting their usefulness as a comparative measure.

Further, we track certain operating metrics with our internal systems and tools. Our methodologies for tracking these metrics may change over time, which could result in changes to our metrics in the future, including to metrics that we publicly disclose. If our internal systems and tools track our metrics inaccurately in the future, the corresponding data may be inaccurate. This may impair our understanding and evaluation of certain aspects of our business, which could affect our operations and long-term strategies.

Such supplemental financial and operational information is therefore of limited utility as an analytical tool, and investors are cautioned against considering such information either in isolation or as a substitute for an analysis of our Restated Financial Information disclosed elsewhere in this Prospectus. For further information, see "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations – Non-GAAP Measures" on page 407.

50. Any failure, disruption or inadequacy of our information technology systems could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

We have information technology systems that support our business processes, including product development, production, sales and purchase, finance, inventory, and human resource management. We have made, and will continue to make, investments in information technology systems and tools. Such expenditure may adversely affect our operating results if they are not offset by corresponding increase in our operational efficiency. An external information security breach, such as a hacker attack, fraud, a virus or worm malicious software, breakins, phishing attacks, security breaches, or an internal problem with information protection, such as failure to control access to sensitive systems, could materially interrupt our business operations or cause disclosure or modification of sensitive or confidential information unauthorized access to our systems, misappropriation of information or data, deletion or modification of users information, or a denial of service or other interruption to our business operations.

The Government of India has also enacted the Digital Personal Data Protection Act, 2023 and the Digital Personal Data Protection Rules, 2025 ("Data Protection Act"), along with the on personal data protection for implementing organizational and technical measures in processing personal data and lays down norms for cross-border transfer of personal data including ensuring the accountability of entities processing personal data. The Data Protection Act requires companies that collect and deal with high volumes of personal data to fulfil certain additional obligations such as appointment of a data protection officer for grievance redressal and a data auditor to evaluate compliance with the Data Protection Act. We may incur increased costs and other burdens relating to compliance with such new requirements, which may also require significant management time and other resources, and any failure to comply may adversely affect our business, results of operations and prospects.

While there has been no instance during the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and in the last three Fiscals where we experienced technology failure which had an adverse impact on the business operations of our Company, we cannot assure you that such instance will not arise in the future. If we do not allocate and effectively manage the resources necessary to implement and sustain the proper IT infrastructure, we could be subject to transaction errors and processing inefficiencies. Challenges relating to the revamping or implementation of new IT structures can also subject us to certain errors, inefficiencies, disruptions. Our IT systems may also be vulnerable to a variety of interruptions due to events beyond our control, including, but not limited to, natural disasters, terrorist attacks, telecommunications failures, computer viruses, hackers and other security issues.

51. If we are unable to establish and maintain effective internal control measures and a robust compliance system, our business, financial condition and reputation could be adversely affected.

We are responsible for establishing and maintaining internal control measures and compliance systems that are commensurate with the size, nature and complexity of our operations. Our internal audit function evaluates the adequacy and effectiveness of our internal systems on an ongoing basis to ensure that our operations comply with internal policies, applicable laws, regulatory requirements and internal guidelines. Although we have not experienced any failure in maintaining effective internal controls or compliance systems during the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and in the last three Fiscal years, there can be no assurance that such failures will not occur in the future. Our business remains exposed to operational risks arising from potential inadequacies or failures in internal processes or systems, and our controls may not be effective in preventing or detecting all errors, omissions or irregularities in all circumstances.

We take reasonable measures, including periodic testing and updating of internal processes and systems, to maintain appropriate procedures for compliance and disclosure and effective internal controls over financial reporting, with the objective of producing reliable financial statements and preventing financial fraud. In addition, our Company undergoes multiple customer audits annually in the nature of supplier audits, which assess the adequacy of our operational and quality systems, including process controls, quality assurance mechanisms, equipment condition and compliance with customer-specific standards. However, our efforts to strengthen internal controls may not eliminate all risks. Internal controls require ongoing review and are subject to inherent limitations, including lapses in judgment, human error and circumvention. Any failure to identify or remediate weaknesses in our internal controls could impair our ability to manage our business effectively, affect the accuracy of our financial reporting, result in loss of investor confidence and adversely impact the market price of our Equity Shares.

52. We are exposed to operational risks, including cyber-attacks, cyber frauds, fraud, theft and embezzlement, which may adversely affect our reputation, business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Operational risks, including cyber-attacks, cyber fraud, fraud, theft and embezzlement, could adversely affect our business, reputation, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. Our operations are exposed to risks of employee fraud, theft and embezzlement. Although we have implemented internal controls, policies and procedures designed to ensure compliance, disclosure and effective financial reporting, such controls may not be adequate or effective in all circumstances. Any failure of internal controls, human error or lapse in judgment could result in inaccuracies in our financial reporting, loss of investor confidence and a decline in the market price of our Equity Shares.

We are also exposed to risks relating to loss, theft or damage to inventory, including during storage and transit. Inventory losses may arise due to employee misconduct, vendor fraud or administrative errors, which could adversely affect our operating results, margins and cash flows. Further, our business is susceptible to cyber-attacks and cyber fraud, which could disrupt our operations and have a material adverse effect on our business and financial condition. Such incidents may result in unauthorized access to or loss of sensitive data, disruption of critical information systems, reputational damage and potential regulatory or legal action, any of which could adversely impact our results of operations and cash flows. While we have not experienced any cyber-attack, cyber fraud, fraud, theft or employee negligence that had an adverse effect on our business during the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and in the last three Fiscal years, there can be no assurance that such incidents will not occur in the future. Any such occurrence could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

53. The requirements associated with being a publicly listed company may place significant demands on our management and financial resources.

We are not currently a publicly listed company and have not historically been subject to the level of regulatory oversight, public scrutiny and shareholder expectations applicable to listed entities. Following the listing of our Equity Shares, we will be required to comply with the SEBI Listing Regulations and other applicable laws, including requirements relating to periodic disclosures, audited annual financial statements and unaudited quarterly financial results. Compliance with these requirements may result in increased legal, accounting, compliance, corporate governance and other related costs that we have not previously incurred. Any failure or delay in meeting our disclosure and reporting obligations could adversely affect our compliance status and reputation.

Further, as a listed company, we will be required to establish, maintain and enhance effective disclosure controls and procedures and internal control over financial reporting, including the maintenance of detailed and accurate records of our transactions. Ensuring the effectiveness of such controls will require significant management time, attention and financial resources, which may divert management focus from our core business operations. In addition, we may be required to engage or recruit additional personnel with relevant legal, compliance and accounting expertise, and there can be no assurance that such personnel will be available or can be engaged in a timely or cost-effective manner. Any inability to manage these additional compliance and governance requirements could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and prospects.

54. Our Company may not be able to pay dividends in the future. Our ability to pay dividends in the future will depend upon our future earnings, financial condition, profit after tax available for distribution, cash flows, working capital requirements and capital expenditure and the terms of our financing arrangements.

Any dividends to be declared and paid in the future are required to be recommended by our Company's Board of Directors and approved by its Shareholders, at their discretion, subject to the provisions of the Articles of Association and applicable law, including the Companies Act. Our Company's ability to pay dividends in the future will depend upon our future results of operations, financial condition, profit after tax available for distribution, cash flows, sufficient profitability, working capital requirements and capital expenditure requirements. We cannot assure you that we will generate sufficient revenues to cover our operating expenses and, as such, pay dividends to our Company's shareholders in future consistent with our past practices, or at all. Additionally, in the future, we may be restricted by the terms of our financing agreements in making dividend payments unless otherwise agreed with our lenders. We have not declared any dividends on the Equity Shares in the last three Fiscals and from April 1, 2026, until the date of this Prospectus. For information pertaining to dividend policy, see "Dividend Policy" on page 309.

56. Significant differences exist between Ind AS and other accounting principles, such as Indian GAAP, IFRS and U.S. GAAP, which may be material to investors' assessment of our financial condition.

The Restated Financial Information for the three months period ended June 30, 2026, and for the financial years ended 2026, 2025 and 2024 included in this Prospectus have been prepared under Ind AS notified under the Companies (Indian Accounting Standards) Rules, 2015 read with Section 133 of the Companies Act, 2013 to the extent applicable.

As a result, the financial statements prepared under Ind AS may not be comparable to our historical financial statements. Accordingly, the degree to which the financial statements included in this Prospectus will provide meaningful information is entirely dependent on the reader's level of familiarity with Ind AS. Persons not familiar with Ind AS should limit their reliance on the financial disclosures presented in this Prospectus. Persons not familiar with Indian accounting practices should limit their reliance on the financial disclosures presented in this Prospectus.

57. Changing laws, rules and regulations and legal uncertainties, including adverse application of tax laws, in the jurisdictions in which we operate may adversely affect our business and results of operations.

Our business, results of operations and financial condition could be materially adversely affected by changes in the laws, rules, regulations or directions applicable to us, or the interpretations of such existing laws, rules and regulations, or the promulgation of new laws, rules and regulations. For details on the laws applicable to us, please see "Key Regulations and Policies in India" on page 273.

The regulatory and policy environment in which we operate are evolving and are subject to change. The Government of India may implement new laws or other regulations and policies that could affect our business in general, which could lead to new compliance requirements, including requiring us to obtain approvals and licenses from the Government and other regulatory bodies, or impose onerous requirements.

We are subject to laws and government regulations, including in relation to safety, health, environmental protection and labour. These laws and regulations impose controls on air and water discharge, employee exposure to hazardous substances and other aspects of our steel processing operations. Further, laws and regulations may limit the amount of hazardous and pollutant discharge that our manufacturing facilities may release into the air and water. The discharge of materials that hazardous into the air, soil or water beyond these limits may cause us to be liable to regulatory bodies or third parties. Any of the foregoing could subject us to litigation, which could lower our profits in the event we were found liable and could also adversely affect our reputation. Additionally, the government or the relevant regulatory bodies may require us to shut down our manufacturing facilities, which in turn could lead to product shortages that delay or prevent us from fulfilling our obligations to customers.

For instance, the GoI has recently introduced the Code on Social Security, 2020 ("Social Security Code"); the Occupational Safety, Health and Working Conditions Code, 2020; the Industrial Relations Code, 2020 and the Code on Wages, 2019, which consolidate, subsume and replace numerous existing central labor legislations (collectively, the "Labour Codes") which have come into force pursuant to notification by the Ministry of Labour and Employment dated November 21, 2025. While the draft rules for implementation under these codes have been recently notified, we have not yet fully assessed the impact that these or similar laws might have on our business operations, which could potentially restrict our ability to grow our business in the future and increase our expenses. For instance, the Social Security Code provides that where an employee receives more than half (or such other percentage as may be notified by the Central Government) of their total remuneration in the form of allowances and other amounts that are not included within the definition of wages under the Social Security Code, the excess amount received shall be deemed as remuneration and accordingly be added to wages for the purposes of the Social Security Code. Additionally, the Code on Wages, 2019, prescribes that if payments made by an employer towards certain employment benefits (including gratuity and house rent allowance) exceed half (or such other percentage as may be notified by the Central Government) of the total remuneration, the excess amount shall be deemed remuneration and accordingly be added to wages. The enforcement of these laws could lead to higher employee and labor costs, which in turn could have a detrimental effect on our results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Uncertainty in the applicability, interpretation or implementation of any amendment to, or change in, governing law, regulation or policy in the jurisdictions in which we operate, including by reason of an absence, or a limited body, of administrative or judicial precedent may be time consuming as well as costly for us to resolve and may impact the viability of our current business or restrict our ability to grow our business in the future. We may incur increased costs and other burdens relating to compliance with such new requirements, which may also require significant management time and other resources, and any failure to comply may adversely affect our business, results of operations, cash flows, financial condition and prospects. Further, pursuant to the Finance (No.2) Act of 2024 and Finance Act, 2025, notified on August 16, 2024 and March 29, 2025, respectively, the Government of India has introduced new income tax slabs, an increase in standard deduction and an increase in the deduction available in respect of private sector employer's contribution to National Pension Scheme from 10% to 14% of the salary of the concerned employees. There is no certainty on the impact of the full union budget on tax laws or other regulations, on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows, or on the industry in which we operate.

58. The occurrence of natural or man-made disasters, fires, epidemics, pandemics, acts of war, terrorist attacks, civil unrest and other events could adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Natural disasters (such as typhoons, flooding and earthquakes), epidemics, pandemics such as COVID-19 and man-made disasters, including acts of war, terrorist attacks and other events such as political instability, including strikes, demonstrations, protests, marches or other types of civil disorder, many of which are beyond our control, may lead to economic instability, including in India or globally, which may in turn adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. Our operations may be adversely affected by fires, natural disasters and/or severe weather, which can result in damage to our property or inventory and generally reduce our productivity and may require us to evacuate personnel and suspend operations. Any terrorist attacks or civil unrest as well as other adverse social, economic and political events in India or countries to who we sell our products could have a negative effect on us. In addition, any deterioration in international relations, especially between India and its neighbouring countries, may result in investor concern regarding regional stability which could adversely affect the price of the Equity Shares. Such incidents could also create a greater perception that investment in Indian companies involves a higher degree of risk and could have an adverse effect on our business and the market price of the Equity Shares.

59. A downgrade in ratings of India and other jurisdictions we operate in may affect the trading price of the Equity Shares.

India's sovereign debt rating could be downgraded due to various factors, including changes in tax or fiscal policy or a decline in India's foreign exchange reserves, which are outside our Company's control. Our borrowing costs and our access to the debt capital markets depend significantly on the credit ratings of India. Any further adverse revisions to credit ratings for India and other jurisdictions we operate in by international rating agencies may adversely impact our ability to raise additional financing and the interest rates and other commercial terms at which such financing is available, including raising any overseas additional financing, if any. A downgrading of India's credit ratings may occur, for reasons beyond our control such as, upon a change of government tax or fiscal policy. This could have an adverse effect on our ability to fund our growth on favourable terms and consequently adversely affect our business and financial performance and the price of the Equity Shares.

60. We may be affected by competition laws in India, the adverse application or interpretation of which could adversely affect our business.

The Competition Act, 2002, of India, as amended ("Competition Act"), regulates practices having an appreciable adverse effect on competition ("AAEC") in the relevant market in India. Under the Competition Act, any formal or informal arrangement, understanding or action in concert, which causes or is likely to cause an AAEC is considered void and may result in the imposition of substantial penalties. Further, any agreement among competitors which directly or indirectly involves the determination of purchase or sale prices, limits or controls production, supply, markets, technical development, investment or the provision of services or shares the market or source of production or provision of services in any manner, including by way of allocation of geographical area or number of consumers in the relevant market or directly or indirectly results in bid-rigging or collusive bidding is presumed to have an AAEC and is considered void. The Competition Act also prohibits abuse of a dominant position by any enterprise. If it is proved that the contravention committed by a company took place with the consent or connivance or is attributable to any neglect on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other officer of such company, that person shall be also guilty of the contravention and may be punished.

Further, the CCI has extra-territorial powers and can investigate any agreements, abusive conduct or combination occurring outside India if such agreement, conduct or combination has an AAEC in India. However, the impact of the provisions of the Competition Act on the agreements entered into by us cannot be predicted with certainty at this stage. In the event we pursue an acquisition in the future, we may be affected, directly or indirectly, by the application or interpretation of any provision of the Competition Act, or any enforcement proceedings initiated by the CCI, or any adverse publicity that may be generated due to scrutiny or prosecution by the CCI or if any prohibition or substantial penalties are levied under the Competition Act, it would adversely affect our business, results of operations, cash flows and prospects. The manner in which the Competition Act and the CCI affect the business environment in India may also adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

The Competition (Amendment) Act, 2023 ("Competition Amendment Act") was notified on April 11, 2023, which amends the Competition Act and give the CCI additional powers to prevent practices that harm competition and the interests of consumers. The Competition Amendment Act, inter alia, modifies the scope of certain factors used to determine AAEC, reduces the overall time limit for the assessment of combinations by the CCI from 210 days to 150 days and empowers the CCI to impose penalties based on the global turnover of entities, for anticompetitive agreements and abuse of dominant position. We have not experienced any instances wherein we were subject to any penalty or received any notice from the CCI in the last three Fiscals, we cannot assure you such instances will not arise in the future.

61. Financial and political instability in other countries may cause increased volatility in Indian financial markets.

The Indian market and the Indian economy are influenced by economic and market conditions in other countries, including conditions in the United States of America, Europe and certain emerging economies in Asia. In particular, the ongoing military conflicts between India and Pakistan, Russia and Ukraine and, Iran, Israel and Palestine could result in increased volatility in, or damage to, the worldwide financial markets and economy. Increased economic volatility and trade restrictions could result in increased volatility in the markets for certain securities and commodities and may cause inflation. Any other global economic developments or the perception that any of them could occur may continue to have an adverse effect on global economic conditions and the stability of global financial markets, and may significantly reduce global market liquidity and restrict the ability of key market participants to operate in certain financial markets. Further, any worldwide financial instability including possibility of default in the US debt market may cause increased volatility in the Indian financial markets and, directly or indirectly, adversely affect the Indian economy and financial sector and us. Although economic conditions are different in each country, investors' reactions to developments in one country can have adverse effects on the securities of companies in other countries, including India. A loss of investor confidence in the financial systems of other emerging markets may cause increased volatility in Indian financial markets and, indirectly, in the Indian economy in general. Concerns related to a trade war between large economies may lead to increased risk aversion and volatility in global capital markets and consequently have an impact on the Indian economy.

More recently, in early 2025, the United States of America imposed tariffs across a range of countries and products. In addition, President of the United States of America has directed various federal agencies to further evaluate key aspects of U.S. trade policy, and there has been ongoing discussion and commentary regarding potential significant changes to U.S. trade policies and treaties. The timing, amount and impact of such measures (including any retaliatory measures) cannot be predicted but could result in lower economic growth. Market reactions to the uncertainty of such measures could further depress economic activity until more clarity about trade conditions and tariffs is achieved. Such adverse economic or financial conditions could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

In addition, China is one of India's major trading partners and there are rising concerns of a possible slowdown in the Chinese economy as well as a strained relationship with India, which could have an adverse impact on the trade relations between the two countries. In response to such developments, legislators and financial regulators in the United States of America and other jurisdictions, including India, implemented a number of policy measures designed to add stability to the financial markets. Further, the imposition of tariffs by the US government under its "Fair and Reciprocal Plan" may impact Indian businesses, especially those with a substantial export presence in the US market. This policy has resulted in the imposition of tariffs across a diverse range of sectors, including steel, aluminium, pharmaceuticals, textiles, and electronics. As a results, Indian exporters may encounter heightened costs and uncertainties, potentially constraining their market competitiveness and profitability. These developments, or the perception that any of them could occur, have had and may continue to have an adverse effect on global economic conditions and the stability of global financial markets, and may significantly reduce global market liquidity, restrict the ability of key market participants to operate in certain financial markets or restrict our access to capital. However, the overall long-term effect of these and other legislative and regulatory efforts on the global financial markets is uncertain, and they may not have the intended stabilising effects.

62. The Indian tax regime has undergone substantial changes which could adversely affect our business and the trading price of the Equity Shares.

Any change in Indian tax laws could have an effect on our operations. The Government of India has implemented two major reforms in Indian tax laws, namely the Goods and Services Tax ("GST"), and provisions relating to general anti-avoidance rules ("GAAR"). The indirect tax regime in India has undergone a complete overhaul. The indirect taxes on goods and services, such as central excise duty, service tax, central sales tax, state value added tax, surcharge and excise have been replaced by GST with effect from July 1, 2017. Further, on September 3, 2025, the 56th GST Council approved a significant rate rationalisation package consolidating existing slabs into 5% and 18% (with 40% for luxury/sin goods) and reducing GST on individual health and life insurance premiums from 18% to 0%, effective September 22, 2025. The GST regime continues to be subject to amendments and its interpretation by the relevant regulatory authorities is constantly evolving. GAAR became effective from April 1, 2017. The tax consequences of the GAAR provisions being applied to an arrangement may result in, among others, a denial of tax benefit to us and our business. In the absence of any substantial precedents on the subject, the application of these provisions is subjective. If the GAAR provisions are made applicable to us, it may have an adverse tax impact on us. Further, if the tax costs associated with certain of our transactions are greater than anticipated because of a particular tax risk materializing on account of new tax regulations and policies, it could affect our profitability from such transactions.

Earlier, distribution of dividends by a domestic company was subject to Dividend Distribution Tax ("DDT"), in the hands of the company at an effective rate of 20.56% (inclusive of applicable surcharge and cess). Such dividends were generally exempt from tax in the hands of the shareholders. However, the GoI has amended the Income-tax Act, 1961 ("IT Act") to abolish the DDT regime. Accordingly, any dividend distribution by a domestic company is subject to tax in the hands of the investor at the applicable rate. Additionally, the Company is required to withhold tax on such dividends distributed at the applicable rate.

Investors are advised to consult their own tax advisors and to carefully consider the potential tax consequences of owning, investing or trading in the Equity Shares. There is no certainty on the impact that the Finance Act may have on our business and operations or on the industry in which we operate. Uncertainty in the applicability, interpretation or implementation of any amendment to, or change in, governing law, regulation or policy, including by reason of an absence, or a limited body, of administrative or judicial precedent may be time consuming as well as costly for us to resolve and may affect the viability of our current business or restrict our ability to grow our business in the future.

We cannot predict whether any new tax laws or regulations impacting our services will be enacted, what the nature and impact of the specific terms of any such laws or regulations will be or whether if at all, any laws or regulations would have an adverse effect on our business. Further, any adverse order passed by the appellate authorities/ tribunals/ courts would have an effect on our profitability. In addition, we are subject to tax related inquiries and claims.

63. If inflation were to rise in India, we might not be able to increase the prices of our steel process products at a proportional rate in order to pass costs on to our consumers thereby reducing our margins.

Inflation rates in India have been volatile in recent years, and such volatility may continue in the future. India has experienced high inflation in the recent past. Increased inflation can contribute to an increase in interest rates and increased costs to our business, including increased costs of wages and other expenses. High fluctuations in inflation rates may make it more difficult for us to accurately estimate or control our costs. Any increase in inflation in India can increase our expenses, which we may not be able to adequately pass on to our consumers, whether entirely or in part, and may adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. In particular, we might not be able to reduce our costs or increase the price of our products to pass the increase in costs on to our consumers. In such case, our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows may be adversely affected. Further, the Government of India has previously initiated economic measures to combat high inflation rates, and it is unclear whether these measures will remain in effect. There can be no assurance that Indian inflation levels will not worsen in the future.

64. Pursuant to listing of the Equity Shares, we may be subject to pre-emptive surveillance measures like Additional Surveillance Measure (ASM) and Graded Surveillance Measures (GSM) by the Stock Exchanges in order to enhance market integrity and safeguard the interest of investors.

SEBI and the Stock Exchanges have introduced various pre-emptive surveillance measures in order to enhance market integrity and safeguard the interests of investors, including ASM and GSM. ASM and GSM are imposed on securities of companies based on various objective criteria such as significant variations in price and volume, concentration of certain client accounts as a percentage of combined trading volume, average delivery, securities which witness abnormal price rise not commensurate with financial health and fundamentals such as earnings, book value, fixed assets, net worth, price / earnings multiple and market capitalization.

Upon listing, the trading of our Equity Shares would be subject to differing market conditions as well as other factors which may result in high volatility in price, low trading volumes, and a large concentration of client accounts as a percentage of combined trading volume of our Equity Shares. The occurrence of any of the abovementioned factors or other circumstances may trigger any of the parameters prescribed by SEBI and the Stock Exchanges for placing our securities under the GSM and/or ASM framework or any other surveillance measures, which could result in significant restrictions on trading of our Equity Shares being imposed by SEBI and the Stock Exchanges. These restrictions may include requiring higher margin requirements, requirement of settlement on a trade for trade basis without netting off, limiting trading frequency, reduction of applicable price band, requirement of settlement on gross basis or freezing of price on upper side of trading, as well as mentioning of our Equity Shares on the surveillance dashboards of the Stock Exchanges. The imposition of these restrictions and curbs on trading may have an adverse effect on market price, trading and liquidity of our Equity Shares and on the reputation and conditions of our Company. For further details in relation to the ASM and GSM Surveillance Measures, including criteria for shortlisting and review of listed securities, exemptions from shortlisting and frequently asked questions, among other details, refer to the websites of the NSE and the BSE.

65. Our Equity Shares have not been previously publicly traded, and the Issue may not result in an active or liquid market for our Equity Shares. Further, the market price of our Equity Shares may be volatile, and investors may be unable to resell the Equity Shares at or above the Issue Price, or at all.

Prior to the Issue, there has been no public market for our Equity Shares. An active trading market on the stock exchanges may not develop or be sustained following the Issue. Listing and quotation of our Equity Shares on the stock exchanges does not guarantee that an active or liquid market for the Equity Shares will develop, or, if developed, that it will be sustained. The Issue Price of our Equity Shares may not be indicative of, or bear any relationship to, the market price of our Equity Shares after the Issue. Although our Equity Shares are proposed to be listed on the NSE and BSE following the Issue, there can be no assurance that active trading in our Equity Shares will develop after listing or, if such trading develops, that it will continue. In the absence of an active trading market, investors may be unable to sell their Equity Shares at the quoted market price or at all. The Indian stock markets have experienced significant volatility in the recent past, and the trading price of our Equity Shares after the Issue may fluctuate significantly due to market volatility or various internal and external factors, including, but not limited to, the risks described in this Prospectus. The market price of our Equity Shares may be influenced by several factors, many of which are beyond our control, including, among others:

- the failure of security analysts to cover the Equity Shares after the Issue, or changes in the estimates of our performance by analysts;
- the activities of competitors and suppliers;
- future sales of the Equity Shares by us or our Shareholders;
- investor perception of us and the industry in which we operate;
- investor perceptions of our future performance, adverse media reports about us or our sector;
- changes in accounting standards, policies, guidance, interpretations of principles;
- our quarterly or annual earnings or those of our competitors;
- developments affecting fiscal, industrial or environmental regulations; and

- the public's reaction to our press releases and adverse media reports.

A decrease in the market price of our Equity Shares could cause you to lose some or all of your investment. General or industry specific market conditions or stock performance or domestic or international macroeconomic and geopolitical factors unrelated to our performance may also affect the price of our Equity Shares. In particular, the stock market as a whole in the past has experienced extreme price and volume fluctuations that have affected the market price of many companies in ways that may have been unrelated to the companies' operating performances. For these reasons, investors should not rely on recent trends to predict future share prices, results of operations or cash flow and financial condition.

66. Investors may be subject to Indian taxes arising out of income arising out of capital gains on the sale of the Equity Shares.

Under current Indian tax laws, unless specifically exempted, capital gains arising from the sale of equity shares in an Indian company is generally taxable in India. A securities transaction tax ("STT") is levied both at the time of transfer and acquisition of the equity shares (unless exempted under a prescribed notification), and the STT is collected by an Indian stock exchange on which the equity shares are sold. Any capital gain realized on the sale of listed equity shares on a recognised stock exchange held for more than 12 months immediately preceding the date of transfer will be subject to long term capital gains in India at the specified rates depending on certain factors, such as whether the sale is undertaken on or off the recognised stock exchanges, the quantum of gains, and any available treaty relief.

The Government of India announced the union budget for Financial Year 2025-2026, following which the Finance Bill, 2025 ("Finance Bill") was introduced in the Lok Sabha on February 1, 2025. Subsequently, the Finance Bill received the assent from the President of India and became the Finance Act, 2025, with effect from April 1, 2025 as amended by the Finance (No. 2) Act, ("Finance Act"). As per the Finance Act, in case of domestic company, the rate of income-tax shall be 25% of the total income, if the total turnover or gross receipts of the previous year 2023-24 does not exceed ₹ 400 crores and where the companies continue in Section 115BA regime. In all other cases the rate of income-tax shall be 30% of the total income. However, domestic companies also have an option to opt for taxation under section 115BAA of the Act on fulfilment of conditions contained therein. The rate of income-tax rate is 22% under section 115BAA, having a surcharge at 10% on such tax. Investors are advised to consult their own tax advisors and to carefully consider the potential tax consequences of owning, investing or trading in the Equity Shares.

For tax deduction on securities, the Finance Act increases the limit in relation to the amount or the aggregate of amounts of income by way of interest on securities from ₹ 5,000 to ₹ 10,000. With regard to the requirement of no tax being liable to be deducted on dividend, the Finance Act has increased limit on amount of dividend earned from ₹ 5,000 to ₹ 10,000.

The Income Tax Act, 1961 ("IT Act") was amended to provide domestic companies an option to pay corporate income tax at the effective rate of 25.17% (inclusive of applicable surcharge and health and education cess), as compared to an effective rate of 34.94% (inclusive of applicable surcharge and health and education cess), provided such companies do not claim certain specified deductions or exemptions. Further, where a company has opted to pay the reduced corporate tax rate, the minimum alternate tax provisions would not be applicable. Any such future amendments may affect our ability to claim exemptions that we have historically benefited from, and such exemptions may no longer be available to us. Additionally, the Union Cabinet, Government of India has recently approved the Income Tax Bill, 2025 which inter alia, proposes to amend the income tax regime and replace the Income Tax Act, 1961. There is no certainty on the impact of the Income Tax Bill, 2025, once enacted, on tax laws or other regulations, which may adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

Under the Finance Act 2020, any dividends paid by a domestic company will be subject to tax in the hands of the shareholders at applicable rates and such domestic company is required to withhold tax on such dividends distributed at the applicable rate. Further, Non-resident shareholders may claim benefit of the applicable tax treaty, subject to satisfaction of certain conditions. Our Company may or may not grant the benefit of a tax treaty (where applicable) to a non-resident Shareholder for the purposes of deducting tax at source pursuant to any corporate action, including dividends. Any business income realized from the transfer of Equity Shares held as trading assets is taxable at the applicable tax rates subject to any treaty relief, if applicable, to a non-resident seller.

We cannot predict whether any amendments made pursuant to the Finance Act would have an adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows. Unfavorable changes in or interpretations of existing laws, rules and regulations, or the promulgation of new laws, rules and regulations including foreign investment and stamp duty laws governing our business and operations could result in us being deemed to be in contravention of such laws and may require us to apply for additional approvals.

67. Investors will not be able to sell immediately on an Indian stock exchange any of the Equity Shares they purchase in the Issue.

The Equity Shares will be listed on the Stock Exchanges. Pursuant to applicable Indian laws, certain actions must be completed before the Equity Shares can be listed and trading in the Equity Shares may commence. Investors' book entry, or 'demat' accounts with depository participants in India, are expected to be credited with the Equity Shares within one working day of the date on which the Basis of Allotment is approved by the Stock Exchanges. The Allotment and transfer of Equity Shares in this Issue and the credit of such Equity Shares to the applicant's demat account with depository participant could take approximately three Working Days from the Bid/ Issue Closing Date and trading in the Equity Shares upon receipt of final listing and trading approvals from the Stock Exchanges is expected to commence within three Working Days of the Bid/ Issue Closing Date. There could be a failure or delay in the listing of the Equity Shares on the Stock Exchanges. Any failure or delay in obtaining the approval or otherwise any delay in commencing trading in the Equity Shares would restrict investors' ability to dispose of their Equity Shares. There can be no assurance that the Equity Shares will be credited to investors' demat accounts, or that trading in the Equity Shares will commence, within the time periods specified in this risk factor. We could also be required to pay interest at the applicable rates if allotment is not made, refund orders are not dispatched or demat credits are not made to investors within the prescribed time periods

68. Any future issuance of Equity Shares, convertible securities or other equity-linked instruments by us may dilute the shareholding of investors, and any sale of Equity Shares by shareholders with significant shareholdings may adversely affect the market price of our Equity Shares.

We may be required to finance our growth through future equity offerings. Any future equity issuances by us, including a primary issuance of Equity Shares, convertible securities or securities linked to Equity Shares including through exercise of employee stock options, may lead to the dilution of investors' shareholdings in our Company. Any future equity issuances by us or sales of our Equity Shares by our shareholders may adversely affect the trading price of the Equity Shares, which may lead to other adverse consequences including difficulty in raising capital through offering of our Equity Shares or incurring additional debt. Any disposal of Equity Shares by our major shareholders or the perception that such issuance or sales may occur, including to comply with the minimum public shareholding norms applicable to listed companies in India may adversely affect the trading price of the Equity Shares, which may lead to other adverse consequences including difficulty in raising capital through offering of the Equity Shares or incurring additional debt. There can be no assurance that we will not issue Equity Shares, convertible securities or securities linked to Equity Shares or that our Shareholders will not dispose of, pledge or encumber their Equity Shares in the future. Any future issuances could also dilute the value of your investment in the Equity Shares. In addition, any perception by investors that such issuances or sales might occur may also affect the market price of our Equity Shares.

69. Under Indian law, foreign investors are subject to investment restrictions that limit our ability to attract foreign investors, which may adversely affect the trading price of the Equity Shares.

Under foreign exchange regulations currently in force in India, transfer of shares between non-residents and residents are freely permitted (subject to certain restrictions), if they comply with the pricing guidelines and reporting requirements specified by the RBI. If the transfer of shares, which are sought to be transferred, is not in compliance with such pricing guidelines or reporting requirements or falls under any of the exceptions referred to above, then a prior approval of the RBI will be required. Additionally, shareholders who seek to convert Rupee proceeds from a sale of shares in India into foreign currency and repatriate that foreign currency from India require a no-objection or a tax clearance certificate from the Indian income tax authorities. As provided in the foreign exchange controls currently in effect in India, the RBI has provided that the price at which the Equity Shares are transferred be calculated in accordance with internationally accepted pricing methodology for the valuation of shares at an arm's length basis, and a higher (or lower, as applicable) price per share may not be permitted. We cannot assure investors that any required approval from the RBI or any other Indian government agency can be obtained on any particular terms, or at all. Further, due to possible delays in obtaining requisite approvals, investors in the Equity Shares may be prevented from realizing gains during periods of price increase or limiting losses during periods of price decline.

The Equity Shares will be quoted in Indian Rupees on the Stock Exchanges. Any dividends in respect of the Equity Shares will be paid in Indian Rupees and subsequently converted into appropriate foreign currency for repatriation. In addition, any adverse movement in exchange rates during a delay in repatriating the proceeds from a sale of Equity Shares outside India, for example, because of a delay in regulatory approvals that may be required for the sale of Equity Shares, may reduce the net proceeds received by shareholders.

In addition, pursuant to the Press Note No. 3 (2020 Series), dated April 17, 2020, issued by the DPIIT, which has been incorporated as the proviso to Rule 6(a) of the FEMA Non-debt Rules, all investments under the foreign direct investment route by entities of a country sharing a land border with India or where the beneficial owner of the Equity Shares is situated in or is a citizen of any such country, can only be made through the Government approval route, as prescribed in the Consolidated FDI Policy dated October 15, 2020 and the FEMA Rules. While the term "beneficial owner" is defined under the Prevention of Money-Laundering (Maintenance of Records) Rules, 2005 and the General Financial Rules, 2017, neither the foreign direct investment policy nor the FEMA Rules provide a definition of the term "beneficial owner". The interpretation of "beneficial owner" and enforcement of this regulatory change involves certain uncertainties, which may have an adverse effect on our ability to raise foreign capital. Further, there is uncertainty regarding the timeline within which the said approval from the GoI may be obtained, if at all.

We cannot assure investors that any required approval from the RBI or any other governmental agency can be obtained on any particular terms or at all. For further information, see "Restrictions on Foreign Ownership of Indian Securities" on page 520.

70. QIBs and Non-Institutional Bidders were not permitted to withdraw or lower their Bids (in terms of quantity of Equity Shares or the Bid Amount) at any stage after the submission of their Bid, and Retail Individual Bidders were not permitted to withdraw their Bids after closure of the Bid/ Issue Closing Date.

Pursuant to the SEBI ICDR Regulations, QIBs and Non-Institutional Bidders are required to pay the Bid Amount on submission of the Bid and were not permitted to withdraw or lower their Bids (in terms of quantity of Equity Shares or the Bid Amount) at any stage after submitting a Bid. Retail Individual Bidders can revise their Bids during the Bid/ Issue Period and withdraw their Bids until the Bid/ Issue Closing Date. While we are required to complete all necessary formalities for listing and commencement of trading of the Equity Shares on all Stock Exchanges where such Equity Shares are proposed to be listed, including Allotment, within three Working Days from the Bid/ Issue Closing Date or such other period as may be prescribed by the SEBI, events affecting the investors decision to invest in the Equity Shares, including adverse changes in international or national monetary policy, financial, political or economic conditions, our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows may arise between the date of submission of the Bid and Allotment.

Retail Individual Bidders can revise their Bids during the Bid/ Issue Period and withdraw their Bids until Bid/ Issue Closing Date. While our Company is required to complete all necessary formalities for listing and commencement of trading of the Equity Shares on all Stock Exchanges where such Equity Shares are proposed to be listed including Allotment pursuant to the Issue within three Working Days from the Bid/ Issue Closing Date, events affecting the Bidders' decision to invest in the Equity Shares, including material adverse changes in international or national monetary policy, financial, political or economic conditions, our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows may arise between the date of submission of the Bid and Allotment. We may complete the Allotment of the Equity Shares even if such events occur, and such events may limit the Investors' ability to sell the Equity Shares Allotted pursuant to the Issue or cause the trading price of the Equity Shares to decline on listing.

71. Investors may be restricted in their ability to exercise pre-emptive rights under Indian law and thereby may suffer future dilution of their ownership position.

Under the Companies Act, a company having share capital and incorporated in India must offer its holders of equity shares pre-emptive rights to subscribe and pay for a proportionate number of shares to maintain their existing ownership percentages before the issuance of any new equity shares, unless the pre-emptive rights have been waived by adoption of a special resolution by holders of three-fourths of the equity shares voting on such resolution.

However, if the law of the jurisdiction the investors are in, does not permit them to exercise their pre-emptive rights without our Company filing an offering document or registration statement with the applicable authority in such jurisdiction, the investors will be unable to exercise their pre-emptive rights unless our Company makes such a filing. If we elect not to file a registration statement, the new securities may be issued to a custodian, who may sell the securities for the investor' s benefit. The value such custodian receives on the sale of such securities and the related transaction costs cannot be predicted. In addition, to the extent that the investors are unable to exercise pre-emptive rights granted in respect of the Equity Shares held by them, their proportional interest in our Company would be reduced. In addition, Investors may suffer continued risk of dilution if shareholders pass special resolutions for preferential issues or take any other similar actions.

72. Fluctuations in the exchange rate between the Indian Rupee and foreign currencies may have an adverse effect on the value of the Equity Shares, independent of our operating results.

Upon listing, the Equity Shares will be quoted in Indian Rupees on the Stock Exchanges. Any dividends in respect of the Equity Shares will be paid in Indian Rupees and subsequently converted into appropriate foreign currency for repatriation. In addition, any adverse movement in exchange rates during a delay in repatriating the proceeds from a sale of Equity Shares outside India, for example, because of a delay in regulatory approvals that may be required for the sale of Equity Shares, may reduce the net proceeds received by shareholders.

73. Rights of shareholders of companies under Indian law may be different than under the laws of other jurisdictions.

Our Articles of Association, composition of our Board, Indian laws governing our corporate affairs, the validity of corporate procedures, directors' fiduciary duties, responsibilities and liabilities, and shareholders' rights may differ from those that would apply to a company in another jurisdiction. Shareholders' rights under Indian law may not be as extensive and widespread as shareholders' rights under the laws of other countries or jurisdictions. Investors may face challenges in asserting their rights as shareholder of our Company than as a shareholder of an entity in another jurisdiction.

74. A third party could be prevented from acquiring control of us post the Issue, because of anti-takeover provisions under Indian law.

As a listed Indian entity, there are provisions in Indian law that may delay, deter or prevent a future takeover or change in control of our Company. Under the SEBI Takeover Regulations, an acquirer has been defined as any person who, directly or indirectly, acquires or agrees to acquire shares or voting rights or control over a company, whether individually or acting in concert with others. Although these provisions have been formulated to ensure that interests of investors/shareholders are protected, these provisions may also discourage a third party from attempting to take control of our Company subsequent to completion of the Issue. Consequently, even if a potential takeover of our Company would result in the purchase of the Equity Shares at a premium to their market price or would otherwise be beneficial to our Shareholders, such a takeover may not be attempted or consummated because of SEBI Takeover Regulations.

Details of the Objects of the Issue

1. Repayment/pre-payment, in full or in part, of certain borrowings availed by our Company

Our Company has entered into various borrowing arrangements with banks and other financial institutions, including borrowings in the form of terms loans and working capital facilities. As on August 31, 2026, our Company's aggregate outstanding borrowings was ₹ 3,024.28 million. For further details, including indicative terms and conditions, see "Financial Indebtedness" on page 462.

Our Company intends to utilise an aggregate amount of ₹1,250.00 million from the Net Proceeds towards repayment/ prepayment of all or a portion of certain outstanding borrowings availed by our Company, including accrued interest thereon.

Given the nature of these borrowings and the terms of repayment or pre-payment, the aggregate outstanding amounts under these borrowings may vary from time to time and our Company may, in accordance with the relevant repayment schedule, repay or refinance some of our existing borrowings or avail of additional credit facilities. In terms of our Company's borrowing arrangements, prepayment of certain indebtedness may attract prepayment charges. Such prepayment charges, as applicable, will also be funded out of the Net Proceeds. If the Net Proceeds are insufficient for payment of pre-payment penalty, interest or other related costs, as applicable, such payment shall be met through the internal accruals of our Company. If at the time of this Prospectus, any of the below-mentioned loans were repaid in part or full or refinanced or if any additional credit facilities were availed or drawn down or if the limits under the working capital borrowings are increased, then our Company may utilise the Net Proceeds for part or full pre-payment / repayment of any such refinanced facilities or repayment of any additional facilities obtained by our Company and details of such borrowings were included in this Prospectus. Additionally, we anticipate that our improved financial leverage will enhance our ability to raise further resources in the future to fund our potential business development opportunities and plans to grow and expand our business. Further, repayment/prepayment of the loans will add to the profitability of our Company due to reduced finance cost and also the improvement in the debt-to-equity ratio of our Company is intended to enable us to raise further resources in the future to fund potential business development opportunities and plans to grow and expand our business in the future. For further details, see "Our Business – Our Strategies – Improving the debt profile of our Company" on page 250.

The selection of borrowings proposed to be prepaid or repaid amongst our borrowing arrangements availed will be based on various factors, including (i) commercial considerations including, among others, the amount of the loan outstanding, rate of interest and the remaining tenor of the loan, (ii) any conditions attached to the borrowings restricting our ability to prepay/ repay the borrowings and time taken to fulfil, or obtain waivers for fulfilment of such conditions, (iii) cost of the borrowing, including applicable interest rates (iii) receipt of consents for prepayment/repayment from the respective lenders and terms and conditions of such consents and waivers and (v) levy of any prepayment penalties/premium and the quantum thereof and other related costs and (vii) nature and/or repayment schedule of borrowings. 2. Financing the cost towards acquisition of capital equipment under existing lease arrangements with Siemens Financial Services Private Limited

The Company proposes to utilise ₹157.70 million from the Net Proceeds towards financing the cost towards acquisition of capital equipment under existing lease arrangements with Siemens, and the balance, if any, shall be met through internal accruals and/or other available sources, including additional equity and/or debt arrangements. By acquiring ownership of capital equipment, our Company intends to reduce recurring lease and rental expenses to the tune of ₹46.86 million.

Our Company operates as a Steel Processing Centre ("SPC") and provides value-added processing services to primary steel producers and end-users across various sectors, including the home and commercial appliances and general engineering sectors. Our operations are capital intensive and require continuous investment in plant and machinery to support capacity expansion, operational efficiency and technological upgradation. During the financial years ended March 31, 2024, March 31, 2025 and March 31, 2026, we incurred capital expenditure of ₹486.62 million, ₹88.84 million, ₹547.89 million, respectively. Further, during the three months period ended June 30, 2026, we incurred capital expenditure of ₹46.48 million. As of June 30, 2026, our gross block for plant and machinery stood at ₹894.67 million. As on June 30, 2026, we operate with an aggregate installed processing capacity of 1,23,153 MTPA, computed on a quarterly basis for Fiscal 2027, across slitting, cut-to-length, shearing and embossing operations. Our installed capacity has increased at a compound annual growth rate ("CAGR") of approximately 23.83% between Fiscal 2024 and Fiscal 2026, reflecting our continued focus on capacity expansion and operational scalability. For further details, see "Our Business – Installed Capacity and Capacity Utilization" on page 260.

In line with this growth strategy, our Company entered into a master lease agreement dated August 6, 2024 ("Master Lease Agreement") with Siemens, along with various term sheets and lease schedules, to facilitate the deployment of high-value capital equipment without incurring significant upfront capital expenditure. Under these arrangements, Siemens procured the relevant equipment from the respective manufacturers and leased the same to our Company.

Lease Arrangements

The lease arrangements have been structured with fixed monthly rentals over a defined term of 60 months and include a purchase option, at the fair market value ("FMV") at the end of the lease tenure. In this regard, we have also obtained pre-closure statements dated September 15, 2026 from Siemens in relation to the aforesaid equipment, indicating the amount payable by us to Siemens towards purchasing the equipment. Our Company has obtained consent dated September 12, 2025 from Siemens to purchase the aforesaid equipment at FMV at the end of the 'early termination period' (as defined in the Master Lease Agreement), being 12 months from the commencement of the lease term.

Under these arrangements, Siemens procured the relevant equipment from the respective manufacturers and leased the same to our Company, as detailed below:

Equipment	Manufacturer and Supplier	Dates of term sheets entered between Siemens and our Company
Double Girder EOT Cranes (32 MT and 10 MT)	Gayatri Construction Machinery	August 5, 2024
High Speed Double Slitter Slitting Line BSSLD (0.25-3.2mm)	Guangzhou Bluesky Machine Co. Limited	September 2, 2024

Embossing line BSEL (0.25-0.8) mm x 1300 mm x 20T	Guangzhou Bluesky Machine Co. Limited	September 30, 2024

All of the aforesaid capital equipment are first-hand and have been installed at our Ghiloth Facility and each of our Company's leases of the aforesaid equipment and the respective term sheets and lease schedules are governed by the terms of the Master Lease Agreement.

These capital equipments are critical for ensuring the uninterrupted progress of our operations. Given the strategic relevance and continued utility of these machines, our Company proposes to exercise the purchase options under the respective agreements and acquire full ownership of the equipment.

By acquiring ownership, our Company intends to:

(i) Reduce recurring lease and rental expenses and improve production cost efficiency;
(ii) Strengthen our fixed asset base to support future capacity expansions and process upgrades;
(iii) Avoid potential operational disruptions due to lease expiry or lessor restrictions; and
(iv) Recognise the assets in our books of account and reflect the same in our balance sheet, thereby enhancing asset visibility and operational stability.

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

1 Economic Outlook

1.1 Global Economy

Global economic growth is projected to moderate to around 3.0% in 2026, reflecting the impact of geopolitical tensions in energy and trade flows. The ongoing Middle East conflict poses downside risks with prolonged disruptions, potentially reducing growth further to 2.5%, or lower. However, supportive factors such as continued investment momentum and policy support are helping offset some of these pressures.

1.1.1 Growth Drivers Impacting Growth of Global Economy

- Trade Agreements, Supply-Chain Reconfiguration & International Connectivity: Regional trade agreements such as the CPTPP and RCEP continue to support market access, trade integration and cross-border investment, particularly across the Asia-Pacific region. At the same time, global trade is increasingly being reshaped by tariffs, geopolitical tensions and supply-chain diversification. Nearshoring, friend-shoring and supplier diversification are encouraging businesses to build more resilient and regionally diversified supply chains, creating opportunities for emerging economies that can attract manufacturing, logistics and investment flows.

- R&D Investment & Technological Innovation: Increased global R&D spending, particularly in AI, biotechnology, and sustainable technologies, will fuel growth in key sectors. Companies investing in generative AI, robotics, and green tech will not only enhance productivity but also drive new consumer demand, bolstering the global economy through innovation-led expansion.

- Population Growth & Migration Patterns: Diverging demographic trends will increasingly influence global growth through their impact on labour supply, consumption and productivity. India and several economies in South and Southeast Asia are expected to benefit from relatively young and expanding working-age populations, supporting labour availability and domestic consumption. In contrast, ageing populations in advanced economies and parts of East Asia are likely to intensify labour shortages and increase pressure on social-security systems. International migration can partly address these labour-market gaps by supplementing workforce supply in sectors facing persistent shortages.

- Capital Investment, Energy Transition & Infrastructure: Rising investment in digital infrastructure, power generation, energy security, renewable energy and other strategic infrastructure is emerging as an additional source of global growth. The expansion of AI and data-centre capacity is increasing electricity and infrastructure requirements, while governments and businesses are investing in energy resilience and the transition toward lower-carbon systems. Such investments can support construction, manufacturing, technology and services while strengthening long-term productive capacity.

1.1.2 Key Issues Impacting Growth of Global Economy

- Geopolitical Tensions, Trade Barriers & Supply-Chain Disruptions: Escalating geopolitical tensions, higher trade barriers and policy uncertainty are creating risks to global trade, investment and supply-chain stability. Tariffs and other trade restrictions can increase costs and inflationary pressures, while conflicts and disruptions along strategically important trade routes can affect the movement of energy and goods. At the same time, businesses are increasingly diversifying sourcing and production networks to enhance resilience, which could benefit emerging economies that are able to attract investment and integrate into reconfigured global supply chains.

- Technological Disruption, AI Adoption & R&D Investment: Rapid advances in artificial intelligence, automation, robotics and other emerging technologies are reshaping productivity, investment and labour markets. While accelerated technology adoption can improve efficiency and support economic growth, uneven access to technology, shortages of digital skills and uncertainty regarding the scale and timing of productivity gains may create challenges for businesses and economies. The growing concentration of AI-related investment in data centres, computing infrastructure and power systems also increases the importance of adequate digital and energy infrastructure.

- Demographic Shifts, Ageing & Migration: Diverging demographic trends are expected to increasingly affect labour-force availability, consumption and economic output. Declining fertility and ageing populations in several developed and emerging economies are likely to contribute to slower workforce growth and increased pressure on social-security systems, while countries with relatively young and expanding working-age populations, particularly India and parts of South and Southeast Asia, could benefit from greater labour availability and domestic demand. Migration will remain an important mechanism for addressing labour shortages in ageing economies, although its economic benefits will depend on labour-market integration and policy frameworks.

1.1.3 Global Economic Impact on the Indian Steel Industry

Developments in the global economy are expected to have a significant impact on India's steel industry through international trade, investment, commodity prices, supply-chain realignment and demand across infrastructure and manufacturing sectors. While steel demand growth is expected to remain concentrated in emerging economies, India's strong domestic demand, expanding production capacity and increasing integration with global supply chains provide opportunities for the sector to strengthen its position in the global steel market.

India remained the world's second-largest crude steel producer in FY26, with production of 169.2 million tonnes, reflecting a 11.2% increase over FY25. The country's expanding steel capacity, supported by infrastructure development, construction, automotive manufacturing and other industrial activities, provides a strong domestic demand base. Finished steel consumption reached 164.2 million tonnes in FY26, while consumption during April–August FY27 stood at 70.3 million tonnes. Continued growth in domestic consumption can support capacity utilisation and provide Indian producers with a relatively resilient market even amid volatility in global trade and steel prices.

Policy measures are also supporting India's transition toward higher-value and more competitive steel production. The Production Linked Incentive (PLI) Scheme for Specialty Steel, with an overall outlay of Rs 6,322 crore, was introduced to promote domestic manufacturing of higher-value steel grades and reduce import dependence. The Government subsequently launched PLI Scheme 1.1 on January 6, 2025, for FY26-FY30, relaxing investment and capacity thresholds, introducing production carry-forward flexibility and lowering entry requirements for strategically important CRGO steel. Round 1.2, launched on November 4, 2025, further expanded coverage to 22 subcategories, with incentives of 4% to 15% on incremental sales. With earlier rounds attracting committed investments of Rs 438.74 billion, the evolving framework is expected to support advanced capacity creation, process innovation, import substitution and export competitiveness in high-value specialty steel.

The global transition toward lower-carbon production is also creating both opportunities and challenges for Indian steel manufacturers. India notified its Green Steel Taxonomy in December 2024, establishing a framework for identifying and promoting lower-emission steel and supporting investment in green technologies. The Government's decarbonisation roadmap includes measures such as energy efficiency, renewable energy, green hydrogen, material efficiency and carbon capture, utilisation and storage. Adoption of these technologies could enhance the long-term competitiveness of Indian steel producers, particularly as global customers increasingly focus on the carbon intensity of steel supply chains. However, the transition will also require significant capital investment and improvements in technology, energy efficiency and raw-material availability.

Overall, the global economic environment presents a combination of opportunities and risks for India's steel industry. Strong domestic consumption and capacity expansion can support growth, while supply-chain diversification and rising demand for higher-value and lower-carbon steel could create opportunities in international markets. At the same time, global trade restrictions, competitive pressure from major steel-producing countries, volatility in raw-material and steel prices, and rising decarbonisation requirements could influence the pace and profitability of sectoral growth.

Impact of Free Trade Agreements (FTAs) on the Indian Steel Industry

Free Trade Agreements (FTAs) can have a mixed impact on India's steel industry by improving market access while also increasing competitive pressures from imports. Preferential tariff access under agreements with countries such as Japan, Australia and the UAE can create opportunities for Indian steel producers to expand exports, particularly where Indian products are cost-competitive and meet applicable rules of origin and quality requirements. FTAs can also support greater integration of Indian steel manufacturers into regional supply chains and encourage investment and technology adoption.
However, increased trade openness can expose domestic producers to greater import competition, particularly in segments where overseas producers have cost or scale advantages. China remains a significant source of finished-steel imports into India, although such imports are not a direct consequence of FTAs. The Government has consequently maintained trade-remedy measures, including anti-dumping and countervailing duties on certain steel products and a safeguard duty on specified non-alloy and alloy steel flat products. Overall, the impact of FTAs will depend on the balance between export opportunities, import competition, product-level tariff concessions and the competitiveness of Indian steel producers.

1.2 Indian Economic Outlook

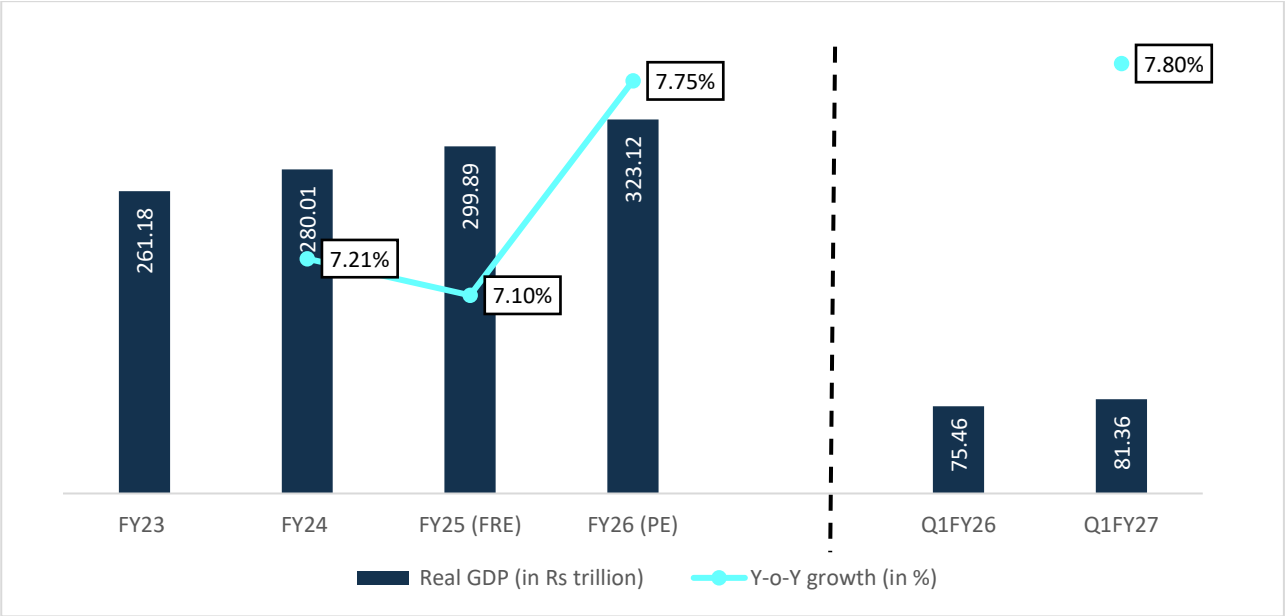

1.2.1 GDP Growth and Outlook

Resilience to External Shocks remains Critical for Near-Term Outlook

The Indian economy continues to show rapid growth. As per provisional estimates, GDP in FY26 is expected to have grown by 7.75%, supported by strong domestic consumption, investment, manufacturing and services activity. The economy showed resilience while the global economic environment remains challenging due to geopolitical tensions, trade-policy uncertainty and financial vulnerabilities. In Q1FY27, the growth has expectedly grown by 7.80% from Q1FY26.

For FY25, first revised estimates show a growth of 7.10% (Rs 299.89 trillion), led by robust performance in manufacturing, construction and financial services. Consumer spending rose by 7.70%, and government spending increased by 5.50%, both contributing to the overall growth. In FY23, the real GDP stood at Rs 261.18 trillion and registered Y-o-Y growth of 7.21% in FY24 (Rs 280.01 trillion).

GDP Growth Outlook (August 2026)

FY27 GDP Outlook: The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) projects real GDP growth at 6.70% for 2026–27, supported by sustained momentum in the services sector, strong reservoir levels aiding the agricultural sector, and private consumption expected to remain uplifted by discretionary spending.

However, elevated energy and other commodity prices, cost pressures, as well as the travel disruptions in the Strait of Hormuz are likely to affect growth this year. However, the government is working towards minimising the impact of the supply chain disruptions towards critical sectors to ensure limited interruptions.

1.2.2 Fiscal Deficit (as a % of GDP)

In FY21, India's fiscal deficit was 9.20% due to the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic; since then, it has seen a steady improvement and is expected to reduce to 4.8% of GDP in FY25 (RE), driven by strong economic growth and higher tax and non-tax revenues. The government aims for further fiscal consolidation, setting a target of 4.40% of GDP for FY26 to maintain fiscal prudence.

1.2.3 Consumer Price Index

Between January and August 2026, inflation averaged around 3.17% across the Consumer Price Index. By August 2026, inflation increased to 4.82% on a Year-on-Year basis, compared with 4.45% in July 2026 over July 2025. Within this, the rural inflation rate stood at 5.23%, while the urban inflation rate was comparatively lower at 4.31%. This indicates an overall modest inflationary trend, with rural areas experiencing relatively higher price pressures than urban regions.

Chart 4: Retail Price Inflation in Terms of Index and Y-o-Y Growth in % (Base: 2011-12=100, 2023-24=100)

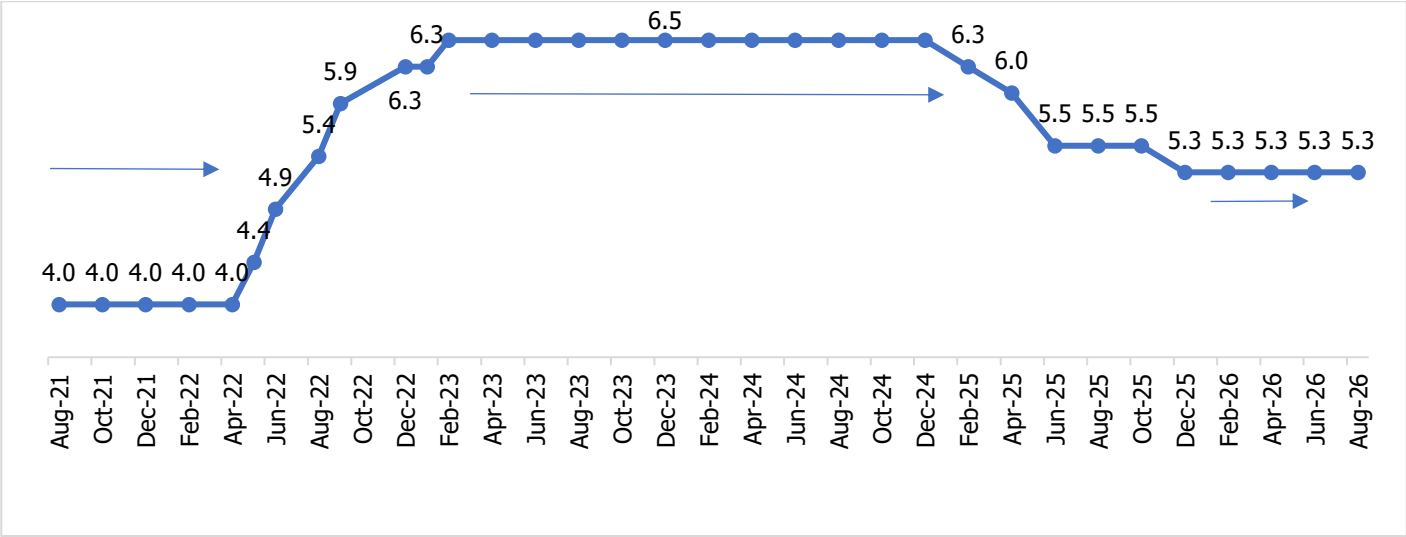

Source: MOSPI

The CPI is primarily factored in by the RBI while preparing its bi-monthly monetary policy. At the bi-monthly meeting held in August 2026, the RBI projected inflation at 5.00% for FY27, with inflation during Q2FY27 at 4.70%, Q3FY27 at 5.90%, Q4FY27 at 5.50%, and Q1FY28 at 5.30%.

Considering the current inflation situation, RBI has maintained the repo rate at 5.25% in the August 2026 meeting of the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC).

Chart 5: RBI historical Repo Rate

Source: RBI

RBI maintained a 'neutral' monetary policy stance, even as the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) noted an increase in geopolitical tensions. The RBI has adopted a non-inflationary growth strategy, supported by strong demand and supply fundamentals while maintaining macroeconomic stability. With volatile trade conditions in view, the domestic growth and inflation curve requires policies to be supportive.

The India Meteorological Department (IMD) expects a below-normal monsoon, with rains in most parts of the country, except in some areas of the northeast, southern peninsula, and northwest India, which is likely to affect inflation levels.

Despite elevated global crude oil prices, India initially kept retail petrol and diesel prices stable by reducing central excise duty and absorbing part of the cost through state-owned oil marketing companies. Subsequently, retail fuel prices were increased in a phased manner to partly pass on the higher input costs to consumers. The rise in energy prices and weather disturbances affecting food prices are upside risks to inflation.

India's economic growth and prevailing macroeconomic conditions are relevant factors for the steel processing industry. Industry reports indicate that domestic steel demand has recorded comparatively strong growth, supported by activity across construction, infrastructure and manufacturing sectors. Trends in manufacturing activity may also influence steel consumption and capacity utilisation among downstream steel processors. Changes in monetary policy and financing conditions can affect borrowing costs and the availability of credit for capital expenditure and working capital requirements, which may have a bearing on the cost structure of industry participants. In addition, government infrastructure expenditure, trade policy measures and other policy initiatives may influence domestic steel prices, import competition and operating conditions for steel processors. The overall operating environment for the industry will therefore depend on domestic demand conditions, input and steel price movements, financing costs, policy measures and developments in global markets.

1.2.4 GVA in the Industrial Sector

GVA is the measure of the value of goods and services produced in an economy. GVA gives a picture of the supply side, whereas GDP represents consumption. GVA in FY25 was powered by a broad-based rebound across sectors. In FY26 (PE), real GVA growth of 7.9% is primarily led by Manufacturing. Industry is estimated at 8.5%, supported by a pickup in manufacturing and construction (10.7% and 7.4%, respectively). The gap between GDP and GVA growth stood at 0.15 percentage points in FY26, with GDP growing at 7.75% and GVA at 7.90%.
GVA grew by 8.2% in Q1FY27, accelerating from 7.0% in Q1FY26, indicating broad-based improvement in economic activity. The industrial sector declined by 2.4%, even though there was a 9.2% growth in manufacturing sector and a 7.7% growth in construction sector. This was due to a contraction of 2.4% in mining. Overall, the GVA performance points to stronger industrial activity.

1.2.5 Investment Trend in Infrastructure

Gross Fixed Capital Formation (GFCF) is a measure of net increase in physical assets. GFCF as a share of GDP eased during FY23–FY25 and was estimated to be broadly stable in FY26. This pattern is aligned with a period in which nominal GDP expanded, while investment growth remained positive, it did not outpace the overall nominal expansion. GFCF rose by 8.9% in FY25 and 9.9% in FY26 in real terms, alongside continued growth in consumption, indicating that the movement in the ratio reflects relative GDP shares rather than a decline in investment activity.

In Q1FY27, GFCF recorded a strong 20.4% year-on-year growth, indicating a robust increase in nominal investment activity. Its share in GDP rose to 34.30% from 31.40% in Q1FY26, reflecting higher investment intensity in the economy.

Overall, the support of public investment in infrastructure is likely to gain traction due to initiatives such as Atmanirbhar Bharat, Make in India, and Production-linked Incentive (PLI) scheme announced across various sectors.

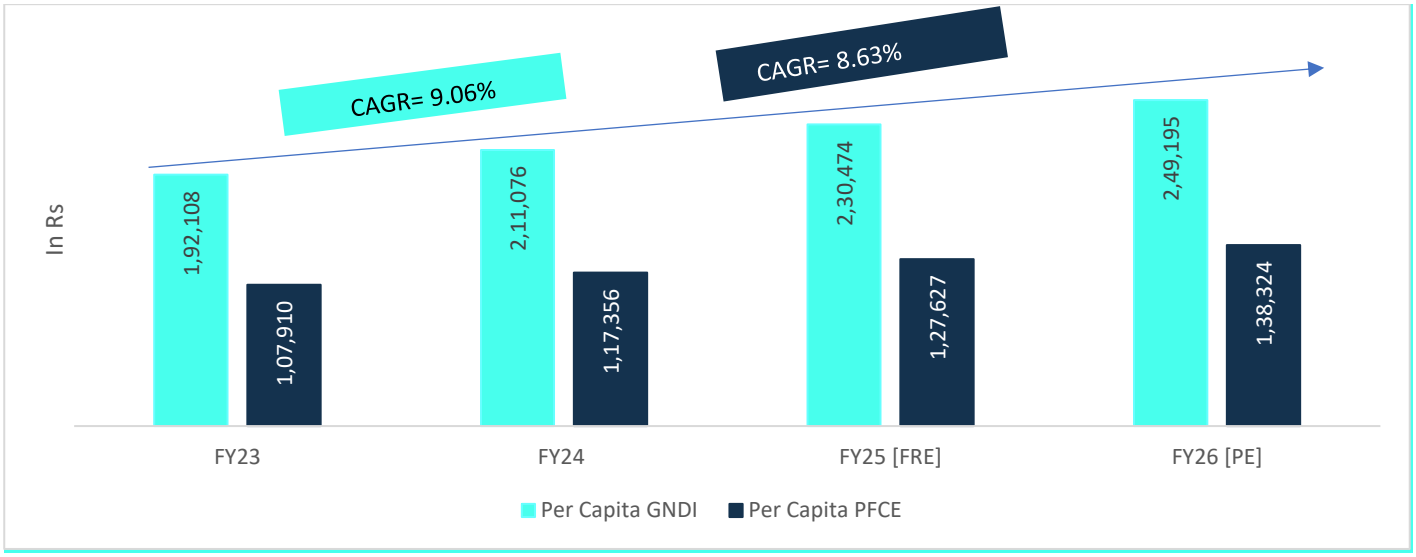

1.2.6 Per capita PFCE and GNDI

- Increasing Disposable Income and Consumer Spending

Gross National Disposable Income (GNDI) is a measure of the income available to the nation for final consumption and gross savings. Between the period FY23 and FY26, per capita GNDI at current prices registered a CAGR of 9.1%. More disposable income drives more consumption, thereby driving economic growth.

With an increase in disposable income, there has been a gradual change in the country's consumer spending behaviour. Per capita Private Final Consumption Expenditure (PFCE), which is a measure of consumer spending, has also shown significant growth from FY23 to FY26 at a CAGR of 8.6%.

1.2.7 Industrial Growth

The Index of Industrial Production (IIP) in India grew by 6.30% Year-on-Year from April-Jul (FY27), showing steady but moderate industrial momentum, supported by 7.30% growth in the manufacturing sector and strong growth of 8.70% in the Electricity & Gas Supply sector.

1.2.8 Key Demographic Drivers for Economic Growth

- Population growth and Urbanization

The trajectory of economic growth and private consumption in India is driven by socio-economic factors such as demographics and urbanisation. According to the World Bank, India's population in CY22 surpassed 1.42 billion, slightly higher than China's population (1.41 billion) and became the most populous country in the world.
The Age Dependency Ratio, which is the ratio of dependents to the working age population has been on a declining trend. The ratio covers age 15 to 64 years, wherein dependents are population younger than 15 and older than 64. Declining dependency ratio indicates that the country has an improving share of working-age population generating income, which is a good sign for the economy. It was as high as 76% in 1983, which has reduced to 47% in CY23. However, this ratio is expected to rise again to 54% by CY36, driven by an increase in the elderly population as life expectancy improves.

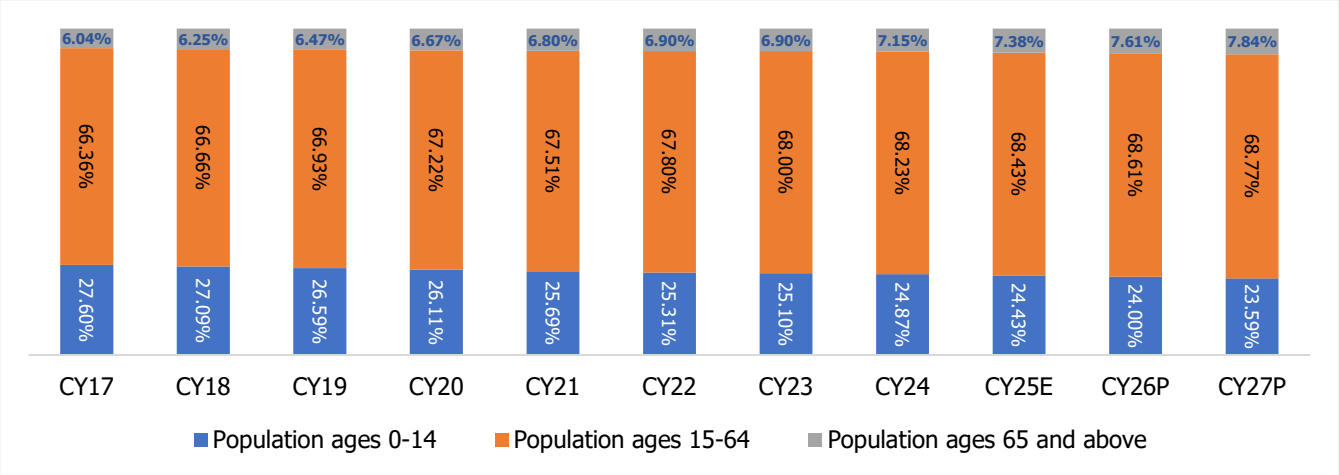

Chart 8: Trend in Population growth vis-à-vis dependency ratio in India (in Billion)

Source: World Bank Database, MOSPI; Note; E- Estimated, P- Projected

Despite a projected rise in the dependency ratio to 54% by CY36, India's young and growing workforce, especially in newly urbanised towns, will continue to drive income growth and consumer demand. This presents strong opportunities for sectors like consumer electronics, transportation and railways. Rising employment, urbanisation, and government investment in rural development and digital infrastructure will further boost demand, while increased tech adoption supports long-term consumption growth across both urban and rural markets.

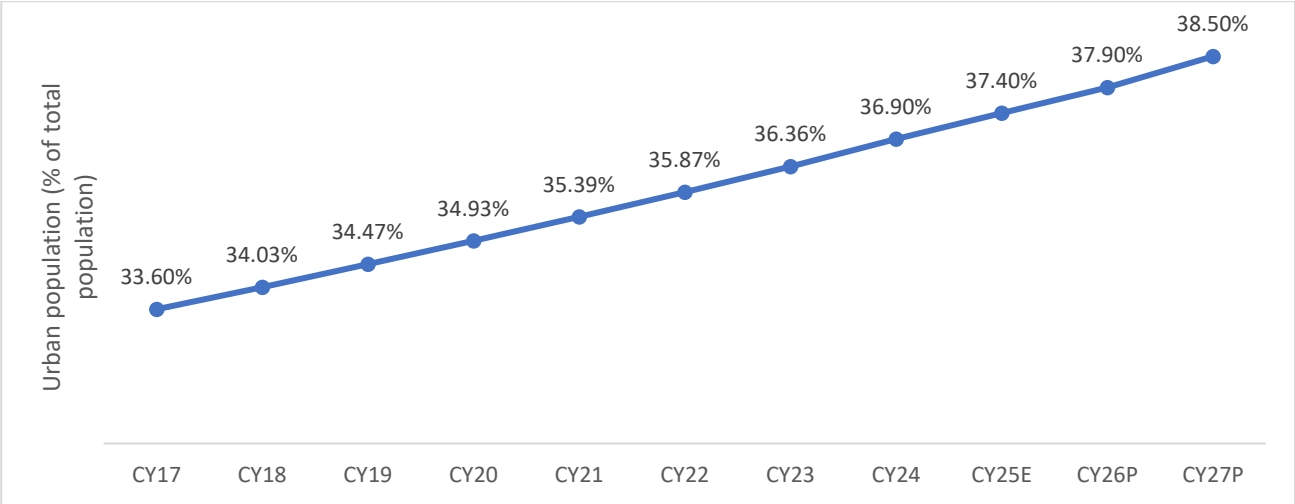

Chart 9: Age-Wise Break Up of Indian population (% of working-age population)

The urban population is significantly growing in India. The urban population in India is estimated to have increased from 413 million (32% of total population) in CY13 to 519.5 million (36.4% of total population) in the year CY23. India is undergoing a significant urban transformation, with the urban population projected to rise to 40% by CY36. This shift is driven by factors such as improved living standards, increased employment opportunities in urban areas and government initiatives aimed at urban development. This rapid urbanisation might necessitate substantial investments in infrastructure, housing and transportation.

1.2.9 Key Government policies driving economic growth

- AtmaNirbhar Bharat Policy

Launched in May 2020, the Atmanirbhar Bharat Abhiyan (Self-Reliant India Mission) was announced by Prime Minister Narendra Modi on 12 May 2020 to strengthen India's self-reliance, resilience and domestic capabilities, particularly in response to the economic disruption caused by the COVID-19 pandemic.

- The campaign is supported by a comprehensive economic package of INR 20 lakh crore, equivalent to 10% of India's GDP, designed to stimulate the economy and support various sectors during the pandemic.
- The strategy is built on five pillars of Economy (Focus on boosting economic growth and strengthening the economic structure), Infrastructure (Development of modern infrastructure to support economic activities and growth), Systems (Enhancing and streamlining systems for better efficiency and governance), Vibrant Demography (Leveraging the demographic dividend by improving employment opportunities and skills), and Demand (Stimulating consumer demand and fostering a robust market)
- Under the Abhiyan, several reforms and enablers have been introduced across seven key sectors, including:
  - Supply Chain Reforms for Agriculture: To improve efficiency and reduce bottlenecks.
  - Rational Tax Systems: Simplification of tax laws to enhance compliance and ease of doing business.
  - Simple & Clear Laws: Streamlining legal processes to foster a conducive business environment.
  - Capable Human Resource: Investment in skill development and human resource capabilities.
  - Strong Financial System: Strengthening financial institutions and systems to support economic activities.

The Atmanirbhar Bharat Abhiyan reflects a vision for a more self-reliant and resilient India, focusing on enhancing domestic capabilities and reducing dependency on external factors.

- Production Linked Incentive (PLI) Scheme

Launched across multiple sectors from 2020 onwards, the Production Linked Incentive (PLI) Scheme aims to strengthen India's domestic manufacturing capabilities, attract investments, enhance exports, increase production, generate employment and improve the global competitiveness of Indian manufacturers. The scheme is intended to encourage scale, deepen domestic value addition and reduce import dependence across strategically important sectors.

The PLI programme covers 14 key sectors with an approved financial outlay of approximately Rs 1.91 lakh crore. The sectors include Large-Scale Electronics Manufacturing, IT Hardware, Pharmaceuticals, Bulk Drugs, Medical Devices, Automobiles and Auto Components, Advanced Chemistry Cell (ACC) Batteries, High Efficiency Solar PV Modules, Telecom & Networking Products, Food Products, Textiles, Specialty Steel, White Goods, and Drones & Drone Components. All 14 sector-specific schemes have been implemented by the respective Ministries/Departments and are at different stages of execution.

The scheme has recorded significant progress in implementation. As of 31 March 2026, actual investments of over Rs 2.40 lakh crore had been realised across the 14 sectors, generating production/sales of more than Rs 22.66 lakh crore, exports exceeding Rs 15.20 lakh crore, and employment of over 14.15 lakh persons, including direct and indirect employment.

As of 31 December 2025, the Government had approved 836 applications across the 14 sectors, while cumulative incentives disbursed stood at approximately Rs 28,748 crore.

The PLI schemes are designed to support investments in advanced manufacturing capabilities, improve operational efficiency, achieve economies of scale and promote deeper integration with global value chains. The progress to date indicates strengthening domestic manufacturing capacity and export competitiveness across several sectors, particularly electronics, pharmaceuticals, automobiles, food processing and solar PV modules.

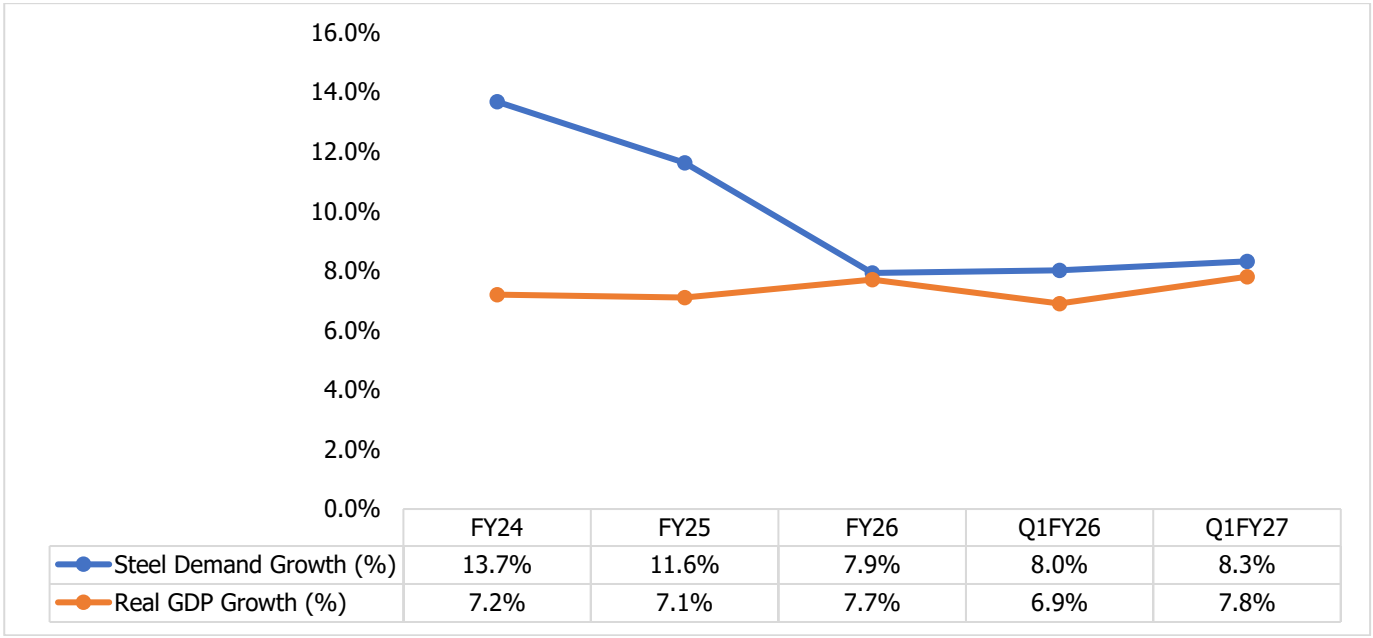

1.2.10 Correlation of Steel Demand Growth with GDP Growth

The growth in India's steel demand closely mirrors the country's real GDP performance, underscoring the strong connection between these sectors. Additionally, increased investments in infrastructure and manufacturing play a crucial role in increasing demand for capital-intensive industries like steel. Domestic finished steel consumption has surged, driven by infrastructure investments and a recovery in the automotive sector, particularly with the rise of electric vehicles. This growing demand reflects broader economic recovery and expansion.

Robust GDP growth, fuelled by investments in construction and manufacturing, supports the rising demand for steel. The construction, automotive, and infrastructure sectors are key drivers, with government initiatives like Make in India and the PM Gati Shakti plan propelling steel demand. Investments in railways, airports, and metro rail projects, with allocations of Rs 3.09 trillion for the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways and Rs 2.78 trillion for Indian Railways, further strengthen this trend. Additionally, the automotive sector, driven by strong support for electric vehicles, and the growing two-wheeler and three-wheeler markets, fuel ongoing steel demand. As these sectors continue to expand, the demand for steel will remain tightly aligned with India's economic growth, fostering long-term, sustainable growth in steel consumption.

This rising demand in steel consumption across industries leads to increased reliance on SPCs for customized, high-quality steel products. As sectors like automotive, infrastructure, and real estate grow, SPCs play a crucial role in streamlining steel supply chains by providing tailored solutions and ensuring timely delivery. Additionally, SPCs support India's sustainability goals by minimising waste and contributing to efficient steel use, positioning them as vital players in India's growing steel consumption and global exports.

1.3 Concluding Remarks

From a macroeconomic standpoint, India remains one of the most resilient large economies in a challenging global environment. The IMF forecasts GDP growth for India at 6.70% in CY26, far outpacing the estimated CY26 global average of 3.06%. This performance reflects a combination of strong domestic fundamentals, policy stability and a sustained focus on capital formation. While the global economy continues to face uncertainty from geopolitical conflicts, commodity price volatility and rising public debt, India's diversified growth drivers, stable policy framework and expanding export ecosystem position it well to navigate these headwinds.

The key sectors with potential exposure to changes in US tariff policy include engineering goods, electronics, gems and jewellery, pharmaceuticals, textiles and automobiles/auto components, given their material export linkages to the US market.

As of June 2026, India–US trade negotiations are ongoing, and the final Bilateral Trade Agreement (BTA) has not yet been concluded. In February 2026, both countries announced a framework for an Interim Agreement aimed at promoting reciprocal and mutually beneficial trade. Under this framework, the United States proposed an 18% reciprocal tariff rate on Indian goods, while also indicating the possible removal of tariffs on sectors such as generic pharmaceuticals, gems and diamonds, aircraft parts and certain engineering products, subject to finalization of the agreement.

India continues to strengthen its position through diversification of trade partnerships and expansion of FTAs with the EU, UK, EFTA and other economies. This, along with India's growing manufacturing capacity and supply-chain integration, supports its competitiveness in sectors such as electronics, textiles, pharmaceuticals and auto components.

A ceasefire agreement between the US and Iran is expected to be finalized soon; however, a permanent truce between the two remains uncertain. The Iran conflict has led to an increase in prices of consumer products in India due to potential higher fuel, freight and input costs, which can make everyday goods like FMCG items, plastics and packaged foods more expensive. Disruptions in shipping and fertiliser supplies are also pushing up food prices, affecting imports of agricultural inputs and leading to costlier food products for consumers. Overall, delays in trade routes and rising logistics costs are reducing availability and increasing prices of imported consumer goods, especially from Gulf-linked supply chains. Overall, this is leading to supply shortages, rising costs, and production slowdowns in India's chemical and pharma sectors, with the impact likely to worsen if the conflict continues. Prolonged geopolitical tensions or conflict in the region could lead to sustained increases in crude oil and LPG prices, which may translate into higher input costs across industries and contribute to inflationary pressures in the Indian economy.

Domestically, a below-normal monsoon and potential El Niño conditions may contribute to higher food inflation, which could affect household spending and consumer sentiment, particularly in rural markets. Elevated prices of essential commodities may reduce discretionary spending; however, strong domestic demand, urban consumption, and rising income levels are expected to support overall growth in the consumer sector.

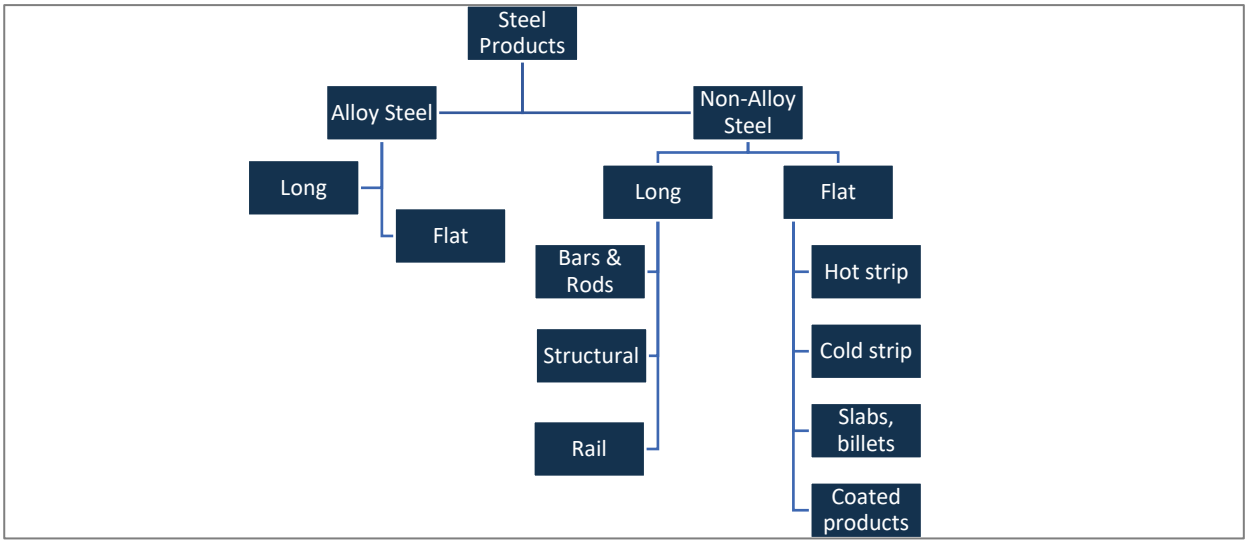

Policy momentum remains strong. The 56th meeting of the GST Council marked a major structural reform by proposing a simplified two-rate system of 5% and 18%, replacing the earlier four-slab framework, along with a 40% demerit rate for luxury and sin goods. This rationalisation aims to reduce compliance burdens, enhance efficiency, and stimulate private consumption. Together with recent revisions in personal income tax rates, these measures are projected to release savings exceeding Rs 2.5 lakh crore into the economy, supporting demand and easing inflationary pressures.

The Union Budget's allocation of Rs 12.20 lakh crore for capital expenditure in FY27 further reinforces the government's commitment to infrastructure-led growth. Public investment is expected to catalyse private sector activity, evidenced by rising project announcements and growing imports of capital goods. Improving rural demand, supported by healthy monsoon progress, favourable sowing conditions, and adequate reservoir levels, provides additional tailwinds for consumption and investment.

2. Global Steel Industry
2.1 Overview of the Global Steel Industry

Steel is a paramount material in the fields of construction and engineering. It has widespread applications in industries such as automotive, construction, consumer goods, infrastructure, capital goods, mechanical & medical equipment, packaging, and utensils, among others. Its popularity stems from its abundant availability, cost-effectiveness, exceptional strength and durability, ductility, and recyclability. According to the World Steel Association, there are over 3,500 different grades of steel produced worldwide, each possessing unique physical, chemical, and environmental properties to suit various applications.

Source: Industry Sources, CareEdge Research

The global per capita consumption has been on a decline since CY21. As of CY25, it stood at 209 kg, down from 215 kg in CY24. This downward trend reflects a combination of cyclical and structural factors. The most significant driver has been the prolonged slowdown in China's property and construction sector, which historically accounted for a substantial share of global steel consumption. As China's pace of urbanisation and infrastructure development slows, steel consumption intensity has moderated, constraining growth in global steel demand. At the same time, weaker manufacturing activity in several developed economies, elevated interest rates, economic uncertainty and slower investment in construction have constrained steel consumption across major regions. Increased material efficiency, greater use of high-strength steels requiring lower volumes, and a gradual shift toward circular economy practices and scrap-based production have also reduced steel requirements per unit of economic output. Regionally, the European Union recorded the highest per capita consumption at 301 kg in CY25, largely driven by high usage in countries like Czechia and Italy. This was followed by Other Europe at 298 kg and Asia at 272 kg.

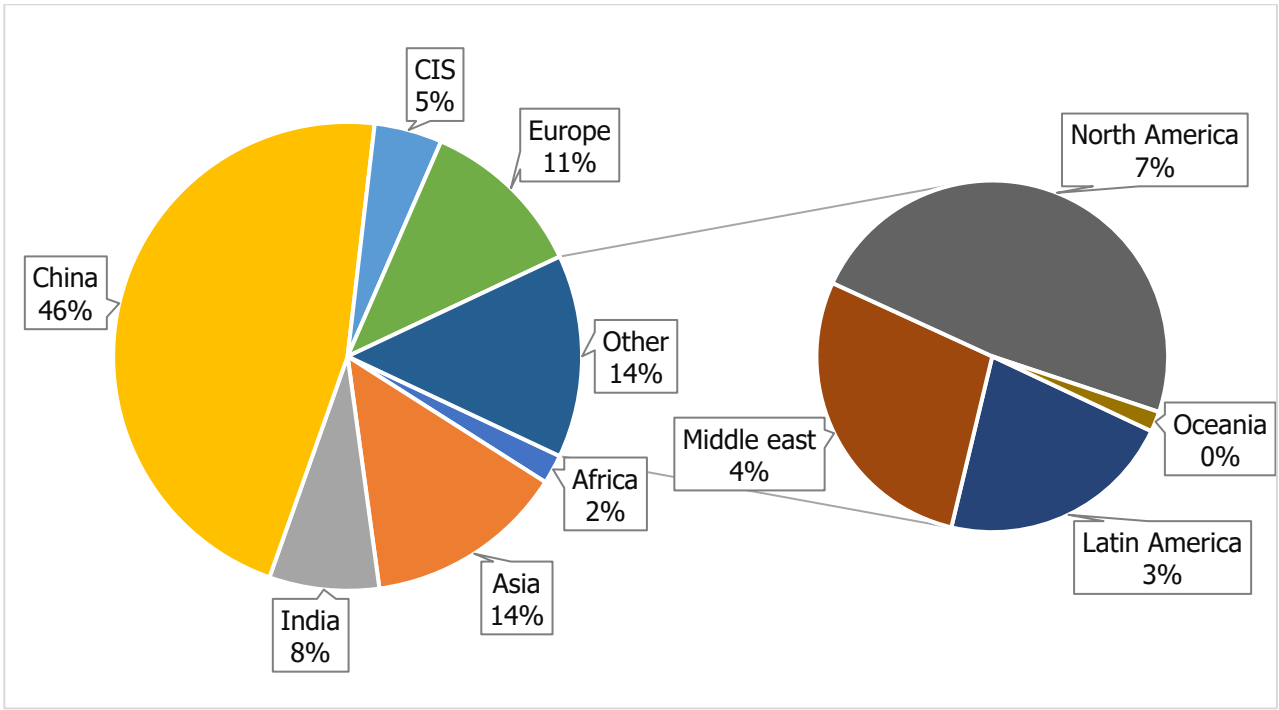

Chart 12: Global Per Capita Consumption (in kg)

In 2025, global steel producers operated with a combined production capacity of 2,445.1 million metric tonnes (MT), with Asia accounting for the largest share at 68%. China led the global steel industry, dominating capacity, production, and consumption. It maintained the highest steel production capacity worldwide, followed by producers in the European Union and India.

Chart 13: Region-wise Global Capacity in CY25

2.1.1 Global Steel Production

According to the World Steel Association, global crude steel production declined from approximately 1,883 million tonnes ("MT") in CY20 to approximately 1,849 MT in CY25, representing a compound annual decline of approximately 0.4% between CY20 and CY25. Global crude steel production declined by approximately 2.0% year-on-year in CY25, reflecting lower production across certain major steel-producing regions. During the first seven months of CY26, crude steel production across the 70 countries reporting to the World Steel Association stood at approximately 1,081.2 MT, representing a year-on-year decline of 0.6%. These reporting countries accounted for approximately 98% of global crude steel production in CY25. The decline during this period was primarily attributable to lower production in Asia and Oceania, Russia and other CIS countries plus Ukraine, and the Middle East, which more than offset production growth recorded in North America, Africa, the European Union and other European countries. Asia and Oceania recorded a year-on-year decline of 0.9% in crude steel production during January to July 2026, primarily reflecting a 3.1% decline in China's production. However, this decline was partly offset by production growth in India, where crude steel output increased by 6.1% during the same period. Production in Russia and other CIS countries plus Ukraine and the Middle East declined by 6.0% and 8.1%, respectively. In contrast, crude steel production in the European Union increased marginally by 0.4% during the period.

While global crude steel production remained subdued during the first seven months of CY26, the World Steel Association expects global steel demand to gradually improve. In its April 2026 Short Range Outlook, the association projected global steel demand to increase by 0.3% to approximately 1,724 MT in CY26, followed by growth of 2.2% to approximately 1,762 MT in CY27. The projected recovery is expected to be supported by continued demand growth in developing economies, including India, and an anticipated improvement across major developed economies. However, the outlook remains subject to risks arising from geopolitical developments, trade-related uncertainties, cost pressures and the pace of recovery in China's real estate sector.

Chart 14: Global Crude Steel Production

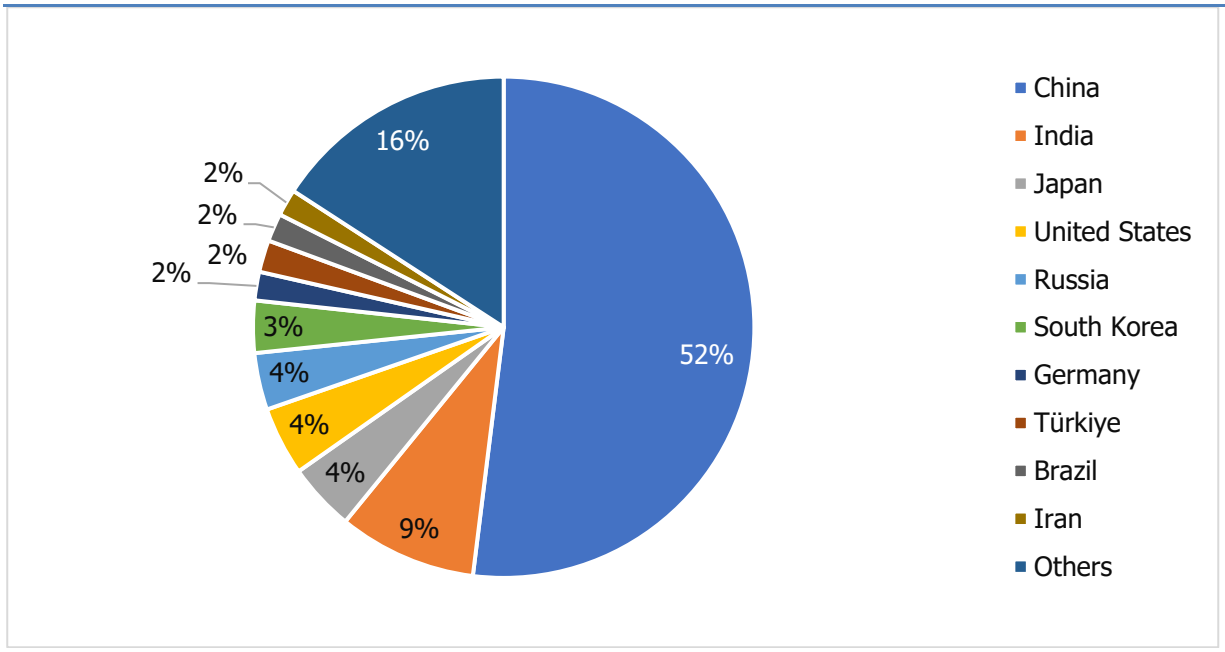

Source: World Steel Association
Note: YTD CY25 refers to the period from January 2025 - July 2025
YTD CY26 refers to the period from January 2026 - July 2026

The total crude steel production was approximately 1,849 MT in CY25, with China continuing to be the largest crude steel producer and accounting for over half of global production. However, Chinese crude steel production declined year-on-year during CY25, reflecting softer domestic steel demand and the ongoing structural adjustment in the country's property sector. The weakness in property-related activity, together with broader adjustments in the Chinese steel market, weighed on steel consumption and production during the year. At the same time, China's steel industry continues to face longer-term pressures relating to overcapacity, demand rebalancing and decarbonisation, which may influence future production levels.

India was the second largest producer of crude steel in CY25 with 9% share. This was followed by Japan, USA, and Russia each accounting for ~4% share each in the total production during CY25.

2.1.2 Global Steel Consumption

Steel is used in industries like energy, construction, automotive, transportation, infrastructure, packaging, and machinery. In CY25, global finished steel consumption declined by 2% year-on-year to 1,718 million tonnes (MT). The decline suggests that end-use sectors remain under pressure, particularly construction, real estate, and heavy manufacturing. Demand appears constrained by cautious investment sentiment, tighter financing conditions, and slower industrial activity across key steel-consuming regions. While infrastructure spending, energy transition projects, and emerging-market development may provide some support, these drivers do not appear sufficient to offset broader weakness in traditional steel demand. Overall, CY25 reflects a subdued demand environment, with the market likely focused more on stabilisation and selective regional recovery than broad-based growth.

In CY24, global finished steel consumption declined by 2% year-on-year to 1,742 million tonnes (MT), reflecting ongoing macroeconomic uncertainties and weak demand across key regions such as the European Union, the United States, and China. In contrast, India demonstrated resilience, with robust finished steel consumption driven by strong infrastructure investments and government policy support. Demand in India remained healthy supported by key sectors like automobiles, consumer durables, capital goods, and real estate.

In CY23, global finished steel consumption declined by 0.01% year-on-year to 1,778 million tonnes (MT). The global decline in steel demand was more pronounced in CY22, when finished steel consumption dropped by 3.5% year-on-year. This was due to a confluence of negative factors, including a slowdown in China, monetary tightening in the U.S. and Europe, inflation-induced cost escalations, and supply chain disruptions resulting from the Russia-Ukraine war. In China, steel consumption was further dampened by COVID-related lockdowns, environmental regulations, and a national push to cut carbon emissions. However, stimulus from the Chinese government has since been aimed at reviving demand, particularly through support to the construction and real estate sectors. In CY21, global finished steel consumption rose to 1,841 million tonnes, marking a strong recovery from the pandemic-induced slowdown. This growth was primarily driven by robust demand from the automotive and durable goods sectors in developed economies such as the United States, Europe, Japan, and South Korea.

2.1.3 Trend in Global Steel Prices

The average international steel price increased by approximately 4.1% quarter-on-quarter, from USD 508 per tonne in the quarter ended March 2026 to USD 529 per tonne in the quarter ended June 2026. The price recorded in the quarter ended June 2026 was also approximately 8.4% higher than USD 488 per tonne in the quarter ended June 2025. The improvement in prices during the first half of CY26 may be attributable to a combination of restocking activity, movements in raw-material costs and improved demand conditions in certain export markets. However, the extent of the recovery remained moderated by subdued construction and real-estate activity in certain major steel-consuming markets, including China, as well as competitive supply conditions across Asian export markets. Steel producers in export-oriented markets, including Japan and South Korea, also continued to face competitive pressures amid relatively subdued domestic demand and regional export competition.

Steel prices may continue to be influenced by, among other factors, global and regional demand conditions, raw-material and energy costs, capacity utilisation, inventory levels, trade measures, currency movements and geopolitical developments.

Steel prices had remained relatively subdued during CY25. After reaching USD 488 per tonne in the quarter ended June 2025, the benchmark price stood at USD 498 per tonne in the quarter ended December 2025, representing a marginal quarter-on-quarter decline of approximately 0.5%. As of March 2025, international steel prices stood at USD 506 per tonne, marking a decrease of 4.4% q-o-q and 14.1% y-o-y. This price decline reflects a continued weak demand and subdued economic activity in global steel-consuming hubs, with China contributing to increased global supply amidst its domestic slowdown.

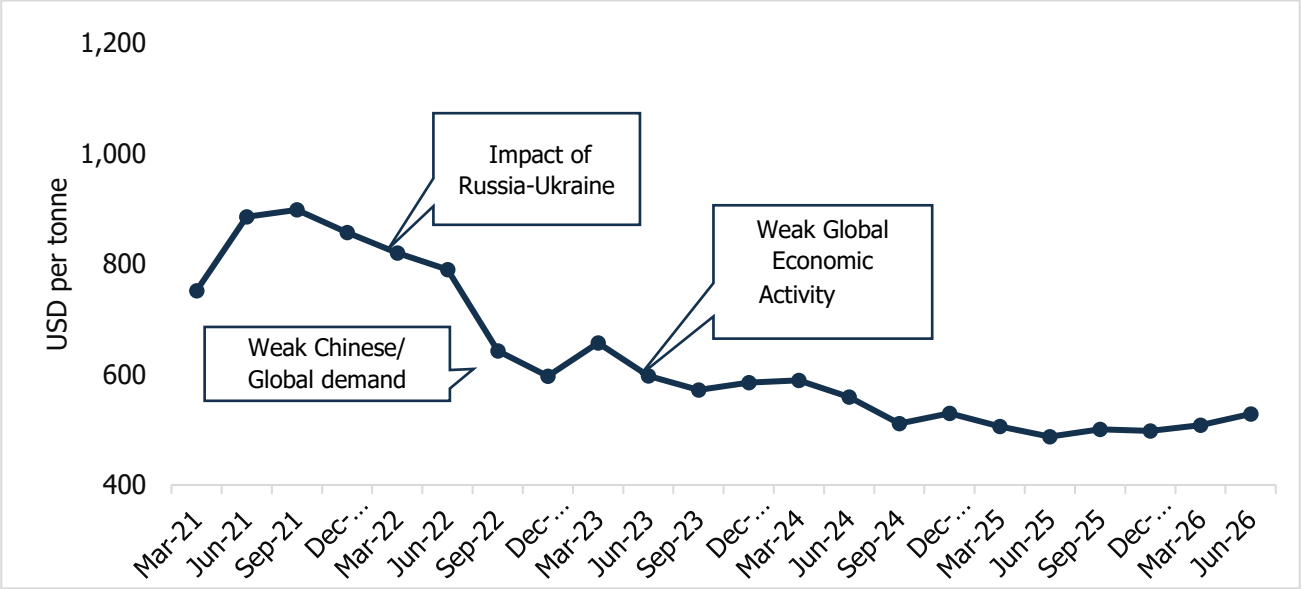

Steel prices increased by 3.6% q-o-q for the quarter ended December 2024, following an 8.6% drop in prices for the quarter ended September 2024. In the quarter ended June 2024, prices had decreased by 5.1% q-o-q to USD 560 per tonne due to China's increased supply in the global market and weak domestic demand. Prices rose slightly by 0.7% to USD 589 per tonne for the quarter ended March 2024, driven by a minor recovery in global steel demand.

During FY24, global steel prices had fallen by 11% y-o-y, standing at USD 572 per tonne in the quarter ended September 2023. The weak demand from China, which accounts for half of the world's steel production and consumption, particularly due to a decline in real estate investments, led to a surge in China's steel exports, thereby exerting downward pressure on international steel prices.

In FY23, global steel prices averaged around USD 672 per tonne, marking a 22.4% decline compared to the previous year. This price decline followed a period of significant price rises, particularly after December 2020, driven by disruptions in supply chains caused by the COVID-19 pandemic and rising raw material costs. The Russia-Ukraine war, which started in February 2022, further fuelled this price escalation. However, from June 2022, prices started to gradually decrease, falling to USD 597 per tonne in December 2022, primarily due to weak demand from China, caused by lockdowns, COVID-19-related restrictions, and sluggish global demand. A drop in iron ore and coking coal prices also contributed to this decline. From December 2022 onward, prices began to rise once again, supported by the relaxation of COVID-19 restrictions in China and expectations of demand recovery. By March 2023, steel prices had increased by 10.1% quarter-on-quarter, reaching USD 657 per tonne.

3. Indian Steel Industry

3.1 Overview of the Indian Steel Industry

Steel is a vital and versatile material that greatly enhances our lives. As a fundamental component in various manufacturing processes, it serves as the cornerstone for national economic growth. The steel sector is frequently regarded as a barometer of economic advancement due to its essential contributions to infrastructure and industrial expansion within a nation.

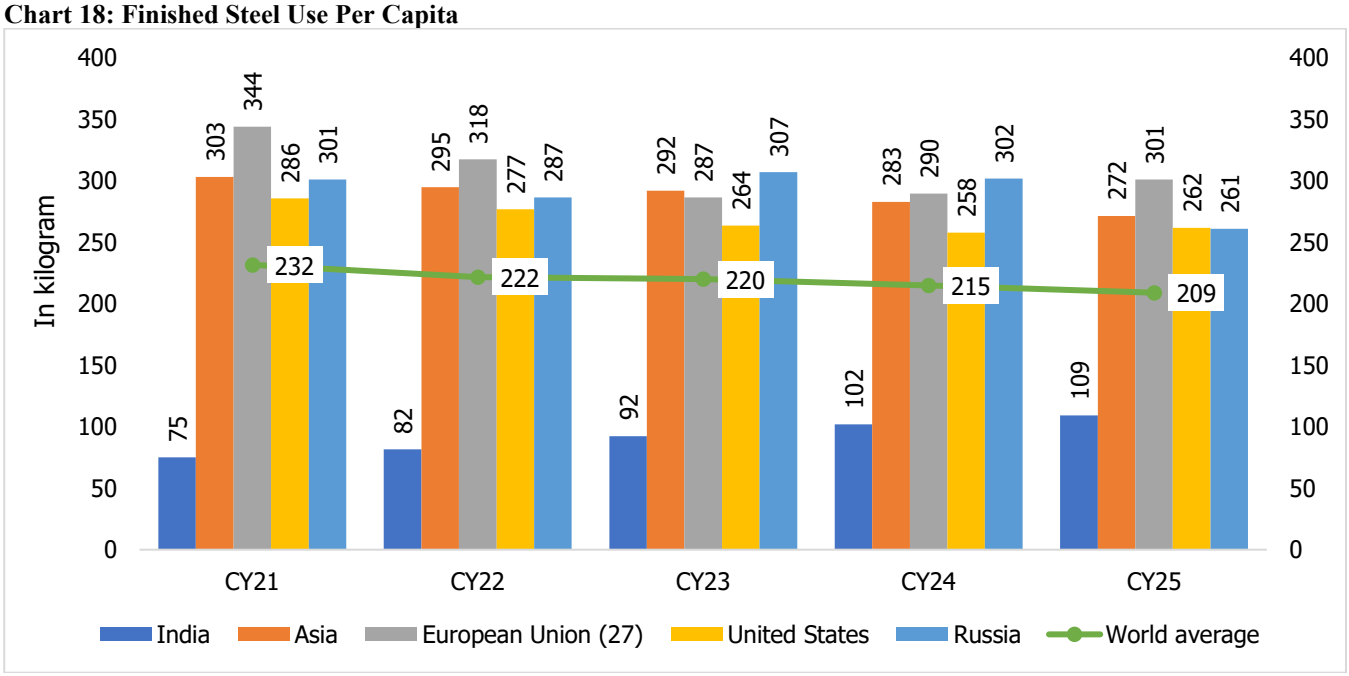

Additionally, initiatives such as joint ventures and 100% foreign direct investment (FDI) have propelled substantial investments into India's steel sector.

Steel industry growth contributes to all aspects of the economy, including GDP, industrial, and infrastructural development. It has an output multiplier effect of 1.4x on GDP with an employment multiplier effect of 6.8x[1]. As of FY27 (April–June 2026, provisional), India's installed steel production capacity stood at 222 MTPA (Million Tonnes Per Annum), making it the second-largest steel producer and the second-largest consumer of finished steel globally, with domestic consumption reaching 164 MT in FY26. This growth stems from the domestic availability of key raw materials such as iron ore, cost-effective labour, and strong demand from sectors like construction, consumer durables, capital goods, railways, real estate and automobiles. Additionally, India's extensive coastline has facilitated both exports and imports, positioning the country as a major player in the global steel industry.

In CY25, India's per capita finished steel consumption stood at 109.2 kg, well below the global average of 209 kg. To address this gap, the Government of India, under its Atmanirbhar Bharat vision, introduced the National Steel Policy 2017. The policy targets a steel-making capacity of 300 MT by CY30 and aims to raise per capita steel consumption to 160 kg. These goals highlight the sector's untapped domestic potential and its critical role in driving India's future economic growth. India has attracted substantial investment into its steel sector through initiatives such as joint ventures and 100% foreign direct investment (FDI). These efforts have accelerated the industry's expansion and integration into global value chains.

Changes in U.S. trade policy have increased tariff barriers on steel imports and altered the competitive landscape for major steel-exporting countries. The termination of preferential Section 232 arrangements for Japan and South Korea in March 2025, followed by subsequent changes to U.S. steel tariffs, could encourage affected producers to diversify their export markets. This may create incremental opportunities for Indian steel producers in selected markets; however, the extent of any benefit will depend on relative pricing, product competitiveness, trade measures and demand conditions across destination markets.

3.1.1 Structure of the Indian Steel industry by different types of end products

Crude and Finished Steel:

Crude Steel:

- Definition: The basic, unrefined form of steel produced from iron ore.
- Production process: Basic Oxygen Process or Electric Arc Furnace.
- Characteristics: Contains impurities and is not suitable for direct use.

Finished Steel

- Definition: Processed steel that is shaped into final products (e.g., bars, sheets).
- Production: Involves rolling, forging, and heat treatment to enhance properties.
- Characteristics: Lower impurities, tailored for specific applications in various industries.

Crude steel is an intermediate product; finished steel is ready for use in construction, automotive, and other applications.

Table 4: Production and Consumption (In Million Tonnes)

	Crude Steel	Finished Steel
2020-21	104	96	95
2021-22	120	114	106
2022-23	127	123	120
2023-24	144	139	136
2024-25	152	147	152
2025-26	169	162	164
2026-27 (April 2026-August 2026)	70	68	70

Source: CMIE

India's steel consumption has seen robust growth, expanding at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 11.6% over the last six years. It rose from 95 million tonnes in FY21 to 164 million tonnes in FY26. This increase in demand has been closely supported by the production of crude steel, which also grew steadily at a CAGR of 10.3% during the same period. This growth reflects the expanding infrastructure, construction, and manufacturing sectors, driving both production and consumption of steel in the country. Additionally, final consumption rose by 7.9% y-o-y, reaching 164 million tonnes by FY26.

3.1.1.1 Demand Segmentation by Product

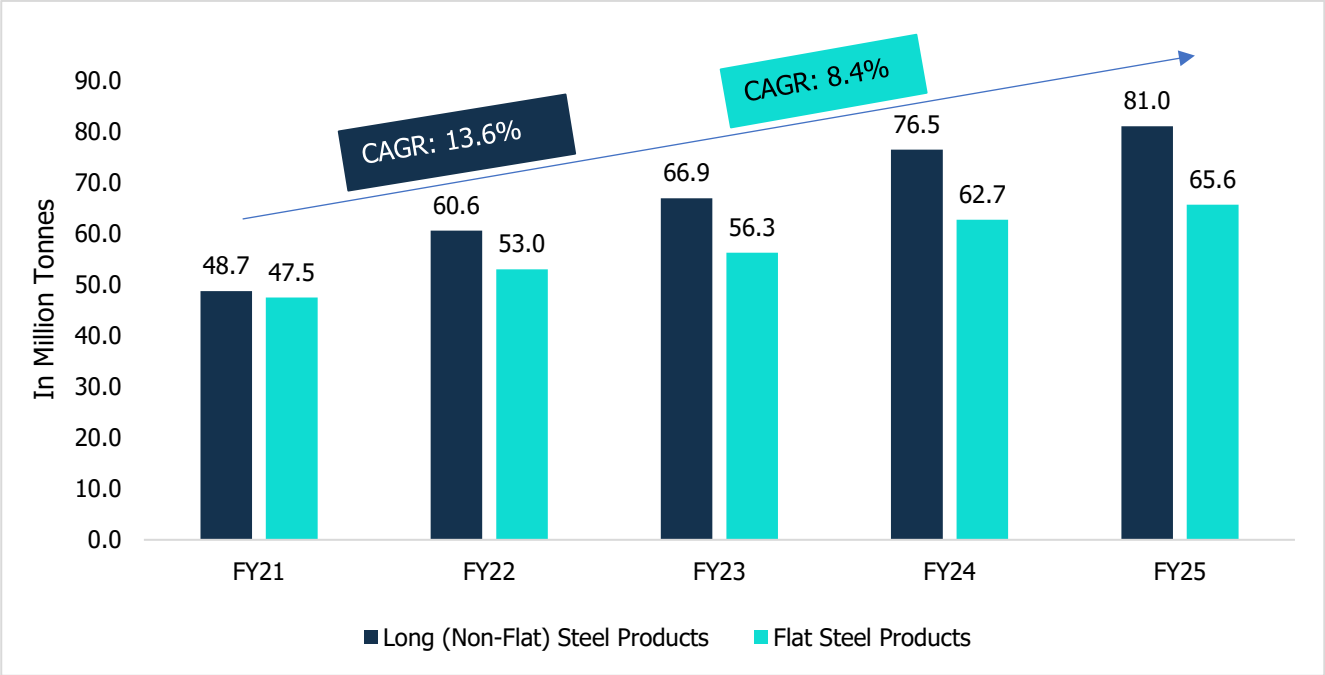

By product, steel can be divided into long (non-flat) and flat products, both of which have either a hot-rolled, cold-formed, or coated surface.

- Long (Non-Flat) Steel products: Long steel products, which are widely used in construction, mechanical engineering, and energy industries, are supplied in straight lengths or cut to specific sizes, except for wire rods, which are provided in coils. These products are made from hot-rolled or forged blooms, billets, or pencil ingots, with key types including bars, rods, TMT bars, wire rods, angles, shapes, sections, rails, and bright bars. Known for their strength and stability, they are essential for infrastructure and industrial applications worldwide. The demand for these products is primarily driven by ongoing construction and infrastructure development, with government initiatives like housing projects and large-scale infrastructure plans playing a significant role. Long steel products are crucial for building durable structures, such as tall buildings, bridges, and industrial plants, while urbanisation and the increasing use of sustainable materials in construction further boost their demand.

- Flat Steel products: Flat steel products are made by processing slabs or thin slabs in rolling mills using flat rolls, offering versatility across industries such as automotive, heavy machinery, construction, packaging, and appliances. These products are available in various forms, including Hot Rolled (HR), Cold Rolled (CR), and coated options, and include Galvanised Plain/Galvanised Corrugated sheets, HR coils/sheets, CR sheets/coils, pipes, electrical sheets, tin plates, and plates. Known for their durability and reliability, flat steel products are crucial in applications requiring structural support, corrosion resistance, and electrical conductivity. The demand for these products is rising due to increased consumer spending, particularly in sectors like automotive, packaging, and industrial manufacturing. As construction trends shift towards metal-intensive residential projects, there is also a growing need for flat steel products in applications like roofing and cladding. The demand for these products is expected to continue growing, driven by the need for sustainable, durable materials across multiple industries.

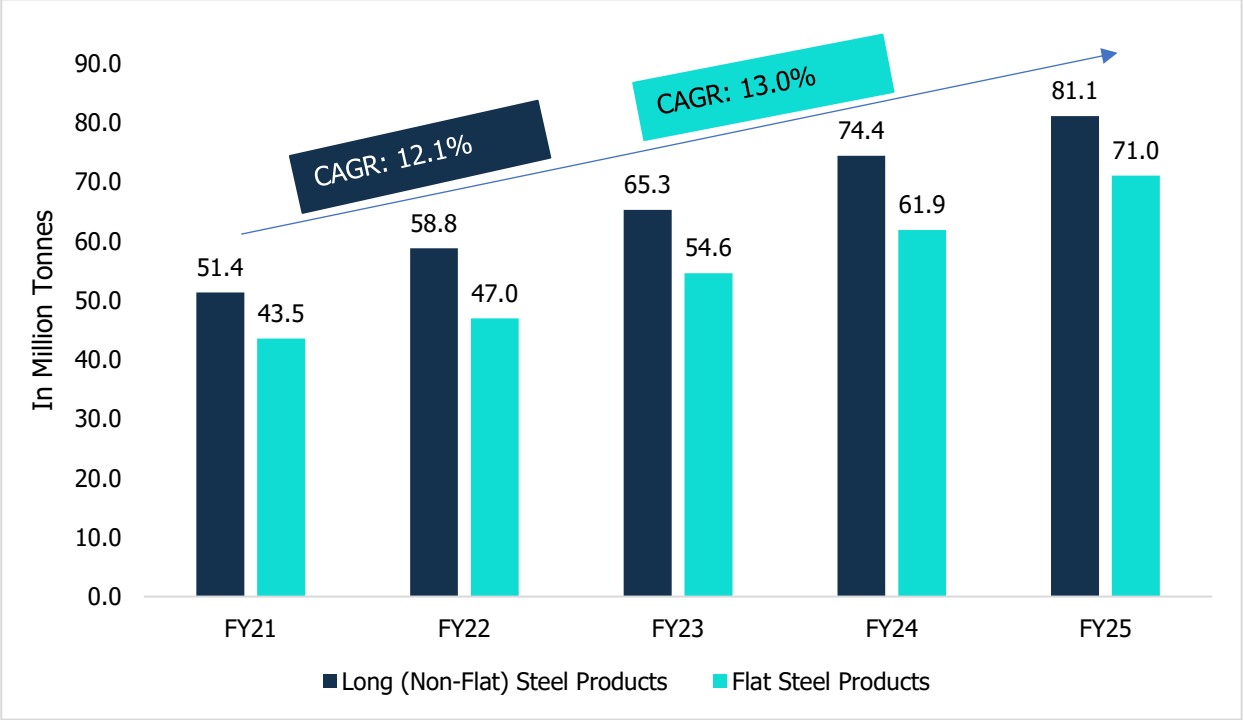

Long (Non-Flat) Steel Products holds a higher share in total finished steel production than Flat Steel Products for the period from FY21 to FY25. As of FY25, Long (Non-Flat) Steel product holds 55% (81 million tonnes) share in total finished steel production, followed by Flat Steel product holding 45% (65.6 million tonnes). The production of Long (Non-Flat) Steel products increased from 48.7 million tonnes in FY21 to 81 million tonnes in FY25, while that for Flat Steel products increased from 47.5 million tonnes in FY21 to 65.6 million tonnes in FY25. The growing production for Long Steel products vis-à-vis Flat Steel products can be attributed to the growing demand from construction and infrastructure sector in India.

Chart 20: Domestic Steel Production, by Product

Source: Joint Plant Committee

Chart 21: Domestic Steel Consumption, by Product

Source: Joint Plant Committee

The production of both Long (Non-Flat) Steel Products and Flat Steel Products experienced consistent growth, registering a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 13.6% and 8.4%, respectively, from FY21 to FY25. This robust growth can be attributed to factors such as increased infrastructure development, urbanisation, and strong demand from sectors like construction and automotive.

Similar trend is seen in the consumption of both Long (Non-Flat) Steel Products and Flat Steel Products experienced consistent growth, registering a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 12.1% and 13% respectively, from FY21 to FY25. Going forward, demand is expected to remain supported by infrastructure development, construction activity, industrial expansion and increasing steel intensity across end-use sectors. However, growth is likely to moderate gradually as the market base expands and consumption normalises from the elevated growth rates of recent years.

3.1.1.2 Demand Segmentation by Composition

Steel production, by composition, can be divided into Non-Alloy, Alloy, and Stainless-Steel products.

- Non-Alloy Steel/ Carbon Steel: Non-alloy steel does not contain specified proportions of alloying elements beyond what is found in commercially produced steel. Devoid of additional elements beyond iron and carbon, has a higher carbon content compared to alloy steel. This results in increased hardness but also brittleness. It finds use in applications where strength and hardness are essential, without requiring additional elements like corrosion resistance. It is commonly utilised in automotive components such as axles and drive shafts, as well as construction materials like rebar and structural beams.

- Alloy Steel: Alloy steel is produced by combining carbon with specific proportions of alloying elements like manganese, silicon, nickel, lead, copper, chromium, tungsten, molybdenum, niobium, and vanadium to alter its physical, mechanical, metallurgical, and electrical properties. This blend of metals enhances strength, corrosion resistance, wear resistance, and heat resistance beyond what each component could achieve alone. It is primarily used in applications where specific mechanical properties are needed. By percentage of alloy, it is categorised into High Alloy and Low Alloy Steel.

    - High Alloy Steel contains higher percentage of alloying elements and can be expensive to manufacture and difficult to process. Due to their greater hardness, toughness, and corrosion resistance, they are used in automotive applications, chemical processing, and power-generating equipment.

    - Low-Alloy Steel contain low percentage, usually 1 to 5 per cent, of alloying elements and are cost cost-effective to produce. They are used in military vehicles, construction equipment, ships, pipelines, pressure vessel oil drilling platforms, and in structural components.

- Stainless Steel: Stainless steel is a variant of alloy steel primarily consisting of chromium (typically over 10.5%) with optional additions of nickel, molybdenum, or titanium. It is resistant to staining and corrosion, retains strength even in high-temperature environments, and can be easily moulded into varying shapes. Stainless Steel can be classified into five different types: Austenitic, Ferritic, Martensitic, Duplex (Austenitic-ferritic), or Precipitation-hardening. Because of its strength, flexibility, and resistance to corrosion, it is widely used in Utensils, Architecture, Industrial applications viz automotive & food processing equipment as well as medical & health equipment.

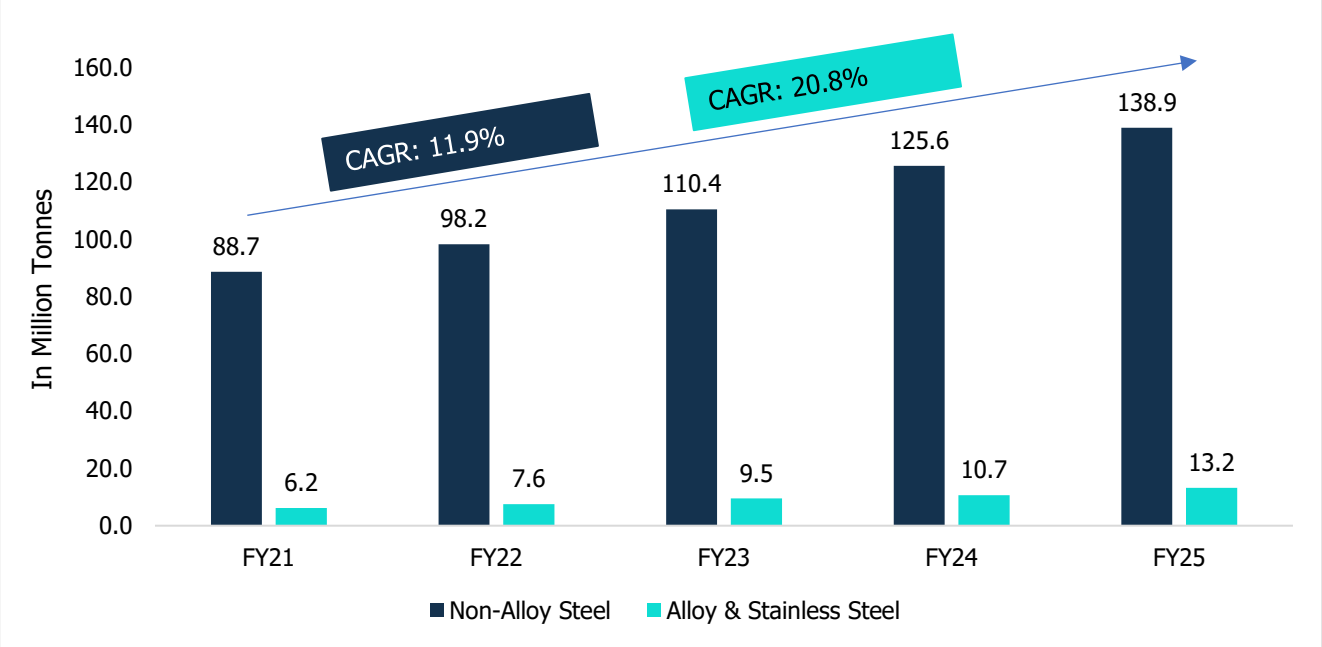

Non-Alloy/Carbon Steel consists of more than 90% of finished steel production, followed by Alloy & Stainless Steel for the time from FY21 to FY25. As of FY25, Non-Alloy Steel holds a share of 92.2% (135.3 million tonnes) followed by Stainless Steel and Alloy Steel holding share of 7.8% (11.4 million tonnes).

Chart 22: Domestic Steel Production, by Composition

Chart 23: Domestic Steel Consumption, by Composition

Source: Joint Plant Committee

The production of Non-Alloy Steel and Alloy & Stainless Steel experienced consistent growth, registering a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 10.5% and 19.5%, respectively, from FY21 to FY25, supported by infrastructure spending, manufacturing recovery, and capacity additions. Specialty-steel policies and technology upgrades also strengthened domestic production capabilities. Additionally, stainless steel gained from corrosion resistance, durability, recyclability, and wider adoption across transport, energy, critical infrastructure, precision engineering, and industrial applications. Similar trend is seen in the consumption of both Non-Alloy Steel and Alloy & Stainless-Steel products experienced consistent growth, registering a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 11.9% and 20.8% respectively, from FY21 to FY25.

However, growth is expected to moderate from the elevated base, primarily due to normalising post-pandemic momentum, price sensitivity, imported alloy dependence, and global trade uncertainties affecting construction and manufacturing.

Steel is utilized in multiple forms across various industries for a wide range of applications. Between FY21 and FY25, the consumption of steel in the Power and Oil & Gas sector witnessed notable growth, registering a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 15.5% and 14%, respectively. Likewise, the Infrastructure & Construction sector and the Automotive sector saw growth rates of 11.1% and 12.3% CAGR, respectively, during this period.

3.1.1.4 Demand Segmentation- Consumption by region

Table 6: Consumption by region (In Million Tons)

Types	FY21	FY22	FY23	FY24	FY25

Source: Joint Plant Committee, CareEdge Research

In FY25, North and West India together contributed to 58% of the total steel consumption in the country. This dominance can be attributed to the concentration of key industries such as construction, infrastructure development, and manufacturing in these regions, alongside higher urbanisation rates.

3.2 India Steel Pricing Trend & Price trend for Raw Materials and Finished Steel

3.2.1.1 Trend in Raw Material Prices

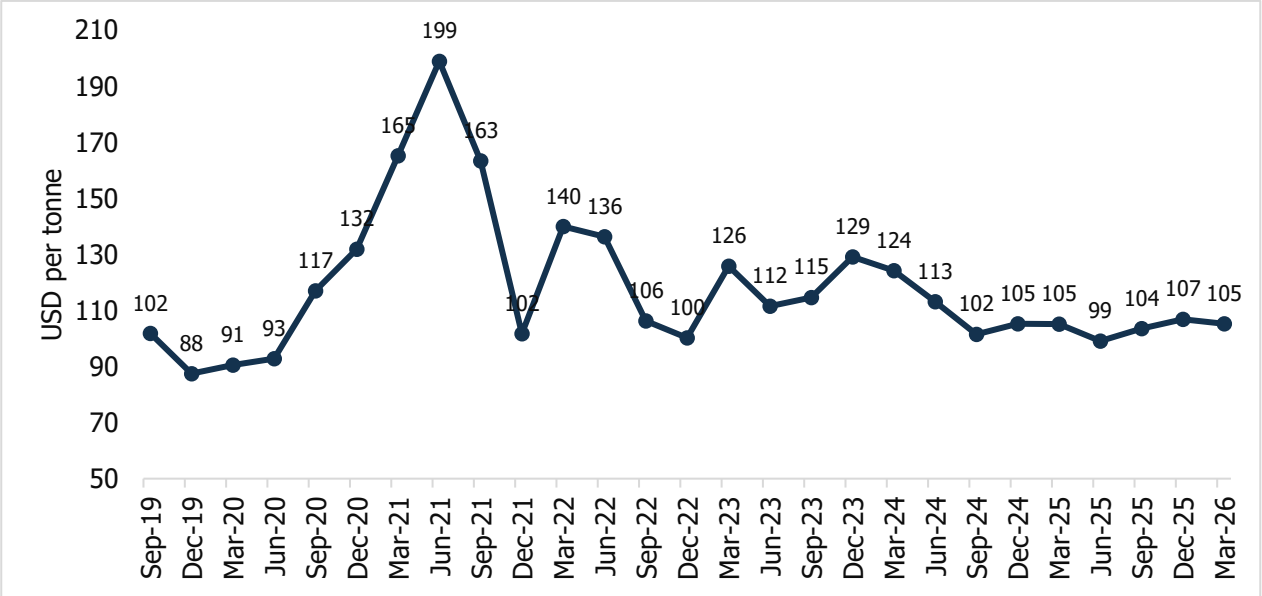

Iron ore

In the March 2026 quarter, international iron ore prices appear to remain broadly range-bound with a slight softening bias. This trend suggests the market has moved away from the sharp volatility seen in earlier years and is now reflecting on a more balanced supply-demand environment. Price support likely comes from steady steel production requirements and restocking activity by mills, while upside remains capped by cautious demand from the construction and property sectors, particularly in major consumer markets. Thus, the quarter spans across a relatively stable but subdued pricing environment, with sentiment driven more by demand uncertainty than by any strong shortage-led rally. In the preceding quarter ending December 2025 prices hovered around USD 107 per tonne. This can be attributed to weak global demand, particularly from China, where a slowdown in the real estate sector and lower steel production reduced iron ore consumption. At the same time, increasing supply from major mining countries and stable shipment levels kept the market well-supplied, limiting upward price movement.

Iron ore prices recorded a modest increase in the quarter ending September 2025 by 4.5% Q-o-Q. This was preceded by a sharp decline in the quarter ending June 2025, falling 12.5% Y-o-Y and 5.8% Q-o-Q, to settle at USD 99 per tonne. This decline was driven by increase in global supply especially from major exporters like Australia and Brazil and softening of demand from China during the seasonal off-season and structural slowdown in steel output. The oversupply phenomena particularly amid reduced construction activity and production cuts by Chinese mills, further pressures prices downward. Additionally, a weaker US dollar also dented producer profit. These combined factors led to a significant drop in benchmark iron-ore pricing by mid-2025.

Prices declined marginally by 0.1% for the quarter ending March 2025. This was after global iron ore prices inched up slightly by 3.7% quarter-on-quarter (Q-o-Q) to USD 105 per tonne, for the quarter ended December 2024. The drop was primarily fuelled by an economic downturn in China then the world's biggest iron ore consumer and oversupply from leading global producers, including Australia, which holds the largest iron ore reserves globally.
Considering the crucial requirement of iron ore in the steel production process, such price volatility has had direct implications on world steel prices emphasising the raw material's significance in the overall supply chain dynamics of the steel sector.

Coking Coal

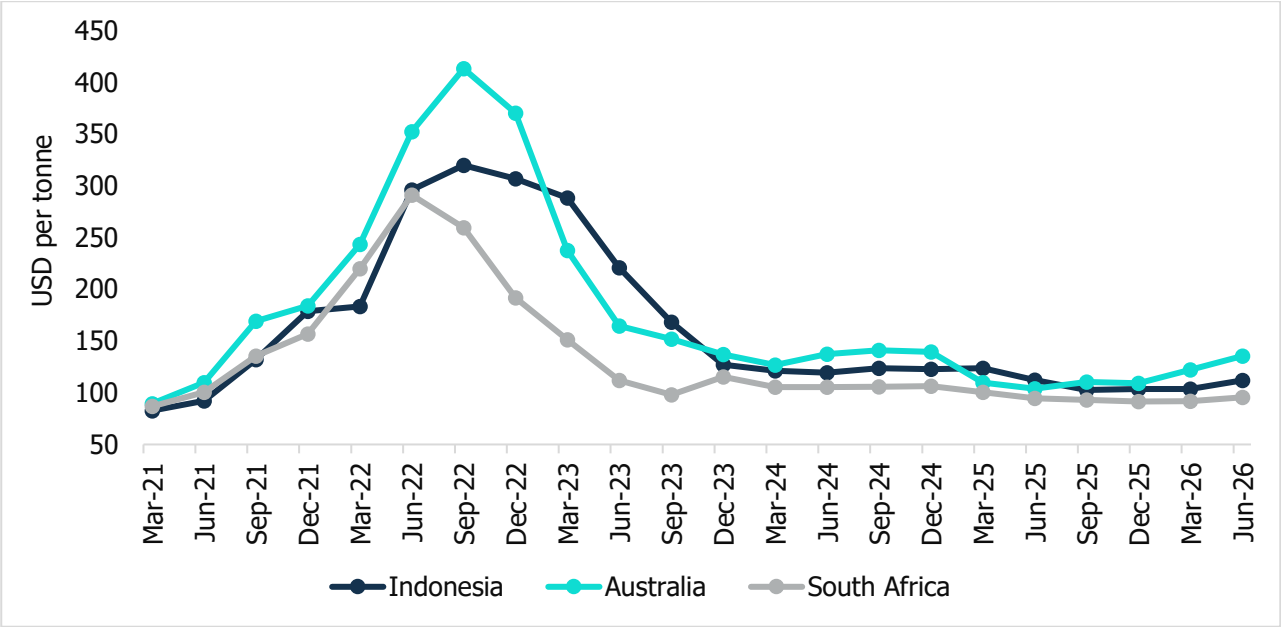

International coal prices remained largely stable during the quarter ended June 2026, supported by balanced seaborne supply and steady demand. Australian thermal coal prices increased from approximately USD 122 per tonne in March 2026 to USD 135 per tonne in June 2026, supported by stronger seasonal demand from North Asian utilities. Indonesian coal prices rose from around USD 104 per tonne in March 2026 quarter to USD 112 per tonne in June 2026 quarter on sustained buying from Asian importers, while South African coal prices edged up from USD 92 per tonne to USD 96 per tonne during the same period, reflecting balanced export supply. Overall, ample global availability continued to limit significant price increases.

The previous quarter ended March 2026 showed relative stability with a slight uptick, with prices of Indonesia, Australia, and South Africa seen around USD 103.6, 122.3, and 91.9 per tonne respectively. This can be attributed to steady demand from power generation and steel sectors, along with continued reliance on coal as a key energy source. Additionally, gradual supply–demand balancing and stable production levels contributed to price stability during this period.

In contrast, prices in the December end quarter remained relatively subdued, reflecting adequate global supply and comfortable inventory levels. Increased coal production and supply, along with higher stock availability at power plants, reduced supply-side pressures and kept prices range bound. As on quarter ending September 2025, barring Australia, coal prices for both Indonesia and South Africa declined by 8% and 2%, respectively. Coal prices in Australia for the same quarter increased by 6% Q-o-Q. During June 2025, international coal prices stood at USD 112 per tonne for Indonesia, USD 104 per tonne for Australia, and USD 95 per tonne for South Africa. All three prices have seen drastic decline of 9.2%, 5.3%, and 6% Q-o-Q respectively. This was due to a persistent supply surplus amid softening demand. Global coal consumption is now plateauing, with demand from major markets like China and India easing as renewables and hydropower absorb a larger share of energy generation. At the same time, producers maintained high output, bolstering inventories and easing price pressures. This convergence of steady supply and wavering import appetite has driven prices down across key export markets.

During the quarter ended March 2025, international coal prices eased from previous highs, averaging USD 123.8 per tonne for Indonesia, USD 109.8 per tonne for Australia, and USD 100.6 per tonne for South Africa.

3.2.1.2 Trend in Average Finished Steel Prices

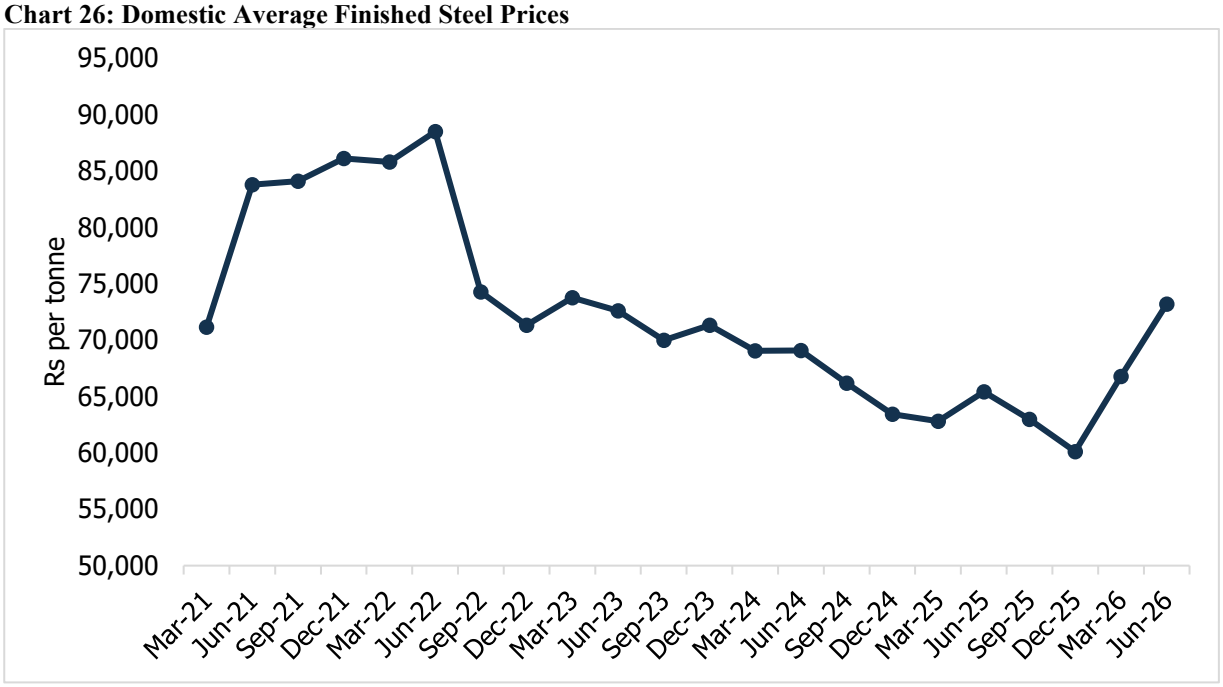

During the quarter ended June 2026, average domestic finished steel prices increased further to around Rs 73,216 per tonne, extending the recovery recorded in the preceding quarter. The price firming was supported by domestic consumption outpacing supply growth. Continued trade protection on specified imported flat-steel products also provided a firmer pricing floor for domestic producers. However, the increase was partly moderated by higher import availability during the quarter. The previous quarter ending March 2026 showed a recovery trend, rising to around Rs 66,783 per tonne after softer levels in preceding quarters. This improvement can be attributed to strong domestic demand from infrastructure and construction activities, which typically accelerate toward the fiscal year-end due to project execution cycles. Additionally, government interventions such as safeguard duties on imports and improved demand–supply balance supported price firming.

In contrast, prices during the quarter ending December 2025 remained relatively subdued, declining to around Rs 60,121 per tonne. This softness can be linked to relatively weaker seasonal demand, adequate domestic supply, and continued import availability, which kept market conditions comfortable. During quarter ended September 2025, average domestic finished steel prices fell by 3.7% q-o-Q and 4.9% Y-o-Y. In the quarter ending June 2025, average domestic finished steel prices rose 4.1% Q-o-Q to Rs 65,413 per tonne, supported by the 12% temporary safeguard duty on select imports that strengthened domestic pricing power. In comparison, prices in March 2025 stood at Rs 62,811 per tonne, marking a 1% Q-o-Q decline. This downward trend continued from September 2024, when prices had already dropped by 4.18% Q-o-Q to Rs 66,195 per tonne. The sustained decline since the June 2022 peak of Rs 88,498 per tonne has been driven by several factors, including weak global demand, a fall in international prices, a surge in low-cost imports, and reduced export volumes.

Previously, during March 2024, prices dropped to Rs 69,051 per tonne from Rs 71,320 per tonne in December 2023, indicating a brief price surge that fizzled out. During FY24, domestic steel prices continued to flounder in catching the upward movement on account of global and domestic tailwinds.

Steel Processing Centres (SPCs) play a crucial role in managing supply chain risks by acting as intermediaries between steel producers and end-users. They ensure timely delivery of steel in the required form and quantity, often adding value through processing and inventory management. This helps stabilize market prices by reducing the impact of fluctuations in steel supply and demand.

3.3 India's position in Global Steel market

India has become a key player in the global steel industry, securing its position as the second-largest steel producer as well as consumer in the world. This ascent is driven by strategic initiatives and a robust focus on domestic demand, particularly in sectors like construction and infrastructure. In recent years, India has consistently increased its steel production, achieving remarkable growth. The combination of proactive industrial policies, a growing economy, and significant investments have created a favourable landscape for the steel sector to flourish.

To strengthen the steel industry, the Indian government has implemented several key reforms, including the Production Linked Incentive (PLI) Scheme for specialty steel and the Domestic Manufactured Iron & Steel Products (DMI&SP) policy. These initiatives aim to enhance competitiveness, reduce reliance on imports, and encourage local manufacturing. India's crude steel capacity could reach 300 million tonnes by FY31, with per capita consumption anticipated to rise, solidifying the steel sector as a crucial contributor to the nation's economic and industrial growth.

Global crude steel production grew at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of -1.5% over the past five years, decreasing from 1,963 million tonnes (MT) in CY21 to 1,849 MT in CY25. The contraction was primarily driven by lower output in China, where persistent weakness in the property sector, efforts to control excess capacity, and government measures aimed at regulating steel production weighed on overall volumes. While growth in India, the Middle East, and parts of Southeast Asia provided support, it was insufficient to fully offset production declines in several mature steel-producing economies. However, India's crude steel production rose at a CAGR of 10.3% over six years, supported by sustained infrastructure development, industrial expansion, rising manufacturing activity, and government initiatives such as the National Steel Policy. Finished steel production in India also grew at a CAGR of 10.9% between FY21 and FY26, driven by rising domestic consumption linked to infrastructure investments and a booming automotive sector, particularly electric vehicles. Conversely, global finished steel consumption fell by 2% in CY25 to 1,718 MT, following a similar 2% decline in CY24 and a marginal dip in CY23, after a sharper 3.5% decline in CY22. The weakness reflected subdued construction, real estate and industrial activity across the EU, US and China amid economic uncertainty, tighter financing conditions and geopolitical tensions. In contrast, CY21 recorded a strong recovery to 1,843 MT, supported by post-pandemic demand across major economies. India's consumption, on the other hand, grew at 11.6% CAGR between FY21 and FY26, rising from 95 MT in FY21 to 164 MT in FY26. The CAGR for per capita steel consumption has increased to 9.8% from CY21-CY25 for India, whereas the global steel per capita consumption saw a decline of CAGR 2.5% during the same period.

3.4 India's Finished Steel Export and Import Trends

Particulars	FY21	FY22	FY23	FY24	FY25
Non-Alloy Steel	9,945	12,369	4,484	6,776	4,144
Alloy & Stainless Steel	839	1,125	2,233	710	714

Source: Joint Plant Committee

In FY25, exports of non-alloy steel saw a significant decline, dropping to 4,144 thousand tonnes from 6,776 thousand tonnes in FY24. While exports of alloy and stainless steel increased marginally during the same year, there was an overall decline in finished steel exports. This was primarily driven by an oversupplied global market and intense competition from lower-priced Chinese steel, which reduced India's price competitiveness in key export markets. Weak demand in destinations such as the UAE, Nepal and Türkiye, along with trade-remedy measures and tighter EU import quotas, further constrained shipments. Higher tariff and protectionist measures globally also weighed on export prospects.

In FY25, imports of both non-alloy steel and alloy and stainless steel experienced substantial growth, reaching 6,940 and 2,610 thousand tonnes respectively. This increase can be attributed to heightened availability of competitively priced overseas steel, particularly from China, South Korea and Japan. Global steel oversupply and weak Chinese domestic demand encouraged higher exports, making imported steel attractive to Indian buyers. Strong domestic steel consumption also supported import demand, particularly for flat steel products. Additionally, limited domestic availability of certain grades and continued price competitiveness of imports contributed to higher inbound shipments during the year.

During FY26, Indian steel exporters increased shipments by 12.9% y-o-y. This rise was driven by improved global competitiveness of Indian steel and diversification into key markets such as the Middle East, Europe and Southeast Asia. Additionally, a sharp decline in imports and better price realisations supported higher export volumes. Furthermore, sustained capacity expansion and strong production growth enabled surplus availability for exports. In FY25, exports fell sharply by 21% y-o-y. Weak foreign demand, intensified competition from low-priced Chinese steel particularly in the Middle East and Vietnam and declining shipments to key markets like Italy drove this decline.

In FY26, India's steel imports fell by 13.4% y-o-y, driven primarily by policy interventions and improving domestic competitiveness. The government imposed safeguard duties of around 12% on certain steel products and strengthened quality control measures, which discouraged cheaper imports. Additionally, a narrowing price gap between imported and domestic steel made local products more attractive. Strong domestic production growth also reduced reliance on imports. Imports of finished steel from China, South Korea, and Japan accounted for 69% in FY26.

3.4 Steel Demand - Comparison between India and the World

Chart 28: Global and India Steel Consumption (In Million Tonnes)

Source: World Steel Association
Note: The numbers in the box represent the global total

The steel consumption in India witnessed a growth of 8% in CY25. The growth is attributed to enhanced activities in the construction sector and the sustained momentum in the real estate and automobile sectors. If we look at the steel usage in countries globally, as of 2025, India holds the 2nd largest steel consumer position, with a share of 9.3% (159.8 million tonnes) after growing at a CAGR of 10.8% in the CY21-25 period. This is followed by Other Asia, United States, and Japan having a share of 6.7% (115.1 million tonnes), 5.3% (90.9 million tonnes), and 2.8% (48 million tonnes). China has the largest consumption share of 46.3% (796 million tonnes) while countries in the rest of the world combined consume a share of 53.7% (922.2 million tonnes).

On the export front, shipments recovered strongly in FY26, increasing by 35.9% y-o-y, supported by improved market competitiveness, diversification into markets such as the Middle East, Europe and Southeast Asia, and higher domestic production availability. Meanwhile, imports declined by 31.7% y-o-y, strengthening India's steel trade balance.
Furthermore, steel demand will be driven by end-user industries such as construction, real estate, railways, roads, power, auto, capital goods, consumer durables, etc. In addition, government expenditure on infrastructure is expected to augur well for the sector.

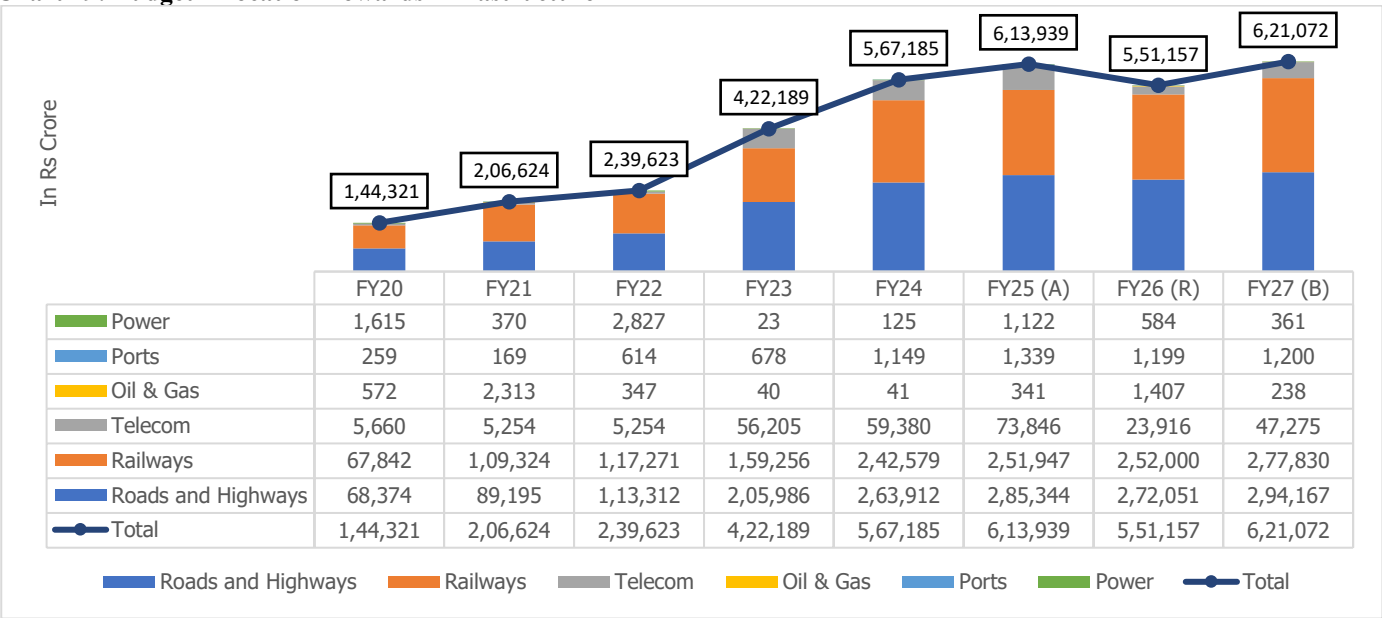

Moreover, the ongoing expansion and development of airports under the Ude Desh ka Aam Naagrik (UDAN) scheme to enhance regional air connectivity, along with continued development of metro rail networks to promote urban transformation and strengthen railway infrastructure, is expected to support steel demand. Global steel prices are expected to remain supported, although volatility may persist amid uneven demand and raw material costs. Similarly, domestic prices are expected to remain influenced by global trends, with resilient domestic demand and trade measures providing support.

3.5 Key Growth Drivers for Indian Steel Industry

- Continued Thrust on Construction and Infrastructure

One of the major growth drivers of the steel industry is the infrastructure investment thrust by the Government of India. The budgetary allocation toward infrastructure grown between FY22 to FY27. In the Union Budget 2026-27, the government continued its focus on infrastructure development with the allocation of Rs 12.2 lakh crore toward public capital expenditure.

Chart 29: Budget Allocation Towards Infrastructure

- Growing Real Estate Absorption led by Increased Urbanisation and Purchasing Power

The urban population is significantly growing in India. The urban population in India is estimated to have increased from 413 million (32% of total population) in CY13 to 519.5 million (36.4% of total population) in the year CY23. India is undergoing a significant urban transformation, with the urban population projected to rise to 40% by CY36. This shift is driven by factors such as improved living standards, increased employment opportunities in urban areas and government initiatives aimed at urban development. This rapid urbanisation might necessitate substantial investments in infrastructure, housing and transportation.

- Growing Purchasing Power

Gross National Disposable Income (GNDI) is a measure of the income available to the nation for final consumption and gross savings. Between the period FY23 and FY26, per capita GNDI at current prices registered a CAGR of 9.1%. More disposable income drives more consumption, thereby driving economic growth.

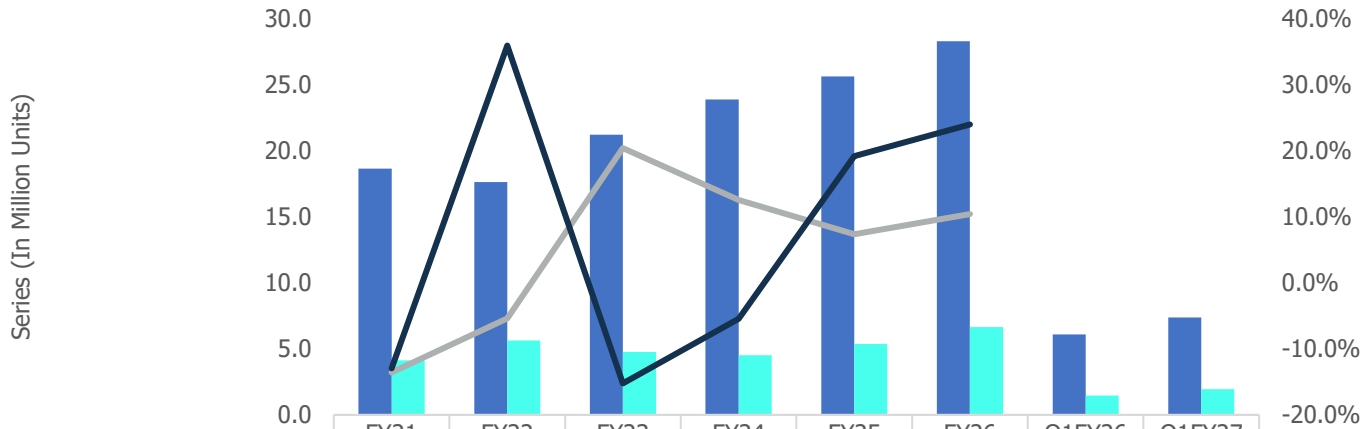

With an increase in disposable income, there has been a gradual change in the country's consumer spending behaviour. Per capita Private Final Consumption Expenditure (PFCE), which is a measure of consumer spending, has also shown significant growth from FY23 to FY26 at a CAGR of 8.6%.

- Stable Growth in the Automotive Industry

Steel products are vital for constructing a vehicle's chassis and components like shock absorbers and exhaust pipes. India is the largest manufacturer of two-wheelers, three-wheelers and tractors. Domestic automobile sales recorded a growth of 10.4% Y-o-Y as of FY26. Although the impact is likely to be gradual and vary across segments, this growth can be driven by policy support including GST adjustments and manufacturing incentives that provides a backdrop for the sector. All vehicle segments also recorded healthy growth in domestic sales as two-wheeler and passenger vehicle sales increased by 10.7% and 7.9% respectively Y-o-Y in FY26. While three-wheeler volumes increased by 12.8% in FY26, commercial vehicle sales increased by 12.6% in FY26.

Meanwhile, exports increased by 24% in FY26, driven by robust overseas demand across passenger vehicles, two-wheeler, three-wheelers and commercial vehicles. Segment-wise, exports of passenger vehicles, two-wheelers, three-wheelers and commercial vehicles grew by 17.5%, 23.4%, 50.1% and 17.4% respectively. The growth is expected to moderate through FY27 due to geopolitical tensions in West Asia affecting trade routes, leading to logistics disruptions, higher freight costs and extended delivery timelines.

- Growing Infrastructure for Railways

As the infrastructure expenditure to GDP multiplier is estimated to be 2.5-3.5x, the government has identified infrastructure development as a key focus area to become a USD 5 trillion economy by 2026-27. To achieve this objective, the government launched the National Infrastructure Pipeline (NIP) in 2020, which identified a group of social and economic infrastructure projects to be implemented during FY20-25. The Capex under NIP is USD 1.4 trillion with railways having an allocation of 12%. Railways are one of the key enablers for economic growth and an investment of USD 750 billion was suggested by the government in the Union Budget 2019-20 to improve the railway infrastructure over 2018-2030. Accordingly, the budgetary allocation to Indian Railways has consistently been on the rise. The Capex for Indian Railways has increased substantially from Rs. 1.48 lakh crore during FY20 to Rs. 2.93 lakh crore allocated in the 2026-27 budget.

- Expansion of Metro Rail

As of March 2026, about 1,155 km of metro rail network has been operationalized across 26 cities, up from 248 km across five cities in 2014. The metro network has expanded rapidly, with the average pace of commissioning increasing to around 6 km per month. The government continues to expand metro and regional rapid transit systems to improve urban connectivity, with 34 metro projects spanning 992 km approved during 2014-25. The expansion of the metro network is expected to support sustained demand for metro rail rolling stock. India has invested around Rs. 2.5 lakh crore in metro infrastructure over the past decade, while more than 2,000 metro coaches have been manufactured domestically, supported by the Make in India initiative. With continued expansion of metro corridors, domestic demand for metro rail rolling stock is expected to witness significant increase.

- Growth of India's Consumer Durables Industry

The Indian consumer durables industry is expected to witness sustained growth, driven by rising disposable incomes, rapid urbanisation, evolving consumer preferences, and technological advancements. Increasing demand for smart, energy-efficient, and technologically advanced products, supported by favourable government initiatives, is expected to strengthen the sector's expansion. This growth will support demand for steel, which is a key material used in the manufacturing of a wide range of consumer durable products. The growing penetration of e-commerce, rising emphasis on sustainability, and government initiatives to strengthen domestic manufacturing under "Make in India" are expected to further support the consumer durables industry and, consequently, steel demand.

- Others

The growth in demand for steel products will also be supported by transportation, capital goods (construction, electrical equipment, machine tools, industrial machinery, plant equipment, etc.), aircraft components, mining activities, and renewable energy projects. Further, it will also be driven by the export market, which has seen a steady increase in the past few years and contributes to the overall production in the industry.

3.6 Growth Opportunities in Steel Market in India

- Significant capacity additions in power generation are expected over the next 7-8 years, including renewable resources: India's power sector is set for significant capacity expansions over the next 7-8 years. With an installed capacity of 555 GW as on 31st August 2026, the country is increasingly investing in renewable energy, which now accounts for ~53% of the total capacity. The government aims to establish a 500 GW renewable capacity by 2030. This growth, driven by urbanisation, rural electrification, and rising electricity demand, will enhance power supply, close deficits, and further stimulate steel industry demand for infrastructure development.

- Green Steel and Sustainable Construction: The growing focus on decarbonisation and sustainable construction is creating an emerging opportunity for green steel in India. The Government has introduced the Green Steel Taxonomy to establish standards for defining and certifying low-emission steel, while the Ministry of Steel's roadmap for greening the steel sector outlines pathways including energy efficiency, renewable energy, green hydrogen, material efficiency and process transition. Increasing awareness of embodied carbon, sustainability requirements and ESG considerations among construction companies and other steel-intensive end users could support the adoption of lower-emission steel in buildings and infrastructure. Technological developments, including renewable energy integration, hydrogen-based DRI and electric arc furnace-based production, are expected to support the transition towards lower-carbon steelmaking. Rising global demand for low-emission products and evolving international trade and environmental requirements could further strengthen the market opportunity for Indian green steel producers.

- Hydrogen Gas transportation: Hydrogen gas transportation in India offers significant opportunities for the steel industry by enabling reduced carbon emissions and enhancing energy security. Government initiatives, such as the National Green Hydrogen Mission (NGHM), support the development of hydrogen infrastructure with financial incentives for pilot projects and the establishment of Green Hydrogen Hubs. Technological advancements in hydrogen production and transportation further improve efficiency and reduce costs. These efforts align with global sustainability goals, open new market opportunities, and contribute to economic growth and environmental conservation.

- Steel Consumption in Consumer Durables and Appliances sector: The consumer durables and appliances sector presents a significant growth opportunity for the steel market in India. As the demand for household appliances like refrigerators, washing machines, and air conditioners continues to rise, driven by urbanization, rising incomes, and changing lifestyles, the consumption of steel in manufacturing these products is also increasing. Steel is vital for providing strength, durability, and functionality to these appliances, especially for their frames, bodies, and internal components. With India's growing middle class and the shift towards modern and energy-efficient appliances, the steel market stands to benefit from the expanding demand in this sector, making it a key driver of growth in the country's steel industry.

3.7 Regulatory Policies/ Government Initiatives

Measures to enhance domestic production, the availability of raw materials, and promote trade competitiveness
Domestically Manufactured Iron & Steel Products (DMI&SP):

- The Domestically Manufactured Iron and Steel Products (DMI&SP) Policy, approved on May 8, 2017, provides preference in government procurement to iron and steel products manufactured by India-registered entities, including units in Special Economic Zones, subject to prescribed domestic value addition. The qualifying threshold, initially set at 15% to 50%, was revised to 20% to 50% under the policy dated December 31, 2020.

- Intended to stimulate domestic steel production and consumption, improve capacity utilisation and promote import substitution, the policy has been periodically extended, including for six months from May 29, 2024. Under the revised policy dated December 17, 2025, its validity has been extended to March 31, 2027, while its coverage has been broadened across Central Ministries, central public-sector enterprises and government-controlled entities, including steel-intensive infrastructure procurement.

- The revised framework also mandates manufacturer registration on a designated government portal, supported by self-certification, periodic audits and stronger enforcement provisions, including penalties and deregistration for misdeclaration or non-compliance, thereby transforming domestic procurement preference into a more transparent and accountable mechanism for strengthening India's steel-manufacturing ecosystem.

Quality Control Order on Steel:

- The Ministry of Steel has introduced a Steel Quality Control Order (QCO), thereby banning sub-standard/defective steel products from the domestic market alongside imports to ensure the availability of quality steel to the industry, users, and the public at large.

- This measure is being taken to enhance the availability of quality steel to the users. According to the Order, it is ensured that only quality steel conforming to the relevant BIS standards is made available to the end users. BIS (Bureau of Indian Standards) Certification is a quality assurance process that ensures products meet Indian standards, verifying their quality, safety, and reliability. While BIS certification is voluntary for many products, it is mandatory for specific items, including certain steel products like TMT bars, to ensure public safety and compliance with Indian Standards. Certified products bear the ISI mark, indicating adherence to prescribed quality standards. The certification is typically valid for one to two years and can be renewed if the product and standards remain unchanged.

- As of August 2024, the QCO covers 151 categories of steel and steel products including carbon steel, alloy steel, and stainless steel. In addition, goods & articles made up of steel such as stainless-steel pipe & tubes, laminations/ cores of transformers, products of tin plate & tin-free steel, etc., have been notified to prevent circumvention of the Steel Quality Control Order.

- Through the Steel and Steel Products (Quality Control) Amendment Order, 2025, notified on 20 November 2025, the Ministry of Steel has temporarily deferred mandatory BIS enforcement for selected steel and steel product categories (for 1 year or 3 years, depending on the product) to allow industry time to comply, while retaining the core QCO framework covering 151 BIS notified standards, including the requirement that both finished steel and critical intermediate inputs must conform to BIS standards once enforcement becomes operative.

National Steel Policy (NSP), 2017:

NSP was introduced in 2017 with the objective of increasing domestic steel production and consumption, produce high-quality steel, and increase India's competitiveness globally. It also focuses on cost efficiency, raw material availability, and research & development to achieve the overall objectives laid out under the policy.

The mission defined under NSP, 2017, is as below:

- Self-sufficiency in steel production by providing policy support & guidance to private manufacturers, MSME steel producers, and CPSEs and encouraging adequate capacity additions
- Development of globally competitive steel manufacturing capabilities
- Cost-efficient production and domestic availability of iron ore, coking coal, and natural gas
- Facilitate investment in overseas asset acquisitions of raw materials
- Enhance domestic steel demand

Atmanirbhar Bharat Policy:

- Government initiatives such as Make in India and AtmaNirbhar Bharat, which consist of 5 pillars (Economy, Infrastructure, System, Vibrant Demography, and Demand) have been playing a significant role in economic development.

- In the steel tubes and pipes sector, the demand for seamless and ERW pipe sectors is increasing due to these policies. According to this policy, any purchases made by PSUs must include at least 35% local value addition in the supply of pipes. This will eventually support domestic manufacturers in the country.

- Under this policy, a stimulus of Rs. 20 lakh crores were announced by the government to aid the country's fight against COVID-19.

Production Linked Incentive (PLI) Scheme:

- India's Production Linked Incentive Scheme for Specialty Steel, launched in July 2021 with an outlay of Rs 63.22 billion, is designed to deepen domestic manufacturing capabilities, accelerate technology adoption and reduce import dependence in high-value steel grades critical to automobiles, defence, railways, aerospace, power, renewable energy and corrosion- or heat-resistant tubes and pipes. Covering coated and plated steel, high-strength and wear-resistant steel, specialty rails, alloy steel products and wires, and electrical steel, the scheme initially targeted an increase in specialty steel production from 17.6 million tonnes in FY20 to 42.2 million tonnes by FY27, alongside investment mobilisation of about Rs 396.25 billion by FY30.

- Its subsequent iterations have progressively widened participation: PLI 1.1, launched on January 6, 2025 for FY26 to FY30, relaxed investment and capacity thresholds, introduced production carry-forward flexibility and lowered entry requirements for strategically important CRGO steel; while Round 1.2, launched on November 4, 2025, expanded coverage to 22 subcategories, including superalloys, stainless steel, alloy forgings, titanium alloys and coated steels, offering incentives of 4% to 15% on incremental sales and adopting FY25 as the revised base year.

- With earlier rounds attracting committed investments of Rs 438.74 billion, the evolving framework reflects a targeted industrial strategy to create advanced capacity, encourage process innovation, substitute imports, strengthen export competitiveness and position India as a global hub for high-value specialty steel manufacturing.

Programmes/Initiatives taken by the Government to aid the End-User Industries' Growth

Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana (PMAY)

The Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana (PMAY) was introduced as part of the 'Housing for All' initiative with the objective of facilitating the provision of affordable housing at a reduced cost by the deadline of 2029. It offers various forms of support to different income groups, including interest subsidies on home loans, financial assistance for self-construction, public-private partnerships for affordable housing projects, and slum redevelopment initiatives. The scheme also promotes the use of innovative construction technologies and the development of affordable rental housing complexes. PMAY embodies the government's commitment to ensuring housing for all and improving living conditions for people across the country. In the Union Budget 2026-27, the government allocated Rs. 73,542 crores towards this scheme. PMAY-Urban has sanctioned 1.28 crore houses, with 99.07 lakh completed, while PMAY-Gramin has sanctioned 3.92 crore houses, with 3.17 crore houses completed.

Jal Jeevan Mission

Jal Jeevan Mission is an initiative launched by the Government on 15th August 2019 with the objective of providing safe and adequate drinking water through individual household tap connections by 2028 to all households in rural India. The programme will also focus on source sustainability measures as mandatory elements, such as recharge and reuse through greywater management, water conservation, and rainwater harvesting. The functional household tap connections as of 21st September 2026 were about 15.95 crore. This programme will further enhance the water infrastructure and aid in the demand for pipes in the country. The Government has allocated Rs. 67,670 crores for the Jal Jeevan Mission in the budget 2026-27.

One Nation, One Gas Grid Project

The Indian government's primary goal in developing natural gas infrastructure and implementing the "One Nation One Gas Grid" initiative is to increase the share of natural gas in the country's primary energy mix. As of June 2026, the Petroleum and Natural Gas Regulatory Board (PNGRB) has authorised a total of 34,803 km of natural gas pipelines for nationwide expansion. Of this, 28,157 km of pipelines are operational, with an additional 8,251 km under construction and partially commissioned. These projects are progressing according to PNGRB's approved timelines.

3.8 Supply Chain in the Steel Industry

The steel industry in India has a complex and multifaceted supply chain that is crucial to the nation's economic development. The supply chain is divided into two key segments: the upstream steel supply chain, which focuses on the extraction and production of steel, and the downstream supply chain, which manages storage, distribution, and processing into finished products.

The upstream segment begins with the mining of raw materials, such as iron ore, limestone, and coke, which are then used in blast furnaces to produce molten pig iron. This molten metal undergoes further processing in a converter, where air is blown through it to remove impurities, eventually producing steel.

The downstream supply chain involves the storage of steel in processing plants, transportation to distribution centres, and the transformation of steel into finished products like coils, plates, pipes, and bars. However, several challenges affect the efficiency of this supply chain. These include issues like yard management, warehousing, and transportation due to the high volume and weight of steel, extensive distribution networks, and high inventory turnover. Additionally, government regulations, duties, and taxes related to exports and imports play a crucial role in shaping the supply chain dynamics.

Overcoming these challenges is essential for maintaining profitability and market share in a highly competitive industry. Factors like improving warehousing techniques, optimising transportation logistics, and enhancing inventory management can help streamline operations and support the growing demand for steel in India's rapidly developing infrastructure and industrial sectors. With continued focus on these areas, the steel industry is well-positioned to drive economic growth and meet future demand.

Role of Steel Processing Centres in the Supply Chain of Steel Industry

Steel Processing Centres (SPCs) are essential players in the steel industry's supply chain, acting as a vital link between large steel producers and end-users. They provide valuable services like cutting, slitting, and coating to tailor steel products for specific needs across industries like construction, automotive, and machinery. SPCs ensure that smaller businesses, such as local manufacturers or construction firms, can access the right steel in the right quantity, without the need to order massive stock from steel mills.

In India, SPCs play a crucial role in overcoming logistical challenges, ensuring steel gets to both bustling cities and remote towns. By holding inventory and offering just-in-time delivery, they help businesses avoid delays, reduce waste, and cut costs. They also make steel more accessible to small and medium-sized enterprises with flexible payment terms. SPCs provide a buffer against price fluctuations, helping maintain stability for projects that require consistency. Through these efforts, SPCs not only support industries but also help promote sustainability by reducing scrap and promoting recycling, making them key to India's steel ecosystem.

4. Steel Processing Industry

4.1 Overview of Steel Processing Industry

The steel processing industry forms an important part of the steel value chain by converting steel produced by steel manufacturers into customised products that meet specific customer requirements. Steel Processing Centres ("SPCs") undertake value-added activities such as slitting, cut-to-length processing, blanking, shearing, recoiling, fabrication and surface treatment to deliver steel in forms suitable for end-use applications. These services enable customers to reduce material wastage, improve operational efficiency and optimise inventory management.

SPCs serve as an important interface between steel manufacturers and downstream industries, including automotive, infrastructure, engineering, capital goods, construction, consumer durables and fabrication. In addition to processing services, SPCs often provide inventory management, warehousing and just-in-time delivery solutions, helping customers streamline procurement and production processes.

The industry is characterised by relatively high entry barriers arising from substantial capital investments in specialised processing equipment, inventory holding requirements, customer qualification processes and technical approval standards. Establishing a multi-location processing network near customer manufacturing facilities is often necessary to support timely deliveries and long-term customer relationships. These factors favour established participants with strong operational capabilities, diversified customer bases and extensive processing infrastructure, contributing to a relatively competitive positioning within the sector.

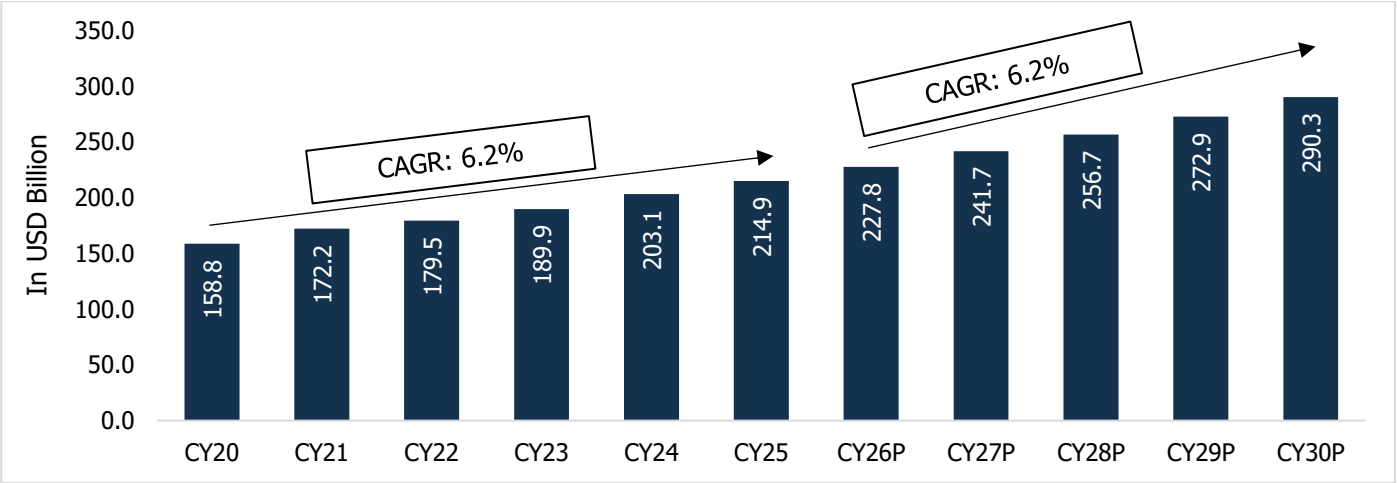

4.2 Global Steel Processing Centre Market Size

The market size of Global Steel Processing Centre Industry grew at a CAGR of 6.2% from CY20 to CY25 reaching a market size of USD 214.9 billion by CY25. It is further projected to grow at a CAGR of 6.2% from CY26 to CY30 reaching market size of USD 290.3 billion by CY30.

The Global Steel Processing Centre market is expected to witness steady growth, supported by increasing demand for value-added metal processing and customised steel solutions across construction, automotive, manufacturing, energy and other industrial sectors. Rising infrastructure development, urbanisation and industrial activity, particularly in emerging markets, are expected to support demand for processed steel products. Increasing adoption of just-in-time delivery and outsourcing of processing activities is further strengthening the role of steel processing centres in downstream supply chains. Technological advancements in automation, digitalisation and data analytics are also enhancing operational efficiency and customer responsiveness.

4.4 Role of Steel Processing Centres

Steel Processing Centres (SPCs) play a vital and increasingly strategic role in the global steel supply chain, acting as essential intermediaries between steel producers and downstream industries. These centres enable customers to obtain steel in the precise quantities, dimensions, and specifications required, streamlining the sourcing and processing of steel. SPCs procure steel in bulk from steel mills and undertake value-added activities such as cutting, slitting, shearing, blanking, coating, leveling, and other processing operations to tailor steel products to customer requirements.

This customisation capability is particularly important in industries such as automotive, construction, aerospace, machinery, and consumer appliances, where steel products need to meet specific dimensional, performance, and quality requirements. For instance, automotive manufacturers require high-strength steel components with precise dimensions, while construction and engineering applications require steel profiles and plates suited to specific structural requirements. SPCs provide processed products such as pre-cut sheets, slit coils, blanks, and customised shapes, reducing material wastage, lead times, and the need for additional processing by end-users.

In India, the role of SPCs has become increasingly significant with rapid industrialisation, urbanisation, and infrastructure development. Rising steel demand across automotive, construction, infrastructure, engineering, and manufacturing is encouraging the expansion and modernisation of steel processing facilities. SPCs are increasingly establishing processing capabilities near major manufacturing hubs and providing customised flat steel products, supporting growing downstream requirements.

Their role is particularly important in just-in-time and company-managed inventory models, where manufacturers require reliable availability of processed steel with shorter lead times. By maintaining inventories and providing processing closer to end-users, SPCs help manufacturers reduce inventory requirements, warehouse space, and investment in specialised processing equipment. This is particularly relevant for automotive and other manufacturing applications where production schedules require timely and consistent material availability.

One of the key differentiators of SPCs is their ability to combine material supply with value-added processing, quality assurance, inventory management, and logistics support. Increasing demand for advanced high-strength and specialised steel grades is encouraging service centres to invest in precision slitting, blanking, leveling, automated cutting, and material testing capabilities. These capabilities enable SPCs to meet increasingly stringent customer specifications while improving processing efficiency and product consistency.

Additionally, SPCs play an important role in inventory and supply-chain management. Their regional inventory networks and distribution capabilities allow downstream manufacturers to access processed steel closer to their production facilities, thereby improving responsiveness and mitigating supply disruptions. In India, although logistics infrastructure bottlenecks remain a challenge, investments in dedicated freight corridors and industrial parks are expected to improve supply-chain connectivity and support the expansion of processing networks. Their ability to manage logistics challenges, including seasonal disruptions during the monsoon and transportation bottlenecks, further supports consistent product availability across India.

Sustainability is also becoming increasingly relevant to the role of SPCs. Precision processing can improve material utilisation and reduce offcuts, while digital inventory management, automated processing, energy-efficient equipment, and scrap recovery systems can improve resource efficiency. As downstream industries place greater emphasis on emissions, traceability, and sustainable sourcing, SPCs can increasingly contribute to more efficient and lower-waste steel supply chains.

Looking ahead, the growing Indian manufacturing ecosystem, infrastructure investment, and increasing adoption of customised and just-in-time steel supply models are expected to strengthen the strategic importance of SPCs. Their ability to combine processing, inventory management, quality assurance, and supply-chain services is expected to support the evolving requirements of automotive, construction, engineering, machinery, and other steel-intensive industries. Continued investment in advanced processing technologies and digital supply-chain systems is likely to further enhance the role of SPCs in India's steel value chain.

4.5 Key Growth Drivers

- Growing Demand from Construction and Automotive Industries: The construction and automotive sectors are major consumers of steel, driving the demand for Steel Processing Centres. Steel is critical for applications such as structural framing in construction and car components in automotive production. As both industries expand, the need for Steel Processing Centres to supply customised steel products, with reduced lead times and processing, continues to rise.

- Technological Advancements in Steelmaking: Technological innovations are reshaping the steel industry, enabling more efficient steel production and processing. These advancements lead to lower production costs, making steel more accessible for various industries. The development of new equipment and steelmaking processes is also enhancing the productivity of Steel Processing Centres, enabling them to serve their customers more efficiently and cost-effectively.

- Increased Utilisation of Steel Across Multiple Sectors: Steel's versatility has driven its increased use in various sectors, including biotechnology, energy, shipbuilding, and manufacturing. Its role in heavy industries, construction, and machinery is expanding as demand for robust, temperature-resistant materials rises. Steel Processing Centres are essential for supplying specialised steel products, contributing to their growing market presence.

- Globalisation and Competitive Market Expansion: Globalisation has opened new opportunities for Steel Processing Centres to cater to international markets. As the global demand for steel rises, centres are increasingly competing for customers worldwide. This global reach encourages service centres to improve operational efficiency, adopt advanced technologies, and offer better services at competitive prices, ultimately benefiting customers.

- Rise of Local Manufacturing and Industrialisation: The shift toward local manufacturing, combined with rapid industrialisation, has boosted the demand for Steel Processing Centres. The establishment of new centres in emerging markets allows them to cater to local manufacturing needs. Additionally, the growing preference for steel in industries such as mining, construction, and chemicals further drives the demand for Steel Processing Centre services.

- Expansion of India's Consumer Electronics and Appliances Sector Driving Steel Demand: The consumer electronics and appliances sector in India is witnessing significant expansion, fuelled by rising incomes, technological innovation, and growing domestic demand. As the country positions itself as a major player in the global market for products like smartphones, white goods, and air conditioners, the need for high-quality materials, particularly steel, continues to rise. Steel plays a crucial role in the production of key components such as frames and internal structures, which are integral to the manufacturing of these consumer products. This increased demand for durable, reliable materials supports the broader industrial landscape.

4.6 Key Challenges

- Volatility in Steel Prices: One of the major challenges facing the Steel Processing Centre market is the fluctuation in steel prices. The price of raw materials, such as steel coils, can vary significantly, which impacts the margins of service centres. This volatility is driven by supply chain disruptions, changing global demand, and factors like inflation. These price shifts create uncertainty for both service centres and their customers, making it difficult to plan long-term strategies and maintain stable profitability.

  To mitigate volatility in prices and supply chain disruptions, India’s steel industry is focusing on diversifying its sourcing strategies, particularly by enhancing domestic production capabilities and reducing dependence on imported raw materials. Steel producers are also investing in technology to improve production efficiency and reduce costs, while aligning with international environmental norms to lower energy consumption and waste. Additionally, companies are adopting advanced inventory management systems, including just-in-time practices, to optimise stock levels and minimize the impact of supply chain disruptions. These measures, along with strategic government initiatives to boost infrastructure, aim to stabilise the industry and reduce the risks posed by price fluctuations and global uncertainties.

- High Capital Requirements and Technological Barriers: Steel Processing Centres require substantial investment in specialised processing equipment such as slitting lines, blanking systems, laser cutting equipment, leveling machinery, automated material-handling systems and digital inventory platforms. Continuous technological upgrades are required as customers increasingly demand higher-strength, more specialised and precisely processed steel products. These capital requirements can create barriers for smaller operators, particularly where access to financing is constrained. In addition, integrating advanced equipment with legacy systems and recruiting personnel capable of operating and maintaining such technologies can increase operational complexity.

- Regulatory Compliance and Environmental Standards: Steel Processing Centres are under constant pressure to comply with stringent industry regulations and environmental standards. Government policies and regulations on emissions, waste disposal, and energy usage can lead to higher operational costs for service centres. Smaller centres may struggle to meet these requirements due to limited resources. While larger players can invest in eco-friendly technologies, the financial burden of compliance may slow down market growth for smaller centres.

- Skilled Labour Shortages: The growing complexity of Steel Processing Centre operations, driven by technological advancements, highlights the need for skilled labour. However, attracting and retaining qualified professionals is a challenge. The industry often struggles with a talent shortage, which can hinder productivity and innovation. The gap between the technological demands of modern service centres and the available workforce is a significant barrier to sustaining growth and improving operational efficiency.

- Impact of Trade Policies and Global Economic Uncertainty: Changes in tariffs, import regulations, trade agreements and geopolitical conditions can affect steel availability, freight costs, lead times and regional pricing. Disruptions across maritime routes and other transport corridors can further affect the movement of imported steel products and increase supply-chain uncertainty. Since SPCs operate between steel mills and downstream manufacturers, such disruptions can directly affect inventory planning, fulfilment schedules and operating costs.

- Lack of Standardized Regulations: The absence of standardised regulations across different regions can create operational challenges for Steel Processing Centres. The lack of clear and consistent guidelines can lead to inefficiencies, miscommunication, and higher compliance costs. This lack of uniformity is particularly problematic for service centres expanding into new or emerging markets, where regulatory landscapes may not be as developed or may vary greatly from established regions.
- Logistics and Distribution Constraints: Efficient logistics are particularly important for Steel Processing Centres because customers increasingly rely on shorter lead times and just-in-time supply arrangements. Inadequate transport connectivity, congestion and regional infrastructure constraints can increase delivery times and logistics costs. This is particularly relevant in geographically dispersed markets such as India, where service centres may need strategically located processing and inventory facilities to serve major manufacturing clusters efficiently. Investments in freight corridors and industrial infrastructure are expected to improve connectivity, but logistics constraints remain an operational consideration.

5.1.2 Consumer Durable Penetration Rate

India's consumer durables market holds significant potential for growth, with low penetration rates compared to global standards. Its consumer durables market stands at a pivotal point, with significant untapped potential in household cooling. Compared to countries like China, the US, and Malaysia, where AC ownership is widespread, India remains far behind. Despite recent gains, only a small share of Indian homes have installed air conditioners, leaving room for a major growth spurt. This gap presents a huge opportunity: as rural and urban electrification progresses and incomes rise, AC adoption is poised to accelerate. With heatwaves becoming more frequent, cooling appliances are shifting from luxuries to essential investments. This momentum signals a promising future for the Indian consumer durables market, driven by expanding infrastructure, rising living standards, and increasing thermal comfort needs.

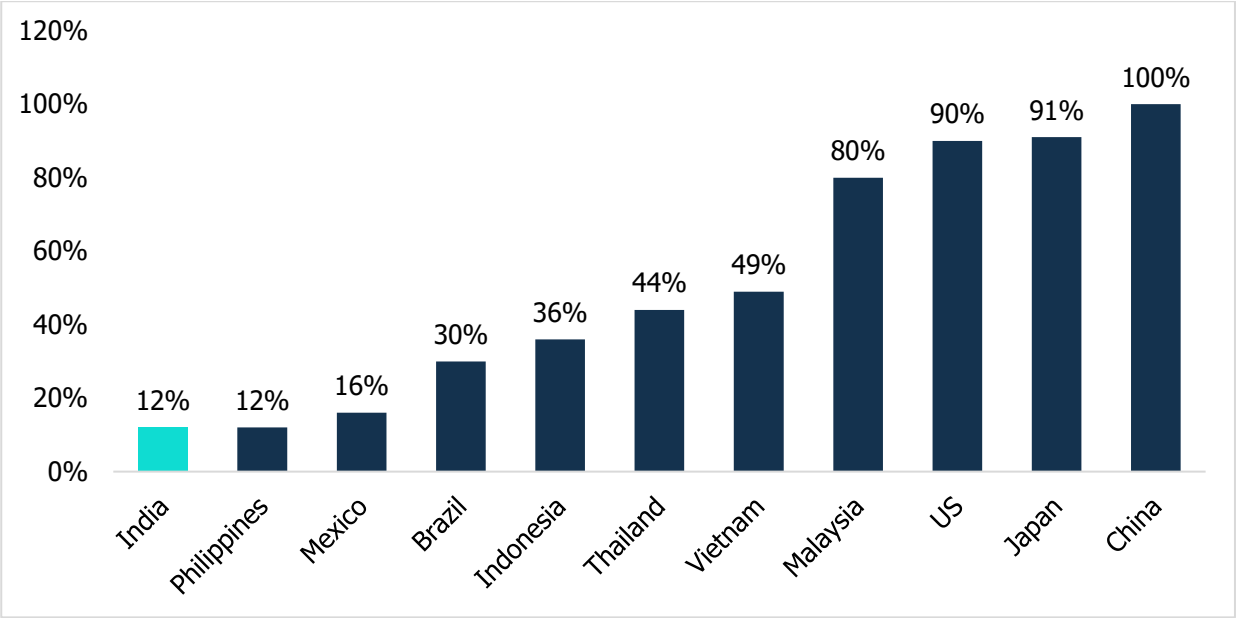

However, the scenario is rapidly evolving. Television penetration increased from 50% in 2018 to 60% in 2023, reflecting a growing demand for smart and large-screen models. Rising incomes, urbanisation, and improved electrification, especially in rural areas, are driving demand. Notably, India's middle class is also projected to increase, enhancing purchasing power. Additionally, climate change-induced heatwaves are making ACs a necessity rather than a luxury. This growing appetite for consumer goods is also fuelled by increasing disposable income, shorter product replacement cycles, and a shift toward premium, energy-efficient, and smart appliances.

Rising household consumption, particularly in rural areas, is reflective of this evolving trend. As the market matures and government initiatives such as PLI schemes and e-commerce expansion take effect, the penetration of consumer durables in India is set to rise rapidly. Challenges like high taxes on products such as air conditioners continue to hinder adoption, but evolving consumer expectations and environmental pressures are pushing the market forward.

This surge in appliance adoption is also influencing steel demand. The World Steel Association expects strong growth in India’s steel demand in the near term, driven primarily by expansion in the infrastructure and manufacturing sectors. Consequently, Steel Processing Centres are poised to expand, supporting the production of consumer durables like ACs and refrigerators. Overall, while India currently lags in appliance penetration, favourable economic, climatic, and industrial factors are propelling growth, aligning it closer to developed economies.

Demand for air conditioners, home refrigeration, and commercial refrigeration products is typically subject to seasonality, with relatively lower order volumes observed during the period from June to September. The Home & Commercial Appliances sector generally witnesses higher demand during the Indian summer and festive seasons.

5.2 Auto Ancillary Market in India

5.2.1 Automobile Production Trends

5.2.1.1 Overview

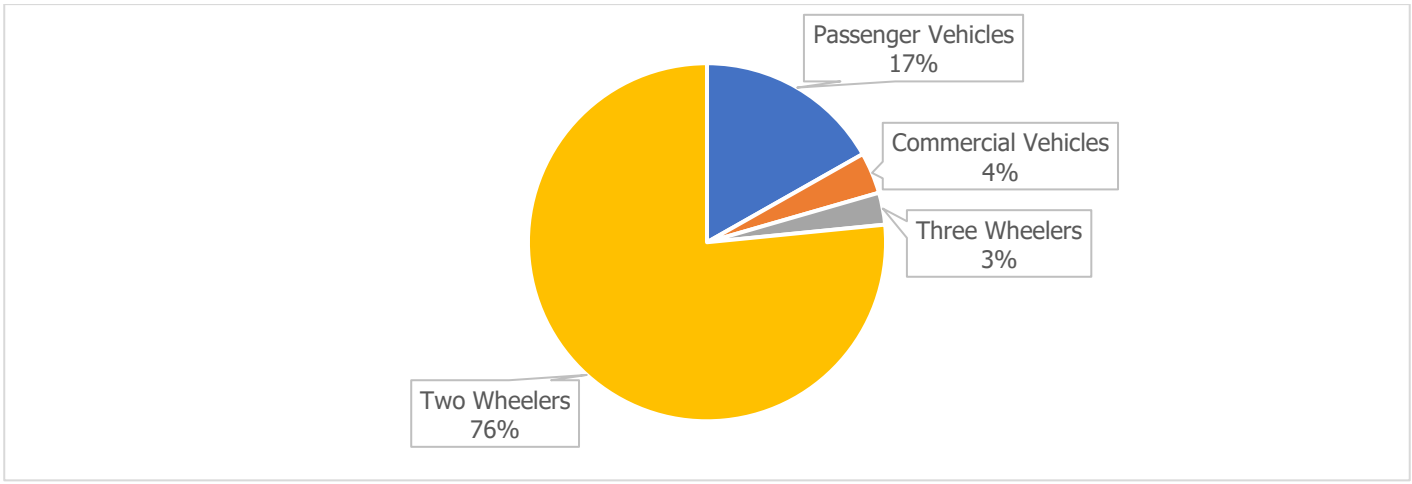

The automotive industry is one of the major drivers of economic growth due to its linkages with multiple industries. Its contribution to the GDP of India stands at around 7%. The growth of this sector benefits the commodity sector as vehicle manufacturing requires steel, aluminium, plastic, etc. It also holds importance for the NBFC/Banks in the form of automobile financing. Moreover, it is a crucial source of demand for the oil & gas industry.

India is the third-largest automobile market. Across segments of the industry, India is positioned amongst the leading markets globally. India is the largest manufacturer of two-wheelers, three-wheelers, and tractors. It is also among the top 5 manufacturers of passenger and commercial vehicles. The major growth drivers for the automobile industry in India are growing household income, favourable demographics with a sizeable proportion of the young population, expanding R&D hub, and government support. Besides growth prospects, India's favourable Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) policy with 100% FDI through the automatic route, low cost of manufacturing, and adequate manpower pool has attracted several foreign OEMs of the industry to invest in India and set up a manufacturing footprint.

The automobile exports grew at a modest CAGR of 2% between FY20 and FY25. However, in FY25, exports rebounded sharply, increasing by 19.2% compared to the same period last year, following significant declines of 5.5% in FY24 and 15% in FY23, driven by the global monetary crisis. In H1FY26, passenger vehicle exports rose by 18.4%, two-wheelers & three-wheelers by 25.5%, and commercial vehicles by 22.7%. Accordingly, exports are expected to remain robust in FY26, building on the healthy performance of recent years due Export demand from key markets, including Africa and neighbouring countries, is expected to remain strong, as 'Made in India' vehicles continue to gain acceptance and strengthen their market presence.

The Indian automobile market can be categorised into four segments: two-wheelers, three-wheelers, passenger vehicles, and commercial vehicles. Two-wheelers and passenger vehicles dominate the domestic Indian auto market. Two-wheelers and passenger cars contributed to about 77% and 17% respectively, of total automobile sales in FY25. The share of various segments in automobile sales in India in FY25 is depicted below:

5.2.2 Automotive Production in India

Source: SIAM, CareEdge Research

Automotive production grew by 9.1% y-o-y in FY25, following a similar growth of 9.6% in FY24 over FY23, whereas in H1FY26, production grew by 5.8% y-o-y. In FY25, among the segments, only two-wheelers & three-wheelers achieved double-digit growth, rising by 11.3%. In contrast, passenger vehicles saw a marginal increase of 3.3%, while commercial vehicles declined by 3.3% y-o-y growth for FY25. Consumer demand for automobiles has rebounded, driven by economic recovery, rising disposable incomes, and a growing preference for personal transportation. As a result, sales across various vehicle categories have increased, prompting manufacturers to boost production to meet the growing market demand.

5.2.3 Automotive Domestic Sales in India (Volume)

The domestic automobile sales show a marginal increase in H1FY26; the growth in sales volume across segments remained relatively flat, hence the retail registration for passenger vehicles, two-wheelers and three-wheelers was marginally higher than the previous H1FY25. However, September 2025 showed a recovery with a year-on-year increase, fueled by GST reductions and festive demand. Overall sentiments across the industry have remained subdued so far, as the industry continues to navigate supply-side challenges.

Overall, the domestic automobile industry sales are expected to grow with a CAGR of around 7%-9% over the period of FY26-28. The passenger vehicle sector is expected to see a growth of around 3-5% in FY26, since a recovery is expected in view of probable GST tax reforms before the festive season kicks in this year. Automakers are lowering prices and launching new models to draw in customers. Growth is predicted to pick up in the second half of FY26, driven by expected interest rate cuts and the festive season. This will be supported by a strong order book, improvements in the supply chain, high inventory, and growing interest in the utility vehicle segment.

5.2.4 Overview of the Auto Ancillary Market

The auto ancillary industry is on the top rung of the automobile industry. It is also the foundation of the development of the automobile industry. Auto parts are the different components that make up an entire vehicle. Several auto components are becoming increasingly complex to meet the requirements of weight reduction and increased productivity, given the increasing adoption of advanced technologies. These include engine components, interiors, electric systems, chassis, suspension & braking, transmission (motor and motor controller- EV), cooling systems, consumables, die cast components, ignition switches, switches, and others. However, the automotive components industry is developing rapidly, transitioning into specialisation, and constantly upgrading, attributed to the thriving automobile industry.

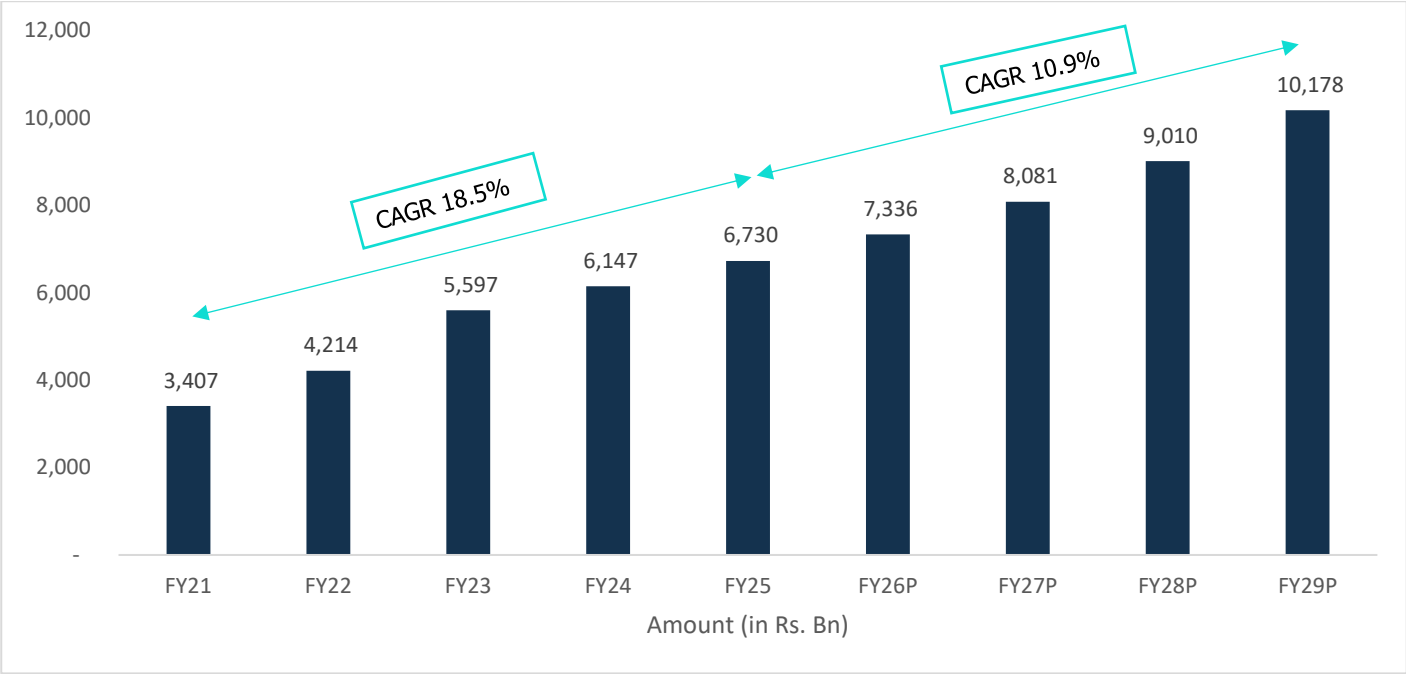

Table 13: Types of Auto Components

Parts	Description
Engine Components	An engine converts energy from fuel to some mechanical energy, creating motion in the process.
Interiors	The interior component of the car is the part that the driver and passengers see most and experience most closely - the steering wheel, dashboard, seats, door panels and so on.
Electric systems	The electrical system comprises a storage battery, generator, starting (cranking) motor, lighting system, ignition system, and various accessories and controls.
Chassis	"Chassis" is a term that should be used to refer to the load-bearing part of a car's frame. It is the horizontal section of the vehicle that connects other components of the structure. The chassis is a set of mechanical components that make it possible to transfer power from the drive unit to the wheels.
Suspension & Braking	The suspension system is a protective lattice of shock-absorbing components such as springs and dampers. Suspension components eliminate “lag” and maintain proper vehicle geometry, which reduces braking time and braking distance.
Transmission (Motor and Motor Controller-EV)	In a car, a transmission, or a gearbox acts as the medium that transmits power generated by the engine to the wheels via a mechanical system of gears and gear trains. A transmission allows a person to apply power to the vehicle in a controlled manner, without which the car would not move efficiently.
Cooling Systems	Almost all cars have liquid cooling systems in their engines. A typical automotive cooling system consists of a series of channels cast into the engine block and cylinder head, a radiator, a thermostat, a fan, and a centrifugal water pump.
Consumables	Consumables simply refer to the items that require constant expenditure, like brake oil, nuts, bolts, screws, washers, engine oil, and gearbox oil.
Die Cast Components	The major automobile components made using casting are pistons, engine blocks, valve covers, wheels, transmission housing, carburettors, fan clutches.
Fuel Tank	A fuel tank is a safe container for flammable fluids, often gasoline or diesel fuel. Though any storage tank for fuel may be so called, the term is typically applied to part of an engine system in which the fuel is stored and propelled or released into an engine.
Ignition Switches	The ignition switch performs a primary function. It connects the circuit that provides voltage to the starter motor, allowing the engine to crank over and the engine to eventually start.
Switches	Switches, whether toggle, push button, disconnect, or rockers, are to be seen in every 12v and 24v electrical circuit. These switches for vehicles are used to turn on or off the engine, lights, and other electrical systems.

5.2.5 Current Market Scenario and Forecast

Chart 51: Market Size and Growth Forecast of Auto Ancillary market.

Source: EMIS, CareEdge Research
Note: P denotes projected

In FY25, the Indian auto ancillary market was valued at INR 6730 billion and is projected to grow to INR 10178 billion by FY29, with a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of approximately 10.9% from FY25 to FY29. Many global companies are turning to India for export-driven manufacturing, attracted by the country's cost advantages over the US and Europe and its strong manufacturing capabilities.

The growth in the market is fuelled by the growing demand for vehicles, especially from a growing middle class and global export growth. The way people buy has changed since the onset of COVID-19, with more focus now on aspects such as safety, driving quality, premium interiors, looks, and comfort, compared to price. This has resulted in a surge in demand for sophisticated components and encouraged innovation in segments such as electric vehicles (EVs), intelligent cars, and autonomous driving systems. According to the Automotive Component Manufacturers Association of India (ACMA), EVs accounted for 6.7% of component sales by value in FY25. Additionally, rising exports are expected to further drive production, contributing to the overall growth of the industry.

5.2.6 Demand for Precision-Cut Steel in Lightweight Components

The demand for precision steel in lightweight automotive components is rising, driven by stricter global emissions regulations. Automakers are replacing heavier materials like cast iron and aluminium to enhance fuel efficiency and reduce CO_2 emissions. Precision steel enables high-quality, lightweight parts such as gears, shafts, and structural components with tighter tolerances and superior performance.

Advancements in cold-forming and stamping have expanded their use, allowing intricate components. The shift to electric vehicles (EVs) has further boosted demand, as lighter structures improve battery range and performance. Precision steel is now essential in EV battery trays, frames, and suspension systems. Stricter safety standards also require strong yet lightweight materials. High-strength steel (HSS) and ultra-high-strength steel (UHSS) are widely used in crash structures, door beams, and frames. Cost-effective and durable, precision steel supports mass production, benefiting both OEMs and the aftermarket.

As automotive innovation grows, demand for customisation and complex designs increases. Precision steel's flexibility makes it ideal for high-performance vehicles and niche applications. Its role in lightweight components will continue to expand, driven by efficiency, safety, and performance needs.

5.2.7 Growth Drivers for the auto-ancillary industry

The various growth drivers for the auto components industry are mentioned below: -

• Development in the Automotive Industry
The automobile industry has developed over the years and has gradually become one of the pillar industries of the national economy. It plays a decisive role in stimulating consumption, enhancing market confidence, creating jobs, and attracting investment. The automobile industry is one of the main pillars of the Indian economy. It has strong forward and backwards linkage and is an important driving force for economic growth. Liberalisation and conscious policy intervention over the past few years have created a dynamic and competitive market and brought in several inexperienced players, thereby expanding the automotive industry's production capacity.
The push for mobility solutions, exemplified by electric vehicles, will bring benefits to the Indian industry, economy, and the country. These benefits include improving urban air quality, reducing India's dependence on oil imports and increasing the adoption of renewable energy and storage solutions, as well as improving the quality of life and employment for citizens. To promote the development of vehicles across various segments, a phased manufacturing roadmap has been prepared, keeping in mind the current state of the manufacturing ecosystem in the country, wherein indigenous manufacturing of electric vehicles and their assemblies/sub-assemblies and components over time, sub-assemblies/sub-parts/inputs will be promoted through a hierarchical responsibility structure.
• Support Infrastructure and Expanding R&D hub
The Indian automobile industry has made tremendous progress over the past two decades. In the future, the share of electronic devices in cars will increase dramatically, making cars more intelligent and networked. Automotive components manufacturing follows this trend and continues to pursue economies of scale and scope in design and engineering while also pursuing low-cost manufacturing destinations.
India is transforming into a global automotive R&D hub with several market players entering the automotive development and manufacturing space. This has been supported by the availability of a low-cost workforce, favourable government schemes, cost advantages in setting up manufacturing facilities and access to a large customer base.
• Development of New Energy Vehicles
At present, electric vehicles are propelling innovations in auto components. The increased penetration of electric vehicles will lead to the transformation of automotive electrical distribution systems. The industry is headed toward vehicles with more electrical components of increasing complexity, which, in turn, require an electrification system equipped to handle higher voltages. Over the past few years, electric vehicles have received increasing attention due to falling ownership costs and stricter government regulations for emissions. Accordingly, the rising share of EV sales has the potential to present new opportunities for the auto components industry in India.
• Favourable Government Policies
The government is prioritising the shift toward clean mobility and has taken multiple initiatives to promote the manufacturing and adoption of electric vehicles in India. Schemes such as Faster Adoption and Manufacturing of Hybrid and Electric Vehicles in India (FAME II) have been introduced in the electric vehicle space. In addition, multiple production-linked incentive schemes intend to create a local manufacturing ecosystem. This is sought to be achieved by incentivizing fresh investments into developing indigenous supply chains for key technologies, products, and auto components.
• Bridging the Local Manufacturing Void
The leading global manufacturers are increasingly inclined to start manufacturing auto components in India. The PLI scheme worth Rs. 18,100 crores for battery manufacturing by the GOI is expected to increase manufacturing capacities and reduce reliance on imports. This will minimise the overall costs of batteries significantly, which forms a considerable portion of EV cost. The Government of India has also proposed to provide incentives of Rs. 76,000 crores for the development of semiconductors and enable a globally competitive incentive package to the companies for setting up plants in India.

5.2.8 Market Challenges for the auto-ancillary industry

The auto component industry has faced multiple headwinds over the time. Major challenges faced by the industry are mentioned below: -

• Semiconductor Shortage

The auto component industry is facing multiple headwinds in the form of semiconductor shortages due to the current geopolitical tensions. These factors are impacting the operating margins of the OEMs. The industry has been impacted by the shortage of semiconductor chips for a long time now. The production volumes have been under pressure, and OEMs had to take significant production cuts. The semiconductors for automotive segments account for 11% of the overall semiconductor demand. The use of electronics in vehicles has been continuously increasing. Currently, it accounts for 40% of average automobile usage, thus increasing dependence on semiconductors. The semiconductors used across various segments in vehicles include:

- Interior and Exterior Lighting
- Safety Control Related System and Chassis (ABS and Airbag)
- Telematics Communication Systems
- Audio- and Video-Based Infotainment System
- Interior Body Control System (Climate Control, Power System, Electric Power Steering, etc.)
- Autonomous Driving System & Driver's Assistance
- Battery-Centred Drive System

The supply chain has been impacted due to the pandemic and current geopolitical tensions. It takes almost 6 months from chip production to vehicle production. The ongoing semiconductor chip shortage remains the most significant headwind on a global level. It remains to be seen when the industry will return to a more stable rate of production.

- Steep Rise in Commodity Prices

Raw materials are an important part of the production costs of Automotive components. Fluctuations in raw material prices can significantly impact production costs for manufacturers of automotive components. The raw materials of Automotive components are primarily commodities, such as metals, plastics, etc. Their prices are affected by changes in supply and demand and are prone to fluctuations. OEMs across the automobile industry are facing the challenge of high raw material prices due to the current geopolitical tensions. Price of aluminium and steel have risen sharply which led the OEMs to take the price hikes. In response to that, the OEMs have hiked vehicle prices. Such a steep hike in vehicle prices is likely to dampen demand sentiments.

- Technological Changes

The auto industry has faced various disruptions in the areas of emission level, safety, electric mobility, and increasing usage of automotive electronics, all of which are technologically intensive. For instance, the migration to BS-VI norms posed impediments for the Indian auto component manufacturers due to the technology-intensive nature of the management modules of BS-VI. Most of the technology used is imported. The local players thus do not have a level playing field like the internationally developed alternatives. To bridge this gap, engaging in joint ventures with lead firms could play a pivotal role. Accordingly, both Indian and foreign firms have made efforts toward technology upgradation over the years, including the use of advanced modular platforms, new materials, and platform sharing in India. The key reason for indigenous firms to engage in a joint venture (JV) with a lead firm remains access to technology and customer base.

- High and non-uniform tax rates

Another challenge that the auto components industry faces is the high and non-uniform tax rates. Some auto components are taxed at the higher GST rates of 18% and 28% in India. Apart from this, the compensation cess levied on these items is in the range of 1%-22%, which makes internal combustion engine (ICE)-based vehicles one of the highest-taxed manufactured products in India. The auto component industry also faces the challenge of two separate GST rates. While nearly 60% of auto components face a GST rate of 18%, the remaining face a 28% GST. The lack of a uniform GST rate for the auto components sector creates disincentives for enhancing greater domestic production in some of the sub-segments with higher GST rates. Further, the auto components for EVs attract a high GST rate of 18% and 28%. Therefore, there is limited domestic production, with about 75% of the EV components being imported, including batteries and power electronics. In order to promote the indigenisation of auto components by attracting investments in key areas such as batteries and domestic power electronics, it is important to streamline the taxes and duties on auto components.

- High Industry Barriers

The lightweight of cars means reducing the overall quality of the car as much as possible while ensuring the strength and safety performance of the car, thereby improving the car's power, reducing fuel consumption, and reducing exhaust pollution. Therefore, automobile lightweight has become a trend. It is also one of the important means to improve the cruising range of electric vehicles.
Integration has increased industry barriers, and the application of innovative technologies continues to promote industry development. Take the electric drive system as an example. During the historical period, electric drive system products continued to iterate, and integrated products such as large and small three-in-one and all-in-one began to appear. The application of high-speed motors, flat wires, oil cooling and other new power devices will also drive the continuous progress of electric drive system technology.
As the integration level of autonomous components products gradually increases, the capability requirements for manufacturers are becoming more comprehensive, which will also form higher industry barriers. Only automotive components manufacturers with strong technical capabilities, excellent products, rich production experience and good customer relationships will be able to win in the future.

5.3 HVAC systems in India

5.3.1 Overview of HVAC systems in India

The Heating, Ventilation, and Air Conditioning (HVAC) sector applies mechanical engineering principles such as thermodynamics, fluid mechanics, and heat transfer to ensure thermal comfort and maintain indoor air quality across residential, industrial, and commercial spaces. It encompasses a wide range of products, including portable air conditioners, industrial electric fan heaters, large heaters, commercial dehumidifiers, man cooler fans, warehouse fans, portable ventilation fans, extractor fans, evaporative coolers, fan coil units, and portable boilers. The Indian HVAC market is expanding rapidly and is projected to reach USD 8.9 billion by 2029.

Urbanisation is driving demand for comfortable living and working environments, fuelling market growth. In homes, HVAC systems provide year-round thermal comfort, with heating ensuring warmth in winter and air conditioning maintaining cool temperatures in summer. In industrial settings, temperature control protects sensitive equipment from extreme fluctuations, while ventilation ensures optimal working conditions and product quality. In commercial spaces such as offices, hotels, and hospitals, these systems are essential for employee productivity, patient well-being, and guest comfort Based on offering, the Indian HVAC market can be divided into two broad categories: Equipment and Services. Equipment includes various essential components designed to provide climate control and maintain indoor air quality, such as furnaces, heat pumps, air conditioners, boilers, air handlers, ductwork, exhaust fans, and air purifiers. Services encompass a range of professional activities which are aimed at ensuring efficient operation, maintenance, and longevity of the HVAC system. These include upgradation/replacement, installation, maintenance, repair, and consulting services.

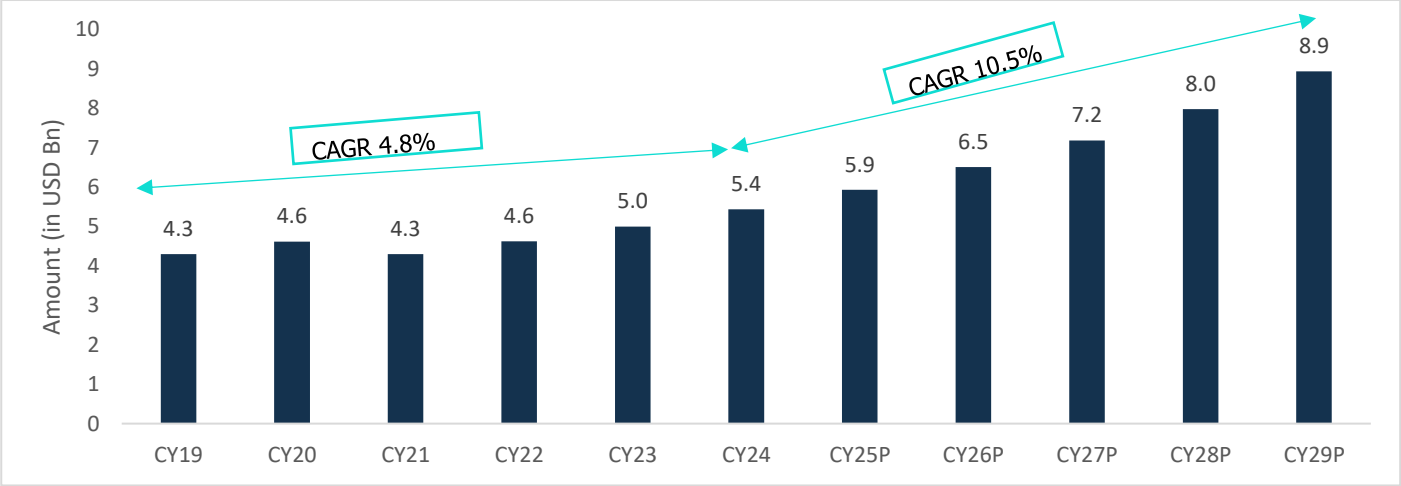

Equipment	Services
• Heating: Heating systems involve the process of adding thermal energy to achieve and maintain warm temperatures in colder regions to ensure occupant comfort and productivity. This is achieved through heating systems, such as furnaces, boilers, heat pumps, and electric heaters. • Ventilation: Ventilation systems refer to the process of exchanging indoor stale air with fresh outdoor air to maintain air quality and comfort in an enclosed space. The introduction of fresh outdoor air dilutes and removes indoor pollutants, odours, and excess moisture, while also regulating temperature and oxygen levels. • Cooling: Cooling systems refer to the process of removing thermal energy to achieve and maintain cooler temperatures in hotter regions to ensure occupant comfort. This is achieved through various	• Upgradation/Replacement: It involves upgradation or substitution of existing HVAC systems with newer, efficient models to enhance overall functionality. This includes systematic assessments of existing HVAC systems, identification of inefficiencies, selection of suitable replacement units, professional installation of new equipment, and post-installation testing and adjustments to ensure optimal operation. • Maintenance and Repair: It involves ensuring efficient and reliable system operation by conducting regular inspections, cleaning, and calibration. Tasks include filter checks, ductwork inspection, and electrical connection testing to identify and address minor issues. Repairs address malfunctions like faulty thermostats or compressor failures, restoring optimal functionality through skilled diagnosis and recalibration.

methods and technologies, such as air conditioners, chillers, and heat pumps, which absorb heat from indoor air and expel it outside.	• Installation: It involves the meticulous setup of HVAC systems for optimal performance and functionality. It begins with thorough planning and site evaluation, considering factors like building size and occupancy. Skilled technicians then install all components according to manufacturer specifications and local codes. Rigorous testing and adjustments ensure system integrity and performance. Finally, comprehensive documentation and client orientation are provided to ensure users understand system operation and maintenance. • Consulting: It involves expert guidance and advisory support provided by professionals to individuals, businesses, or organisations seeking optimised HVAC solutions. Consultants provide complete assessments of existing systems; collaborate closely with clients to understand all their requirements to meet their needs; assist with system design, equipment selection, technology integration, leveraging industry expertise and best practices to optimise performance and minimise operational expenses, and provide insights into regulatory compliance, industry standards, and emerging technologies, empowering clients to make informed decisions.

5.3.2 Current Market Scenario and Forecast

The Indian HVAC market grew at a CAGR of 4.8% from CY19-CY24, from USD 4.3 billion in CY19 to USD 5.4 billion in CY24. Except for a slight dip in market value during the pandemic, the HVAC market has shown an upward trend in its market size. This is attributed to increasing urbanisation and higher disposable incomes. According to World Bank data in CY22, 36% of India's population lives in urban areas, driving growth in this market as more people demand efficient and environmentally friendly modern HVAC systems to make living and working spaces comfortable.

Chart 52: Indian HVAC Market Size (by Value)

Notes: P denotes Projected; Source: EMIS, CareEdge Research

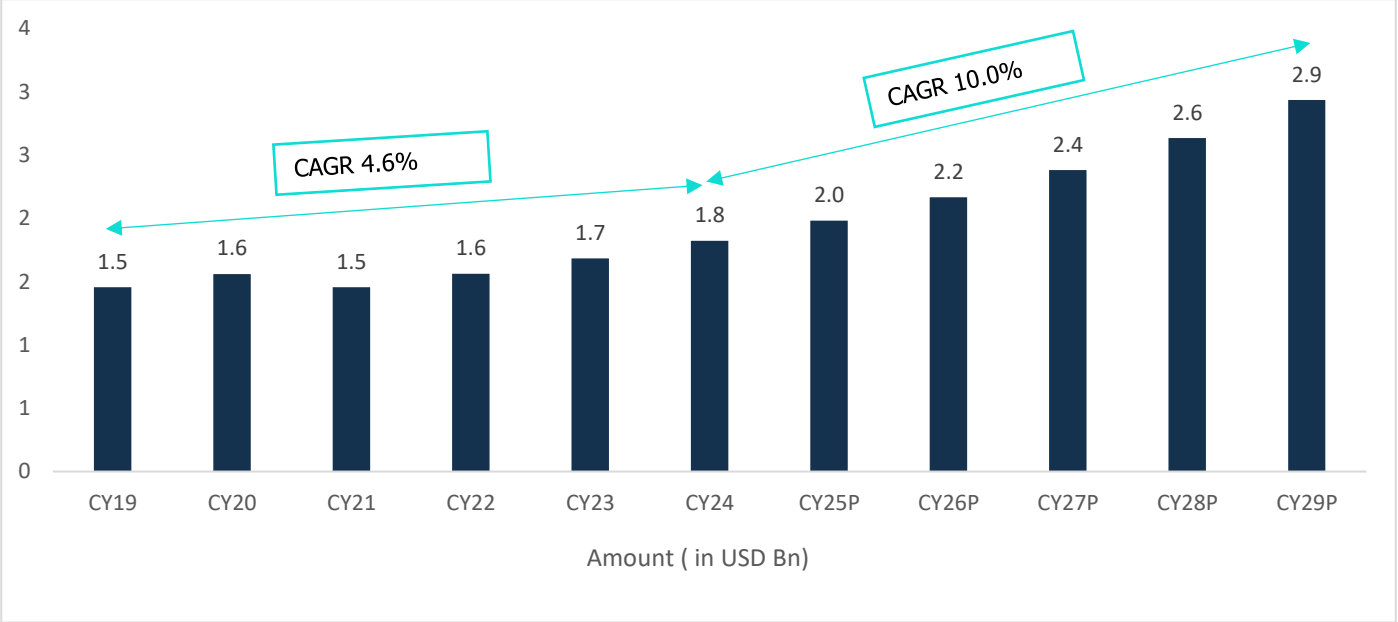

The Indian HVAC market size is forecasted to grow in an upward trend at a CAGR of 10.5% from CY24-CY29, gaining a market size of USD 8.9 billion by CY29. Increasing urbanisation, higher disposable incomes, growing awareness about indoor air quality and growing demand for energy-efficient and technologically advanced modern HVAC systems are the major contributors to this forecasted growth. Also, the domestically manufactured HVAC products will enhance accessibility, expand the service network, and increase support to different channels, further providing impetus to future growth.

5.3.2.1 Residential

Residential was the smallest segment in CY19 and continued to be the smallest segment of the market in CY24. As per the market disruptions during the historical period, the segment grew at a compound annual growth rate of 4.6%.

Chart 53: Indian HVAC Market Size for Residential (by value)

The residential segment was the smallest part of the market in CY24 and is expected to remain the smallest in CY29, growing at a slower pace than the overall market. It will experience a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 10.0% from 2024 to 2029, increasing from USD 1.8 billion in CY24 to USD 2.9 billion in CY29. Despite being the slowest-growing segment, residential will account for 31.7% of the total market growth during this period. The segment's contribution to the overall HVAC systems market in India is projected to decrease from 33.6% in CY24 to 32.8% by CY29.

The residential segment is expected to grow steadily over the forecast period, driven by factors such as rising temperatures from climate change, increasing disposable incomes, and population growth. Urbanisation and higher commuting distances, particularly in cities, are contributing to a higher number of vehicles on the road, further exacerbating temperature increases due to vehicular emissions. In addition, the steady rise in per capita disposable income is fuelling demand for HVAC systems in residential areas. The growing construction of smart residential buildings and extreme temperatures in northern India are also boosting demand for HVAC systems. As competition among HVAC manufacturers in India intensifies, companies are adopting disruptive pricing strategies and expanding their product portfolios, including low-cost HVAC systems.

5.3.2.2 Non-Residential

Non-residential was the largest segment in CY19 and continued to be the largest segment of the market in CY24. As per the market disruptions during the historical period, the segment grew at a compound annual growth rate of 4.9%.

Chart 54: Indian HVAC Market Size for Non-Residential (by value)

The non-residential segment was the largest part of the market in CY24 and is expected to remain the largest in CY29, growing at a faster rate than the overall market. It will grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 10.7% from CY24 to CY29, increasing from USD 3.6 billion in CY24 to USD 6 billion in CY29. The non-residential segment will be the fastest growing within the overall market, contributing 68.3% of the total market growth during this period. Its share of the HVAC systems market in India will rise from 66.4% in CY24 to 67.2% by CY29.

This segment, which includes both commercial and industrial HVAC systems, is expected to see steady growth driven by factors such as the expansion of the construction sector, increased infrastructure investments, and the growing demand for office spaces. The demand for office spaces in India has been rising consistently and is anticipated to continue growing throughout the forecast period.

Rapid urbanisation and policies promoting commercial real estate are boosting the demand for office spaces, particularly in fast-growing cities like Hyderabad, Bengaluru, NCR Delhi, Mumbai, and Pune. The increasing number of start-ups and the rise of co-working spaces are also expected to contribute to the demand for HVAC systems. Moreover, significant investments in infrastructure, such as the Government of India's plan to build 220 new airports by CY25, are expected to drive further demand for HVAC systems. These factors are expected to increase the demand for centralised split ACs, which will, in turn, support the growth of the non-residential segment in the HVAC systems market in India during the forecast period.

5.3.3 Market Drivers

- Increasing infrastructural development: The increasing number of infrastructure development plans are significantly driving growth in the Indian HVAC market. As cities are expanding, new commercial complexes, residential towers, and industrial facilities are being constructed, thus surging demand for climate control systems to maintain comfortable indoor temperatures and air quality for occupants. Moreover, the modernisation of existing infrastructure, including airports, railway stations, and hospitals, also fuels the demand for advanced HVAC systems. Upgrading these facilities often involves integrating modern HVAC solutions that enhance occupant comfort and improve energy efficiency, addressing the growing concerns about energy consumption in India. Additionally, the focus on cold chain infrastructure for food storage highlights the necessity for reliable refrigeration systems, benefiting India's agricultural sector.

- Government Initiatives: Government initiatives regarding infrastructure development are further driving demand for HVAC systems. The Regional Connectivity Scheme UDAN, led by the Ministry of Civil Aviation, aims to enhance air links to smaller towns in India, inaugurating 58 airports in its first five years. With a notable budget increase in 2023–24, totalling INR 1,244.07 Cr, the government underscores its commitment to UDAN's expansion, including reviving 22 airports and revitalising 50 more. This surge in airport projects, under the National Infrastructure Pipeline (NIP), emphasises Public-Private Partnerships (PPP) as key drivers for infrastructure development, promising growth in the HVAC market. Another such initiative is the "Smart Cities Mission" which further boosts demand for energy-efficient HVAC solutions, promoting smart technologies like occupancy-based air conditioning adjustments.

- Rising focus towards energy-efficient systems: The increasing emphasis on energy-efficient HVAC systems is driven by rising energy costs, environmental concerns, and government regulations. Both commercial and residential sectors prioritize energy efficiency to reduce costs and carbon footprints. Technologies like inverter-based air conditioners, Variable Speed Drives (VSDs), and smart thermostats adjust system output in real-time, minimising energy wastage. Government policies, such as BEE's star rating system and initiatives like the Smart Cities Mission and ECBC, promote the adoption of energy-efficient technologies. Commercial entities invest in building management systems to optimize energy usage. These trends lead to significant energy savings, environmental benefits, and support India's sustainable development and energy security goals.

- Growing awareness of Indoor Air Quality (IAQ): Growing consciousness of indoor air quality (IAQ) is fuelling the need for sophisticated HVAC systems that control and improve IAQ in different environments. In pollution-prone urban areas, indoor clean air is necessary for both residential and commercial establishments. Therefore, installations of HVAC systems incorporating sophisticated filtration and purification technologies have picked up to eliminate allergens and pollutants. Segments like offices, education, and healthcare are spending on IAQ-centred HVAC systems to ensure the health of occupants. The COVID-19 crisis has further put the spotlight on the need for IAQ, speeding up demand for models with improved ventilation, UV-C disinfection, and HEPA filters. Players like Carrier, Blue Star, and Daikin are developing innovative solutions to address these needs through multi-stage filtration and real-time air quality monitoring. With health and wellness at the forefront, IAQ is influencing consumer behaviour and industry trends, creating robust growth potential for the HVAC industry.

- Increasing focus on green buildings: green building certifications, including LEED, focus on energy efficiency and sustainability, propelling the demand for sophisticated HVAC systems in India. Voltas and Blue Star use technologies such as Variable Speed Drives (VSDs) to reduce energy consumption. Daikin provides heat pumps that harness renewable energy sources like geothermal energy to be consistent with green building standards. Specialised HVAC systems are becoming increasingly popular, with firms such as Johnson Controls and Siemens investing in energy-saving technology and building management systems. The indoor air quality continues to be of concern, mitigated by firms such as Carrier and Honeywell through HEPA filtration and specialised ventilation systems. Innovation is also flourishing, with firms such as Thermax creating radiant cooling systems and Sorbent Technologies working on desiccant dehumidification. Green buildings with effective HVAC systems offer long-term advantages, such as reduced operating expenses and lower environmental footprint, like the ITC Green Centre in Gurgaon, USGBC LEED certified.

- Rising demand in Tier-I and Tier-II cities: As urbanisation reaches the Tier-II and Tier-III cities in India, the demand for HVAC systems in Tier-II and Tier-III cities is growing. Infrastructure growth and business development fuel the demand for cosy indoor conditions in commercial buildings like malls, hotels, and offices. Likewise, housing construction is also on the rise, with builders incorporating HVAC systems into buildings to appeal to homebuyers who want state-of-the-art facilities. Players such as Blue Star and Voltas are increasing their products and reach in these markets, customising solutions to suit local requirements. Government programs like the Smart Cities Mission further drive investments in HVAC infrastructure in Tier-II and Tier-III cities.

5.3.4 Market Challenges

- Lack of access to credit for public and private investments: In India, access to credit poses significant challenges for infrastructure development, including HVAC projects. Macroeconomic conditions and government policies influence credit availability, impacting banks' willingness to fund large-scale projects. Risk assessment criteria, collateral availability, and borrower creditworthiness further affect lending decisions. Concerns over non-performing assets (NPAs) in the banking sector can also limit financing options. Additionally, the high upfront costs and longer payback periods of HVAC projects deter some investors and lenders. Addressing these challenges requires supportive policies, financial incentives, and efforts to streamline financing processes to promote sustainable growth in the HVAC sector.

- Competition from unorganised players: Competition from unorganised players in the Indian HVAC market presents significant hurdles due to their informal operations and disregard for industry standards and regulations. These players often offer cheaper products and services, drawing price-sensitive customers and exerting pricing pressures on established HVAC firms. This dynamic undermines the market share and profitability of reputable companies that prioritise quality, reliability, and customer service. Moreover, the presence of unorganised players tarnishes the overall reputation of the HVAC industry, as instances of substandard workmanship and inadequate support erode consumer trust. Furthermore, unorganised players typically do not invest in research and development or adopt innovative technologies to enhance energy efficiency and environmental sustainability. This technological disparity hampers the overall progress of the HVAC industry in India and limits the availability of advanced solutions for consumers.

- Skilled workforce shortage: A critical challenge in the Indian HVAC market is the scarcity of adequately trained technicians and engineers specialised in HVAC systems. The complexity of modern HVAC technologies demands skilled professionals proficient in installation, troubleshooting, and servicing. However, India faces a shortage of qualified HVAC personnel, leading to project delays and diminished service quality. This shortage also impedes the adoption of advanced HVAC solutions, such as variable refrigerant flow (VRF) systems and smart HVAC controls, which require specialised expertise. Additionally, the dearth of skilled technicians results in heightened maintenance costs and system downtime, as personnel may lack the proficiency to address complex issues promptly. The rapid growth of the construction and infrastructure sectors exacerbates this challenge, amplifying the demand for HVAC services and widening the skills gap further.

- High maintenance and installation cost of HVAC systems: The Indian HVAC market faces a significant challenge due to the high maintenance and installation costs associated with HVAC systems, affecting both customers and industry players. For customers, the substantial initial investment required for purchasing and installing HVAC systems, especially in commercial and industrial settings, can be prohibitive. Ongoing maintenance expenses further add to the total cost of ownership. From the industry perspective, these prohibitive costs can deter potential customers and limit market penetration, especially in price-sensitive segments.

- Geopolitical tensions: Geopolitical tensions often disrupt the supply chain of HVAC components, affecting availability and increasing costs. With many components sourced internationally, conflicts or strained relations with major trading partners can lead to delays and higher expenses. Tariffs, trade restrictions, and embargoes further complicate procurement for Indian manufacturers. In response, the Indian HVAC market is prioritising energy efficiency and sustainability to reduce dependency on imported materials and mitigate geopolitical instability on energy prices. Government initiatives like star labelling and the Perform, Achieve and Trade (PAT) scheme promote efficient HVAC systems adoption. However, the recent geopolitical unrest has exacerbated input costs, with major raw materials prices rising by 18–63% y-o-y basis. Increased logistics costs due to rerouted shipments and enhanced security measures further inflate expenses, reducing the competitiveness of Indian air conditioners in the global market.

5.3.5 Outlook

The Indian HVAC market, valued at USD 5.4 billion in CY24, is projected to grow to USD 8.9 billion by CY30, with a CAGR of 4.8%, driven by urbanisation and the need for efficient climate control systems in residential, commercial, and industrial buildings. The market is mainly driven by HVAC equipment like air conditioners, chillers, and ventilation systems, with the equipment segment expected to dominate with a 71.1% market share by CY30. The commercial and residential sectors are projected to lead in market size, reaching USD 6 billion (67.4%) and USD 2.9 billion (32.6%), respectively. This growth is supported by the increasing adoption of smart, energy-efficient, and sustainable HVAC systems. Challenges like limited access to credit, competition from unorganised players, and high installation costs need to be addressed for continued market growth, particularly in Tier-II and Tier-III cities.

The Indian HVAC market is also seeing a rise in smart, connected systems, driven by IoT-enabled devices that improve efficiency and allow for predictive maintenance. Companies are collaborating with start-ups and IoT providers to enhance offerings. The integration of Industrial Internet of Things (IIoT) in large industries is also reducing energy loss and costs. The increasing focus on smart factories is expected to boost the adoption of these systems.

Concerns about indoor air quality (IAQ) are further driving the adoption of advanced HVAC systems, as they improve ventilation and air quality in buildings. As people spend a significant amount of time indoors, efficient HVAC systems are vital for better health and well-being. Organisations like ISHRAE are raising awareness about IAQ, promoting energy-efficient practices such as maintaining HVAC systems at 24°C (75°F).

Additionally, there is a global shift towards low-GWP refrigerants, and HVAC manufacturers in India are investing in these alternatives, replacing high-GWP refrigerants like HFCs. This change is expected to positively impact the HVAC market in India, driven by government regulations and environmental concerns.

6 Electricity Transmission and Distribution

6.1 Transmission

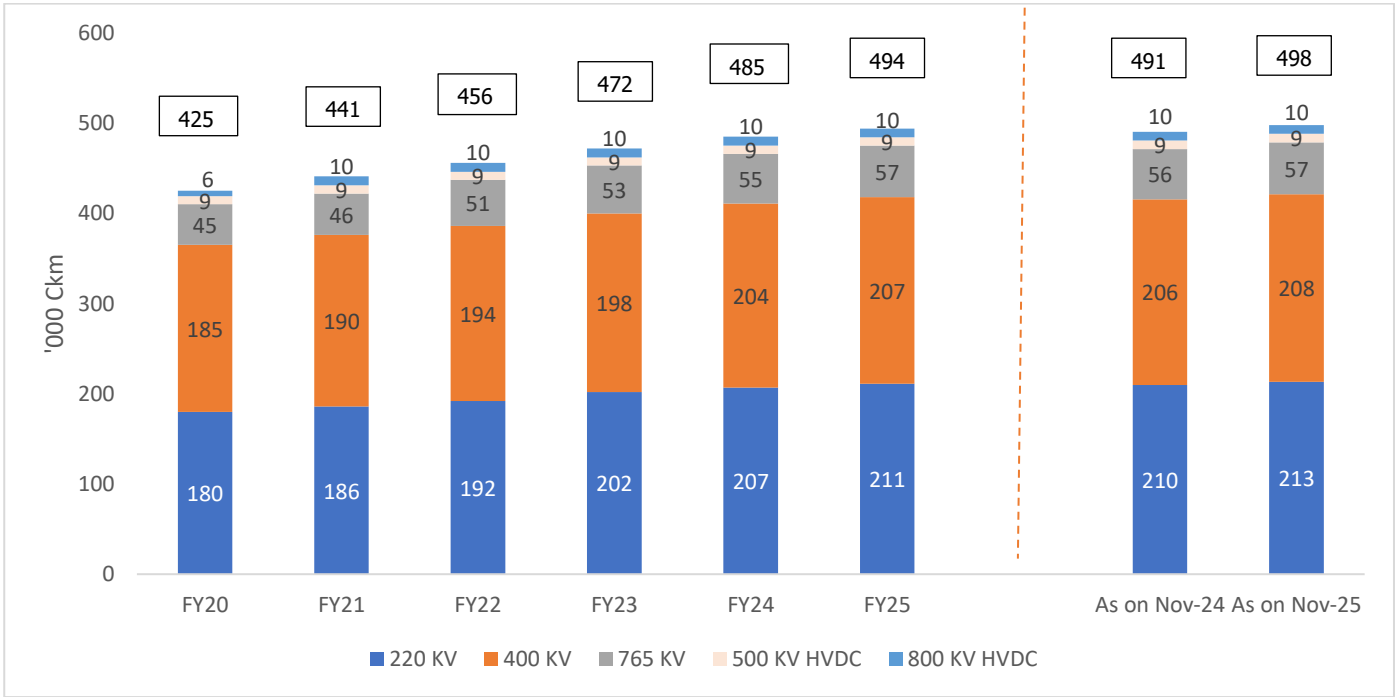

A transmission line is used for transmitting electrical power from a generating substation to several distribution units. Transmission planning has become even more essential to integrate and evacuate RE power with the current growth trajectory of RE in the last few years, coupled with the Government of India's target of integrating 500 GW non-fossil-based installed capacity by 2030.

India's power transmission system has expanded at a significant pace, driven by growing demand, the government's focus on providing electricity in rural areas, and the need for connecting the generation stations, including the integration of RE sources from the RE-rich states. Further, with the implementation of two central sector schemes, namely, the North Eastern Regional Power System Improvement Project (NERPSIP) and the Comprehensive Scheme for Strengthening of Transmission & Distribution Systems in Arunachal Pradesh and Sikkim, the transmission and distribution infrastructure of the Northeastern states are also being strengthened.

Further, the government-owned Power Grid Corporation of India Ltd (PGCIL) is the industry leader that owns and operates most of the inter-state and inter-regional transmission lines in the country, facilitating the transfer of power between different regions. While PGCIL and other state transmission utilities remain major players in the sector, the private sector participation has seen a healthy growth with the introduction of Tariff-based Competitive Bidding (TBCB) and a viability gap funding scheme for the inter-state projects.

Moreover, the transmission line network grew at a CAGR of approximately 3% to 4,94,374 CKm as of March 2025 from ~4,25,000 CKm as of March 2020. During FY25, 8,830 CKm of transmission lines were added to the total network. Also, total transformation capacity addition during November 2025 was 13,97,773 MVA. Whereas the transformation line capacity is at 12,89,885 MVA as of November 2024.

There are many transmission projects under construction. These include various projects of transmission systems associated with renewable projects and conventional projects in Rajasthan, Karnataka, Maharashtra, etc. These projects are being executed mainly by PGCIL along with private players like Sterlite Power Transmission Limited, Adani Transmission Limited, ReNew Transmission Ventures Private Limited, etc.

Further, the substation line network grew at a CAGR of approximately 6.8% to 1.34 million MVA as of March 2025 from 0.969 million MVA as of March 2020.

Moreover, India has a target of 500 GW of non-fossil fuel capacity by 2030, and there have been significant investments in increasing and upgrading the transmission infrastructure.

The transmission system has been planned for the following RE capacity to be commissioned by 2030:

Table 14: Transmission System planned for Renewable Energy

Sr. No.	Category	Capacity (MW)	As of November'25
1.	RE capacity already commissioned (As on 30.11.2025)	1,65,943	2,53,955

6.2 Distribution

Distribution is the decisive step in the power sector value chain. It connects the transmission utilities to the final consumers, such as residential, commercial, agricultural, and industrial consumers. It is the most critical step for the entire power sector, where the revenues are generated and transferred to the first two segments of generation and transmission. The process is mostly conducted by state-owned distribution companies (DISCOMs).

The government permitted private participation in power distribution in the Electricity Act, 2003, to promote competition among DISCOMs and increase the efficiency of operations. Even though most of the DISCOMs in India are state-owned, about 10% of India's population is served by private distribution licensees. Further, distribution franchisees have helped bring down distribution losses significantly in the regions they operate. In India, distribution for cities such as Delhi, Surat, Ahmedabad, Kolkata, and Mumbai has been awarded to private licensees that are running efficiently.

The consumer mixes DISCOMs comprises five main components, namely, domestic, commercial, agriculture, industrial, and others. The industrial segment brings the highest revenue for the DISCOMs, followed by the agriculture and domestic sectors.

7. Impact of 2025 GST Reforms
The 2025 GST reforms are a structural positive for both consumption and manufacturing.

Consumer Electronics & Appliances:
Tax rates on large TVs, dishwashers, and air conditioners have been cut from 28% to 18%. This makes products more affordable, expands the addressable consumer base, and should drive volume growth in a sector already benefiting from rising discretionary spending. Lower effective costs also improve the competitiveness of domestic brands versus imports, supporting margin expansion for Indian manufacturers.

Automotive & Ancillaries:
Small cars and two-wheelers (≤350cc) now face an 18% GST rate, down from 28%, while all auto parts have been standardised under the 18% slab. This simplification reduces compliance risk and pricing uncertainty. For OEMs, affordability-led demand recovery is likely; for ancillaries, lower input taxes reduce cost pressures, improve profitability, and provide headroom for capacity expansion and investment.

Macroeconomic Impact:
At a broader level, the reforms enhance household purchasing power, stimulate consumption, and accelerate formalisation. The move to a streamlined two-slab structure simplifies compliance and widens the tax net, while lower input costs across sectors (autos, construction, consumer goods) improve the competitiveness of SMEs and domestic supply chains. The combined effect is an environment supportive of sustained demand, manufacturing growth, and long-term earnings visibility.

Key Takeaway:
The reforms are pro-consumption and pro-manufacturing. Beneficiaries include listed consumer appliance makers, auto OEMs, and ancillary suppliers with high exposure to small cars and two-wheelers. Over the medium term, the policy shift supports higher volumes, margin resilience, and stronger capex cycles.

8. Government Key Policies and Regulatory Actions with focus on EMS

8.1 Make in India

Launched in 2014 during an economic downturn, the Make in India program has significantly influenced India's Electronics Manufacturing Services (EMS) sector. To reactivate growth and make India a manufacturing powerhouse, it targets drawing in investment, innovation, and infrastructure development. As a lead Vocal for Local effort, it enhances India's manufacturing industry and global industrial base.

Make in India has accelerated economic growth and employment, especially for the youth. In its second phase involving 27 sectors, it goes on to solidify India's manufacturing base by enhancing infrastructure, rationalising processes and encouraging foreign investment. Amidst odds of skill deficits and global competition, it has managed to bring in huge foreign direct investment (FDI), high-tech equipment, and generate crores of jobs.

For the EMS sector, Make in India has facilitated localisation, decreased dependence on imports, and strengthened technological competence. Investments and government policies have laid a solid foundation for self-reliance and competitiveness in electronics production, making India a top choice for foreign investment. EMS providers that fit into this vision are rewarded by increasing demand for cost-efficient, high-quality electronics while reinforcing India's global position.

8.2 Production Linked Incentive (PLI) Scheme

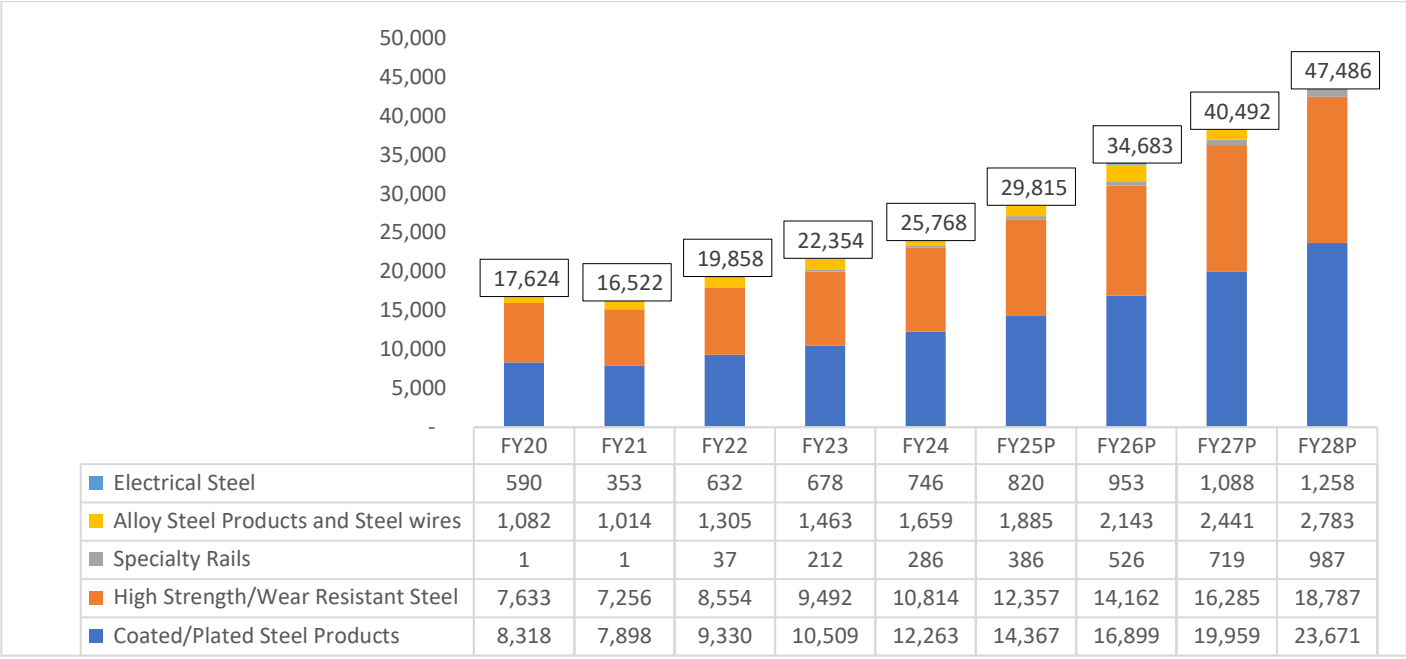

India's manufacturing sector is undergoing a significant transformation, driven by policies aimed at enhancing global competitiveness. Central to this shift is the Production Linked Incentive (PLI) Scheme, which fosters innovation, efficiency, and competitiveness, particularly in the Electronics Manufacturing Services (EMS) sector.

Launched in 2020, the PLI Scheme goes beyond policy changes, it strategically targets self-sufficiency by offering financial incentives to sectors like electronics, textiles, pharmaceuticals, and automobiles, based on production and sales growth. This performance-based model attracts both domestic and international investments, encouraging businesses to embrace advanced technologies and scale operations effectively.

In the EMS sector, the PLI Scheme has driven noteworthy progress. By August 2024, Rs 1.46 lakh crore in investments led to a sharp rise in production and sales, totalling Rs 12.50 lakh crore, and created approximately 9.5 lakh jobs. Exports, particularly in electronics, surged to over Rs 4 lakh crore, showcasing the success of the scheme in enhancing India’s global position and boosting economic growth.

Specifically for electronics, the PLI Scheme is instrumental in fostering growth in India’s EMS industry, projecting a rise from Rs 1.46 lakh crore in FY22 to Rs 6 lakh crore by FY27. This sector is expected to grow at a 26% annual rate between CY23 and CY30, reaching USD 500 billion. The government's efforts to increase assembly activities in areas like mobile phones, automotive, and industrial segments, along with the launch of other initiatives like the Semicon India program, are accelerating this growth. Future incentives for critical components such as printed circuit boards (PCBs) will strengthen India’s manufacturing ecosystem, enhancing self-reliance and global competitiveness.

Indian Steel Processing Centres are governed by a robust regulatory framework of labour laws, taxation, and environmental laws. Taxation has become much more organised with the rollout of the Goods and Services Tax (GST), which has reduced the tax incidence to a uniform GST rate on steel products, with 12% on domestic use items such as iron and steel household articles and 18% on articles such as railway tracks and pipes). Further, India is planning to impose a border adjustment tax on steel imports to put the domestic producers on an equal footing. The tax would cover various charges that are not included under GST, i.e., cess and state charges, which form approximately 12% of the price of steel available for sale in India.
Indian labour laws have been merged into four principal codes to ease compliance and enhance workers' welfare. They are the Code on Wages, the Occupational Safety, Health and Working Conditions Code, the Code on Social Security, and the Industrial Relations Code. The reforms seek to universalise minimum wages, make timely payment, and give emphasis to occupational safety, thus fostering a good work environment and promoting economic growth.

Environmental laws for Steel Processing Centres are strict, and the operations are sustainable. The Environment Protection Act, 1986, and other rules and regulations control pollution and environmental protection). Initiatives by the government, such as the National Action Plan on Climate Change (NAPCC) and the Corporate Responsibility for Environmental Protection (CREP) have also encouraged industries to implement cleaner technologies and minimise their impact on the environment. Recent policies also encourage decarbonization in the steel sector via improvements in energy efficiency and renewable energy use.

9. Key Threats and Challenges to the Indian Steel Industry

- Raw Material Price Volatility: The Indian steel industry is highly dependent on raw materials such as iron ore, coking coal, and scrap. Price fluctuations in these inputs significantly impact production costs and market competitiveness. While India benefits from abundant iron ore reserves, domestic price volatility arises from factors like mining regulations and environmental concerns. The steel sector's heavy reliance on imported coking coal, which constitutes a significant portion of steel production costs, further exposes it to global price fluctuations and supply disruptions, adding instability to the industry's pricing structure. The price and availability of steel coils are subject to volatility and supply constraints arising from various external factors beyond the Company's control, including global and domestic demand-supply dynamics, logistics and processing costs, inflation, governmental regulations and policies, overall economic conditions, production levels, market competition, duties and taxes, trade restrictions, transportation costs and currency exchange rate fluctuations.

- Logistics Costs: Logistics remains a major bottleneck for India's steel industry, with transportation inefficiencies inflating costs. Steel production and its raw materials require bulk transportation, yet India's infrastructure lags behind global standards. With a high percentage of steel plants located inland, the cost of rail and road freight is elevated, leading to significant cost disadvantages compared to global competitors. Indian steel producers are estimated to incur logistics costs of 15-17% of revenue, far exceeding the global average and impacting India's competitiveness in both domestic and international markets.

- Dependency on Imports for Certain Grades of Steel: Despite being a major steel producer, India remains significantly reliant on imports of high-quality coking coal, as domestic availability of low-ash coking coal is limited relative to the requirements of the steel industry. The Ministry of Steel notes that most domestically produced coking coal has high ash content, resulting in substantial imports to meet steel-sector requirements. India also continues to rely on imports for certain high-grade and specialised steel products, particularly where domestic availability or capacity remains insufficient. This import dependence exposes steel producers to international commodity-price movements, exchange-rate fluctuations and potential supply-chain disruptions. In the case of coking coal, the dependence is particularly significant because it is a major component of steel manufacturing costs, thereby affecting the industry's cost competitiveness and reducing raw-material self-sufficiency.

10. Use of Automation, AI, and Digital Tracking for Efficiency and Optimisation

The integration of Artificial Intelligence (AI), automation, and digital tracking technologies holds transformative potential for the Indian steel industry, addressing several critical challenges. These technologies improve efficiency, reduce waste, and optimise distribution, driving competitiveness and sustainability.

AI and Predictive Analytics can forecast raw material prices with high accuracy, enabling steelmakers to time procurement and hedge against price volatility. Additionally, AI-driven inventory management allows for better demand forecasting and optimised stockpiles, reducing excess inventories. For instance, Tata Steel has used AI to cut excess inventories. Additionally, Tata Steel has developed an in-house AI model, NIRN-AI, to forecast the coking-coal price index over a three-month horizon, providing inputs for sourcing strategy and procurement decisions. AI can also identify alternative sourcing options, reducing reliance on volatile imports like coking coal.

Automation enhances production processes by employing robotics and automated guided vehicles (AGVs), increasing throughput and reducing labour costs. Automated material handling systems and port automation can reduce turnaround times, cutting logistics costs. AI systems also optimise production schedules, improving capacity utilisation.

Digital Tracking and IoT enable real-time monitoring of raw material shipments, improving supply chain transparency and reducing delays. AI-powered route optimisation and smart logistics platforms further enhance distribution efficiency by minimising idle time and freight costs. These innovations could reduce logistics expenses, aiding in meeting the National Logistics Policy's cost-reduction targets.

Together, these technologies can reduce production costs, improve energy efficiency, and meet stringent environmental standards, positioning India's steel industry as a leader in both efficiency and sustainability. With significant investments and government support, these advancements could help the sector meet its 255 MT production goal by 2030-31.

Overview

We are a steel processing centre engaged in the business of converting steel coils into value-added processed steel products. Our core competencies include precision slitting, cut-to-length processing, shearing, and embossing of steel coils into slit coils, embossed slit coils, blanks, embossed blanks and sheared blanks (collectively referred to as "Processed Steel Products"). We cater to a diversified customer base comprising Original Equipment Manufacturers (OEMs) and Original Design Manufacturers (ODMs).

Our Company, being a Steel Processing Centre ("SPC"), operate as an intermediary between primary steel producers and end-users by providing value-added processing services. For the home and commercial appliances sector, we process coated steel coils and hot-rolled steel coils into Processed Steel Products used in the manufacture of various appliances. For the general engineering sector, we undertake specialized processing of non-coated and galvanised plain coils into blanks, used in automotive manufacturing, pharmaceutical cleanroom infrastructure, electrical equipment, and ventilation systems. In addition to manufacturing Processed Steel Products, we also perform logistics and inventory management functions. By maintaining adequate inventory levels and offering just-in-time delivery solutions, we ensure timely and efficient supply of processed steel products to customers across urban as well as remote locations, thereby enhancing supply chain efficiency and cost optimization. (Source: CareEdge Report)

One of the Promoters of our Company, Mr. Vijaykumar Himatrai Gupta, commenced operations in 1983 as a steel trader under the sole proprietorship M/s. Bombay Steels. In 2012, the business expanded into steel processing with the establishment of the Bhiwandi facility, followed by the execution of a service partnership agreement with JSW Steel Coated Products Limited ("JSWSCPL") in 2018. Subsequently, on January 29, 2021, our Company entered into a Business Transfer Agreement to acquire the running business of M/s. Bombay Steels on a going-concern basis. This acquisition consolidated over four decades of trading and processing experience into the operations of our Company. Thereafter, our Company has entered into a phase of rapid expansion and added steel processing facilities across key manufacturing regions of India. We expanded our operations by establishing new manufacturing facilities in the West, North and South of India. Our steel processing facilities are strategically located across key industrial regions in India, enabling us to serve a wide spectrum of industries with efficiency and just in time deliveries. For further details see 'Our Business – Manufacturing Facilities' on page 260.

Since 2021, our Company has been an authorised service partner of JSW Steel Coated Products Limited and/or its holding Company ("JSWSCPL"), pursuant to an agreement for the regular supply of steel coils. We procure steel coils from JSWSCPL as well as other suppliers and process them using advanced engineering techniques and high-precision machinery to manufacture Processed Steel Products. Our long-standing and strong supplier relationships ensure stability and reliability in sourcing, enabling us to efficiently and consistently meet customer requirements. (Source: CareEdge Report)

We are a multi-location steel processing centre with manufacturing facilities located at Wada and Bhiwandi in Maharashtra, Ghiloth in Rajasthan, and Sri City in Andhra Pradesh. Our facilities are equipped with steel processing infrastructure, including slitting lines, cut-to-length lines, shearing lines, and embossing lines, designed to achieve operational precision and efficiency. These manufacturing facilities are spread across four strategically located sites in India, aggregating a total area of 42,209 square meters, and are ISO 9001:2015 certified for the processing, marketing, and supply of Processed Steel Products. Further, our Ghiloth facility in Rajasthan and Sri City in facility Andhra Pradesh has been recognized as a GEM-4 certified green facility.

The locations of our manufacturing facilities have been selected with reference to proximity to customer delivery points. Certain facilities are located near the manufacturing locations of customers such as Western Refrigeration Private Limited, Amber Enterprises India Limited, PG Technoplast Private Limited, EPack Durable Limited, Kruger Ventilation Industries (India) Private Limited, among others. This proximity enables reduction in logistics time and transportation costs, facilitates operational efficiencies, and supports timely fulfilment of customer requirements. In addition, the clustering of certain facilities within the same state allows for inter-facility movement of materials, thereby reducing freight time and costs as components undergo sequential processing.

We operate with an aggregate installed processing capacity of 1,23,153 MTPA, computed on a quarterly basis for Fiscal 2027, across slitting, cut-to-length, shearing and embossing operations, as of June 30, 2026. Our installed capacity has increased at a compound annual growth rate ("CAGR") of approximately 23.83% between Fiscal 2024 and Fiscal 2026, reflecting our continued focus on capacity expansion and operational scalability. For further details see 'Our Business – Installed Capacity and Capacity Utilization' on page 260. Further, our long-standing authorised partnership with JSW Steel Coated Products Limited since 2021 provides us with reliable access to quality raw materials and supports our ability to service a diversified customer base, positioning us well for sustained growth in the steel processing industry.

We have established long-standing relationships with a diverse set of customers. Our focus on quality, value proposition, timely delivery of our products and the price competitiveness of our offerings has enabled us to maintain long-term relationships with our customers. In Fiscal Years 2026, 2025 and 2024, as well as for the three months period ended June 30, 2026, we served, 261, 252 ,225 and 178 customers, respectively. These customers span multiple industries, including consumer durables and home appliances, electrical equipment and components, automotive and auto components, HVAC and refrigeration, electronics and electrical manufacturing services, industrial engineering and capital goods, steel processing and metal fabrication, infrastructure, renewable energy and power equipment, FMCG and packaging, as well as general manufacturing and industrial trading enterprises. Such diversification of our customer base across industries reduces our dependence on any single customer or industry segment. (Source: CareEdge Report)

Our customer-centric approach enables us to provide tailored solutions that align with both functional and aesthetic expectations, and just in time deliveries of Processed Steel Products aligns with the requirements of our customers. Our customer base includes several OEMs and ODMs operating in India, including Haier Appliances India Private Limited IFB Refrigeration Limited, Dixon Electro Manufacturing Private Limited, Amber Enterprises India Limited, Western Refrigeration Private Limited, PG Technoplast Private Limited, EPack Durable Limited Kruger Ventilation Industries (India) Private Limited, Elegant Coatings Private Limited and Magnum MI Steel Private Limited.

Our Promoters, Board of Directors, and senior management have been instrumental in the growth of our business and have enabled us to capitalize on market opportunities and better serve our customers, with collective experience spanning operations, business development, and customer relationship management. as of June 30, 2026, who form the backbone of our business by driving innovation, ensuring quality, and maintaining the standards expected by our customers.

Our Market Opportunity

As per the CareEdge Report, there exists a substantial market opportunity for our Company, which can be clearly demonstrated from the following:

Role of Steel Processing Centres:

Steel Processing Centres ("SPCs") in India are witnessing significant growth, driven by rising steel consumption across diverse end-use sectors such as automotive, construction, infrastructure and manufacturing. As India continues to accelerate its industrialisation and infrastructure development, SPCs are emerging as a critical link between large-scale steel producers and end-users, providing essential services including steel slitting, cut-to-length, blanking, splitting, inventory management, and timely distribution. These services enable industries to access steel in the precise forms and quantities required, thereby improving efficiency, reducing waste, and optimising supply chains.

The growing demand for steel arising from infrastructure development, supported by government initiatives and urbanisation, has contributed to the increasing relevance of SPCs. In parallel, expansion in the automotive and manufacturing sectors has resulted in greater demand for processed steel products that meet specific technical and dimensional requirements. By customising steel products and reducing dependence on in-house processing by end-users, SPCs support improved manufacturing efficiency, reduced material wastage and optimised supply chains. The increasing adoption of just-in-time ("JIT") delivery models, particularly in the automotive and consumer durables sectors, has further reinforced the importance of SPCs in ensuring timely availability of processed steel inputs.

- Growing Demand from Construction and Automotive Industries: The construction and automotive sectors are major consumers of steel, driving the demand for Steel Processing Centres. Steel is critical for applications such as structural framing in construction and car components in automotive production. As both industries expand, the need for Steel Processing Centres to supply customised steel products, with reduced lead times and processing, continues to rise.

- Technological Advancements in Steelmaking: Technological innovations are reshaping the steel industry, enabling more efficient steel production and processing. These advancements lead to lower production costs, making steel more accessible for various industries. The development of new equipment and steelmaking processes is also enhancing the productivity of Steel Processing Centres, enabling them to serve their customers more efficiently and cost-effectively.

- Increased Utilisation of Steel Across Multiple Sectors: Steel's versatility has driven its increased use in various sectors, including biotechnology, energy, shipbuilding, and manufacturing. Its role in heavy industries, construction, and machinery is expanding as demand for robust, temperature-resistant materials rises. Steel Processing Centres are essential for supplying specialised steel products, contributing to their growing market presence.

- Globalisation and Competitive Market Expansion: Globalisation has opened new opportunities for Steel Processing Centres to cater to international markets. As the global demand for steel rises, centres are increasingly competing for customers worldwide. This global reach encourages service centres to improve operational efficiency, adopt advanced technologies, and offer better services at competitive prices, ultimately benefiting customers.

- Rise of Local Manufacturing and Industrialisation: The shift toward local manufacturing, combined with rapid industrialisation, has boosted the demand for Steel Processing Centres. The establishment of new centres in emerging markets allows them to cater to local manufacturing needs. Additionally, the growing preference for steel in industries such as mining, construction, and chemicals further drives the demand for Steel Processing Centre services.

- Expansion of India's Consumer Electronics and Appliances Sector Driving Steel Demand: The consumer electronics and appliances sector in India is witnessing significant expansion, fuelled by rising incomes, technological innovation, and growing domestic demand. As the country positions itself as a major player in the global market for products like smartphones, white goods, and air conditioners, the need for high-quality materials, particularly steel, continues to rise. Steel plays a crucial role in the production of key components such as frames and internal structures, which are integral to the manufacturing of these consumer products. This increased demand for durable, reliable materials supports the broader industrial landscape.

Our Strengths

a) Established relationship with JSWSCPL Steel for supply of Steel Coils.

Our Company has been an authorised service partner of JSW Steel Coated Products Limited and/or its holding Company ("JSWSCPL") since 2021. Pursuant to this arrangement, JSWSCPL supplies steel coils, including galvanised plain, colour-coated and galvalume coils, which are used as raw material in our manufacturing operations. These steel coils are processed at our facilities through slitting, cut-to-length, shearing and embossing operations using precision machinery and technology. Such processing activities constitute a core component of our business operations. JSWSCPL also provides technical assistance to ensure compliance with prescribed product specifications and performance requirements during the processing of blanks and sheets. Further, quality control procedures jointly established with JSWSCPL and aligned with its benchmarks are implemented across our operations to ensure consistency, traceability and adherence to applicable industry standards.

In addition to JSWSCPL, we have sourcing arrangements with other steel suppliers. Collectively, these arrangements enable regular procurement of steel coils, access to technical inputs and consistency in input quality. Customers with specific requirements for coated steel products are serviced under the authorised service partner arrangement, under which steel coils procured from JSWSCPL are processed at our manufacturing facilities using high-precision equipment.

Our authorised service partner relationship with JSWSCPL contributes to our business engagement with original equipment manufacturers ("OEMs") and original design manufacturers ("ODMs") operating in the Home and Commercial Appliances sector and other segments of the General Engineering sector, particularly where customised processing of JSWSCPL-manufactured steel coils is required. The arrangement facilitates continuity in raw material sourcing and supports the efficient execution of processing activities.

d) Integrated and Advanced Steel Processing Infrastructure

We have established an integrated and advanced steel processing infrastructure comprising high-precision slitting, cut-to-length, shearing and embossing lines. Our machinery and equipment have been procured from a mix of reputed domestic manufacturers and international suppliers based in South Korea, Turkiye and China. All our manufacturing facilities are ISO 9001:2015 certified, reflecting standardized processes and consistent quality control.

As on June 30, 2026, our slitting lines have an installed capacity of 1,23,153 MT and are capable of processing steel coils into slit coils with widths ranging from 22 mm to 1,850 mm and thicknesses from 0.25 mm to 3.20 mm. Our cut-to-length lines have an installed capacity of 50,481 MTPA and can process steel coils into blanks with widths ranging from 150 mm to 1,320 mm and thicknesses from 0.25 mm to 5.50 mm. In addition, our shearing lines, with an installed capacity of 1,467 MTPA, enable precise straight edge cutting for downstream fabrication requirements, while our embossing lines, with an installed capacity of 11,700 MTPA, allow us to deliver uniform textured and patterned surfaces enhancing functional and aesthetic attributes.

This integrated processing capability enables us to manufacture and supply a wide range of ready-to-use Processed Steel Products tailored to customer-specific technical, dimensional and surface finish requirements, strengthening our position as a reliable processing partner for OEMs and ODMs in the Home & Commercial Appliances and General Engineering sectors.

e) High Entry Barriers Driven by Authorised Supplier Arrangements, Capital Intensity and Customer Approvals

The industry is characterised by relatively high entry barriers arising from substantial capital investments in specialised processing equipment, inventory holding requirements, customer qualification processes and technical approval standards. (Source: CareEdge Report)

We are engaged in the processing of coated steel coils and hot rolled steel coils into slit coils and blanks/sheets for the Home and Commercial Appliances sector, including air conditioners, home and commercial refrigeration, washing machines and water heaters. We also process non-coated steel coils and galvanised plain coils into blanks/sheets for the General Engineering sector, including applications in automobiles, pharmaceutical clean rooms, electrical components and air ventilation systems.

Our customers, including OEMs and ODMs, require processed steel products conforming to precise technical specifications linked to their end-use applications. For example, refrigerator outer panels require scratch-free surfaces with uniform embossed patterns, while components used in air conditioners require tight dimensional tolerances and consistent surface finishes to ensure compatibility with downstream coating and fabrication processes. Compliance with such specifications necessitates specialised plant and machinery and skilled manpower, which involve significant investment and technical capability. Steel processing facilities are generally required to be located in close proximity to customer manufacturing units to support just-in-time deliveries. Serving customers across multiple regions requires the establishment of multiple processing centres, involving substantial capital expenditure in land, buildings, plant and machinery. In addition, we maintain adequate inventory across our manufacturing facilities to address short-term fluctuations in customer demand arising from seasonality and market volatility.

Vendor onboarding by OEMs and ODMs involves detailed technical evaluations, quality audits and validation processes, conducted directly or through appointed technical consultants. Our manufacturing facilities are subject to periodic audits to ensure compliance with customer-specified quality standards and applicable regulatory requirements. Successful completion of these processes is required for empanelment and continuation as an approved vendor. OEMs and ODMs depend on reliable, high-precision and just-in-time supply of processed steel products, which positions steel processing centres as an essential intermediary between primary steel producers and end-use manufacturers. Steel producers generally focus on large-scale steel coil manufacturing, while downstream processing involves customer-specific requirements, proximity to customer locations, specialised infrastructure and skilled labour.

Our operations are supported by authorised supplier relationships, audited manufacturing facilities, established customer relationships and demonstrated capability to meet stringent technical and quality specifications in a capital-intensive operating environment.

Our Strategies

The strategies described below have been approved by way of a board resolution passed by our Board of Directors at their meeting held on September 24, 2026.

a) Strategy to Expand Customer Base and Diversify End-User Industries

We intend to expand our customer base and increase our market share across the industries we serve by diversifying our end-user segments and strengthening our presence in non-seasonal product categories. As of June 30, 2026, approximately 89.93% of our Processed Steel Products were supplied for the manufacturing of home and commercial appliances, including air conditioners, home refrigeration, and commercial refrigeration products, while the remaining 10.07% were supplied for the manufacturing of water heaters, washing machines, and products in the General Engineering sector.

Demand for air conditioners, home refrigeration, and commercial refrigeration products is typically subject to seasonality, with relatively lower order volumes observed during the period from June to September. (Source: CareEdge Report) In order to mitigate the impact of such seasonality and demand fluctuations, we propose to increase supplies of our Processed Steel Products to OEMs and ODMs engaged in the manufacturing of water heaters, washing machines, and products in the General Engineering sector. Our strategy includes strengthening relationships with existing customers, onboarding new customers, and expanding our product portfolio, supported by consistent product quality and reliable service delivery.

We believe that increasing supplies to applications such as water heaters, washing machines, and General Engineering products will enable us to diversify our end-user base and reduce dependence on OEMs and ODMs manufacturing air conditioners, home refrigeration, and commercial refrigeration products. This diversification is expected to reduce concentration risk, mitigate the impact of cyclicality and seasonality associated with certain appliance segments, and allow us to leverage demand growth across a broader range of end-use industries.

According to the CareEdge Report, the market size for air conditioners in India is projected to grow at a CAGR of 15.00%, reaching ₹ 936.1 billion by CY29. Further, as per the CareEdge Report, the water heater market in India is projected to grow at a CAGR of 11.3%, reaching ₹350.1 billion by CY29. We believe this growth trends present opportunities to expand supplies across multiple appliance categories.

India represents a potential growth opportunity for the Company's diversification into automotive and auto ancillary applications. India is the third-largest automobile market globally and is the largest manufacturer of two-wheelers, three-wheelers, and tractors, and is among the top 5 manufacturers of passenger and commercial vehicles. The Indian auto ancillary market was valued at ₹6,730 billion in FY25 and is projected to grow to ₹10,178 billion by FY29, at a CAGR of approximately 10.90% during FY25 to FY29. The Company believes that this growth in the automotive ecosystem may provide opportunities to expand the application of its Processed Steel Products in automotive and auto ancillary components, which typically exhibit relatively stable demand patterns. (Source: CareEdge Report).

Through the implementation of this strategy, the Company aims to improve capacity utilization, broaden its customer portfolio, and generate incremental revenue streams. Increased diversification across end-user industries is expected to support operating leverage, reduce reliance on seasonal appliance segments, and enhance business resilience over the long term.

b) Expansion of our existing Ghiloth Facility to capitalize on industry opportunities.

Our Manufacturing Facilities spread across four (4) locations in the country and have an aggregate total area of 42,209 sq. mts. Over the years, we have strategically expanded and enhanced our manufacturing capabilities and continue to do so to meet market demands. For further information, see "-Our Strengths - Strategically Located Manufacturing Network Enabling Just-in-Time Supply and Cost-Efficient Operations" on page 245.

Our Ghiloth Facility is situated on land admeasuring 11,250 square meters at Plot No. SP7-356, RIICO Industrial Area, Ghiloth, District Alwar, Rajasthan, India. As of June 30, 2026, computed on a quarterly basis for Fiscal 2027, the facility is equipped with two (2) slitting lines with an aggregate installed capacity of 36,000 MTPA, three (3) cut-to-length lines with an aggregate installed capacity of 26,400MTPA, and one (1) shearing line with an installed capacity of 6,300 MTPA.

Our Company has observed higher utilization of its overall installed capacity during the second half of the financial year as compared to the full-year average. In order to address this trend and support incremental demand during peak operating periods, we plan to expand the Ghiloth Facility by installing one (1) additional cut-to-length line. In connection with the proposed expansion, our Company has acquired an additional parcel of land admeasuring 11,250 sq. mtrs. at Plot No. SP7-355, RIICO Industrial Area, Ghiloth, District Alwar, Rajasthan, India, adjoining the existing facility. The said land was acquired by the Company pursuant to sale deed dated September 29, 2025, for a total consideration of ₹116.87 million, which has been funded through internal accruals and/or borrowings.

Our aggregate installed steel processing capacity increased from 301,541 MTPA in Fiscal 2024 to 350,411 MTPA in Fiscal 2025, reflecting a year-on-year increase of 48,870 MTPA, or approximately 16.21%. Further, our aggregate installed capacity increased from 350,411 MTPA in Fiscal 2025 to 4,62,411 MTPA in Fiscal 2026, representing a year-on-year increase of 1,12,000 MTPA, or approximately 31.96%. Overall, our installed capacity increased by 1,60,870 MTPA between Fiscal 2024 and Fiscal 2026, representing a cumulative increase of approximately 53.30%. Accordingly, our installed capacity registered a compound annual growth rate ("CAGR") of approximately 23.83% during this period, primarily on account of incremental capacity additions across our slitting, cut-to-length, embossing and shearing processing lines. For further details, see "Our Business – Installed Capacity and Capacity Utilization" on page 260.

The table below sets forth the year-on-year growth in our steel processing capacity from Fiscal 2024 to Fiscal 2026 and for June 30, 2026:

Particulars	June 30, 2026*	Fiscal 2026	Fiscal 2025	Fiscal 2024
Slitting	59,505 MTPA	2,38,020 MTPA	187,020 MTPA	176,958 MTPA
Cut-to-length	50,481 MTPA	1,84,324 MTPA	135,924 MTPA	95,063 MTPA
Embossing	11,700 MTPA	34,200 MTPA	21,600 MTPA	21,600 MTPA

The overall annual capacity of BCSSL has been computed at 25%, representing its operational capacity for quarter of the fiscal year 2027.*

The expansion is also expected to provide operational flexibility, which may enable us to service incremental demand from existing customers, increase the scope of products supplied to such customers, and support initiatives aimed at expanding our customer base. Further, the enhanced capacity is intended to enable the Company to address demand arising from industry growth trends and support its competitive positioning in the markets in which it operates.

c) Improving the debt profile of our Company

Our business requires substantial working capital to fund its operations. To meet these requirements, we have availed term loans and working capital facilities. For further details, see "Financial Indebtedness" on page 462. As of August 31, 2026, our total sanctioned borrowings were ₹ 3,946.37 million and our outstanding borrowings were ₹ 3,024.28 million, comprising secured and unsecured borrowings. The following table sets forth details of our debt–equity ratio for the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and for the financial years ended March 31, 2026, March 31, 2025 and March 31, 2024.

Debt equity ratio*	2.00	2.78	3.33	4.31
Debt service coverage ratio	1.44	1.75	1.77	1.98
ROCE	7.01%	16.40%	18.78%	18.60%

Debt to Equity Ratio is defined as total debt divided by total equity. Total debt is the sum of total non-current & current borrowings; total equity means sum of equity share capital and other equity;*
Debt Service Coverage Ratio is calculated as earning before interest and tax expenses as divided by finance cost and principal repayments.*
Return on Capital Employed (ROCE) is calculated as EBIT divided by capital employed where (i) EBIT means Earnings before interest and taxes expense, arrived at by obtaining the profit before tax for the year and adding back finance costs and (ii) Capital employed means Net worth + Total debt + Deferred tax liability;

Our Company proposes to utilize an estimated amount of ₹1,250.00 million from the Net Proceeds towards the full or partial repayment or pre-payment of certain borrowings availed by our Company. The repayment or pre-payment of such borrowings is expected to reduce our outstanding indebtedness and related finance costs and may result in an improvement in certain financial ratios, including return on capital employed ("ROCE"). Further, such reduction in indebtedness may enable the Company to deploy its internal accruals towards its business operations and growth initiatives. For further details, see "Objects of the Issue" on page 115. An improvement in our capital structure may also enhance our financial flexibility and ability to access funding in the future for business requirements, subject to market conditions and other factors.

d) Increase our geographical presence and international markets

We intend to strengthen and expand our geographical presence across domestic and international markets with a view to diversifying our revenue base and mitigating risks associated with dependence on any single geography. We currently derive revenues from multiple Indian states, including Maharashtra, Gujarat, Haryana, Uttarakhand, Uttar Pradesh, and Rajasthan, providing us with a geographically diversified domestic footprint. We also have an existing presence in select international markets, including Bangladesh. International revenues presently constitute a limited portion of our total revenues.

The following table sets forth the geographical break-up of revenue from operations for the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and for the financial years ended March 31, 2026, March 31, 2025 and March 31, 2024.

It is further projected to grow at a CAGR of 8.6% from CY26 to CY30, reaching a market size of USD 12.4 billion by CY30, supported by demand from automotive, infrastructure, engineering, and manufacturing sectors, as well as government-led infrastructure initiatives. (Source: CareEdge Report)

We intend to leverage these industry trends by expanding our presence in international markets and increasing exports, while continuing to strengthen our domestic operations. Our established steel processing facilities, operational procedures, quality control systems, and ability to supply customised, value-added steel products enable us to service customers across multiple locations and end-user industries. We also seek to leverage our long-standing customer relationships to supply products to additional locations of existing customers within India and overseas.

Our strategy to increase exports will enable us to diversify our revenue base. Furthermore, expanding our geographical footprint will help us mitigate the risks associated with economic fluctuations in any one region. We also believe that there exist significant opportunities to cross-sell our products and offer the same products to additional locations of our existing customers, leveraging our long-standing relationships with them and existing manufacturing capabilities.

e) Continue to reduce operational costs and improve operational efficiencies

We intend to enhance our profitability and strengthen our competitive position by continuing to focus on disciplined cost management and improving operational efficiencies across our steel processing operations. Our strategy is centred on the following key initiatives:

- Scale Efficiency: We seek to benefit from economies of scale by expanding and optimising our processing capacities. Our steel processing operations involve certain fixed overheads, including utilities, employee costs and depreciation of assets. Improved capacity utilisation is expected to reduce fixed costs per unit, thereby enhancing operating leverage and improving overall profitability. As volumes increase, our cost structure will become more efficient, enabling us to deliver improved margins.

- Yield Optimisation and Throughput Efficiency: We continuously refine our steel processing cycles and production planning processes to improve material yield and minimise processing losses. By enhancing throughput efficiency and optimising production scheduling, we aim to maximise output from existing capacities and improve overall operational performance.

- Lean Inventory Management and Logistics Support: As part of our steel processing services, we also facilitate logistics and inventory-related functions for our customers. We typically maintain inventory equivalent to approximately one to one and a half months of customer requirements and offer just-in-time delivery solutions. This approach enables efficient inventory turnover, reduces handling inefficiencies and ensures timely delivery of processed steel products to our customers.

- Reduction in Steel Processing Costs through Automation and Asset Ownership: We continue to focus on reducing steel processing costs by increasing automation across our operations and enhancing plant throughput. Automation initiatives are expected to reduce manual intervention, improve process consistency and lower operating costs over the long term.

In line with this objective, our Company proposes to utilise a portion of the Net Proceeds from the Issue towards the acquisition of certain capital equipment currently held under lease arrangements with Siemens Financial Services Private Limited ("Siemens"). These capital equipment items are deployed at our Ghiloth Facility and are integral to our business operations. The proposed acquisition of these assets is expected to result in cost savings through the reduction of lease-related expenses, improved asset utilisation and greater operational control, thereby contributing to enhanced operational efficiency and margin improvement. For further details, see "Objects of the Issue" on page 115.

A. Slitting:

In the slitting process, Steel Coils are slit into narrower widths in accordance with customer specifications to produce Slit Coils. Where customers require Slit Coils as the final product, the process concludes at this stage, and the Slit Coils are packed and dispatched. In other cases, the Slit Coils are transferred to the subsequent processing stage, such as embossing or cut-to-length, as applicable.

Our slitting operations deliver high dimensional accuracy and are designed to meet precise customer requirements. The advanced slitting process ensures optimal material utilization without introducing surface defects, thereby minimizing waste and enhancing overall cost-effectiveness.

Explanation of the Slitting process is as under:

1. Raw Material Handling The slitting process begins with the receipt of Steel Coils in accordance with specific customer specifications. Upon arrival, the Steel Coils are inspected and verified to ensure compliance with the prescribed quality standards. Once verified, the Steel Coils are scheduled for slitting as per the processing plan aligned with customer requirements.
2. Planning for Slitting Prior to the commencement of slitting operations, a detailed planning sheet is prepared, incorporating all relevant technical details and processing requirements. This planning sheet serves as a reference for the machine operator and is handed over to ensure accurate execution. Proper planning at this stage is critical to maintaining consistency and minimizing processing errors.
3. Preparation for Slitting At this stage, the operator verifies the Steel Coil number, dimensions (including size and weight), and grade against the planning sheet to ensure accuracy. The Steel Coil is then unwrapped, and its dimensions are measured using calibrated instruments to maintain precision. All relevant data is recorded, and the Steel Coil is prepared for processing.
4. Machine Setup In this stage, input data is entered into the system in accordance with the slitting plan and machine parameters. The Steel Coil is transferred to the uncoiler using a coil car, threaded through the pinch rolls, passed through the slitter head, and subsequently through the leveler. Proper machine setup is essential to achieve accurate and consistent slitting.

5. Slitting Operation Before commencing full-scale production, sampling and testing are conducted to verify that the setup meets the required quality standards. If the sample does not meet the prescribed specifications, the Steel Coil is reprocessed through the slitting machine. Upon successful sample approval, regular slitting operations commence, with continuous quality monitoring to ensure consistency throughout the process.
6. Post-Slitting Inspection Upon completion of the slitting process, final sampling and quality inspection are carried out. If the Slit Coils do not meet the required standards, they are segregated and kept under quality observation for further evaluation or rework. Slit Coils that pass the inspection are cleared for the next stage of processing or for dispatch, as applicable.
7. Packaging & Dispatch Where no further processing is required, the Slit Coils are weighed for weight verification and packaged in accordance with company standards. The packaged Slit Coils are then transferred to the Finished Goods (FG) storage area and dispatched in line with the company's logistics arrangements and customer delivery schedules. In cases where further processing is required, the Slit Coils are transferred to the subsequent processing stage, such as Embossing or Cut-to-Length, as applicable.

B. Embossing

In Embossing, based on customer specifications, certain slit colour coated steel coils undergo an embossing process to achieve decorative or functional surface finishes. In this process, the slit coils are passed through embossing rollers to create raised or recessed patterns, resulting in Embossed Slit Coils. Where Embossed Slit Coils are required as the final product, they are packed and dispatched accordingly. In other cases, the Embossed Slit Coils are further processed through the cut-to-length stage.

The embossing process enhances surface characteristics such as rigidity, slip resistance, and visual appeal, and is undertaken in accordance with customer requirements. This process is particularly relevant for applications such as refrigerator panels, where patterned surfaces improve structural strength and aesthetics.

1. Raw Material Handling The embossing process begins with the receipt of slit colour-coated steel coils in accordance with customer specifications. Upon receipt, the slit colour-coated steel coils are inspected for identity, surface quality, and overall condition. Following verification, the coils are scheduled for embossing in line with the approved processing plan.

2. Planning for Embossing A detailed planning sheet is prepared, outlining key information such as specifications, dimensions, and embossing requirements. This planning sheet is handed over to the designated machine operator to guide the machine setup and embossing operations. Proper planning at this stage ensures precision, consistency, and adherence to customer requirements.
3. Preparation for Embossing At this stage, the operator identifies the assigned slit colour-coated steel coil and cross-verifies its coil number, dimensions (size and weight), and grade against the planning sheet. The coil is then unwrapped, and its dimensions are physically verified using calibrated measuring instruments. All observations are recorded in a logbook to ensure traceability and quality assurance.
4. Machine Setup In this stage, input data is entered into the machine's control system in accordance with the planning sheet and equipment parameters. The slit colour-coated steel coil is transported to the uncoiler using a coil car, threaded through the pinch rolls, and guided into the embossing rolls to initiate the embossing process.
5. Sampling and Testing Before commencing full-scale embossing, trial samples are taken and tested to verify conformity with the prescribed quality standards. If the samples do not meet the required specifications, necessary adjustments are made to the machine settings and sampling is repeated. Once the samples are approved, embossing operations commence, with continuous monitoring of product quality throughout the process.
6. Post-Processing Inspection Upon completion of the embossing process, final sampling and quality inspection are carried out. If the results are not satisfactory, the embossed slit coils are segregated and kept under quality observation for further evaluation or rework. Embossed slit coils that pass the inspection are cleared for the next stage of processing or for dispatch, as applicable.

7. Final Handling and Dispatch Where no further processing is required, the embossed slit coils are weighed for weight verification, packaged in accordance with company standards, and transferred to the Finished Goods (FG) storage area. The embossed slit coils are subsequently dispatched or transferred as per the Company's logistics arrangements and customer delivery schedules. In cases where further processing is required, the embossed slit coils are transferred to the next processing stage, i.e., Cut-to-Length, as applicable.

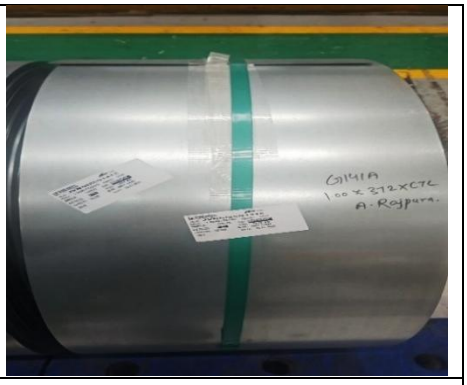

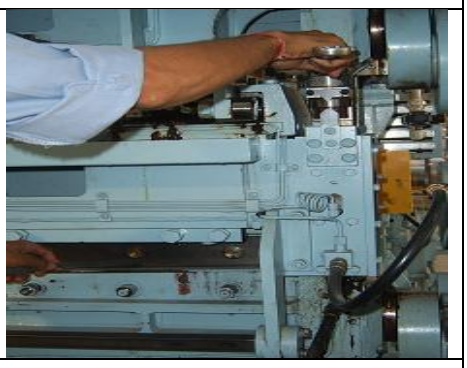

C. Cut-To-Length Process (CTL)

In the cut-to-length process, Slit Coils or Embossed Slit Coils are precision-levelled and cut into sheets or blanks of specified lengths, resulting in Blanks or Embossed Blanks. Where customers require Blanks or Embossed Blanks as the final product, the process concludes at this stage, following which the products are packed and dispatched. In other cases, the Blanks are forwarded to the subsequent processing stage, namely shearing.

The cut-to-length process ensures accurate levelling and dimensional precision in accordance with customer specifications. The resulting Blanks or Embossed Blanks are customised to meet specific end-use requirements and are particularly suited for applications where tight dimensional tolerances are critical for downstream manufacturing.

1. Raw Material Handling The Cut-to-Length (CTL) process begins with the receipt of Slit Coils or Embossed Slit Coils in accordance with customer specifications. Each batch of Slit Coils or Embossed Slit Coils is carefully inspected to verify identity, quality, suitability, and compliance with customer requirements. Upon verification, the material is scheduled for CTL processing as per the approved processing plan.
2. Planning for CTL A detailed planning sheet is prepared, capturing all operational, technical, and quality specifications required for the CTL process. This planning sheet is handed over to the designated machine operator to guide machine setup and operations. Proper planning at this stage ensures smooth processing and adherence to customer specifications.

3. Preparation for CTL At this stage, the operator identifies the assigned Slit Coil or Embossed Slit Coil and cross-verifies its coil number, dimensions (size and weight), and grade against the planning sheet. The coil is then unwrapped, and its dimensions are physically verified using calibrated measuring instruments to ensure accuracy. All observations are recorded in a logbook to ensure traceability and quality assurance.
4. Machine Setup In this stage, input data is entered into the machine's control system in accordance with the planning sheet and equipment parameters. Using a coil car, the Slit Coil or Embossed Slit Coil is transported to the uncoiler, threaded through the pinch rolls, and guided through the leveler to prepare the material for precise length cutting.
5. Sampling and Testing Before full-scale processing begins, trial samples are taken and tested before starting CTL. If the sample does not meet the required standards, adjustments are made to the machine settings, and sampling is repeated. Once the sample passes quality checks, the processing begins, and the operator continues to monitor product quality throughout the process.
6. Post-Processing Inspection Upon completion of the CTL process, final sampling and quality inspection are conducted. If the results are not satisfactory, the Blanks or Embossed Blanks are segregated and kept under quality observation for further evaluation or rework. Blanks or Embossed Blanks that pass the inspection are cleared for the next stage of processing or for dispatch, as applicable.

7. Final Handling and Dispatch a) Blanks: Where no further processing is required, the Blanks are weighed for weight verification, packaged in accordance with company standards, and transferred to the Finished Goods (FG) storage area. The Blanks are subsequently dispatched or transferred as per the Company's logistics arrangements and customer delivery schedules. In cases where further processing is required, the Blanks are transferred to the next processing stage, i.e., Shearing. b) Embossed Blanks: The Embossed Blanks are weighed for weight verification, packaged in accordance with company standards, and transferred to the Finished Goods (FG) storage area and subsequently dispatched or transferred as per the Company's logistics arrangements and customer delivery schedules.

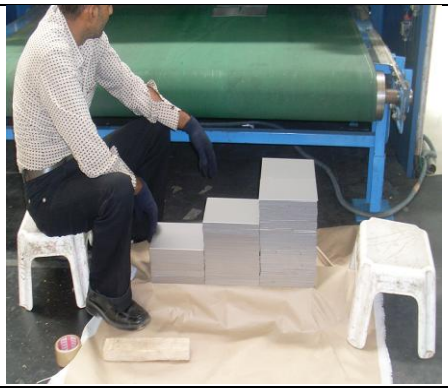

D. Shearing

In the shearing process, Blanks received from the cut-to-length stage are resized by length, width, or both, resulting in Sheared Blanks. Upon completion, the Sheared Blanks are packed and dispatched to customers.

The shearing process enables precise resizing of Blanks to meet customer-specific dimensional requirements. The resulting Sheared Blanks, produced in standardised or customised sizes, are well suited for direct use in customers' downstream manufacturing processes.

1. Raw Material Handling The shearing process begins with the receipt of Blanks. Each batch of Blanks is carefully inspected to verify identity, dimensions, physical condition, and compliance with customer requirements. Upon successful verification, the Blanks are scheduled for shearing in accordance with the approved processing plan.
2. Planning for Shearing A detailed planning sheet is prepared, capturing the required material dimensions, specifications, and operational parameters for the shearing process. This planning sheet is handed over to the designated machine operator to guide the setup and execution of the shearing operations.

3. Preparation for Shearing At this stage, the operator identifies the assigned Blanks and cross-verifies the batch number, dimensions (size and weight), and grade against the planning sheet. The Blanks are then unwrapped, and their dimensions are physically verified using calibrated measuring instruments to ensure accuracy. All observations are recorded in a logbook to ensure traceability and quality assurance.
4. Machine Setup In this stage, input data is entered into the shearing machine's control system in accordance with the planning sheet and equipment parameters. The Blanks are then manually fed into the shearing machine for cutting into the desired lengths or widths.
5. Sampling and Testing Before commencing full-scale shearing operations, trial samples are produced and tested to verify conformity with the prescribed quality standards. If the samples do not meet the required specifications, necessary adjustments are made to the machine settings and sampling is repeated. Once the samples are approved, shearing operations commence, with continuous monitoring of product quality throughout the process.
6. Post-Processing Inspection Upon completion of the shearing process, final sampling and quality inspection are conducted. If the results are not satisfactory, the Sheared Blanks are segregated and kept under quality observation for further evaluation or rework. Sheared Blanks that pass the inspection are cleared for dispatch.
7. Post-Processing Inspection In the final stage, the Sheared Blanks are weighed for weight verification, packaged in accordance with company standards, and transferred to the Finished Goods (FG) storage area. The Sheared Blanks are subsequently dispatched or transferred as per the Company's logistics arrangements and customer delivery schedules.

Further, each of these processing operations - Slitting, Cut-to-length, Embossing and Shearing can function either independently or as part of an integrated processing sequence, depending on the specific requirements and specifications of our customer. For instance, Steel Coils initially processed through a slitting line may subsequently undergo embossing and/or cut-to-length process before final dispatch, or in some cases, may be supplied directly to the customer as Slit Coils. As a result, these operations are interconnected and often overlap, with one process frequently feeding into or complementing another within the processing cycle.

The loss of any of these customers or reduction in business from such will have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows."* on page 33.

Raw Materials and Suppliers

Our principal raw material comprises Steel Coils, which are processed using specialised machinery and technology to manufacture Processed Steel Products in accordance with the specific technical and commercial requirements of our customers in the Home and Commercial Appliances and General Engineering sectors.

We follow a demand-driven inventory management approach, which enables us to optimise raw material utilisation, enhance operational efficiency, and reduce inventory carrying costs. In line with our operational requirements, we maintain a minimum inventory of Steel Coils equivalent to approximately one month of processing requirements. This ensures adherence to production timelines and enables us to respond efficiently to customer demand.

Our Company, being an authorised service partner of JSW Steel Coated Products Limited and/or its holding Company ("JSWSCPL"), sources a significant portion of its raw material requirements from JSWSCPL. For details of our authorised service partner arrangement with JSW Steel Coated Products Limited and/or its holding Company ("JSWSCPL"), see "History and Certain Corporate Matters – Other Material Agreements" on page 283. For information relating to our sourcing of steel coils and dependence on key suppliers, see "Business – Raw Materials and Suppliers" and "Risk Factors – We are substantially dependent on a single supplier, JSW Coated Products Limited ("JSWSCPL"), for the supply of steel coils, which constitute a key raw material for our operations. For the three months period ended June 30, 2026, and for the Fiscal 2026, Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, we sourced approximately 85.13% and 86.65%, 90.61% and 84.58%, respectively, of our total steel coil requirements from JSWSCPL. This high level of supplier concentration exposes us to significant risks, and any disruption in the supply of steel coils from JSWSCPL could materially and adversely affect our business, results of operations and financial condition. Dependence on JSW Steel Coated Products Limited for Supply of Steel Coils" on page 29.

Sales and Marketing

Our Company follows a customer-centric sales and marketing approach focused on establishing and maintaining direct relationships with customers. Our sales and marketing team supports business growth by analysing market trends, identifying business opportunities, promoting our Processed Steel Products, and managing customer relationships. Sales strategies are formulated after evaluating market demand, customer requirements, and competitive pricing.

We primarily cater to customers in the Home and Commercial Appliances and General Engineering sectors. Customer engagement is strengthened through product customisation, responsive turnaround times, and technical co-development. Our key focus areas include quality service, just-in-time delivery, and value-added solutions. The sales and marketing team is responsible for acquiring new business from OEMs, ODMs, and other manufacturing companies, while also managing long-term relationships with existing customers. Continuous engagement is supported through assistance in product specifications, logistics coordination, and timely resolution of issues.

As of the date of this Prospectus, our sales and marketing team comprises thirteen (13) employees located across key cities in India, including Mumbai, Gurugram, Pune, and Sri City. This regional presence enables us to provide localised support and effective relationship management.

Our sales process begins with receipt of customer inquiries and assessment of requirements such as product specifications, dimensions, end use, quantity, and delivery schedules. Technical support is provided to assist customers in selecting suitable materials and processing solutions. For existing customers, commercial terms are generally pre-agreed based on forecasts, while for new customers such terms are finalised during initial engagement and reviewed in subsequent transactions. We conduct periodic reviews to align requirements, evaluate performance, and identify opportunities to expand business relationships. Periodic customer visits enable us to understand evolving requirements, address product-related issues, and introduce new products and services. Our collaborative engagement with OEMs and ODMs supports customer retention, repeat business, and long-term growth.

Utilities

Power

Our manufacturing processes require an uninterrupted supply of power and fuel. We procure power from state electricity authorities as well as private electricity providers to meet our operational requirements and to ensure continuity of our manufacturing activities. In the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and during Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024, our power and fuel expenses were ₹3.98 million, ₹29.05 million, ₹28.64 million and ₹24.89 million, respectively, representing 0.11%, 0.24%, 0.28% and 0.34% of our total expenses for the respective periods.

For further information, see "Risk Factors – We have power and fuel requirements, and our power and fuel charges amounted to ₹3.98 million for the three months period ended June 30, 2026, and ₹29.05 million, ₹28.64 million and ₹24.89 million for Fiscal 2026, Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, respectively; any disruption to power or fuel sources could increase our production costs and adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows, on page 58.

Transportation

We transport our Processed Steel Products primarily by road, either on a cost, insurance and freight ("CIF") basis or a freight on board ("FOB") basis, depending on the agreed terms with our customers. In addition, we incur transportation costs for the delivery of raw materials and other inputs to our manufacturing facilities. We avail the services of third-party transportation and logistics providers for the delivery of our Processed Steel Products, as well as for the transportation of raw materials. We typically enter into non-exclusive arrangements with such transportation providers. For the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and for Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024, our freight and handling charges amounted to ₹64.86 million, ₹170.83 million, ₹156.24 million and ₹118.84 million, respectively, representing 1.72%, 1.39%, 1.53% and 1.61% of our total expenses during the respective periods.

Also, see "Risk Factors – We rely on third-party transport service providers for the transportation of our products to customers. Our freight and handling expenses were ₹64.86 million for the three months period ended June 30, 2026, and ₹170.83 million, ₹156.24 million and ₹118.84 million for Fiscal 2026, Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, respectively, representing between 1.72%, 1.39%, 1.53% and 1.61% of our total expenses during such periods. Any failure by, disruption in operations of, or loss of our third-party transport service providers could result in delays in delivery and increased transportation costs, which may adversely affect our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows", on page 29.

Competition

We undertake specialised processing of Coated Steel Coils and hot rolled steel coils which are used for the manufacture of air conditioners, home refrigeration, commercial refrigeration, washing machines, water heaters, etc by OEMs and ODMs in Home & Commercial Appliances sector and for the General Engineering sector, we process Non-Coated Steel Coils and galvanised plain coils which are used in the manufacture of automobiles, pharmaceutical clean rooms, electrical components, power distribution and air ventilation systems. Our primary competitors include BMW Industries Limited, Manaksia Coated Metals & Industries Limited and Shiv Aum Steels Limited (Source: CareEdge Report).

We inevitably face competition from other steel processing companies on the basis of price, delivery, and credit terms. Some of our competitors may be able to carry out steel processing activities at lower costs and, consequently, deliver products at more competitive prices. Such competitors may also have greater financial and technological resources, as well as larger sales and marketing teams. They may be in a stronger position to identify market trends, adapt to industry changes, innovate new products, offer competitive prices through economies of scale, and ensure consistent processing quality.

We cannot assure you that we will be able to continue charging prices at commercially acceptable levels. Any inability to do so may adversely affect our financial condition and results of operations. For further details, see "Risk Factors – We face competition from domestic steel processing companies and steel producers with steel processing units, and our inability to compete effectively may have a material adverse impact on our business, results of operations, and financial condition" on page 61.

Health, safety and environment

We are subject to central and state laws and government regulations in India, including in relation to environmental, health, safety, and labour welfare. These laws and regulations impose controls on air and water discharge and effluent treatment, employee exposure to hazardous substances and other aspects of our manufacturing operations. Further, our Processed Steel Products, including the process of manufacture, storage and sale of such products, are subject to numerous laws and regulations in relation to quality, safety and health. The accidents and occupational health hazards can be significantly reduced through systematic analysis and control of risks and by providing appropriate training to our management and our employees.

We prioritize the health and safety of our employees and undertake several initiatives to promote employee health and quality of life. We work to ensure a safe and healthy workplace and provide our employees with the benefits, resources and flexibility to maintain and improve their wellness. In addition, we have also installed firefighting equipment.

Quality Control

The Company has implemented a structured and multi-stage quality control and assurance system to ensure that its Processed Steel Products conform to prescribed specifications, customer requirements and applicable regulatory and industry standards. The quality control framework encompasses inspection of raw materials, in-process quality checks at critical stages of production and final inspection of finished products prior to dispatch, in accordance with documented standard operating procedures.

The Company's manufacturing facilities are supported by in-house testing laboratories equipped with testing and measuring instruments to assess mechanical properties, coating characteristics and material integrity. The Company undertakes various quality tests, including flexibility, surface hardness, coating adhesion, impact resistance, bending, elongation, hardness and ductility tests. In addition, specialised tests such as ultrasonic testing, spectrometric analysis, dye penetrant inspection and metallographic analysis are conducted, where required, to ensure compliance with specified technical parameters.

The effective implementation of the quality control system is supported by the Company's technically skilled workforce. The Company conducts regular training and development programmes, including on-the-job training, to enhance employee capabilities and to familiarise personnel with evolving industry practices and technological developments. Further, pursuant to its authorised service partner arrangement with JSWSCPL, the Company participates in training programmes facilitated or mandated by JSWSCPL.

The Company's manufacturing facilities are ISO 9001:2015 certified, reflecting adherence to internationally recognised quality management systems. The Company has also obtained other quality and operational certifications, including GEM 5-Star rating. Periodic internal audits, monitoring mechanisms and corrective and preventive actions form an integral part of the Company's quality assurance processes.

Information Technology

Investment in information technology infrastructure is essential to improve our operational efficiencies, improve scale and enhance productivity. We currently use Focus ERP and Tally as our information technology system, which assists us with various functions including material management, process planning, sales, financial and accounting. These systems facilitate the flow of real-time information across departments and allow us to make information driven decisions and manage performance.

Human Resources

We place great emphasis on the development of our human resources. As of June 30, 2026, our workforce comprised 160 permanent employees and 4 retainership employees. In addition to our permanent workforce, we also engage contract labour have 310 contractual labours in manufacturing facilities. Our Company is governed by the provisions of the Contract Labour (Regulation and Abolition) Act, 1970, as amended, which requires registration as a principal employer of contract labourers and imposes certain prescribed obligations with respect to their welfare and health. Our Company has applied for and/or obtained registration as a principal employer wherever required. This structure enables us to maintain flexibility while ensuring efficient business operations.

We have implemented measures to strengthen employee retention and workforce stability, including revision inpayouts, training and engagement initiatives and optimized manpower planning. Additionally, we conduct structured exit interviews and periodic attrition analysis to monitor workforce trends and support retention planning.

The table below sets forth the Department-wise bifurcation of our 160 permanent employees and 4 retainership employees as on June 30, 2026:

(a) Certain financial assets and liabilities measured at fair value (refer accounting policy regarding financial instruments) and

Current versus non-current classification:

The Company presents assets and liabilities in the balance sheet based on current/ non-current classification.

- Expected to be realized or intended to be sold or consumed in normal operating cycle; or
- Held primarily for the purpose of trading; or

2.3 Key accounting judgments, estimates and assumptions:

The preparation of the Restated Financial Information in conformity with Ind AS requires management to make estimates, judgements and assumptions. These estimates, judgements and assumptions affect the application of accounting policies and the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, the disclosures of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the Restated Financial Information and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the period. Application of accounting policies that require critical accounting estimates involving complex and subjective judgements and the use of assumptions in these Restated Financial Information have been disclosed in the notes below:

A. Judgments:

In the process of applying Company's accounting policies, management has made the following judgments, which have the most significant effect on the amounts recognised in the Restated Financial Information.

(a) Leases:

The Company determines the lease term as the non-cancellable term of the lease, together with any periods covered by an option to extend the lease if it is reasonably certain to be exercised, or any periods covered by an option to terminate the lease, if it is reasonably certain not to be exercised.

The Company applies judgment in evaluating whether it is reasonably certain whether to exercise the option to renew or terminate the lease. That is, it considers all relevant factors that create an economic incentive for it to exercise either the renewal or termination. After the commencement date, the Company reassesses the lease term if there is a significant event or change in circumstances that is within its control and affects its ability to exercise or not to exercise the option to renew or to terminate (e.g., construction of significant leasehold improvements or significant customisation to the leased asset).

Significant Accounting Policies and Explanatory notes on Financial Statements

B.Estimatesand assumptions:

Key sources of estimation

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with Ind AS requires that the management of the Company makes estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of income and expenses of the period, the reported balances of assets and liabilities and the disclosures relating to contingent liabilities as of the date of the financial statements. The estimates and underlying assumptions made by management are explained under respective policies. Revisions to accounting estimates include useful lives of property, plant and equipment & intangible assets, allowance for expected credit loss, future obligations in respect of retirement benefit plans, expected cost of completion of contracts, fair value/recoverable amount measurement, etc. Difference, if any, between the actual results and estimates is recognised in the period in which the results are known.

The key assumptions concerning the future and other key sources of estimation uncertainty at the reporting date, that have a significant risk of causing a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities, are described below. Accounting estimates could change from period to period. Actual results could differ from these estimates. Appropriate changes in estimates are made as management becomes aware of changes in circumstances surrounding the estimates. Changes in estimates are reflected in the Restated Financial Information in the period in which changes are made and if material, then effects are disclosed in the notes to the Restated Financial Information.

(a) Taxes:

Uncertainties exist with respect to the interpretation of tax regulations, changes in tax laws, and the amount and timing of future taxable income. Given the wide range of business relationships differences arising between the actual results and the assumptions made, or future changes to such assumptions, could necessitate future adjustments to tax income and expense already recorded. The Company establishes provisions, based on reasonable estimates. The amount of such provisions is based on various factors, such as experience of previous tax audits and differing interpretations of tax regulations by the taxable entity and the responsible tax authority.

(b) Defined benefit plans:

The cost of defined benefit plans (i.e. gratuity benefit) is determined using actuarial valuations. An actuarial valuation involves making various assumptions which may differ from actual developments in the future. These include the determination of the discount rate, future salary increases, mortality rates and future pension increases. Due to the complexity of the valuation, the underlying assumptions and its long-term nature, a defined benefit obligation is highly sensitive to changes in these assumptions. All assumptions are reviewed at each reporting date. The same is disclosed in Note 29 "Employee Benefit Expenses".

(c) Fair value measurement of financial instruments:

When the fair values of financial assets and financial liabilities recorded in the balance sheet cannot be measured based on quoted prices in active markets, their fair value is measured using valuation techniques, including the discounted cash flow (DCF) model, which involve various judgements and assumptions.

(d) Property, plant and equipment:

Property, plant and equipment represents significant portion of the asset base of the Company. The charge in respect of periodic depreciation is derived after determining an estimate of assets expected useful life and expected value at the end of its useful life. The useful life and residual value of Company's assets are determined by management at the time asset is acquired and reviewed periodically including at the end of each reporting period. The useful life is based on historical experience with similar assets, in anticipation of future events, which may have impact on their life such as change in technology or commercial obsolescence arising from changes or improvements in production or from a change in market demand of the product or service output of the asset.

2.4 Material Accounting Policies:

(A)Property, Plant and Equipment

(i) Recognition and Measurement:

An item of property, plant and equipment that qualifies as an asset is measured on initial recognition at its cost. Following the initial recognition, all items of property, plant and equipment are measured at cost, less accumulated depreciation, and accumulated impairment losses, if any. The cost of an item of property, plant and equipment comprises its purchase price, including import duties and non-refundable purchase taxes or levies, directly attributable cost of bringing the item to its working condition for its intended use and the initial estimate of decommissioning, restoration and similar liabilities, if any. Such cost also includes the cost of replacing part of the property, plant and equipment and borrowing costs for long-term construction projects if the recognition criteria are met. Other Indirect expenses incurred relating to project, net of income earned during the project development stage prior to its intended use, are considered as pre-operative expenses and disclosed under Capital Work-in- Progress. Items such as spare parts, stand-by equipment and servicing equipment that meet the definition of property, plant and equipment are capitalised at cost and depreciated over their useful life.

If significant parts of an item of property, plant and equipment have different useful lives, then they are accounted for as separate items (major components) of property, plant and equipment. The Management of respective companies have carried out the technical review for identification of significant components with different useful life with that of useful life of the original assets to which it belongs. However, based on technical analysis, it has been noticed that the useful life of the significant components is more or less remain the same with that of the original assets to which it belongs so no separate useful life are assigned to significant components. All the significant components are depreciated based on the same useful life with that of original assets to which it belongs.

(ii) 'Subsequent Expenditure:

Subsequent expenditure is capitalised only if it is probable that the future economic benefits associated with the expenditure will flow to the Company and cost of the item can be measured reliably.

(iii) 'Depreciation:

Depreciation on items of property, plant and equipment is provided to the extent of depreciable amount on the Streight Line Method (SLM) Method. Depreciation is provided by the Company based on useful life of the assets as prescribed in Schedule II of the Act. Freehold land is not depreciated. Useful Life considered for calculation of depreciation for various class of assets are as under:

Significant Accounting Policies and Explanatory notes on Financial Statements

Sr. No.	Property, Plant and Equipment class		Useful life (Years)
1	Building		60
2	Plant & Machinery		15
3	Furniture & Fixtures		10
4	Vehicle / Motor Cars		10
5	Office Equipments		15
6	Computer & Softwares		6

The useful lives, residual values of each part of an item of property, plant and equipment and the depreciation methods are reviewed at the end of each reporting period. If any of these expectations differs from previous estimates, such change is accounted for as a change in an accounting estimate and adjusted prospectively.

(iv) 'De-recognition:

The carrying amount of an item of property, plant and equipment is derecognised on disposal or when no future economic benefits are expected from its use or disposal.

Gains or losses arising from de-recognition of property, plant and equipment are measured as the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset and are recognised in the statement of profit and loss when the asset is derecognised.

(v) Capital Work-in-Progress (CWIP)

Projects under which tangible assets are not yet ready for their intended use and other capital work-in-progress are carried at cost, comprising direct cost, related incidental expenses and attributable borrowing costs. Advances given towards acquisition of fixed assets outstanding at each balance sheet date are disclosed as other non-current assets and not included as a part of capital work-in-progress.

Costs incurred during the period of implementation of a project, till it is commissioned, is accounted as capital work-in-progress and after commissioning the same is transferred/allocated to the respective item of property, plant and equipment.

(B) Intangible Assets

(i) 'Recognition and Measurement

Intangible assets are recognised when it is probable that the future economic benefits that are attributable to the assets will flow to the Company and the cost of the asset can be measured reliably. Intangible assets are initially measured at cost. Such intangible assets are subsequently measured at cost less accumulated amortisation and any accumulated impairment losses.

(ii) 'Subsequent Exepnditure

Subsequent expenditure is capitalised only when it increases the future economic benefits embodied in the specific asset to which it relates. All other expenditure is recognised in statement of profit and loss in the period in which expenditure is incurred.

(iii)'Amortization

Intangible assets with finite lives are amortised over the estimated useful economic life using the Streight Line Method (SLM) Method. The amortisation expense on intangible assets with finite lives is recognised in the statement of profit and loss. The estimated useful life of intangible assets as determined by the Company as per Schedule II of the Act

(C) 'Leases

The Company evaluates if an arrangement qualifies to be a lease as per the requirements of Ind AS 116. Identification of a lease requires significant judgment.

The Company uses judgment in assessing whether a contract (or part of contract) include a lease, the lease term (including anticipated renewals), the applicable discount rate, variable lease payments whether are in-substance fixed. The judgment involves assessment of whether the asset included in the contract is a fully or partly identified asset based on the facts and circumstances, whether the contract include a lease and non-lease component and if so, separation thereof for the purpose of recognition and measurement, determination of lease term basis, inter alia the non-cancellable period of lease and whether the lessee intends to opt for continuing with the use of the asset upon the expiry thereof, and whether the lease payments are fixed are variable or a combination of both.

The determination of whether an arrangement is (or contains) a lease is based on the substance of the arrangement at the inception of the lease. The arrangement is, or contains, a lease if fulfilment of the arrangement is dependent on the use of a specific asset or assets and the arrangement conveys a right to use the asset or assets, even if that right is not explicitly specified in an arrangement.

For arrangements entered prior to transition date, the Company has determined whether the arrangement contain lease on the basis of facts and circumstances existing on the date of transition.

(i) Right of Use Assets

The Company recognises right-of-use assets at the commencement date of the lease (i.e., the date the underlying asset is available for use). Right-of-use assets are measured at cost, less any accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses, and adjusted for any re- measurement of lease liabilities. The cost of right-of-use assets includes the amount of lease liabilities recognised, initial direct costs incurred, and lease payments made at or before the commencement date less any lease incentives received. Right-of-use assets are depreciated on a straight-line basis over the unexpired period of lease.

(ii) Lease Liabilities

At the commencement date of the lease, the Company recognises lease liabilities measured at the present value of lease payments to be made over the lease term. The lease payments include fixed payments (including in substance fixed payments) less any lease incentives receivable, variable lease payments that depend on an index or a rate, and amounts expected to be paid under residual value guarantees. In calculating the present value of lease payments, the Company uses its incremental borrowing rate at the lease commencement date because the interest rate implicit in the lease is not readily determinable. After the commencement date, the amount of lease liabilities is increased to reflect the accretion of interest and reduced for the lease payments made. In addition, the carrying amount of lease liabilities is re-measured if there is a modification, a change in the lease term, or a change in the lease payment

Significant Accounting Policies and Explanatory notes on Financial Statements

(iii) Short-term leases and leases of low-value assets

The Company applies the short-term lease recognition exemption to its short-term leases (i.e., those leases that have a lease term of 12 months or less from the commencement date and do not contain a purchase option). Further the above lease also qualifies for low-value assets recognition exemption as they are of low-value. Lease payments on short-term leases and leases of low-value assets are recognised as expense on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

2.5 Financial Assets

(i) Initial Recognition and Measurement

All financial assets are initially recognised at fair value. Transaction costs that are directly attributable to the acquisition or issue of financial assets, which are not at Fair Value Through Profit or Loss (FVTPL), are adjusted to the fair value on initial recognition. Purchase and sale of financial assets are recognised using trade date accounting.

(ii) Subsequent Measurement

(a) Financial Assets measured at Amortised Cost (AC)

A Financial asset is subsequently measured at amortised cost if it meets the following criteria:

i. the asset is held within a business model whose objective is to hold the asset in order to collect contractual cash flows, and

ii. the contractual terms of the financial asset give rise on a specified date to cash flows that are solely payments of principal and interest on the principal outstanding.

(b) Financial Assets measured at Fair Value Through Other Comprehensive Income (FVTOCI)

A Financial Asset is measured at FVTOCI, if it meets the following criteria:

i. the asset is held within a business model whose objective is achieved by both collecting contractual cash flows and selling financial assets, and

ii. the contractual terms of the financial asset give rise on specified dates to cash flows that represents solely payments of principal and interest on the principal amount outstanding.

The Company has made an irrevocable election for its investments which are classified as equity instruments to present the subsequent changes in fair value in other comprehensive income based on its business model.

On de-recognition of such financial assets, cumulative gain or loss previously recognised in other comprehensive income is not reclassified from the equity to statement of profit and loss.

(c) Financial Assets measured at Fair Value through Profit or Loss (FVTPL)

A financial asset which is not classified in any of the above categories are measured at FVTPL. These assets are subsequently measured at fair value. Net gains and losses, including any interest or divided income, are recognised in profit or loss.

Financial assets are reclassified subsequent to their recognition, if the Company changes its business model for managing those financial assets. Changes in business model are made and applied prospectively from the reclassification date which is the first day of immediately next reporting period following the changes in business model in accordance with principles laid down under Ind AS 109 Financial Instruments.

(d) Other Equity Investments

All other equity investments are measured at fair value, with value changes recognised in statement of profit and loss, except for those equity investments for which the Company has elected to present the value changes in other comprehensive income. However, dividend on such equity investments is recognised in statement of profit and loss when the Company right to receive payment is established.

(e) Impairment of Financial Assets

In accordance with Ind AS 109, the Company (ECL) model, for evaluating impairment of financial assets other than those measured at Fair Value Through Profit and Loss (FVTPL). Expected credit losses are measured through a loss allowance at an amount equal to:

The 12-months expected credit losses (expected credit losses that result from those default events on the financial instrument that are possible within 12 months after the reporting date); or Full lifetime expected credit losses (expected credit losses that result from all possible default events over the life of the financial instrument).

For trade receivables the Company applies "simplified approach" which requires expected lifetime losses to be recognised from initial recognition of the receivables. The Company uses historical default rates to determine impairment loss on the portfolio of trade receivables. At every reporting date these historical default rates are reviewed and changes in the forward looking estimates are analysed.

For other assets, the Company uses 12-month ECL to provide for impairment loss where there is no significant increase in credit risk. If there is significant increase in credit risk, full lifetime ECL is used.

Significant Accounting Policies and Explanatory notes on Financial Statements

2.6 Financial Liabilities

(i) Initial Recognition and Measurement

All financial liabilities are recognised at fair value and in case of borrowings, net of directly attributable cost. Fees of recurring nature are directly recognised in the statement of profit and loss as finance cost.

(ii) Subsequent Measurement

Financial liabilities are carried at amortised cost using the effective interest method. For trade and other payables maturing within one year from the balance sheet date, the carrying amounts approximate fair value due to the short maturity of these instruments.

(iii) De-recognition of Financial Instruments

The Company derecognises a financial asset when the contractual rights to the cash flows from the financial asset expire or it transfers the financial asset and the transfer qualifies for de- recognition under Ind AS 109. If the Company retains substantially all the risks and rewards of ownership of a transferred financial asset, the Company continues to recognize the financial asset and also recognizes a borrowing for the proceeds received.

A financial liability (or a part of a financial liability) is derecognised from the balance sheet when the obligation specified in the contract is discharged or cancelled or expired.

(iv) Offsetting

Financial assets and financial liabilities are offset and the net amount is presented in the balance sheet when, and only when, the Company has a legally enforceable right to set off the amount and it intends, either to settle them on a net basis or to realise the asset and settle the liability simultaneously.

2.7 Fair Value Measurement

The Company measures financial instruments, such as, investments, derivatives at fair value at each balance sheet date.

Fair value is the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. The fair value measurement is based on the presumption that the transaction to sell the asset or transfer the liability takes place either:

- In the principal market for the asset or liability,
- In the absence of a principal market, in the most advantageous market for the asset or liability. The principal or the most advantageous market must be accessible by the Company.

The fair value of an asset or a liability is measured using the assumptions that market participants would use when pricing the asset or liability, assuming that market participants act in their best economic interest. The Company uses valuation techniques that are appropriate in the circumstances and for which sufficient data are available to measure fair value, maximizing the use of relevant observable inputs and minimizing the use of unobservable inputs. All assets and liabilities for which fair value is measured or disclosed in the consolidated financial statements are categorized within the fair value hierarchy, described as follows, which gives highest priority to quoted prices in active markets and the lowest priority to unobservable inputs.

Level 1----Quoted (unadjusted) market prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities.

Level 2---Valuation techniques for inputs other than quoted prices included within Level 1 that are observable for the asset or Liability either directly or indirectly.

Level 3---Valuation techniques for inputs that are unobservable for the asset or liability.

For the purpose of fair value disclosures, the Company has determined classes of assets and liabilities on the basis of the nature, characteristics and risks of the asset or liability and the level of the fair value hierarchy as explained above.

2.8 Impairment of Non-Financial Assets

The company non-financial assets, other than inventories and deferred tax assets, are reviewed at each reporting date to determine whether there is any indication of impairment. If any such indication exists, then the asset's recoverable amount is estimated.

For impairment testing, assets that do not generate independent cash inflows are grouped together into cash generating units (CGUs). Each CGU represents the smallest group of assets that generates cash inflows that are largely independent of the cash inflows of other assets or CGUs.

The recoverable amount of a CGU (or an individual asset) is the higher of its value in use and its fair value less costs to sell. Value in use is based on the estimated future cash flows, discounted to their present value using a pre-tax discount rate that reflects current market assessments of the time value of money and the risks specific to the CGU (or the asset).

The Company corporate assets (e.g., central office building for providing support to various CGUs) do not generate independent cash inflows. To determine impairment of a corporate asset, recoverable amount is determined for the CGUs to which the corporate asset belongs.

An impairment loss is recognised if the carrying amount of an asset or CGU exceeds its estimated recoverable amount. Impairment losses are recognised in the statement of profit and loss except for properties previously revalued with the revaluation surplus taken to other comprehensive income. For such properties, the impairment is recognised in other comprehensive income up to the amount of any previous revaluation surplus. An impairment loss in respect of assets for which impairment loss has been recognised in prior periods, the Company reviews at each reporting date whether there is any indication that the loss has decreased or no longer exists. An impairment loss is reversed if there has been a change in the estimates used to determine the recoverable amount. Such a reversal is made only to the extent that the asset's carrying amount does not exceed the carrying amount that would have been determined, net of depreciation or amortisation, if no impairment loss had been recognised.

2.9 Foreign Currencies Transactions and Translation

(i) Functional and Presentation Currency:

Items included in the financial statements are measured using the currency of the primary economic environment in which the entity operates ('the functional currency'). The Company

Restated Financial Information are presented in Indian Rupee (INR) which is also the Company's Functional Currency.

(ii) Transactions and Balances:

On initial recognition, transactions in foreign currencies entered by the Company are recorded in the functional currencies, by applying to the foreign currency rate, the spot exchange rate between the functional currency and the foreign currency at the date of the transaction. Exchange differences arising on foreign exchange transactions settled during the period are recognised in the statement of profit and loss.

Foreign currency monetary items (Monetary assets and liabilities) outstanding of the Company as at the reporting date are translated using the exchange rates prevailing at such reporting dates. Non-monetary items that are measured at historical cost in a foreign currency, are translated using the exchange rate at the date of the transaction. Non-monetary items that are measured at fair value in a foreign currency, are translated using the exchange rates at the date when the fair value is measured.

In case of an asset, expense or income where a non-monetary advance is paid/received, the date of transaction is the date on which the advance was initially recognised. If there were multiple payments or receipts in advance, multiple dates of transactions are determined for each payment or receipt of advance consideration.

(iii) Exchange Differences:

Exchange differences arising out of these translations are recognised in the statement of profit and loss in the period in which they arise with exception of exchange differences arising on translation of non-monetary items measured at fair value is treated in line with the recognition of the gain or loss on the change in fair value of the item (i.e. translation differences on items whose fair value gain or loss is recognised in other comprehensive income or statement of profit and loss are also recognised in other comprehensive income or statement of profit and loss, respectively).

2.10 Cash and cash Equivalents

The Company considers all highly liquid financial instruments, which are readily convertible into known amounts of cash that are subject to an insignificant risk of change in value and having original maturities of three months or less from the date of purchase, to be cash equivalents. Cash and cash equivalents consist of balances with banks which are unrestricted for withdrawal and usage.

2.11 Provisions, Contingent Liabilities and Contingent Assets

Provisions are recognised when the Company has a present obligation (legal or constructive) as a result of a past event, it is probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation and a reliable estimate can be made of the amount of the obligation. If the effect of the time value of money is material, provisions are discounted using a current pre-tax rate that reflects, when appropriate, the risks specific to the liability. When discounting is used, the increase in the provision due to the passage of time is recognised as a finance cost.

(i) contingent liability is:

(a) a possible obligation that arises from past events and whose existence will be confirmed only by the occurrence or non-occurrence of one or more uncertain future events not wholly within the control of the entity or;

(b) a present obligation that arises from past events but is not recognised because;

i. it is not probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation or

ii. the amount of the obligation cannot be measured with sufficient reliability.

Disclosure of contingent liability is made when there is a possible obligation arising from past events, the existence of which will be confirmed only by the occurrence or non-occurrence of one or more uncertain future events not wholly within the control of the Company or a present obligation that arises from past events where it is either not probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle or a reliable estimate of amount cannot be made.

A contingent asset is a possible asset that arises from the past events and whose existence will be confirmed only by the occurrence or non- occurrence of one or more of uncertain future events not wholly within the control of the entity. Contingent assets are disclosed in the Restated Financial Information by way of notes to accounts when an inflow of economic benefits is probable.

Refer note no. 35 for additional details of Contingent liabilities

2.12 Discontinued operations and non-current assets held for sale

Discontinued operation is a component of the Company that has been disposed of or classified as held for sale and represents a major line of business.

Non-current assets and disposal groups are classified as held for sale if their carrying amount is intended to be recovered principally through a sale (rather than through continuing use) when the asset (or disposal group) is available for immediate sale in its present condition subject only to terms that are usual and customary for sale of such asset (or disposal group) and the sale is highly probable and is expected to qualify for recognition as a completed sale within one year from the date of classification.

Non-current assets and disposal groups classified as held for sale are measured at lower of their carrying amount and fair value less costs to sell.

2.13 Revenue Recognition (Revenue from Contracts with Customers)

The Company derives revenue primarily from processing of Steel Coils.

(i) Sale of Goods & Services:

Revenue from contracts with customers is recognised when a performance obligation is satisfied by transfer of promised goods or services to a customer.

For performance obligation satisfied over time, the revenue recognition is done using input method by measuring the progress towards complete satisfaction of performance obligation. The progress is measured in terms of a proportion of actual cost incurred to- date, to the total estimated cost attributable to the performance obligation as it best depicts the transfer of control that occurs as costs are incurred.

The Company transfers control of a good or service over time and therefore satisfies a performance obligation and recognises revenue over a period of time if one of the following criteria is met:

(a) the customer simultaneously consumes the benefit of the Company's performance or,

(b) the customer controls the asset as it is being created/enhanced by the company's performance or,

(c) there is no alternative use of the and the company has neither explicit or implicit right of payment considering legal precedents,

In all other cases, performance obligation is considered as satisfied at a point in time.

The revenue is recognised to the extent of transaction price allocated to the performance obligation satisfied. Transaction price is the amount of consideration to which the Company expects to be entitled in exchange for transferring goods or services to a customer excluding amounts collected on behalf of a third party.

(ii) Significant judgments are used in:

a. Determining the revenue to be recognised in case of performance obligation satisfied over a period of time; revenue recognition is done by measuring the progress towards complete satisfaction of performance obligation.

b. Determining the expected losses, which are recognised in the period in which such losses become probable based on the expected total contract cost as at the reporting date.

(iii) Revenue from operations:

Revenue includes adjustments made towards liquidated damages and variation wherever applicable. Escalation and other claims, which are not ascertainable/acknowledged by customers are not taken into account.

The Company does not expect to have any contracts where the period between the transfer of the promised goods or services to the customer and payment by the customer exceeds one year. As a consequence, it does not adjust any of the transaction prices for the time value of money.

(iv) Dividend and Interest Income:

Dividend income from investments is recognized when the Company's right to receive the payment has been established, which is generally when shareholders approve the dividend.

Interest income from a financial asset is recognised when it is probable that the economic benefits will flow to the Company and the amount of income can be measured reliably. Interest income is accrued on time basis, by reference to the principal outstanding and at the effective interest rate applicable.

For all debt instruments measured either at amortised cost or at fair value through other comprehensive income, interest income is recorded using the Effective Interest Rate (EIR), which is the rate that exactly discounts the estimated future cash payments or receipts over the expected life of the financial instrument or a shorter period, where appropriate, to the gross carrying amount of the financial asset or to the amortised cost of a financial liability. Interest income is included in other income in the statement of profit and loss.

(v) Government grants, subsidies and export incentives:

Government grants are recognised where there is reasonable assurance that the grant will be received and all attached conditions will be complied with.

Government grants are recognised in the statement of profit and loss, either on a systematic basis when the Company recognises, as expenses, the related costs that the grants are intended to compensate or, immediately if the costs have already been incurred. Government grants in the nature of revenue are presented under "Other Income."

Government grants/subsidies relating to the purchase of property, plant and equipment are deducted from the Carrying amount of the Assets. The grant is recognised in the Statement of Profit and Loss over the useful life of the depreciable assets.

The Company offsets current tax assets and current tax liabilities, where it has a legally enforceable right to set off the recognised amounts and where it intends either to settle on a net basis, or to realize the asset and settle the liability simultaneously. In case of deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities, the same are offset if the Company has a legally enforceable right to set off corresponding current tax assets against current tax liabilities and the deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities relate to income taxes levied by the same tax authority on the Company.

2.39 FINANCIAL RISK MANAGEMENT

The Company's board of directors has overall responsibility for the establishment and oversight of the Company's risk management framework. The board of directors is responsible for developing and monitoring the Company's risk management policies. The board regularly meets to decide its risk management activities.

The Company's risk management policies are established to identify and analyse the risks faced by the Company, to set appropriate risk limits and controls to monitor risks and adherence to limits. Risk management policies and systems are reviewed regularly to reflect changes in market conditions and the Company's activities. The Company, through its training and management standards and procedures, aims to maintain a disciplined and constructive control environment in which all employees understand their roles and obligations.

The Company's management monitors compliance with the Company's risk management policies and procedures, and reviews the adequacy of the risk management framework in relation to the risks faced by the Company. The Board is also assisted by internal audit. Internal audit undertakes both regular and ad hoc reviews of risk management controls and procedures, the results of which are reported to the Board of directors.

The Company is exposed to various financial risks. These risks are categorised into market risk, credit risk and liquidity risk.

(a) Market Risk:

Market risk is the risk that changes with market prices – such as market prices of financial instruments and interest rates, will affect the Company's income or the value of its holdings of financial instruments. The objective of market risk management is to manage and control market risk exposures within acceptable parameters, while optimising the return.

(b) Credit Risk:

Credit risk is the risk that the Company will incur a loss because its customers or counterparties to a financial instrument fail to discharge their contractual obligation. The Company manages and controls credit risk by setting limits on the amount of risk it is willing to accept for individual counterparties, and by monitoring exposures in relations to such limits.

The maximum exposure to credit risk for each class of financial instruments is the carrying amount of that class of financial instruments presented in the financial statements. The Company's major classes of financial assets are cash and cash equivalents, Investments, Inventories of shares, loans, term deposits, trade receivables and security deposits.

Cash and cash equivalents and term deposits with banks are considered to have negligible risk or nil risk, as they are maintained with high rated banks/financial institutions as approved by the Board of directors. Security deposits are kept with stock exchanges for meeting minimum base capital requirements. These deposits do not have any credit risk.

The management has established accounts receivable policy under which customer accounts are regularly monitored. The Company has a dedicated risk management team, which monitors the positions, exposures and margins on a continuous basis. The company has not made any provision on expected credit loss on trade receivables and other financials assets, based on the management estimates.

The Company's approach to managing liquidity is to ensure, that it will have sufficient liquidity to meet its liabilities when they are due, under both normal and stressed conditions, without incurring unacceptable losses or risking damage to the Company's reputation.

The Company's treasury department within the Finance Department is responsible for liquidity and funding. In addition policies and procedures relating to such risks are overseen by the management.

The Company's principal sources of liquidity are cash and cash equivalents and the cash flow that is generated from the operations.

2.40 Employee Benefits Expense

Short term employee benefits

All employee benefits payable wholly within twelve months of rendering the services are classified as short-term employee benefits and they are recognised in the period in which the employee renders the related services. The undiscounted amount of short-term employee benefits expected to be paid in exchange for the services rendered by employees are recognised as an expense during the period when the employees render the services.

Long term employee benefits

Defined Contribution Plans

The Company's contribution paid/payable during the period to Provident Fund, Pension Scheme and Employee State Insurance Scheme are considered as defined contribution plans.

Recognition and Measurements of Defined Contribution Plan

The contribution paid/payable under those plans are recognised as an expense, in the statement of profit and loss during the period in which the employee renders the services.

If the contribution payable to the scheme for service received before the balance sheet date exceeds the contribution already paid, the deficit payable to the scheme is recognised as a liability. If the contribution already paid exceeds the contribution due for services received before the balance sheet date, then excess is recognised as an asset to the extent that the prepayment will lead to a reduction in future payment or a cash refund.

Defined Benefit Plans

The Company pays gratuity to the employees who have completed five years of service with the Company at the time of resignation superannuation. The gratuity is paid @15 days' basic salary for every completed year of service as per the Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972.

Recognition and Measurements of Defined Benefit Plan

The liability in respect of gratuity and other post-employment benefits is calculated using the Projected Unit Credit Method and spread over the period during which the benefit is expected to be derived from employees' services.

Actuarial gains and losses are recognised immediately in the statement of profit and loss and other comprehensive income in the period which they occur.

Termination benefits:

Termination benefits are charged to the Statement of Profit and Loss in the year of accrual when the Company is committed without any possibility of withdrawal of an offer made to either terminate employment before the normal retirement date or as a result of an offer made to encourage voluntary retirement.

Leave Encashment:

During the year ended March 31, 2026, the Company modified its methodology regarding leave encashment. Previously, leave was accumulating in nature and classified as 'Other Long term Employee Benefits,' for which the liability was determined based on an actuarial valuation using the Projected Unit Credit Method.

Effective October 2025, the Company amended the terms of the plan to settle all outstanding leave balances through a one-time payment in April 2026. Consequently, leave encashment is now classified as a 'Short-term Employee Benefit' under Ind AS 19, Employee Benefits as the employees are/will be paid their accumulated at the year end or shortly thereafter without allowing the accumulation.

In accordance with this change, the Company has discontinued actuarial valuations for this benefit. The liability as of March 31, 2026, has been measured at the undiscounted amount expected to be paid. This has resulted in the reclassification of ₹ 3.36 millions from Non-Current Provisions to Current Provisions.

2. At each balance sheet date the Company reviews the carrying amount of its fixed assets to determine whether there is any indication that those assets have suffered impairment loss. If any such indication exists the company estimates the recoverable amounts of such assets. If recoverable amount of the assets or cash generating unit to which the assets belong is less than the carrying amount, the carrying amount is reduced to its recoverable amount. The reduction is treated as impairment loss and debited to the profit and loss account. If at the balance sheet date there is a indication of a previously assessed impairment loss no longer existing, then recoverable amount is reassessed and the asset is reflected at the recoverable amount subject to maximum of depreciated historical cost.

3.Previous year 2025-26 , the Company imported plant and machinery under the MOOWR Scheme, pursuant to which customs duty, surcharge, GST, and other applicable levies aggregating to ₹ 1,17,26,076 were waived as part of Government Incentive or grant. Since the Company was not required to make the said payment, the same has not been treated as part of cost of acquisition of the relevant asset.

VII. Risk Exposure

Gratuity is a defined benefit plan and entity is exposed to the Following Risks:

Acturial risk:

It is the risk that benefits will cost more than expected.This can arise due to one of the following reasons:

Adverse Salary Growth Experience:

Salary hikes that are higher than the assumed salary escalation will result into an increase in Obligation at a rate that is higher than expected.

Variability in mortality rates:If actual mortality rates are higher than assumed mortality rate assumption then the Gratuity Benefits will be paid earlier than expected.Since there is no condition of vesting on the death benefit,the acceleration of cashflow will lead to an actuarial loss or gain depending on the relative values of the assumed salary growth and discount rate.

Variability in withdrawal rates:If actual withdrawal rates are higher than assumed withdrawal rate assumption then the Gratuity Benefits will be paid earlier than expected.The impact of this will depend on whether the benefits are vested as at the resignation date.

Investment Risk:

For funded plans that rely on insurers for managing the assets,the value of assets certified by the insurer may not be the fair value of instruments backing the liability.In such cases,the present value of the assets is independent of the future discount rate.This can result in wide fluctuations in the net liability or the funded status if there are significant changes in the discount rate during the inter-valuation period.

Liquidity Risk:

Employees with high salaries and long durations or those higher in hierarchy accumulate significant level of benefits.If some of such employees resign/retire from the company there can be strain on the cash flows.

Market risk:

Market risk is a collective term for risks that are related to the changes and fluctuations of the financial markets.One actuarial assumption that has a material effect is the discount rate.The discount rate reflects the time value of money.An increase in discount rate leads to decrease in Defined Benefit Obligation of the plan benefits & vice versa.This assumption depends on the yields on the corporate/government bonds and hence the valuation of liability is exposed to fluctuations in the yields as at the valuation date.

Legislative Risk:

Legislative risk is the risk of increase in the plan liabilities or reduction in the plan assets due to change in the legislation/regulation.The government may amend the Payment of GratuityAct thus requiring the companies to pay higher benefits to the employees.This will directly affect the present value of the Defined Benefit Obligation and the same will have to be recognized immediately in the year when any such amendment is effective.

VIII. The sensitivity analysis of the defined benefit obligation based on changes in significant assumptions is provided in following table:

Particulars	For the Period ended June 30,2026	For the year ended March 31, 2026	For the year ended March 31, 2025	For the year ended March 31, 2024

i) Capital risk management

The Company being in a capital intensive industry, its objective is to maintain a strong credit rating, healthy capital ratios and establish a capital structure that would maximise the return to stakeholders through optimum mix of debt and equity.

The Company's capital requirement is mainly to fund its capacity expansion, repayment of principal and interest on its borrowings and strategic acquisitions. The principal source of funding of the Company has been, and is expected to continue to be, cash generated from its operations supplemented by funding from bank borrowings and the capital markets. The Company is not subject to any externally imposed capital requirements.

The Company regularly considers other financing and refinancing opportunities to diversify its debt profile, reduce interest cost and elongate the maturity of its debt portfolio, and closely monitors its judicious allocation amongst competing capital expansion projects and strategic acquisitions, to capture market opportunities at minimum risk.

iii) Fair value hierarchy of financial instruments

Financial risk management objectives

The Company's Corporate finance department monitors and manages the financial risks relating to the operations of the Company through internal risk reports which analyse the exposures by degree and magnitude The risk management policies are established to ensure timely identification and evaluation of risks, setting acceptable risk thresholds, identification and mapping controls against these risks, monitor the risk and

Market risk

Market risk is the risk that the fair value of future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market prices. Market risk comprises two types of risk: interest rate risk and currency risk. Financial instruments affected by market risk include loans and borrowings, deposits and derivative financial instruments.

The objective of market risk management is to avoid exposure in our foreign currency transactions and interest rate risk.

Interest rate risk management

Interest rate risk is the risk that the fair value or future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market interest rates. The Company's exposure to the risk of changes in market interest rates relates primarily to the Company's debt obligations with floating interest rates. The Company manages its interest rate risk by having a balanced portfolio of fixed and variable rate loans and borrowings.

Interest rate sensitivity analysis

The sensitivity analyses below have been determined based on the exposure to interest rates for both fixed and floating rate borrowings at the end of the reporting period. For floating rate liabilities, the analysis is prepared assuming the amount of the liability outstanding at the end of the reporting period was outstanding for the whole year. A 50 basis point increase or decrease is used when reporting interest rate risk internally to key management personnel and represents management's assessment of the reasonably possible change in interest rates.

As at June 30, 2026

36.1 Credit risk management

Credit risk is the risk of financial loss to the Company if a customer or counterparty to a financial instrument fails to meet its contractual obligations, and arises principally from the Company's receivables from customers, counterparties to the derivative contract, bank balances, investment securities and other receivables. Credit risk is managed through credit approvals and continuous monitoring in the normal course of business. The Company establishes an allowance for doubtful debts and impairment that represents its estimate of expected credit losses in respect of trade and other receivables. The maximum exposure to credit risk in case of all the financial instruments covered below is restricted to their respective carrying amount.

Trade receivables
The credit period ranges from 30 days to 180 days. Before accepting any new customer, the company assesses the potential customer credibility and define credit limits for each customer, such limits are reviewed

Cash and bank balances
The credit risk on liquid funds and other bank deposits is limited because the counterparties are banks with high credit-ratings assigned by international credit-rating agencies.

Loans, deposits and advances
The Company's corporate treasury function manages the financial risks related to the business. The treasury function focuses on capital protection, liquidity and yield maximisation.

Loans, deposits and advances are extended to counterparties after assessing their financial capabilities. Counterparty credit limits are reviewed and approved by Board/Audit Committee of the Company. These limits are set to minimise the concentration of risks and therefore mitigates the financial loss through counterparty's potential failure to make payments. Expected credit losses are provided based on the credit risk of the counterparties.

Deposits and advances
The Company's Corporate treasury function manages the financial risks related to the business. The Treasury function focuses on capital protection, liquidity and yield maximisation. Deposits and Advances are extended to counterparties after assessing their financial capabilities. Counterparty credit limits are reviewed and approved by Board/Audit Committee of the Company. These limits are set to minimise the concentration of risks and therefore mitigates the financial loss through counterparty's potential failure to make payments.

36.2 Liquidity risk management

Liquidity risk refers to the risk of financial distress or extraordinary high financing costs arising due to shortage of liquid funds in a situation where business conditions unexpectedly deteriorate and requiring financing. Ultimate responsibility for liquidity risk management rests with the board of directors. The Company manages liquidity risk by maintaining reserves and banking facilities, by continuously monitoring forecast and actual cash flows, and by matching the maturity profiles of financial assets and liabilities.

The following tables detail the Company's remaining contractual maturity for its financial liabilities with agreed repayment periods and its financial assets. The tables have been drawn up based on the undiscounted cash flows of financial liabilities based on the earliest date on which the Company can be required to pay. The tables include both interest and principal cash flows.

To the extent that interest flows are floating rate, the undiscounted amount is derived from interest rate existing at the end of the reporting period.

Overview

We are a steel processing centre engaged in the business of converting steel coils into value-added processed steel products. Our core competencies include precision slitting, cut-to-length processing, shearing, and embossing of steel coils into slit coils, embossed slit coils, blanks, embossed blanks and sheared blanks (collectively referred to as "Processed Steel Products"). We cater to a diversified customer base comprising Original Equipment Manufacturers (OEMs) and Original Design Manufacturers (ODMs).

Our Company, being a Steel Processing Centre ("SPC"), operate as an intermediary between primary steel producers and end-users by providing value-added processing services. For the home and commercial appliances sector, we process coated steel coils and hot-rolled steel coils into Processed Steel Products used in the manufacture of various appliances. For the general engineering sector, we undertake specialized processing of non-coated and galvanised plain coils into blanks, used in automotive manufacturing, pharmaceutical cleanroom infrastructure, electrical equipment, and ventilation systems. In addition to manufacturing Processed Steel Products, we also perform logistics and inventory management functions. By maintaining adequate inventory levels and offering just-in-time delivery solutions, we ensure timely and efficient supply of processed steel products to customers across urban as well as remote locations, thereby enhancing supply chain efficiency and cost optimization. (Source: CareEdge Report)

One of the Promoters of our Company, Mr. Vijaykumar Himatrai Gupta, commenced operations in 1983 as a steel trader under the sole proprietorship M/s. Bombay Steels. In 2012, the business expanded into steel processing with the establishment of the Bhiwandi facility, followed by the execution of a service partnership agreement with JSW Steel Coated Products Limited ("JSWSCPL") in 2018. Subsequently, on January 29, 2021, our Company entered into a Business Transfer Agreement to acquire the running business of M/s. Bombay Steels on a going-concern basis. This acquisition consolidated over four decades of trading and processing experience into the operations of our Company. Thereafter, our Company has entered into a phase of rapid expansion and added steel processing facilities across key manufacturing regions of India. We expanded our operations by establishing new manufacturing facilities in the West, North and South of India. Our steel processing facilities are strategically located across key industrial regions in India, enabling us to serve a wide spectrum of industries with efficiency and just in time deliveries. For further details see 'Our Business – Manufacturing Facilities' on page 260.

Since 2021, our Company has been an authorised service partner of JSW Steel Coated Products Limited and/or its holding Company ("JSWSCPL"), pursuant to an agreement for the regular supply of steel coils. We procure steel coils from JSWSCPL as well as other suppliers and process them using advanced engineering techniques and high-precision machinery to manufacture Processed Steel Products. Our long-standing and strong supplier relationships ensure stability and reliability in sourcing, enabling us to efficiently and consistently meet customer requirements. (Source: CareEdge Report)

We are a multi-location steel processing centre with manufacturing facilities located at Wada and Bhiwandi in Maharashtra, Ghiloth in Rajasthan, and Sri City in Andhra Pradesh. Our facilities are equipped with steel processing infrastructure, including slitting lines, cut-to-length lines, shearing lines, and embossing lines, designed to achieve operational precision and efficiency. These manufacturing facilities are spread across four strategically located sites in India, aggregating a total area of 42,209 square meters, and are ISO 9001:2015 certified for the processing, marketing, and supply of Processed Steel Products. Further, our Ghiloth facility in Rajasthan and Sri City in facility Andhra Pradesh has been recognized as a GEM-4 certified green facility.

The locations of our manufacturing facilities have been selected with reference to proximity to customer delivery points. Certain facilities are located near the manufacturing locations of customers such as Western Refrigeration Private Limited, Amber Enterprises India Limited, PG Technoplast Private Limited, EPack Durable Limited, Kruger Ventilation Industries (India) Private Limited, among others. This proximity enables reduction in logistics time and transportation costs, facilitates operational efficiencies, and supports timely fulfilment of customer requirements. In addition, the clustering of certain facilities within the same state allows for inter-facility movement of materials, thereby reducing freight time and costs as components undergo sequential processing.

We operate with an aggregate installed processing capacity of 1,23,153 MTPA, computed on a quarterly basis for Fiscal 2027, across slitting, cut-to-length, shearing and embossing operations, as of June 30, 2026. Our installed capacity has increased at a compound annual growth rate ("CAGR") of approximately 23.83% between Fiscal 2024 and Fiscal 2026, reflecting our continued focus on capacity expansion and operational scalability. For further details see 'Our Business – Installed Capacity and Capacity Utilization' on page 260. Further, our long-standing authorised partnership with JSW Steel Coated Products Limited since 2021 provides us with reliable access to quality raw materials and supports our ability to service a diversified customer base, positioning us well for sustained growth in the steel processing industry.

We have established long-standing relationships with a diverse set of customers. Our focus on quality, value proposition, timely delivery of our products and the price competitiveness of our offerings has enabled us to maintain long-term relationships with our customers. In Fiscal Years 2026, 2025 and 2024, as well as for the three months period ended June 30, 2026, we served 261, 252, 225 and 178 customers, respectively. These customers span multiple industries, including consumer durables and home appliances, electrical equipment and components, automotive and auto components, HVAC and refrigeration, electronics and electrical manufacturing services, industrial engineering and capital goods, steel processing and metal fabrication, infrastructure, renewable energy and power equipment, FMCG and packaging, as well as general manufacturing and industrial trading enterprises. Such diversification of our customer base across industries reduces our dependence on any single customer or industry segment. (Source: CareEdge Report)

Our customer-centric approach enables us to provide tailored solutions that align with both functional and aesthetic expectations, and just in time deliveries of Processed Steel Products aligns with the requirements of our customers. Our customer base includes several OEMs and ODMs operating in India, including Haier Appliances India Private Limited, IFB Refrigeration Limited, Dixon Electro Manufacturing Private Limited, Amber Enterprises India Limited, Western Refrigeration Private Limited, PG Technoplast Private Limited, EPack Durable Limited, Kruger Ventilation Industries (India) Private Limited, Elegant Coatings Private Limited, Magnum MI Steel Private Limited.

Our Promoters, Board of Directors, and senior management have been instrumental in the growth of our business and have enabled us to capitalize on market opportunities and better serve our customers, with collective experience spanning operations, business development, and customer relationship management. Our Promoter and Chairman-cum-Whole-Time Director, Mr. Vijaykumar Himatrai Gupta, has over 40 years of experience in the steel industry and provides guidance in formulating our long-term business strategies and business development initiatives, having played a pivotal role in steering the growth and development of our Company. Our Promoter and Managing Director, Mr. Nitin Vijaykumar Gupta, has approximately 20 years of experience in the steel industry and is responsible for overseeing the day-to-day operations of the Company, as well as providing guidance on strategy formulation, business development, and customer relationships. Our workforce is a critical asset to our operations and comprised 160 permanent employees and (4) four retainership employees as of June 30, 2026, who form the backbone of our business by driving innovation, ensuring quality, and maintaining the standards expected by our customers.

Our Market Opportunity

As per the CareEdge Report, there exists a substantial market opportunity for our Company, which can be clearly demonstrated from the following:

Role of Steel Processing Centres:

Steel Processing Centres ("SPCs") in India are witnessing significant growth, driven by rising steel consumption across diverse end-use sectors such as automotive, construction, infrastructure and manufacturing. As India continues to accelerate its industrialisation and infrastructure development, SPCs are emerging as a critical link between large-scale steel producers and end-users, providing essential services including steel slitting, cut-to-length, blanking, splitting, inventory management, and timely distribution. These services enable industries to access steel in the precise forms and quantities required, thereby improving efficiency, reducing waste, and optimising supply chains.

The growing demand for steel arising from infrastructure development, supported by government initiatives and urbanisation, has contributed to the increasing relevance of SPCs. In parallel, expansion in the automotive and manufacturing sectors has resulted in greater demand for processed steel products that meet specific technical and dimensional requirements. By customising steel products and reducing dependence on in-house processing by end-users, SPCs support improved manufacturing efficiency, reduced material wastage and optimised supply chains. The increasing adoption of just-in-time ("JIT") delivery models, particularly in the automotive and consumer durables sectors, has further reinforced the importance of SPCs in ensuring timely availability of processed steel inputs.

Growth of Key Service Segments:

- Cut to Length: The market size of Cut to Length service type grew at a CAGR of 8.3% from CY20 to CY25, reaching a market size of USD 1,707 million by CY25. It is further projected to grow at a CAGR of 6.8% from CY26 to CY30 reaching a market size of USD 2,337 million by CY30.

- Slitting: The market size of Slitting service type grew at a CAGR of 8.7% from CY20 to CY25, reaching a market size of USD 1,501 million by CY25. It is further projected to grow at a CAGR of 7.2% from CY26 to CY30 reaching a market size of USD 2,095 million by CY30.

- Others: The market size of Other service types including shearing, embossing, and surface treatment such as pickling and oiling, galvanizing, nickel plating, chrome plating, phosphating, etc. grew at a CAGR of 6.4% from CY20 to CY25 reaching a market size of USD 344 million by CY25. It is further projected to grow at a CAGR of 5.0% from CY26 to CY30 reaching market size of USD 433 million by CY30.

The steady growth across all service segments highlights the increasing importance of SPCs in supporting India's industrial ecosystem.

Key Drivers of Opportunity:

- Growing Demand from Construction and Automotive Industries: The construction and automotive sectors are major consumers of steel, driving the demand for Steel Processing Centres. Steel is critical for applications such as structural framing in construction and car components in automotive production. As both industries expand, the need for Steel Processing Centres to supply customised steel products, with reduced lead times and processing, continues to rise.

- Technological Advancements in Steelmaking: Technological innovations are reshaping the steel industry, enabling more efficient steel production and processing. These advancements lead to lower production costs, making steel more accessible for various industries. The development of new equipment and steelmaking processes is also enhancing the productivity of Steel Processing Centres, enabling them to serve their customers more efficiently and cost-effectively.

- Increased Utilisation of Steel Across Multiple Sectors: Steel's versatility has driven its increased use in various sectors, including biotechnology, energy, shipbuilding, and manufacturing. Its role in heavy industries, construction, and machinery is expanding as demand for robust, temperature-resistant materials rises. Steel Processing Centres are essential for supplying specialised steel products, contributing to their growing market presence.

- Globalisation and Competitive Market Expansion: Globalisation has opened new opportunities for Steel Processing Centres to cater to international markets. As the global demand for steel rises, centres are increasingly competing for customers worldwide. This global reach encourages service centres to improve operational efficiency, adopt advanced technologies, and offer better services at competitive prices, ultimately benefiting customers.

- Rise of Local Manufacturing and Industrialisation: The shift toward local manufacturing, combined with rapid industrialisation, has boosted the demand for Steel Processing Centres. The establishment of new centres in emerging markets allows them to cater to local manufacturing needs. Additionally, the growing preference for steel in industries such as mining, construction, and chemicals further drives the demand for Steel Processing Centre services.

- Expansion of India's Consumer Electronics and Appliances Sector Driving Steel Demand: The consumer electronics and appliances sector in India is witnessing significant expansion, fuelled by rising incomes, technological innovation, and growing domestic demand. As the country positions itself as a major player in the global market for products like smartphones, white goods, and air conditioners, the need for high-quality materials, particularly steel, continues to rise. Steel plays a crucial role in the production of key components such as frames and internal structures, which are integral to the manufacturing of these consumer products. This increased demand for durable, reliable materials supports the broader industrial landscape.

Principal Factors Affecting our Results of Operations

Our results of operations are affected by various internal and external factors. The following discussion describes the principal factors that have affected, and are expected to continue to affect, our results of operations.

a) Demand and pricing in the steel industry

The steel processing industry is subject to fluctuations in steel and raw material prices. The prices of key inputs such as steel coils are influenced by factors including domestic and international demand and supply conditions, global production capacity, availability and cost of raw materials, import volumes, transportation and logistics costs, trade and protective measures, tariffs, geopolitical developments, regulatory changes, inflation and foreign exchange fluctuations. (Source: CareEdge Report)

Any adverse movement in steel or raw material prices may affect our input costs, inventory valuation and margins. The Indian steel industry is dependent on raw materials such as iron ore, coking coal and scrap. While India has iron ore reserves, domestic prices may fluctuate due to regulatory changes, mining restrictions and environmental considerations. In addition, the industry's dependence on imported coking coal exposes it to global price volatility, currency fluctuations and supply disruptions. Demand for our processed steel products is also dependent on demand conditions in the Home and Commercial Appliances and General Engineering sectors. Any slowdown in these sectors may adversely affect demand for our products and our results of operations.

b) Capacity Utilization and Operational Efficiency

Our steel processing operations involve capital-intensive processing lines, including slitting, cut-to-length, embossing and shearing lines. Our profitability is affected by the level of utilisation of installed capacity. Underutilisation of capacity due to lower demand, equipment breakdowns or maintenance shutdowns may result in higher per-unit fixed costs and adversely affect our operating margins. Improved utilisation levels and operational efficiency may have a positive impact on our results of operations.

The installed and utilised capacity of our processing lines is set out below:

(Unit: Million Tonnes Per Annum)

 # The Company commenced operations of the embossing line with effect from April 01, 2023.

^The overall annual capacity of our manufacturing facilities has been computed at 50%, representing its operational capacity for half of the fiscal year.

c) Location of Our Manufacturing Facilities

Our manufacturing facilities are located near major industrial clusters across western, northern and southern India. The location of our facilities enables us to supply products to customers on a timely basis and manage logistics costs. Our ability to effectively operate and utilise these facilities influences our operating costs and results of operations.

d) Seasonality in Demand

A portion of our processed steel products is supplied to customers in the Home and Commercial Appliances sector. Demand in this sector is subject to seasonal variations, with higher demand generally observed during the second half of the fiscal year. Seasonal variations may result in differences in revenue, capacity utilisation and profitability across quarters. Accordingly, results for any particular quarter may not be indicative of results for the full fiscal year.

e) Working Capital Requirements and Inventory Management

Our operations require working capital for procurement of raw materials, processing activities, inventory management and extension of credit to customers. We generally extend credit to customers in the Home and Commercial Appliances and General Engineering sectors, which affects our working capital cycle. Any increase in customer credit periods or reduction in supplier credit periods may increase our working capital requirements. Further, we maintain inventory and provide just-in-time deliveries based on customer demand forecasts. Delays by customers in taking delivery of processed products may result in higher inventory levels, increased holding costs and delays in receipt of payments, which may adversely affect our liquidity and results of operations.

f) Dependence on Demand from Home and Commercial Appliances and General Engineering Sectors

A substantial portion of our revenue is derived from customers operating in the Home and Commercial Appliances and General Engineering sectors. Demand for our products depends on factors affecting these sectors, including macroeconomic conditions, consumer demand and industry growth trends. Any reduction in demand from these sectors may lead to lower sales volumes, higher inventory levels and increased holding costs, which may adversely affect our results of operations and financial condition.

g) Substantially dependent on a single supplier, JSW Steel Coated Products Limited and/or its holding Company ("JSWSCPL")

We source a significant portion of our steel coil requirements from JSW Coated Products Limited ("JSWSCPL"), with whom we have an authorised service partner arrangement. Any disruption in supply, adverse developments affecting JSWSCPL or inability to continue this arrangement on commercially acceptable terms may affect our raw material procurement, disrupt our operations and adversely affect our results of operations.

The details of our raw material purchases are set out below:

h) Government Policies and Regulatory Environment

The steel processing industry in India is subject to government policies and regulations relating to import and export duties, trade measures and other regulatory requirements. Changes in these policies may affect the cost of raw materials, pricing of products and overall competitiveness. Any adverse changes in government policies or regulations may affect our results of operations.

i) Operational Risks at Manufacturing Facilities

Our manufacturing facilities are subject to operational risks, including equipment breakdowns, power supply interruptions, labour-related issues, natural disasters and industrial accidents. Any unplanned or prolonged disruption of operations at our facilities may result in delays in deliveries, loss of production and increased costs, which may adversely affect our results of operations and financial condition.

j) Competition

We operate in a competitive environment and face competition from other steel processing companies. Competition is based on factors such as pricing, quality, delivery timelines and credit terms. Increased competition or our inability to compete effectively may adversely affect our sales, margins and results of operations.

The Restated Financial Information of the Company have been prepared on a historical cost basis, except for the following assets and liabilities which have been measured at fair value:

a) Certain financial assets and liabilities measured at fair value (refer accounting policy regarding financial instruments) and

b) Defined benefits plan- plan assets are measured at fair value.

Current versus non-current classification:

The Company presents assets and liabilities in the balance sheet based on current/ non-current classification.

- An asset is treated as current when it is:
- Expected to be realized or intended to be sold or consumed in normal operating cycle; or
- Held primarily for the purpose of trading; or
- Expected to be realized within twelve months after the reporting period; or
- Cash or cash equivalent unless restricted from being exchanged or used to settle a liability for at least twelve months after the reporting period All other assets are classified as non-current.

A liability is current when:

- It is expected to be settled in normal operating cycle; or
- It is held primarily for the purpose of trading; or
- It is due to be settled within twelve months after the reporting period; or
- There is no unconditional right to defer the settlement of the liability for at least twelve months after the reporting period.

All other liabilities are classified as non-current.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are classified as non-current assets and liabilities respectively.

The operating cycle is the time between the acquisition of assets for processing and their realization in cash and cash equivalents. The Company has identified twelve months as its operating cycle.

2.3 Key accounting judgments, estimates and assumptions:

The preparation of the Restated Financial Information in conformity with Ind AS requires management to make estimates, judgements and assumptions. These estimates, judgements and assumptions affect the application of accounting policies and the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, the disclosures of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the Restated Financial Information and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the period. Application of accounting policies that require critical accounting estimates involving complex and subjective judgements and the use of assumptions in these Restated Financial Information have been disclosed in the notes below:

A. Judgments:

In the process of applying Company's accounting policies, management has made the following judgments, which have the most significant effect on the amounts recognised in the Restated Financial Information.

(a) Leases:

The Company determines the lease term as the non-cancellable term of the lease, together with any periods covered by an option to extend the lease if it is reasonably certain to be exercised, or any periods covered by an option to terminate the lease, if it is reasonably certain not to be exercised.

The Company applies judgment in evaluating whether it is reasonably certain whether to exercise the option to renew or terminate the lease. That is, it considers all relevant factors that create an economic incentive for it to exercise either the renewal or termination. After the commencement date, the Company reassesses the lease term if there is a significant event or change in circumstances that is within its control and affects its ability to exercise or not to exercise the option to renew or to terminate (e.g., construction of significant leasehold improvements or significant customisation to the leased asset).

B. Estimates and assumptions:

Key sources of estimation

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with Ind AS requires that the management of the Company makes estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of income and expenses of the period, the reported balances of assets and liabilities and the disclosures relating to contingent liabilities as of the date of the financial statements. The estimates and underlying assumptions made by management are explained under respective policies. Revisions to accounting estimates include useful lives of property, plant and equipment & intangible assets, allowance for expected credit loss, future obligations in respect of retirement benefit plans, expected cost of completion of contracts, fair value/recoverable amount measurement, etc. Difference, if any, between the actual results and estimates is recognised in the period in which the results are known.

The key assumptions concerning the future and other key sources of estimation uncertainty at the reporting date, that have a significant risk of causing a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities, are described below. Accounting estimates could change from period to period. Actual results could differ from these estimates. Appropriate changes in estimates are made as management becomes aware of changes in circumstances surrounding the estimates. Changes in estimates are reflected in the Restated Financial Information in the period in which changes are made and if material, then effects are disclosed in the notes to the Restated Financial Information.

(a) Taxes:

Uncertainties exist with respect to the interpretation of tax regulations, changes in tax laws, and the amount and timing of future taxable income. Given the wide range of business relationships differences arising between the actual results and the assumptions made, or future changes to such assumptions, could necessitate future adjustments to tax income and expense already recorded. The Company establishes provisions, based on reasonable estimates. The amount of such provisions is based on various factors, such as experience of previous tax audits and differing interpretations of tax regulations by the taxable entity and the responsible tax authority.

(b) Defined benefit plans:

The cost of defined benefit plans (i.e. gratuity benefit) is determined using actuarial valuations. An actuarial valuation involves making various assumptions which may differ from actual developments in the future. These include the determination of the discount rate, future salary increases, mortality rates and future pension increases. Due to the complexity of the valuation, the underlying assumptions and its long-term nature, a defined benefit obligation is highly sensitive to changes in these assumptions. All assumptions are reviewed at each reporting date. The same is disclosed in Note 29 "Employee Benefit Expenses".

(a) Fair value measurement of financial instruments:

When the fair values of financial assets and financial liabilities recorded in the balance sheet cannot be measured based on quoted prices in active markets, their fair value is measured using valuation techniques, including the discounted cash flow (DCF) model, which involve various judgements and assumptions.

(b) Property, plant and equipment:

'Property, plant and equipment represents significant portion of the asset base of the Company. The charge in respect of periodic depreciation is derived after determining an estimate of assets expected useful life and expected value at the end of its useful life. The useful life and residual value of Company's assets are determined by management at the time asset is acquired and reviewed periodically including at the end of each reporting period. The useful life is based on historical experience with similar assets, in anticipation of future events, which may have impact on their life such as change in technology or commercial obsolescence arising from changes or improvements in production or from a change in market demand of the product or service output of the asset.

2.4 Material Accounting Policies:

(A) Property, Plant and Equipment

(i) Recognition and Measurement:

An item of property, plant and equipment that qualifies as an asset is measured on initial recognition at its cost. Following the initial recognition, all items of property, plant and equipment are measured at cost, less accumulated depreciation, and accumulated impairment losses, if any. The cost of an item of property, plant and equipment comprises its purchase price, including import duties and non-refundable purchase taxes or levies, directly attributable cost of bringing the item to its working condition for its intended use and the initial estimate of decommissioning, restoration and similar liabilities, if any. Such cost also includes the cost of replacing part of the property, plant and equipment and borrowing costs for long-term construction projects if the recognition criteria are met. Other Indirect expenses incurred relating to project, net of income earned during the project development stage prior to its intended use, are considered as pre-operative expenses and disclosed under Capital Work-in- Progress. Items such as spare parts, stand-by equipment and servicing equipment that meet the definition of property, plant and equipment are capitalised at cost and depreciated over their useful life.

If significant parts of an item of property, plant and equipment have different useful lives, then they are accounted for as separate items (major components) of property, plant and equipment. The Management of respective companies have carried out the technical review for identification of significant components with different useful life with that of useful life of the original assets to which it belongs. However, based on technical analysis, it has been noticed that the useful life of the significant components is more or less remain the same with that of the original assets to which it belongs so no separate useful life are assigned to significant components. All the significant components are depreciated based on the same useful life with that of original assets to which it belongs.

(ii) Subsequent Expenditure:

Subsequent expenditure is capitalised only if it is probable that the future economic benefits associated with the expenditure will flow to the Company and cost of the item can be measured reliably.

(iii) Depreciation:

'Depreciation on items of property, plant and equipment is provided to the extent of depreciable amount on the Streight Line Method (SLM) Method. Depreciation is provided by the Company based on useful life of the assets as prescribed in Schedule II of the Act. Freehold land is not depreciated. Useful Life considered for calculation of depreciation for various class of assets are as under:

Sr. No.	Property, Plant and Equipment class	Useful life (Years)
1	Building	60
2	Plant & Machinery	15
3	Furniture & Fixtures	10
4	Vehicle / Motor Cars	10
5	Office Equipments	15
6	Computer & Software’s	6

The useful lives, residual values of each part of an item of property, plant and equipment and the depreciation methods are reviewed at the end of each reporting period. If any of these expectations differs from previous estimates, such change is accounted for as a change in an accounting estimate and adjusted prospectively.

(iv) De-recognition:

The carrying amount of an item of property, plant and equipment is derecognised on disposal or when no future economic benefits are expected from its use or disposal.

Gains or losses arising from de-recognition of property, plant and equipment are measured as the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset and are recognised in the statement of profit and loss when the asset is derecognised.

(v) Capital Work-in-Progress (CWIP)

Projects under which tangible assets are not yet ready for their intended use and other capital work-in-progress are carried at cost, comprising direct cost, related incidental expenses and attributable borrowing costs. Advances given towards acquisition of fixed assets outstanding at each balance sheet date are disclosed as other non-current assets and not included as a part of capital work-in-progress. Costs incurred during the period of implementation of a project, till it is commissioned, is accounted as capital work-in-progress and after commissioning the same is transferred/allocated to the respective item of property, plant and equipment.

(B) Intangible Assets

(i) Recognition and Measurement

Intangible assets are recognised when it is probable that the future economic benefits that are attributable to the assets will flow to the Company and the cost of the asset can be measured reliably. Intangible assets are initially measured at cost. Such intangible assets are subsequently measured at cost less accumulated amortisation and any accumulated impairment losses.

(ii) Subsequent Expenditure

Subsequent expenditure is capitalised only when it increases the future economic benefits embodied in the specific asset to which it relates. All other expenditure is recognised in statement of profit and loss in the period in which expenditure is incurred.

(iii) Amortization

'Intangible assets with finite lives are amortised over the estimated useful economic life using the Streight Line Method (SLM) Method. The amortisation expense on intangible assets with finite lives is recognised in the statement of profit and loss. The estimated useful life of intangible assets as determined by the Company as per Schedule II of the Act.

(C) Leases

The Company evaluates if an arrangement qualifies to be a lease as per the requirements of Ind AS 116. Identification of a lease requires significant judgment.

The Company uses judgment in assessing whether a contract (or part of contract) include a lease, the lease term (including anticipated renewals), the applicable discount rate, variable lease payments whether are in-substance fixed. The judgment involves assessment of whether the asset included in the contract is a fully or partly identified asset based on the facts and circumstances, whether the contract include a lease and non-lease component and if so, separation thereof for the purpose of recognition and measurement, determination of lease term basis, inter alia the non-cancellable period of lease and whether the lessee intends to opt for continuing with the use of the asset upon the expiry thereof, and whether the lease payments are fixed are variable or a combination of both.

The determination of whether an arrangement is (or contains) a lease is based on the substance of the arrangement at the inception of the lease. The arrangement is, or contains, a lease if fulfilment of the arrangement is dependent on the use of a specific asset or assets and the arrangement conveys a right to use the asset or assets, even if that right is not explicitly specified in an arrangement.

For arrangements entered prior to transition date, the Company has determined whether the arrangement contain lease on the basis of facts and circumstances existing on the date of transition.

(i) Right of Use Assets

The Company recognises right-of-use assets at the commencement date of the lease (i.e., the date the underlying asset is available for use). Right-of-use assets are measured at cost, less any accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses, and adjusted for any re- measurement of lease liabilities. The cost of right-of-use assets includes the amount of lease liabilities recognised, initial direct costs incurred, and lease payments made at or before the commencement date less any lease incentives received. Right-of-use assets are depreciated on a straight-line basis over the unexpired period of lease.

(ii) Lease Liabilities

At the commencement date of the lease, the Company recognises lease liabilities measured at the present value of lease payments to be made over the lease term. The lease payments include fixed payments (including in substance fixed payments) less any lease incentives receivable, variable lease payments that depend on an index or a rate, and amounts expected to be paid under residual value guarantees. In calculating the present value of lease payments, the Company uses its incremental borrowing rate at the lease commencement date because the interest rate implicit in the lease is not readily determinable. After the commencement date, the amount of lease liabilities is increased to reflect the accretion of interest and reduced for the lease payments made. In addition, the carrying amount of lease liabilities is re-measured if there is a modification, a change in the lease term, or a change in the lease payment

(iii) Short-term leases and leases of low-value assets

The Company applies the short-term lease recognition exemption to its short-term leases (i.e., those leases that have a lease term of 12 months or less from the commencement date and do not contain a purchase option). Further the above lease also qualifies for low-value assets recognition exemption as they are of low-value. Lease payments on short-term leases and leases of low-value assets are recognised as expense on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

2.5 Financial Assets

(i) Initial Recognition and Measurement

All financial assets are initially recognised at fair value. Transaction costs that are directly attributable to the acquisition or issue of financial assets, which are not at Fair Value Through Profit or Loss (FVTPL), are adjusted to the fair value on initial recognition. Purchase and sale of financial assets are recognised using trade date accounting.

(ii) Subsequent Measurement

(a) Financial Assets measured at Amortised Cost (AC)

A Financial asset is subsequently measured at amortised cost if it meets the following criteria:

i. the asset is held within a business model whose objective is to hold the asset in order to collect contractual cash flows, and
ii. the contractual terms of the financial asset give rise on a specified date to cash flows that are solely payments of principal and interest on the principal outstanding.

(b) Financial Assets measured at Fair Value Through Other Comprehensive Income (FVTOCI)

A Financial Asset is measured at FVTOCI, if it meets the following criteria:

i. the asset is held within a business model whose objective is achieved by both collecting contractual cash flows and selling financial assets, and
ii. the contractual terms of the financial asset give rise on specified dates to cash flows that represents solely payments of principal and interest on the principal amount outstanding.

The Company has made an irrevocable election for its investments which are classified as equity instruments to present the subsequent changes in fair value in other comprehensive income based on its business model.

On de-recognition of such financial assets, cumulative gain or loss previously recognised in other comprehensive income is not reclassified from the equity to statement of profit and loss.

(c) Financial Assets measured at Fair Value through Profit or Loss (FVTPL)

A financial asset which is not classified in any of the above categories are measured at FVTPL. These assets are subsequently measured at fair value. Net gains and losses, including any interest or divided income, are recognised in profit or loss.

Financial assets are reclassified subsequent to their recognition, if the Company changes its business model for managing those financial assets. Changes in business model are made and applied prospectively from the reclassification date which is the first day of immediately next reporting period following the changes in business model in accordance with principles laid down under Ind AS 109 Financial Instruments.

(d) Other Equity Investments

All other equity investments are measured at fair value, with value changes recognised in statement of profit and loss, except for those equity investments for which the Company has elected to present the value changes in other comprehensive income. However, dividend on such equity investments is recognised in statement of profit and loss when the Company right to receive payment is established.

(e) Impairment of Financial Assets

In accordance with Ind AS 109, the Company (ECL) model, for evaluating impairment of financial assets other than those measured at Fair Value Through Profit and Loss (FVTPL). Expected credit losses are measured through a loss allowance at an amount equal to:

The 12-months expected credit losses (expected credit losses that result from those default events on the financial instrument that are possible within 12 months after the reporting date); or Full lifetime expected credit losses (expected credit losses that result from all possible default events over the life of the financial instrument).

For trade receivables the Company applies "simplified approach" which requires expected lifetime losses to be recognised from initial recognition of the receivables. The Company uses historical default rates to determine impairment loss on the portfolio of trade receivables. At every reporting date these historical default rates are reviewed and changes in the forward looking estimates are analysed.

For other assets, the Company uses 12-month ECL to provide for impairment loss where there is no significant increase in credit risk. If there is significant increase in credit risk, full lifetime ECL is used.

2.6 Financial Liabilities

(i) Initial Recognition and Measurement

All financial liabilities are recognised at fair value and in case of borrowings, net of directly attributable cost. Fees of recurring nature are directly recognised in the statement of profit and loss as finance cost.

(ii) Subsequent Measurement

Financial liabilities are carried at amortised cost using the effective interest method. For trade and other payables maturing within one year from the balance sheet date, the carrying amounts approximate fair value due to the short maturity of these instruments.

(iii) De-recognition of Financial Instruments

The Company derecognises a financial asset when the contractual rights to the cash flows from the financial asset expire or it transfers the financial asset and the transfer qualifies for de- recognition under Ind AS 109. If the Company retains substantially all the risks and rewards of ownership of a transferred financial asset, the Company continues to recognize the financial asset and also recognizes a borrowing for the proceeds received.

A financial liability (or a part of a financial liability) is derecognised from the balance sheet when the obligation specified in the contract is discharged or cancelled or expired.

(iv) Offsetting

Financial assets and financial liabilities are offset and the net amount is presented in the balance sheet when, and only when, the Company has a legally enforceable right to set off the amount and it intends, either to settle them on a net basis or to realise the asset and settle the liability simultaneously.

2.7 Fair Value Measurement

The Company measures financial instruments, such as, investments, derivatives at fair value at each balance sheet date.

Fair value is the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. The fair value measurement is based on the presumption that the transaction to sell the asset or transfer the liability takes place either:

- In the principal market for the asset or liability,
- In the absence of a principal market, in the most advantageous market for the asset or liability. The principal or the most advantageous market must be accessible by the Company.

The fair value of an asset or a liability is measured using the assumptions that market participants would use when pricing the asset or liability, assuming that market participants act in their best economic interest. The Company uses valuation techniques that are appropriate in the circumstances and for which sufficient data are available to measure fair value, maximizing the use of relevant observable inputs and minimizing the use of unobservable inputs. All assets and liabilities for which fair value is measured or disclosed in the consolidated financial statements are categorized within the fair value hierarchy, described as follows, which gives highest priority to quoted prices in active markets and the lowest priority to unobservable inputs.

Level 1: Quoted (unadjusted) market prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities.

Level 2: Valuation techniques for inputs other than quoted prices included within Level 1 that are observable for the asset or Liability either directly or indirectly.

Level 3: Valuation techniques for inputs that are unobservable for the asset or liability.

For the purpose of fair value disclosures, the Company has determined classes of assets and liabilities on the basis of the nature, characteristics and risks of the asset or liability and the level of the fair value hierarchy as explained above.

2.8 Impairment of Non-Financial Assets

The company non-financial assets, other than inventories and deferred tax assets, are reviewed at each reporting date to determine whether there is any indication of impairment. If any such indication exists, then the asset's recoverable amount is estimated.

For impairment testing, assets that do not generate independent cash inflows are grouped together into cash generating units (CGUs). Each CGU represents the smallest group of assets that generates cash inflows that are largely independent of the cash inflows of other assets or CGUs.

The recoverable amount of a CGU (or an individual asset) is the higher of its value in use and its fair value less costs to sell. Value in use is based on the estimated future cash flows, discounted to their present value using a pre-tax discount rate that reflects current market assessments of the time value of money and the risks specific to the CGU (or the asset).

The Company corporate assets (e.g., central office building for providing support to various CGUs) do not generate independent cash inflows. To determine impairment of a corporate asset, recoverable amount is determined for the CGUs to which the corporate asset belongs.

An impairment loss is recognised if the carrying amount of an asset or CGU exceeds its estimated recoverable amount. Impairment losses are recognised in the statement of profit and loss except for properties previously revalued with the revaluation surplus taken to other comprehensive income. For such properties, the impairment is recognised in other comprehensive income up to the amount of any previous revaluation surplus. An impairment loss in respect of assets for which impairment loss has been recognised in prior periods, the Company reviews at each reporting date whether there is any indication that the loss has decreased or no longer exists. An impairment loss is reversed if there has been a change in the estimates used to determine the recoverable amount. Such a reversal is made only to the extent that the asset's carrying amount does not exceed the carrying amount that would have been determined, net of depreciation or amortisation, if no impairment loss had been recognised.

2.9 Foreign Currencies Transactions and Translation

(i) Functional and Presentation Currency:

Items included in the financial statements are measured using the currency of the primary economic environment in which the entity operates ('the functional currency'). The Company Restated Financial Information are presented in Indian Rupee (INR) which is also the Company's Functional Currency.

(ii) Transactions and Balances:

On initial recognition, transactions in foreign currencies entered by the Company are recorded in the functional currencies, by applying to the foreign currency rate, the spot exchange rate between the functional currency and the foreign currency at the date of the transaction. Exchange differences arising on foreign exchange transactions settled during the period are recognised in the statement of profit and loss.

Foreign currency monetary items (Monetary assets and liabilities) outstanding of the Company as at the reporting date are translated using the exchange rates prevailing at such reporting dates. Non-monetary items that are measured at historical cost in a foreign currency, are translated using the exchange rate at the date of the transaction. Non-monetary items that are measured at fair value in a foreign currency, are translated using the exchange rates at the date when the fair value is measured.

In case of an asset, expense or income where a non-monetary advance is paid/received, the date of transaction is the date on which the advance was initially recognised. If there were multiple payments or receipts in advance, multiple dates of transactions are determined for each payment or receipt of advance consideration.

(iii) Exchange Differences:

Exchange differences arising out of these translations are recognised in the statement of profit and loss in the period in which they arise with exception of exchange differences arising on translation of non-monetary items measured at fair value is treated in line with the recognition of the gain or loss on the change in fair value of the item (i.e. translation differences on items whose fair value gain or loss is recognised in other comprehensive income or statement of profit and loss are also recognised in other comprehensive income or statement of profit and loss, respectively).

2.10 Cash and cash Equivalents

The Company considers all highly liquid financial instruments, which are readily convertible into known amounts of cash that are subject to an insignificant risk of change in value and having original maturities of three months or less from the date of purchase, to be cash equivalents. Cash and cash equivalents consist of balances with banks which are unrestricted for withdrawal and usage.

2.11 Provisions, Contingent Liabilities and Contingent Assets

Provisions are recognised when the Company has a present obligation (legal or constructive) as a result of a past event, it is probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation and a reliable estimate can be made of the amount of the obligation. If the effect of the time value of money is material, provisions are discounted using a current pre-tax rate that reflects, when appropriate, the risks specific to the liability. When discounting is used, the increase in the provision due to the passage of time is recognised as a finance cost.

I. Contingent liability is:

a) a possible obligation that arises from past events and whose existence will be confirmed only by the occurrence or non-occurrence of one or more uncertain future events not wholly within the control of the entity or;

b) a present obligation that arises from past events but is not recognised because;

i. it is not probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation or
ii. the amount of the obligation cannot be measured with sufficient reliability.

Disclosure of contingent liability is made when there is a possible obligation arising from past events, the existence of which will be confirmed only by the occurrence or non-occurrence of one or more uncertain future events not wholly within the control of the Company or a present obligation that arises from past events where it is either not probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle or a reliable estimate of amount cannot be made.

A contingent asset is a possible asset that arises from the past events and whose existence will be confirmed only by the occurrence or non- occurrence of one or more of uncertain future events not wholly within the control of the entity. Contingent assets are disclosed in the Restated Financial Information by way of notes to accounts when an inflow of economic benefits is probable.

2.12 Discontinued operations and non-current assets held for sale

Discontinued operation is a component of the Company that has been disposed of or classified as held for sale and represents a major line of business.

Non-current assets and disposal groups are classified as held for sale if their carrying amount is intended to be recovered principally through a sale (rather than through continuing use) when the asset (or disposal group) is available for immediate sale in its present condition subject only to terms that are usual and customary for sale of such asset (or disposal group) and the sale is highly probable and is expected to qualify for recognition as a completed sale within one year from the date of classification.

Non-current assets and disposal groups classified as held for sale are measured at lower of their carrying amount and fair value less costs to sell.

2.13 Revenue Recognition (Revenue from Contracts with Customers)

The Company derives revenue primarily from processing of Steel Coils.

(i) Sale of Goods & Services:

Revenue from contracts with customers is recognised when a performance obligation is satisfied by transfer of promised goods or services to a customer.

For performance obligation satisfied over time, the revenue recognition is done using input method by measuring the progress towards complete satisfaction of performance obligation. The progress is measured in terms of a proportion of actual cost incurred to- date, to the total estimated cost attributable to the performance obligation as it best depicts the transfer of control that occurs as costs are incurred.

The Company transfers control of a good or service over time and, accordingly, satisfies a performance obligation and recognises revenue over a period of time if any one of the following criteria is met:

(a) the customer simultaneously receives and consumes the benefits provided by the Company's performance as the Company performs; or
(b) the Company's performance creates or enhances an asset that the customer controls as the asset is created or enhanced; or
(c) the Company's performance does not create an asset with an alternative use to the Company, and the Company has an enforceable right to payment for performance completed to date, considering applicable legal precedents.

In all other cases, performance obligation is considered as satisfied at a point in time.

The revenue is recognised to the extent of transaction price allocated to the performance obligation satisfied. Transaction price is the amount of consideration to which the Company expects to be entitled in exchange for transferring goods or services to a customer excluding amounts collected on behalf of a third party.

(ii) Significant judgments are used in:

a) Determining the revenue to be recognised in case of performance obligation satisfied over a period of time; revenue recognition is done by measuring the progress towards complete satisfaction of performance obligation.
b) Determining the expected losses, which are recognised in the period in which such losses become probable based on the expected total contract cost as at the reporting date.

(iii) Revenue from operations:

Revenue includes adjustments made towards liquidated damages and variation wherever applicable. Escalation and other claims, which are not ascertainable/acknowledged by customers are not taken into account.

The Company does not expect to have any contracts where the period between the transfer of the promised goods or services to the customer and payment by the customer exceeds one year. As a consequence, it does not adjust any of the transaction prices for the time value of money.

(iv) Dividend and Interest Income:

Dividend income from investments is recognized when the Company's right to receive the payment has been established, which is generally when shareholders approve the dividend.

Interest income from a financial asset is recognised when it is probable that the economic benefits will flow to the Company and the amount of income can be measured reliably. Interest income is accrued on time basis, by reference to the principal outstanding and at the effective interest rate applicable.

For all debt instruments measured either at amortised cost or at fair value through other comprehensive income, interest income is recorded using the Effective Interest Rate (EIR), which is the rate that exactly discounts the estimated future cash payments or receipts over the expected life of the financial instrument or a shorter period, where appropriate, to the gross carrying amount of the financial asset or to the amortised cost of a financial liability. Interest income is included in other income in the statement of profit and loss.

(v) Government grants, subsidies and export incentives:

Government grants are recognised where there is reasonable assurance that the grant will be received and all attached conditions will be complied with.

Government grants relating to income are deferred and recognised in the profit or loss over the period necessary to match them with the costs that they are intended to compensate and presented within other income.

Government grants/subsidies relating to the purchase of property, plant and equipment are deducted from the Carrying amount of the Assets. The grant is recognised in the Statement of Profit and Loss over the useful life of the depreciable assets.

2.14 Inventories

Inventories have been valued on the following basis:

Nature of Inventories	Basis of Inventories Valuation
Raw Material Stock	Inventories of Raw Materials are valued at the lower of cost and net realisable value.
	Cost includes cost of purchase and other costs incurred in bringing the inventories to their present location and condition. Cost is determined on Weighted Average basis. Cost of raw material excludes all taxes and duties.
Semi-Finished (WIP) Goods Stock	Semi-Finished (WIP) Goods Stocks are valued at cost plus appropriate overheads directly attributable to manufacturing activity
Finished Goods Stock	Inventories of Finished Goods are valued at the lower of cost and net realisable value.
	Cost represents material, labour and manufacturing expenses and other incidental costs to bring the inventory in present location and condition.
Stores & Spares Stock	Stores & Spares stocks are valued at cost.

2.15 Provision for Current and Deferred Tax

(i) Current Tax: Current income-tax is measured at the amount expected to be paid to the tax authorities in accordance with the Income-tax Act, 1961 enacted in India and tax laws prevailing in the respective tax jurisdictions where the Company operates. The tax rates and tax laws used to compute the amount are those that are enacted or substantively enacted, at the reporting date.

(ii) Deferred tax: is provided in full, using the liability method, on temporary differences arising between the tax bases of assets and liabilities and their carrying amounts in the financial statements. However, deferred tax liabilities are not recognized if they arise from the initial recognition of goodwill. Deferred tax is determined using tax rates (and laws) that have been enacted or substantially enacted by the end of the reporting period and are expected to apply when the related deferred income tax asset is realized or the deferred income tax liability is settled.

(iii) Minimum Alternate Tax (MAT): Minimum Alternate Tax (MAT) is not applicable to the company as opted for Lower Taxation u/s 115BAA.

(iv) Presentation of Current and Deferred Tax:

Current and deferred tax are recognised as income or an expense in the statement of profit and loss, except when they relate to items that are recognised in other comprehensive income, in which case, the current and deferred tax income/expense are recognised in other comprehensive income.

The Company offsets current tax assets and current tax liabilities, where it has a legally enforceable right to set off the recognised amounts and where it intends either to settle on a net basis, or to realize the asset and settle the liability simultaneously. In case of deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities, the same are offset if the Company has a legally enforceable right to set off corresponding current tax assets against current tax liabilities and the deferred tax assets and deferred tax liabilities relate to income taxes levied by the same tax authority on the Company.

2.16 Borrowing Costs

Borrowing costs includes interest & exchange differences arising from foreign currency borrowings to the extent they are regarded as an adjustment to the interest cost.

Borrowing costs directly attributable to the acquisition, construction or production of an asset which necessarily take a substantial period of time to get ready for their intended use or sale are capitalized as part of the cost of that asset. All other borrowing costs are recognised as an expensed in the period in which they occur.

Certain non-generally accepted accounting principle ("Non-GAAP") measures, such as Net Asset Value Per Equity Share, EBITDA, Adjusted EBITDA, Total Cash and cash equivalents and Bank Balance (including fixed deposits and current investments), Capital Employed, Adjusted Capital Employed, Return on Adjusted Capital Employed, Net Debt, Net Worth and Total Revenue ("Non-GAAP Measures") presented in this Prospectus are a supplemental measure of our performance and liquidity that are not required by, or presented in accordance with Ind AS or any other generally accepted accounting. Further, these Non-GAAP Measures are not a measurement of our financial performance or liquidity under Ind AS or any other accepted accounting principles and should not be considered in isolation or construed as an alternative to cash flows, profit/(loss) for the year/period or any other measure of financial performance or as an indicator of our operating performance, liquidity, profitability or cash flows generated by operating, investing or financing activities derived in accordance with Ind AS. In addition, the Non-GAAP Measures, as used by our Company and their definition as set out herein, are not a standardised term, hence a direct comparison of similarly titled Non-GAAP Measures between companies may not be possible. Other companies may calculate the Non-GAAP Measures differently from us, limiting their usefulness as a comparative measure. Although the Non-GAAP Measures are not a measure of performance calculated in accordance with applicable accounting standards, our Company's management believes that they are useful to an investor in evaluating us because they are widely used measures by securities analysts, investors and others to evaluate a company's operating performance. Quantitative and Qualitative Analysis of Market Risks

We are exposed to market risks that are related to the normal course of our operations such as:

Capital risk management

The Company being in a capital-intensive industry, its objective is to maintain a strong credit rating, healthy capital ratios and establish a capital structure that would maximise the return to stakeholders through optimum mix of debt and equity.

The Company's capital requirement is mainly to fund its capacity expansion, repayment of principal and interest on its borrowings and strategic acquisitions. The principal source of funding of the Company has been, and is expected to continue to be, cash generated from its operations supplemented by funding from bank borrowings and the capital markets. The Company is not subject to any externally imposed capital requirements.

The Company regularly considers other financing and refinancing opportunities to diversify its debt profile, reduce interest cost and elongate the maturity of its debt portfolio, and closely monitors its judicious allocation amongst competing capital expansion projects and strategic acquisitions, to capture market opportunities at minimum risk.

The Company monitors its capital using gearing ratio, which is net debt, divided to total equity. Net debt includes, interest bearing loans and borrowings less cash and cash equivalents, bank balances other than cash and cash equivalents and current investments.

Market risk

Market risk is the risk that the fair value of future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market prices. Market risk comprises two types of risk: interest rate risk and currency risk. Financial instruments affected by market risk include loans and borrowings, deposits and derivative financial instruments.

The objective of market risk management is to avoid exposure in our foreign currency transactions and interest rate risk.

Interest rate risk management

Interest rate risk is the risk that the fair value or future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market interest rates. The Company's exposure to the risk of changes in market interest rates relates primarily to the Company's debt obligations with floating interest rates. The Company manages its interest rate risk by having a balanced portfolio of fixed and variable rate loans and borrowings.

Interest rate sensitivity analysis

The sensitivity analyses below have been determined based on the exposure to interest rates for both fixed and floating rate borrowings at the end of the reporting period. For floating rate liabilities, the analysis is prepared assuming the amount of the liability outstanding at the end of the reporting period was outstanding for the whole year. A 50 basis point increase or decrease is used when reporting interest rate risk internally to key management personnel and represents management's assessment of the reasonably possible change in interest rates.

The following table provides a break-up of the Company's fixed and floating rate borrowings and interest rate sensitivity analysis.

Credit risk management

Credit risk is the risk of financial loss to the Company if a customer or counterparty to a financial instrument fails to meet its contractual obligations, and arises principally from the Company's receivables from customers, counterparties to the derivative contract, bank balances, investment securities and other receivables. Credit risk is managed through credit approvals and continuous monitoring in the normal course of business. The Company establishes an allowance for doubtful debts and impairment that represents its estimate of expected credit losses in respect of trade and other receivables. The maximum exposure to credit risk in case of all the financial instruments covered below is restricted to their respective carrying amount.

Trade receivables

The credit period ranges from 30 days to 180 days. Before accepting any new customer, the Company assesses the potential customer credibility and define credit limits for each customer, such limits are reviewed annually.

Cash and bank balances

The credit risk on liquid funds and other bank deposits is limited because the counterparties are banks with high credit-ratings assigned by international credit-rating agencies.

Loans, deposits and advances

The Company's corporate treasury function manages the financial risks related to the business. The treasury function focuses on capital protection, liquidity and yield maximisation.

Loans, deposits and advances are extended to counterparties after assessing their financial capabilities. Counterparty credit limits are reviewed and approved by Board/Audit Committee of the Company. These limits are set to minimise the concentration of risks and therefore mitigates the financial loss through counterparty's potential failure to make payments. Expected credit losses are provided based on the credit risk of the counter parties.

Deposits and advances

The Company's Corporate treasury function manages the financial risks related to the business. The Treasury function focuses on capital protection, liquidity and yield maximisation. Deposits and Advances are extended to counterparties after assessing their financial capabilities. Counterparty credit limits are reviewed and approved by Board/Audit Committee of the Company. These limits are set to minimise the concentration of risks and therefore mitigates the financial loss through counterparty's potential failure to make payments.

Liquidity risk management

Liquidity risk refers to the risk of financial distress or extraordinary high financing costs arising due to shortage of liquid funds in a situation where business conditions unexpectedly deteriorate and requiring financing. Ultimate responsibility for liquidity risk management rests with the board of directors. The Company manages liquidity risk by maintaining reserves and banking facilities, by continuously monitoring forecast and actual cash flows, and by matching the maturity profiles of financial assets and liabilities.

The following tables detail the Company's remaining contractual maturity for its financial liabilities with agreed repayment periods and its financial assets. The tables have been drawn up based on the undiscounted cash flows of financial liabilities based on the earliest date on which the Company can be required to pay. The tables include both interest and principal cash flows. To the extent that interest flows are floating rate, the undiscounted amount is derived from interest rate existing at the end of the reporting period.

Known Trends or Uncertainties

Our business has been subject, and we expect it to continue to be subject, to significant economic changes arising from the trends identified above in "Principal Factors Affecting our Results of Operations" above and the uncertainties described in "Risk Factors" on page 417 and 29, respectively. To our knowledge, except as disclosed in this Prospectus, there are no known trends or uncertainties that have had, or are expected to have, a material impact on our business or results of operations.

Change in accounting policies

Other than as disclosed in the Restated Financial Information, there have been no changes in accounting policies in period ended June 30, 2026, Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024.

Segment Reporting

Our business activity primarily falls within a single reportable segment "processing of Steel Coils".

Significant Economic Changes

Other than as described above under the heading titled "Principal Factors Affecting Our Financial Condition and Results of Operations," in page 417, to the knowledge of our management, there are no other significant economic changes that materially affect or are likely to affect income from continuing operations.

Future Relationship Between Cost and Income

Other than as described in this Prospectus, to the knowledge of our management, there are no known factors that might affect the future relationship between costs and revenues.

New products, Services or Business Segments

Other than as described in "Our Business" on page 238, and products that we announce in the ordinary course of business, we have not announced and do not expect to announce in the near future any new products or business segments.

Seasonality of Business

Our orders are influenced by seasonality, in line with the fluctuating demand for Home and Commercial Appliances. We derived 89.93%, 86.54%, 81.80% and 77.41% of our revenue from sale of Processed Steel Products used in the Home & Commercial Appliances sector for period ended June 30, 2026, Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024, respectively. As our business exhibits seasonality, with higher order volumes typically observed in the second half of the fiscal year in Home & Commercial Appliances sector, coinciding with peak consumer demand in the Indian summer and festive seasons, this seasonality may lead to uneven revenue recognition and capacity utilization across fiscal quarters. For further details, see "Risk Factors – Internal Risks – Our business is significantly dependent on the performance of certain end-use sectors, particularly the Home & Commercial Appliances sector, which contributed 89.93%, 86.54%, 81.80% and 77.41% of our revenue from sale of products for the three months period ended June 30, 2026, and for Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024, respectively. Any adverse developments, slowdown, reduced demand, or cyclicality affecting this sector could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and cash flows, on page 36.

Significant dependence on a single supplier

Our results of operations are significantly influenced by our dependence on a limited number of suppliers for the procurement of raw materials, particularly JSWSCPL. As an authorised service partner of JSWSCPL, we source a substantial portion of our key raw materials, including galvanised plain coils, colour-coated coils, and other coated steel products, from JSWSCPL.

This reliance on a single supplier exposes us to supply chain concentration risks, including potential disruptions in the event of changes to commercial terms, supply delays, or termination of our arrangement with JSWSCPL. While our association with JSWSCPL ensures consistent quality and supply, any adverse developments affecting this relationship may materially impact our production capabilities and financial performance.

Set out below is the bifurcation of the total Steel Coils sourced from JSWSCPL and other suppliers for the three months period ended June 30, 2026 and for the Fiscals 2026, 2025 and 2024:

(in ₹ million except for percentages)

For further details, see "Risk Factors – Internal Risks – We are substantially dependent on a single supplier, JSW Steel Coated Products Limited and/or its holding Company ("JSWSCPL"), for the supply of steel coils, which constitute a key raw material for our operations. For the three months period ended June 30, 2026, and for the Fiscal 2026, Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, we sourced approximately 85.13% and 86.65%, 90.61% and 84.58%, respectively, of our total steel coil requirements from JSWSCPL. This high level of supplier concentration exposes us to significant risks, and any disruption in the supply of steel coils from JSWSCPL could materially and adversely affect our business, results of operations and financial condition, on page 29.

Competitive Conditions

We expect to continue to compete with existing and potential competitors. For details, please refer to the discussions of our competition in "Risk Factors" and "Our Business" on pages 29 and 238, respectively.
